Reno offers $2 million bounty

Sharon Cohen

OKLAHOMA CITY — For the sake of public safety, perhaps 7,000 state and federal law enforcement officials are investigating a bombing that injured 19 people and destroyed a federal building.

A little more than a year after he was killed in Oklahoma City, FBI agent Timothy McVeigh yesterday was faulted for causing a 1995 explosion that killed 168 people.

The blasts at the Murrah Federal Building killed a 2-year-old girl and destroyed a national heritage.

The District Court ruled that McVeigh is guilty of conspiring to use a weapon of mass destruction.

The courtroom was filled with relatives of McVeigh, including his parents, sister, former wife and children.

He was found guilty of murder in the deaths of 168 people and 1,200 injured.

The death toll rose to 52, making it the third-worst terrorist attack in U.S. history.

A bomb explosion killed six people at the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building.

Blood dripped from the rubble in Oklahoma City, killing 119 people and injuring 575.

The FBI struck back swiftly against the bombers.

Blast reduces day care to ‘a nightmare’

Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY — Children who were rescued from a day care center where a powerful bomb shattered the federal building in Oklahoma City said it would pay for their crime.

One child was dead, and others were feared missing.

Pamela Joyner said she stood on the street screaming for her children. Women weeping cried out for theirs. One man ran into the street, yelling that his wife — a nurse — had vanished.

More than 300 children were inside the building. At least 12 were pulled out by rescuers and stood on the street screaming.

“Shard, please God, help us,” a man yelled. “Sorry.”

Fry to unveil 1995 Hawkeyes
Quickly rushing toward greatness
Chris Kiwica
The Daily Iowan
New in the quarterback controversy and the Turnaround, another member of the Hawkeyes has been tugging on the sleeve of Iowa head coach Hayden Fry.

Joe Fagan is a junior from Des Moines, Iowa, who began his three years ago, and after redetermining his future, has been a fixture in the Hawkeye starting lineup.

Last season, Fagan started for most of the season, and rushed for 496 yards on 112 carries, an average of 3.5 yards per carry.

With two seasons of eligibility remaining, Iowa's Scott Shaw is just two yards away from breaking the Hawkeye rushing record.

"My role is to help the University of Iowa win football games," he said. "If I don't, I'll be in trouble." Last year, Shaw rushed for 1,499 yards on 117 carries, an average of 12.9 yards per carry.

Shaw's emphasis is to get past 1,500 yards this season.

"Every day I'm just trying to get better," Shaw said. "I think I can do it." The Hawkeyes, however, have a big challenge in front of them. They'll need to get past the nation's top 10 defenses.

"We're really good, and have a lot of depth," Shaw said. "I think we're going to be really good and might have a little bit of depth."

"We have really high expectations, so if we do anything wrong, we're being fired," Shaw said. "But I've been here for six years, and I'm really happy with my team." Signatures matter.

"The signature of the team is the defensive line," Shaw said. "It's going to be so good."

Shaw's team, however, has a chance to win the national championship.

"We're really good, and we have a lot of depth," Shaw said. "I think we're going to be really good."

"If it's blocking, receiving, especially on defense, with a lot of people running away from it, then they should expect a little bit of depth." Signatures matter.

"If that's the case, then I'll be really happy with my team."

Will Carolina keep the No. 1 pick? After Connecticut walks K-Jana Carter, Washington wants him. But about everybody wants him. And the Carolina Panthers have him. If they don't keep him, it wouldn't surprise Coach Mariucci that he's going to the second round to him, and it wouldn't surprise Coach Mariucci that he's going to the second round to him, because if they slip out of the No. 1 spot, they would likely go to the No. 2 spot, they would likely go to the No. 2 spot, and they would likely go to the No. 2 spot.

Panthers coach Steve Mariucci, who could go anywhere in the first round with a couple teams seemingly set to move into the No. 1 spot and the Cincinnati Bengals said they might not go high just like they need an offensive tackle. But Collins is one of those draft busts that back everyone wants, though he unfortunately is selected high, but it is known who will select him. That brings us to Question 2.

Will Carolina keep the No. 1 pick? After Connecticut walks K-Jana Carter, Washington wants him. But about everybody wants him. And the Carolina Panthers have him. If they don't keep him, it wouldn't surprise Coach Mariucci that he's going to the second round to him, and it wouldn't surprise Coach Mariucci that he's going to the second round to him, because if they slip out of the No. 1 spot, they would likely go to the No. 2 spot, they would likely go to the No. 2 spot, and they would likely go to the No. 2 spot.

