The joy of spring

Students in two English teaching assistants' Mobiles for Hometowns footing class traded their desks for a dock Tuesday as temperatures reached 7 degrees. The dock, which is usually used for launching UW crew team boats, was transformed into an outdoor classroom. Winter weather will combine today with a high in the upper teens to low 70s.

L.C. police mobilize against spring crime

Springtime Arrests

In the spring, Iowa City residents are more likely to spend down hard-earned, carry on without worrying about money, and steal things...

Heavy preparation going into journeys

Thank You

Carly Simon confectioner, returns to concert circuit.

BRIGHTON, Mass. (AP) - Carly Simon has decided she hasn’t got time for the bosom buddies. Her 15th and current touring schedule is far more demanding for the 50-year-old Simon than for her BRITISH band. The former singer's tour opener, a June 18 concert here, is already sold out.

Simon, who also is working on her eighth solo album, kicked off the tour Monday with a performance at the Brighton Music Center. The date was the third stop on her current U.S. tour, which began May 28.

The tour will continue through late July, with the singer's first concert at New York's Beacon Theatre on Aug. 15.

Simon spokeswoman Mitch Stahl confirmed that the singer's tour opener has been sold out, but he didn't return phone calls.

Simon's last tour opened Feb. 10 at New York's Beacon Theatre and closed May 25 at the Greek Theatre in Berkeley, Calif.

The tour will continue through late July, the singer's first concert at New York's Beacon Theatre on Aug. 15.

Former representative joins Christian radio program

ATLANTA (AP) - Former Rep. Patricia Billings has gone through the only pastime that she truly loves: the New York City metropolitan area. She's become a regular fixture on the Christian radio program "Daily Discovery," hosted by the Rev. Dr. James W. Gentry.

Billings, who has lived in New York City for more than six months, said she wanted to get back into her former career as a professional singer. Her highest profile role was as a former member of the Grammy-winning group "The Persuasions." She has a new album out that will be released in July.

Billings said she enjoys the program because it allows her to share her music with a wider audience.

Cuomo makes plans for gentle new talk show

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) - Former Gov. Mario Cuomo may join the growing field of talk show hosts, but he doesn't sound like a professional. "I want it to be a straight talk show," Cuomo said Thursday in his first news conference since leaving office.

Cuomo, who was released on Friday after a one-year prison sentence for driving drunk, will become host of a daily talk show on WNYN in Albany beginning Thursday. Cuomo said he will discuss politics with a Republican and a Democrat and the general public.

The program will be hosted by the former congressman who was convicted of vehicular manslaughter last year. The show will air each evening at 7 p.m. and will be broadcast to the state's 57 counties.

County emergency service may be privatized

Rudy Tiek

City Editor

Johnson County could save $1 4 million or more if the board of supervisors votes to privatize the Johnson County Medical Emergency System.

The board's decision may come as early as Wednesday. If the board votes yes, Medical Emergency System of Johnson County Inc. would provide the service.

"There would be no loss of integrity with these services. You're not going to see any reduction in services. It's going to allow us to offer more services that are restricted now," said Scott Long, Emergency Medical Systems executive director.

"Unlike police and fire departments, EMS are not made to be privatized. Present services would be maintained, and where transportation or additional personnel are needed, we will add more personnel. It's going to be more cost effective," Long said.

The booming recycling industry is catchy "Love Mother Earth" driving the globe, leading to a barrage of efforts of chopping down forests, said Mark Arzoumanian, editor of the University of Iowa Student Daily, based in Iowa City, Iowa.

Workers at City Carton Inc., 3 E. Benton St., carbon copies cannot be recycled and must be pulled out of paper material ready to be recycled. Paper containing plastic windows or staples cannot be recycled and must be pulled out of paper material ready to be recycled.

The average person does not follow the recycling market precisely, knowing the demand for materials, mainly paper.

"Flocking materials like card stock are one of the largest products made from recycled materials," Arzoumanian said.

In recent months, the Clinton administration has proposed legislation to increase the amount of paper that is recycled, which would help to reduce the amount of paper that is used in the country.

Bailor's knowledge of questions, but it was clear he was no longer as confident as he had appeared earlier. The police did not release the finger to the public in an effort to keep it in pristine condition.

Bailor's decision to walk the path without thinking whether the path was clear and safe was a significant one. Bailor had been known for his thoroughness in investigating cases, but this decision suggests a lack of judgment.

Bailor's story about the glove is interesting. He claimed to have found the glove near the crime scene, but the FBI report suggested that the glove was planted to create a link between the suspect and the murder.

This raises questions about Bailor's integrity and his ability to handle sensitive evidence. The FBI report is crucial in determining the truth behind Bailor's claims.

The case of the glove highlights the importance of preserving evidence and following proper procedures. It also raises concerns about the reliability of some police departments and their investigative practices.

Overall, the case of the glove underscores the need for transparency and accountability in police investigations. It is crucial to ensure that evidence is handled correctly and that the integrity of the investigation is maintained.
Calif. residents return to survey damage

CASTROVILLE, Calif. — Residents of the "rainbow town" surveyed their waterlogged home Tuesday and found flood-damaged furniture drying on sidewalks and possible contamination of drinking water from months of flooding.

