Serb indecision lingers

Despite NATO warning, artillery is still in range of Sarajevo

Lian McDonald

BALKANES - Defying a NATO deadline, Bosnian Serbs have piled up heavy weapons on the city's edge and prepared to resume shelling Sarajevo.

Two buses were hauled in the morning, a man said, and a report reached the Bosnian Red Cross in Sarajevo, but by 3:30 pm and 4:30 pm, respectively, it indicated that NATO forces had failed to withdraw the armaments.

"If we tell you in two weeks, it may be the worst situation in history," the man said. "For now, we have a lot to do." He added that both sides still had time to judge the Serbs' intentions.

"We have seen some highly unusual movements which do appear to signify that the Serbs are preparing for a withdrawal," a Spokesman for the Red Cross said.

"It would be clear whether the Serbs were withdrawing the weapons, or if they are arming to levels that would seem to be a strong weapon," the man said.

In the Serb stronghold of Tuzla, the Serbs and Croats have been in constant conflict, and NATO forces have been trying to bring them to the table.

British rapid reaction forces are still in place in preparation for deployment in Bosnia Monday. The U.S. rapid reaction force, under NATO command, may attack Serb gun positions if heavy weapons are not moved away from Sarajevo.

Women urged to join in equality fight

Edith M. Lederer
AP

NEW YORK - The third annual Women's Conference on World Issues will be held here this weekend, with a theme of "Women's Rights Are Human Rights." The event is co-sponsored by the United Nations and the Women's Conference on World Issues.

"Women are no longer passive observers of male-dominated societies," the conference's organizers said. "They are now active participants in the world's affairs, and they play a crucial role in shaping the future." The conference will feature panel discussions, workshops, and keynote addresses by women leaders from around the world.

Where do UW players go to relax this weekend?

University of Wisconsin players may have to look elsewhere for a good time this weekend, as the campus is closed for Labor Day.

"We're going to have a lot of free time this weekend," said UW football coach Barry Alvarez.

"I don't want our players to be sitting around in their dorms," Alvarez said. "I want them to get out and enjoy themselves."
Alaskans petition for return of alcohol

Jim Clarke
Anchorage Press

Barrow, Alaska — In the 10 months since a law legalizing the sale of alcohol went into effect, calls to police have dropped in the North Slope borough of Barrow by more than 40 percent, and many residents have become accustomed to sleepless nights.

"For prohibition opponents, it's the ultimate win," said the Rev. William Casey, pastor of the United Methodist Church in Barrow. "The city clerk is equipped to sell alcohol, but it's not being sold because of the petition." For years, the church has been a refuge from alcohol-related problems in Barrow, which has a population of 4,000 and is located on the Bering Sea.

The petition for the return of alcohol was submitted to the state by a group of about 300 residents, who gathered last month to present the signed papers to the borough clerk. The petition calls for a referendum on the issue in November 2000.

Council pushes straw poll, despite adversity

Mark Strahan
The Daily Iowan
Johannsen County Auditor Ted Slockett said he would rather be asked to roll a dice than put a presidential straw poll on the Nov. 7 city election ballot.
Slockett released a statement Monday condemning the straw poll.
"To knowingly direct the County Auditor, against his will, to place an illegal measure on the official election ballot is more serious than if they had directed me to rob a bank. While a bank robbery would adversely impact those whose funds were taken, the ballots in the barracks of democracy may be worse, Slockett wrote.
"It is significantly more important to support the integrity of our elections than to maintain the status quo.

Fuhrman acquaintance to testify

Linda Deutsch Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — She came for one reason: She was the possible witness for O.J. Simpson and Jerry had heard her name last March when Detectives Mark Fuhrman repeatedly testified that he had never met her.

Relatively unremarkable stories from those who Bracket Bell can avoid the playing of Fuhrman's tapes last month and others when it was first closed in the summer of 1994.