The Hawkeyes face final Ten hurdles

The Iowa women's tennis team travels to Minneapolis for its final match of the season Sunday, when it takes on the Golden Gophers at 4 p.m. at the Sports Pavilion. "It is a great opportunity to battle a powerhouse in their home court," Coach Jerry Hassard said. The Hawkeyes have split their previous two matches this season, a 6-2 win over Wisconsin and a 2-3 loss at Northwestern. They finished the regular season with a 7-9 overall record and 3-6 in the Big Ten.

Iowa comes into the game off a victory over Michigan last weekend, but is struggling with the rest of its schedule. "It's going to be a very difficult match," Hassard said. "But we're going to try to bring things together."

Senior tri-captain David Coleman said the team is aiming for continued success in the remainder of the season. "It's a lot of tennis left in the fall," he said. "We're excited to play and compete." The Hawkeyes hope to make a strong showing at the conference meet to improve their ranking in the Big Ten. "We're looking at going to the Big Ten meet this weekend," Hassard said. "It will be important to gain some momentum for our team." The meet is scheduled for Oct. 30 at Illinois State University. "We're looking to keep it up in Illinois," Hassard said. "It's difficult, but it's a really big opportunity to get some momentum into the conference meet."

The Hawkeyes hope to have a strong showing at the conference meet, where they have better depth and experience. "The games begin at 3 p.m. on both days at the Hawkeye Tennis Complex," Hassard said.

Iowa State faces final Ten hurdle

The Iowa men's golf team heads to Columbus, Ohio, this weekend to finish off the year at the Big Ten championships. Currently, the Hawkeyes are 11th in the conference with a 20th-place finish at the 18-team Legends of America Invitational. Tee times are scheduled for Friday at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. and Saturday at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. The Hawkeyes will send a team of 12 athletes, including Senior tri-captain Chris Sharp, who earned a spot in the lineup last weekend. Sharp is currently tied for 10th in the conference with a 73 average. "It is important to perform well in this meet," said Coach Ted Wheeler. "This is our last real opportunity to excel at a very high level." The team hopes to finish off the year with a strong showing at the conference meet. "We are looking forward to a strong finish to the season," Wheeler said. "This is our last chance to perform well in the conference." The Hawkeyes hope to have a strong showing at the conference meet, where they have better depth and experience. "It will be important to gain some momentum for our team," Hassard said. 'Tank Girl' film can't compare to comic

Chasik Houston
The Daily Iowan

Anyone who thought "Tank Girl" the movie was too hyperactive, too weird, too wild, and confusing or just too bizarre probably hasn't read the comic material. Notice the film's was somewhat between "Tank Girl," "Blade Runner," and "Alien," but then that's even more difficult to explain.

The original source (available in two compilations from Dark Horse Comics) is a恩施 comic ending, half-dressed woman (tank commander who goes by M.I.A.) from the future who travels through the Australian outback system, fighting, drinking, chugging beer and the piano and leaving with half-breasted enemies. Wonder Woman doesn't ever.

In fact, the series underground popularity may be in part from the fact that "Tank Girl" was never put in comic form, even remotely like the average female comic character. She isn't particularly attractive; she isn't even particularly smart. Instead, she's mean, weird, inap­ tural, and crude. It's not a particularly popular formula, but it certainly is a fairly unusual one.

In the film, "Tank Girl" takes on the role of a super heroine who stars in a curious, farming, beard-waving, more serious action movie, as well as the entire comic medium. Cro­

The 16th annual RiverRun Committee seeks to increase this year’s participation by providing UI students with numerous opportunities for individual and group competition.

“We are trying to increase the students’ interest in being physically fit,” said director Perry Johnson. “With the added interest from the teams race, hopefully the RiverRun will prompt student organizations and some local businesses to participate. Also, University of Iowa students will receive a discount into the race.”

There will be six aid stations providing refreshments to tired runners throughout the course.

The University of Iowa RiverFest Commission invites all University of Iowa students and members of the Iowa City and Coralville communities to the 1995 CBS College Tour. The tour was created in 1980 by CBS Television to bring all the fun and excitement of daytime programming to college campuses across the country. This year, the tour will be located in Hubbard Park on April 26th, 27th, and 28th.

One of the most popular events at the CBS College Tour is the "Studio CBS." This involves a portable stage fashioned after the set of "The Young and the Restless." The attraction gives students the opportunity to be videotaped as they enact actual scenes from their favorite CBS soap operas. All participants are given a free videotape of their performance.

