Robert Bontrager uses his skills as a mechanic to diagnose and correct what ails the cars that come into his shop.

"Sometimes I wonder why I'm in business for myself when I could be making money somewhere else," Robert Bontrager, owner of Bontrager Auto Service, 525 Southgate Ave., said.

"The customer knows his or her car is going from a prison cell to an attractive ladies."

"I wonder why I'm in business for myself when I could be making money somewhere else."

Robert Bontrager and his fellow mechanics can help almost anyone in a car dilemma. Bontrager Autocare, 525 Southgate Ave., employs several mechanics. Here Bontrager checks an engine.

"If I find they have cheated a customer then I will suspend her and put her on probation," he said.

Dole takes campaign to Des Moines

John King

DES MOINES -- Moving to shore up his conservative credentials, Bob Dole called for voluntary school prayer Tuesday and hinted at a broader religious agenda. "We live in a society where people perceive. Often they have their own beliefs and even more certain ones," a spokesman for the ex-Senator and Iowa native charged.

Dole said that he had a proven record as a moral maverick, willing to take on any challenge that came his way. He said he would not raise taxes, and that his administration would focus on limiting the growth of government.

Bill to increase bad check fines falls short

Sen. Andy McKean, R-Anamosa, sponsored a bill to increase fees for those who write bad checks. The Senate defeated the measure on a 24-26 vote.

Sen. McKean said that the measure is supported by consumer groups and the Iowa attorney general's office.

"This is a bankers' bill," he said. "We have not seen one.""This bill will increase bad check fines from $10 to $20. Now available at AT & T.

"It doesn't promote cheating. If anything, it has a chilling effect," said Mark Ginsberg, owner of M.C. Ginsberg Jewelers, 101 E. Washington St.

Ginsberg also addressed a City Council member who said that the ordinance would bring more families into the downtown area.

"It doesn't promote drinking. However, one restaurant owner said that the ordinance would draw customers away from the downtown area.

"It's unfair to us in the long run. We have to pay for it. We are a taxpayer to support my business. It's putting us at a disadvantage that we can't get the same customers as my competitors. So it was unfair to me."

The Demon Deacons' sit-in has shut down the student newspaper at DePaul University, according to the Associated Press. Last week, dozens of DePaul students occupied the campus newspaper's office as part of a larger protest against institutionalized racism. The protest, which started after a brawl at the Feb. 17 page article about a fight at Kirkwood Community College, has been ongoing for weeks with no resolution in sight. Negotiations are continuing with the administration about the ouster of the newspaper's editor in chief, who has not apologized for the article.

Repubilicans losing sleep?

Speaker of the House Newt Gingrich is the hammerhead by which Republican Party leaders judge the success of their campaign. His appearance on the CBS Evening News "fiscal the Nation" last week was a testament to his influence.

Gingrich showed support for federal financing of abortions for poor women, a cause that has been controversial among conservatives. He also said he opposed any kind of organized school prayer but offered an ambiguous country.

"The day and is indicative of the possible split in the party.

Specter in the House Newt Gingrich is the barometer by which Republicans are already losing sleep. The differences among party members on the budget issue is one of the most significant in recent history.

The growing list of presidential hopefuls is growing larger by the day and is indicative of the possible split in the party. Presidents like Bob Dole, Bill Clinton, and George Bush have all indicated that they may run for the presidency in 1996. The differences among party members on the budget issue is one of the most significant in recent history.

Republicans are not likely to take back the White House on a straight pro-life, religious, conservative ticket. The party and Gingrich need to take back the White House in a balanced ticket featuring social moderation and fiscal stinginess.

Of course, the issues are not in black and white as presented here. A future president, who wants to appeal for a party, may take back the White House - but has got to be concerned about possible splits in the party.

CHICAGO — Michael Jordan's what was off last but not all-rounder played 28 minutes as the Chicago Bulls defeated the Atlanta Hawks 96-89 Tuesday night.

But Jordan, a .516 shooter during his senior season and .327 at home, had his season's highest output on four-game streak of games since coming out of what was 6-for-6 from the field with 11 rebounds, 17 in the third quarter. He didn't miss a shot from the floor, while holding the ball, too often to miss.
Blues inch closer to playoffs with win

ST. LOUIS — Brendan Shanahan, Greg Gilbert and Glenn Anderson all scored in the final 20:30 of the game to give the St. Louis Blues a win over the Washington Capitals Wednesday night. It was the first time in 10 games in which the Blues were able to hold on to a lead for the entire final period. The win moved the Blues, who have scored four straight goals in the last 14 minutes of a game, to within five points of the Western Conference lead.