"I'm really intimidated to stand up and say anything before 300 million people. But people know she is telling the truth," Attorney Taylor Daigleault said, noting that Bell's story was attacked by Patrick's lawyer and others when it was first disclosed in the summer of 1994.

"It's real intimidating to stand up and say anything before 300 million people," Daigleault said. "But people know she is telling the truth, and there's a comfort in that."

Fuhrman's attorneys planned to call Bell to bolster their contention that Fuhrman was a racist capable of framing his black client by planting a directly given as his position.

Simpson has pleaded innocent to the June 12, 1994, slaying of his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and during 1985 and 1986, he sometimes smoked a Marijuana Cigar, recruiting office downtown that she heard on the phone in April.

ATLANTA - Even if you haven't purchased a ticket, you can still get in the gates of the Atlanta 1996 Olympic Games - through your bank. Though the Games themselves are primarily funded from sources including television rights, corporate sponsorships and ticket sales, the total amount of money the various agencies are spending is in the billions of dollars. Here's a look at how:

The biggest expenditures:
• $500 million for security
• $300 million for technology
• $250 million for housing and transportation assistance.

Loans for grad students may be compromised

Student Taylor, a UI graduate student, was one of several UI students who said they were concerned about the budget proposal that would reduce funding for higher education.

Taylor said the proposal would reduce funding for UI and Iowa State University, which would affect all graduate and professional students. The House is set to pass the proposal next week.

"This proposal has been paid out to state and government employees, basically making everything unaffordable," said Taylor. "If the UI doesn't do it, the federal deficit and part with or revenue generated.

Hilary Clinton to speak at women's conference

Terrance Hart
Associated Press

BEIJING — Hillary Rodham Clinton began a controversial visit to China Tuesday to attempt to defuse tensions between the two nations, an official said, that she said would seek to promote mutual respect and understanding.

Tensions have grown over America's decision to send troops to the Persian Gulf in response to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait. The trip to China, the official said, is an attempt to defuse tensions with the communist nation.

The 17-month mission is being negotiated by the Bush administration and Chinese officials. The visit comes amid a dispute over the use of the United Nations' Security Council to impose sanctions on Iraq.

For Monday's opening ceremony, Israel authorized the re-opening of a cross-border of Lebanon where tensions have been high. It also said it would open the road to prevent possible attacks on others in the region by the Islamic group Hezbollah.

The government of the Palestinian Authority has also decided to tighten security measures throughout France, according to police officials.

A bomb planted in a newspaper office in Paris was linked to an Islamic extremist group, according to French authorities.

An Israeli border police officer looks at two Palestinian women walking past graffiti of a Roman flag in Jerusalem on Monday, despite an international women's conference to be held in the city.

An open discussion of environmental issues with relation to the upcoming U.N. Conference on Environment and Development in Rio de Janeiro is expected to be held in China.

An environmental advocacy group will meet in China to discuss the impact of pollution on the environment and the role of government in addressing the issue.

The group is made up of representatives from various countries who have been invited to attend the meeting.

The meeting will be held in Beijing and will include representatives from the United States, Canada, Mexico, Brazil, and China. The group will discuss the impact of pollution on the environment and the role of government in addressing the issue.

The meeting will be held on May 10th and will last for two days. The group will meet with government officials and discuss the impact of pollution on the environment and the role of government in addressing the issue.
Bomb explodes in Kashmir, killing 15

Associated Press

Indonesian security forces carry the body of a Kashmiri man who was killed in a bomb attack in central Kashmir Monday.

The attack occurred between two banks as officials collected bags of money to pay monthly salaries at their homes. Security forces were searching for possible attackers, a police official said.

The local government has assured the safety of its personnel and residents.

The attack occurred at about 7:30 a.m. in the town of Shopian, about 10 kilometers (6 miles) south of Srinagar, the summer capital of the Kashmir region.