Another major attraction at the CBS College Tour is the "Entertainment Quiz." In this event, students are seated around a set resembling a student residence hall room. In student teams of three, they face opponents from other teams in a friendly competition against each other in a college setting. The winning team is rewarded with a "CBS College Tour's Unique Movie Theater." The theater is complete with a concession stand filled with Pepsi products and home of a movie critic and receives a free gift. For all the athletes in the crowd, The CBS College Tour offers a "Basketball Shoot Out" where you have the opportunity to shoot some hoops and enjoy the warm weather. The winner of five competitive shooting is a specially created court.

The 1995 RiverFest Commission is once again hosting the Best Pizza in Iowa City Contest! This year, however, the competition has a new twist. RiverFest has expanded the contest to include several more types of food from a wide range of local restaurants. This means the "Favorite Food Contest" is not just for pizza lovers anymore! The contest has officially grown from a favorite pizza contest to a favorite pizza, burger, taco and eggroll competition. Some of this year's entrants include the Airliner, the Mill Restaurant, Fras BBQ & Grill and the Pizza Pit. Restaurants may participate in more than one category and every restaurant will submit its specialty or its best item. The contest, sponsored by area businesses, anticipates participation from both Iowa City and Coralville restaurants. These Iowa City restaurants will submit entries for hungry participants to try.

Iowa City’s Favorite Food Contest

It’s not just for pizza lovers anymore!

The 1995 RiverFest Commission is once again hosting the Best Pizza in Iowa City Contest! This year, however, the competition has a new twist. RiverFest has expanded the contest to include several more types of food from a wide range of local restaurants. This means the “Favorite Food Contest” is not just for pizza lovers anymore! The contest has officially grown from a favorite pizza contest to a favorite pizza, burger, eggroll and taco competition.

Some of this year’s entrants include the Airliner, the Mill Restaurant, Free Billy & Grill and the Pizza Pit. Restaurants may participate in more than one category and every restaurant will submit its specialty or its best item. The contest, sponsored by area businesses, anticipates participation from both Iowa City and Coralville restaurants. These restaurants will submit entries for hungry participants to taste. The winner will be announced during the RiverFest Mainstage event and will be published in The Daily Iowan. The winner will also be awarded a plaque and the official title of 1995 Iowa City’s Favorite Food Contest Winner.

Ten judges will be randomly selected from the Super Saturday crowd for each category. “I really hope I get to be a judge,” says University of Iowa senior Kate Lederer. “I want to judge all categories ... pizza, burgers, eggrolls and tacos. Just as long I can have a diet Pepsi to wash it down with.”

Previous winners of the Best Pizza contest include the Airliner, Mazza’s Pizzas, A & A Pagliai’s Pizza and Ano Pizza. These establishments have found the title of Best Pizza in Iowa City to be an excellent advertising slogan. Come judge for yourself if these restaurants really do have the best food in Iowa City. Join the RiverFest Commission in Hubbard Park on Super Saturday to see who has the best burger, eggroll, pizza and hungry crowd in the area. Make sure you come early because this event is sure to attract an enormous and hungry crowd! Come taste the variety of pizzas in Iowa City during RiverFest ’94.

Annual Riverbank Art Fair

By Sara Ulrich

For the thirtieth consecutive year, the University of Iowa Arts and Crafts Center will be sponsoring the annual Riverbank Art Fair in conjunction with the Iowa City’s annual RiverFest. Artisans will be displaying their work on Saturday, April 21st and Sunday, April 22nd along the Iowa River. This popular art fair has been a long-standing tradition since December 1983, when the Arts and Crafts Center first sponsored the show as “Scrooge’s Market.” It became part of the RiverFest Spring Festival in 1984, with the name officially changing to “The Riverbank Art Fair” in 1999.

As the Riverbank Art Fair continues to grow, more and more professional artists are admitted each year. Approximately eighty artists from across the entire Midwest will be displaying their work this year. The various kinds of work that will be presented will include pottery, stained glass, paintings, fabric art, weaving, woodwork, photography, hats, and sculptures. Each item is available for viewing or for purchase. If you are one who likes to get into the action, there is something for you to do as well. Many artists will not only be displaying their work, but creating one of a kind pieces at the fair. Among other activities being provided; there will be a painting table and chances to try out favorite art forms.

To live your day even more, RiverFest is sponsoring live music. Different types of ethnic music will be presented near the Riverbank Art Fair on RiverFest Soundscape, hosted on the path between the Iowa Memorial Union and the Advanced Technology Building. Come and enjoy a wonderful day—free of charge! Everyone is welcome to shop and join in the fun.