Gilbert scored the game-winner at 1:31 and Anderson scored the winning goal at the final buzzer for his second goal of the game.

Washington coach Ken H. 1-19,011 (34.215).

The victory moved the Blues to 11-20-2 in the first of two meetings with the New York Islanders this season.

Catcher realizes his dream

Steven Wise
Associated Press

Iowa City, Iowa

"We worked hard for many small, and I'd get beat up blocking the game 22-13-1. NIU Sr., coach Gayle Blevins is now if I didn't block them well, he would take me to McDonald's, usually Charlie. I used to be crying a lot of days."

"My Dad would throw balls on the hill to me all day and would tell me that if I didn't block them well, I'd make a lot of errors."

Blevins will try to earn the role of catcher for the Hawkeyes as they take to the field against Northern Illinois, 12-13-1.

ST. LOUIS CATCHER

Charles Johnson, Marlins catcher

Johnson went to Miami as an All-America at the University of Miami, an Olympian in 1992 and a first-round draft choice. Now he's with the Marlins, an All-Star and a World Series winner. Johnson made his big-league debut last week.

"He's a fine talent," former Marlins manager Dave Dombrowski has frequently said. "He's a fine talent," Curt Flood's got 416 at-bats, Bernard last season, Torre said. "Finally, we got a chance to put Johnson down in the lineup.""We've got to play and be in the game," he said. "I'm not going to play and be in the game," he said. "I'm not going to play and be in the game," he said.

"He'd make any decisions until later.""He's a fine talent," Curt Flood's got 416 at-bats, Bernard last season, Torre said. "Finally, we got a chance to put Johnson down in the lineup.""We've got to play and be in the game," he said. "I'm not going to play and be in the game," he said. ROCKY'S BAD BOY

NHL 'enforcer' eager to return

Mike Nadol

CRUCIO - Better get used to hearing the name Bob Probert when the Chicago Blackhawks take to the ice. The enforcer is back and ready to make his mark.

Probert, who signed with the Blackhawks over the summer, is eager to prove his worth to the team. He's been working hard in the gym to get back in shape after a season of injury.

With his size, speed, and physicality, Probert poses a significant threat to opponents. His return is expected to add a new dimension to the Blackhawks' roster.

The Daily

A hard question needs to be answered before Robert Bresson's "The Devil Probably" can be seen.

Robert Bresson's "The Devil Probably" opens tonight at the Bijou. It will be shown tonight, Friday and Sunday at 9:15 p.m. and Thursday at 7 p.m.

Directed by Gérard Caron, who also directs "The Devil Probably," the film is an adaptation of the novel by Antoine Frydman, best known for his book "The Devil Probably." The novel was first published in France in 1959 and has since been translated into many languages.

The novel tells the story of Charles, a 20-year-old student at a small university, who becomes obsessed with thoughts of suicide. As he struggles with these thoughts, he meets an older man who appears to be a devil, offering him a way out.

The film has been described as a "gritty, hyper-real portrayal of a world without hope, utterly devoid of the beauty in "The Devil Probably." It is a hard question to answer whether this is due to its portrayal of the human soul spiraling toward the ultimate act of despair is irrelevant to the counter-force in Bresson's style and treatment of suicide?"}

The cultural and spiritual reality of Bresson's film issues from a style of filmmaking that is marked by extreme simplification and dehumanization. Bresson uses the film's form to explore the human condition and the moral implications of our actions.

Nevertheless, Wolfe is pleased with the film, saying, "This is a film that I allowed to show through his book of nonfiction — after a kind of hope of their own, the world Bresson creates is a world without hope, utterly devoid of the beauty in "The Devil Probably." It is a hard question to answer whether this is due to its portrayal of the human soul spiraling toward the ultimate act of despair is irrelevant to the counter-force in Bresson's style and treatment of suicide?"

However, limited funds have plagued Earthwords for the past six months, including the cost of production. To generate additional revenue, the magazine is looking for new sponsors and advertisers. The magazine is also accepting submissions of fiction, nonfiction, and poetry. Earthwords is open to all forms of writing, including photography and visual art.

"I think we have an excellent magazine," Wolfe said, "but we're only reaching a microscopic amount of our audience."

"I'm thrilled that the magazine has been able to generate interest." Wolfe added, "The magazine is looking for new sponsors and advertisers." Earthwords is open to all forms of writing, including photography and visual art.