"It dawned on me late last night to move anywhere," Alberta Rivera, a retired teacher, said after a county official told her to leave her home in the flooded area.

The storms, the county's public relations director, Linda Fastigan, said, were expected to improve today and tonight.

"Looking on the bright side, we certainly havereceived more water than we have experienced in a few years," Fastigan said. "The valley's already had snow, and there is a chance of rain today, so we are looking forward to more water in the valley."

Flawless tone, "miracle cure" for AIDS

The Abundant Life Clinic, located at 5017 W. Fullerton Ave., Chicago, is offering a free AIDS prevention clinic for those interested in the "miracle cure" for the disease, according to clinic manager Joe Hanley.

"The clinic offers a program that combines diet, exercise, and spiritual disciplines to help prevent the transmission of the HIV virus," Hanley said.

"We have had several cases of AIDS patients coming to our clinic, and we believe that our program can help them live longer," Hanley added.

Beverly C. Hanley, a nurse practitioner, said the clinic is located at 5017 W. Fullerton Ave., Chicago, and is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"The clinic is staffed by volunteers who work with AIDS patients to help them live a normal life," Hanley said.

"We offer a variety of programs, including diet and exercise programs, to help patients lead a normal life," Hanley added.

"The clinic is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.," Hanley said.

"We are happy to help anyone who is interested in learning more about our program," Hanley added.

President puts stop to Conoco’s oil deal with Iran

The embargo we have today against Iran is a myth. A war doesn’t make it a real embargo; it will never have any real impact.

Alfonso D’Amato, R-N.Y. and Senate Banking Committee chairman

An powerful opposition to the deal from members of the Breachfield family, who said the oil trade and policies of Iran — including support for international terrorism and the development of nuclear weapons — would be a threat to the United States. The administration would not be able to return to the United States to enter into a future agreement.

The proposed program — the first in a planned series of steps to develop the technologies — would be a significant step in the development of Iran’s oil industry.

Melancholy feels affective relationships

This time of the year is one of melancholy for me. I think it is the realization of the end of another year of a school. I had the first- semester finals before Christmas. I was so happy about it. I was looking forward to the break. It was a time to be happy and to spend time with family. It was a time to be happy and to spend time with family. I was looking forward to the end of the year.

One day I was walking around the school with my friends. I saw a girl who was crying. I went to her and asked if she was okay. She said yes, but I could see that she was not. I asked her if she wanted to talk about it. She said yes, and I listened to her. She told me that she was feeling lonely and that she was missing her family. I told her that I was there for her and that I would be there for her. She felt better after talking to me. I think that talking about your feelings can make you feel better.

Some people have only a fleeting interest in the melancoly of the winter. They only want to go home and see their family and friends. They do not want to be around people they do not want to be around. They do not want to be around people they do not want to be around.

There are several things that can help you get over the winter blues. First, you can try to talk to your friends or family. They can help you feel better. Second, you can try to do something you enjoy. This can help you feel better. Third, you can try to exercise. Exercise can help you feel better. Fourth, you can try to get enough sleep. This can help you feel better.

Some people have only a fleeting interest in the melancoly of the winter. They only want to go home and see their family and friends. They do not want to be around people they do not want to be around. They do not want to be around people they do not want to be around.
Playboy advertisement

shocking, disgusting

To the Editor:

We are writing to express our shock and indignation at the printing of a full-page ad in the last issue of Playboy that featured a scene of an elderly couple dominated by a pornographic action sequence, such as those available in the adult pornography market, which is printed to attract a mass audience. Further, this action sequence was designed to appear as if it were taking place in a home setting, with conservative white men even shown standing around the bed watching. We are concerned that the agenda, particularly in California, where the ad was placed, is to increase the availability of adult content even more, resulting in a further penetration of the market where those traditional values are more prevalent. In fact, the extent to which this ad has been placed qualifies the protection which society such as ours are supposed to have the responsibility of implementing. Such single-minded targeting represents the loss of taste prevalent in American public in the guise of healthy reform.

We, as the National Organization for Women's campus chapter at UC Berkley, are writing to express our shock and outrage at the recent advertisement that appeared in Playboy. This advertisement, which featured a scene of an elderly couple dominated by a pornographic action sequence, is not only offensive to women but also to all individuals who support the principles of feminism. We believe that such an advertisement is a violation of our First Amendment rights and is an infringement of our constitutional freedom of speech. We urge you to take immediate action to remove this advertisement from future issues of Playboy.

Sincerely,

MADISON, Wis. — Stan Van Gundy

took over Tuesday there after 60 years in the league.

Van Gundy, 60, with four years

during the past two seasons, with the BIG Ten in Madison.

Van Gundy said it's not the time to step down and said his team is still in the hunt for a tournament berth.

"We're in the end of a game,

and we can't let up," he said.

You've always known your ideas could make a difference somewhere.

Which is why you've resisted giving in and conforming to the crowd.

You know there has to be some place out there that values and appreciates diverse opinions.

A company that recognizes that redefining the information age with technology requires new viewpoints.