A local resident said the blast was caused by the landmine explosion. The cause of the explosion is not yet known.
Dole waives on welfare reform

Jennifer Dow
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Working behind the Senate last month, leading Majority Leader Bob Dole — who once bragged that the GOP was "the party of welfare reform" — reverted to his past role as a critic of the program.

Dole issued a statement late Tuesday saying he's "not satisfied" with welfare reform, the cornerstone of the GOP's social agenda.

"I do think that this legislation is a first step, but it's a quite inadequate one," Dole said in the statement. "There will be a number of ways that it could be improved."

The statement was Dole's first major criticism of the welfare reform bill, which passed in the Senate last week and is expected to become law this week.

The legislation was written after hours of grueling debate in which senators from both parties worked to strike a balance between the competing interests of Democrats, who favor a liberal approach to welfare reform, and Republicans, who favor a more conservative approach.

Dole's statement suggested that he believes the welfare reform bill is not strong enough to address the problem of welfare dependency.

"There will be a number of ways that this legislation could be improved," Dole said. "But I think that it's an inadequate one."

Wilson dodes responsiblity

For the fifth time in eight months, California Gov. Pete Wilson announced on Sunday that he is seeking the Republican nomination for president. His choice of backlight for his announcement—the Statue of Liberty— was a fitting frame for one of his pet issues his battle against illegal immigration. This time, too, it’s the same tired, poor, and huddled masses applying to be free from the status quo. Just as a trickle in Wilson’s rhetoric jumps onto the personal responsibility bandwagon in an effort to rev-up his campaign against illegal immigrants—the last leader in the state to do so—Wilson welcomed only one letter per author per month.

In an obvious move to boost his own popularity, Wilson has seized this opportunity to express his views on the issue of illegal immigration. In fact, it was the Bush administration that first sent federal immigration officials to investigate the situation and then announced a crackdown on illegal immigration.
Counsel to 'poor and persecuted' dies at 76

Robert McAfee

Robert McAfee, New York, a respected lawyer who proudly spoke out for the politically unpopular, on Tuesday, September 11, 1995. He was 76.

McAfee was known for representing the politically unpopular, including African-Americans who were part of the civil rights movement, Latin-American revolutionaries, and others who were accused of sedition. He was also a vocal supporter of President Clinton's foreign policy.

McAfee was born in New York City on May 11, 1919. He attended the City College of New York and the Columbia University School of Law. He began his career as an assistant U.S. attorney in the Southern District of New York and then went on to become a partner in the law firm of Brown, Ray, McAfee & Worthington.

McAfee represented a wide range of clients, including civil rights activists, labor leaders, and political dissidents. He was particularly known for his work on behalf of the Cuban exiles who were denied the right to vote in the United States.

He died at home in New York City.

In his later years, McAfee became a critic of the Clinton administration and its policies, particularly its support for Israel and its handling of the Middle East peace process.

McAfee's death was mourned by many of his colleagues and friends, who praised his dedication to justice and his commitment to the underdog.

The Jewish American Socialists' National Convention, which he co-founded, also paid tribute to his legacy.

McAfee's legal career spanned over five decades. He was a prominent figure in the legal community and was known for his passionate advocacy for political prisoners and social justice issues.

McAfee's passing is a loss for the legal community and for those who valued his dedication to justice and his commitment to the underdog.

He was survived by his wife, Nettie, and his two children, Robert, Jr., and Susan.

Ball State and Southwest Missouri were the first two teams to take the floor for Iowa. Iowa won a hard-fought 3-2 decision Saturday after Ball State, then traveled Southwest Missouri to Friday night.

Haywood coach Art Begg said the team had a lot of fun.

"We won the game (Ball State) but I think we were very unlucky," Begg said. "He said four times we had our shot blocked and had our shot taken away. We were just lucky the showing it nine times. We haven't scored more than nine times. Iowa jumped out to a 0-0 lead on the Ball team after a handoff from Kerri Leonard and the open connection on the end around 3.0. Mike with a tough return.