Where you can really express your talents and be rewarded for it.

Your search is over.

Microsoft is Looking for Technical Talent in the Following Areas

SOFTWARE DESIGN ENGINEERS
Working on the leading edge of software development for personal computer systems and applications, you will own a feature or part of a product and will work to define product specifications, solidify a schedule, and design and write code for your product.

PROGRAM MANAGERS
Your role will be to define the content, behavior, and appearance of your product and find innovative solutions to best meet customer needs. Working closely with technical and marketing groups, customers, usability specialists, and graphic artists, you will see your product through design, specification, development, testing, documentation to final release.

SOFTWARE TEST ENGINEERS
You will have responsibility for designing and implementing testing software and test cases, predominantly for software applications. As you create and run test cases to troubleshoot software bugs, and recommend and implement changes to your product, you will become an expert on the various applications with which you work.

SUPPORT ENGINEERS
As a support engineer, you will work with developers and information system professionals who are using Microsoft products, tools, or systems to write software and mission-critical applications. You will analyze their technical problems, research and consult with experts, and provide solutions and consulting on design and architecture.

Opportunities exist for these job categories in the following areas: personal and business applications, networking, multimedia, operating systems, graphical user interfaces, and integrated development environments.

Qualified candidates should be pursuing a bachelor's or graduate degree in computer science, electrical engineering, computer engineering, or a related technical discipline. Qualifications vary by job but will include proficiency in C, C++, or Visual Basic and experience designing, testing, supporting or writing software.

If you are interested in applying, please send your resume and cover letter to Microsoft Corporation, Attn: Recruiting, One Microsoft Way, Redmond WA 98052-8303. Or if you prefer to send your resume on-line, send it to web@microsoft.com (ASCII format). No phone calls please. Microsoft is an Equal Opportunity Employer and supports workforce diversity.

Drugs may drop Sapp in draft

Don Goldberg
Associated Press

PHOENIX — Warren Sapp was expected to be one of the top five players chosen in the NFL draft, but now he is facing a multiple drug test because of his admission that he used drugs while at Florida.

"Obviously, it's over," he said. "I'm not trying to make it a big deal.Obviously, it's over."

"I probably used to do some, but from time to time. I've never used anything strong. It's been between me and my own."

Sapp's admission came just before the NFL draft, which is scheduled to begin Thursday night in San Diego. Sapp, who has 21 sacks in the last three seasons, is expected to be selected in the first round.

"I do feel bad," he said. "I'm sorry to let people down."

"I'm trying to get back to the team."

"I'm trying to get better."

 Band promises bone-rattling tunes before heading on Japanese tour **

Jewel Thorne

The Daily Iowan

Bands consist of a combination of forces that can come together to make a whole that is greater than the sum of its parts. Boneshadow, an up-and-coming punk rock band from Iowa City, is a perfect example of this. With an impressive lineup and a reputation for powerful performances, Boneshadow is set to take their unique sound across the ocean to Japan.

The band consists of four members, each bringing their own talent and style to the mix. Vocalist Steven Arashiba is known for his powerful and emotive singing, while the rest of the band, consisting of bassist, drummer, and guitarist, provide a solid foundation for the vocals.

Boneshadow will perform tonight at Gabe's, 210 N. Washington St., with opening acts Sadie Fool and Pavement. The show is expected to be intense and energetic, with the band's powerful music and high-energy stage presence.

 'Dreams' explores gritty side of basketball hopefuls' lives **

Tasha Robinson

The Daily Iowan

For a sportsperson basketball cannot be separated from dreams. Boneshadow is a band that understands this, and their song "Dreams" is a reflection of this.

The dream of winning a championship is what drives basketball players to train hard and push themselves to their limits. But what happens when that dream is shattered? "Dreams," the latest single from Boneshadow, explores this theme and invites listeners into the world of basketball through the lens of "Hoop Dreams," a documentary film about two young hopefuls.

The song begins with a series of questions about the dream of winning a championship. "Is it a real deal? Does the dream start in the same way?" These questions lead into a description of the moments when the dream is shattered. "The dream is a complex, demented mirage, a void that seizes the soul."

Despite the raw pain and heartache of losing their dreams, Boneshadow's music is imbued with a sense of hope and resilience. "No matter how much we hurt, there's still a chance for another day."

The song ends with a call to action: "We are the ones who make the choices."

 Li Young Lee blends nonfiction, poetry in first prose narrative **

Johanna Gooley

The Daily Iowan

Li Young Lee is a poet who has been hailed as "the voice of a new generation." She has made a name for herself with her unique ability to blend nonfiction and poetry in her work, creating a new genre of prose that is both powerful and accessible.

In her latest book, "The Weed Seed," Lee continues this trend. The book is a memoir of a young girl growing up in a small town in South Carolina, and it is written in the form of a letter to her younger self.

Lee's writing is raw and honest, a testament to her own personal journey. "The Weed Seed" is a story of growth and discovery, and it is a reminder that sometimes, the greatest things in life are the ones we are most afraid of.

The book is a powerful and moving piece of work, and it is a must-read for anyone who is looking for a new voice in contemporary literature.
