Johnson County attorney defends Shave's right to be in father's business

Although final reports from the Division of Criminal Investigations (DCI) have yet to be released, Johnson County Attorney Carletha Wilson-Stone said Thursday that she believes shaving one's beard before it is reported to be a violation of any law.

"Eric Shave took no action of any sort which would have caused him to be in any danger to Officer Gillespie," Wilson-Stone said.

The warning to "Stop Rape," "Men don't have a world without rape yet," was shouted "from Week during the rally.

Deborah Wire, coordinator of education for the Rape Victim Advocacy Program (RVAP), said that she believes shaving one's beard before it is reported to be a violation of any law.

The final decision concerning whether Shave's shaving before the shooting is sufficient for a violation of any law was ultimately made by the courts, Wire said.

Judge limits Simpson's defense

Linda Deutsch Associated Press

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — A judge made the trial that could be a battle for O.J. Simpson Tuesday, advancing evidence about domestic violence in the wrongful-death case against the former football star.

The judge on Tuesday allowed the defense to show more than 2,000 pages of evidence about domestic violence in the wrongful-death case against Simpson, the former football star.

"This is not a case of malpractice. Whether or not additional evidence could have been collected is not the point. The point is whether evidence of domestic violence is admissible in this case," she said.

UI enrollment inches upward

Charlotte By The Daily Iowan

Enrollment at the UI has surprised the university's leaders so far this year, with 15,523 students at the University of Iowa, a 2.4% increase over last year. The increase is a testament to the university's efforts to accommodate the increase in student demand. However, the university is still facing challenges in recruiting and retention.

"There are never enough classes for everybody, but we want them to be able to get out of the classes they need, but there may never be enough," said UI Associate Provost John Folkins.

UI Associate Provost John Folkins said the UI is working hard to accommodate the increase in enrollment. The university is increasing the number of classes offered and is making efforts to reduce waitlists. Folkins said the UI has been one of the few institutions that have been able to keep up with the increase in enrollment.

The most notable increase was in the College of Liberal Arts, with 3,585 students enrolled for Fall 1996, compared to 3,280 in Fall 1995, bringing its total to 14,088.

"We have gone from the point of view of being able to serve our students to serving our students," Folkins said. "I feel very good about the situation, but I also feel we have to go from the point of serving our students to serving our students."

Folkins also said some academies in Cedar Rapids and News for smoking's master-in-business administration students have 135 students enrolled for Fall 1996, compared to 32 students in Fall 1995, when the companies recrui...
Debunking the liberal media myth

The American Journalist in the 1960s reported 63 percent of riding members themselves Republicans. It is not clear to me what these numbers mean. In 1972, Republican Richard Nixon and Agnew made the news when they took a shot at the media as New Right voters looked for a candidate who would be more socially conservative than the liberal media. They only cite numbers that further their liberal credentials.

In 1997, President George Bush was quoted as saying that the press was too liberal. He probably meant that the press was too critical of his administration. In 2001, the Bush administration was blamed for the lack of information about the Iraq war. The liberal press was blamed for not reporting the war.

Lessons from Indiana

The 2000 people who attended the press conference on Tuesday did not come in droves, but they did come. They were the ones who had been waiting for years to see a real liberal media. The conservative media bias was so strong that only a handful of Republicans were willing to attend.

The press conference was also an opportunity for the liberal media to show that they are not biased. The liberal media was able to cite numbers that further their liberal credentials.

The point is, being beautiful, having a nice bathing suit, and being a beauty pageant contestant is not a big deal. The real deal is that we need to teach our children that beauty is not important.

What would you change about the Miss America Pageant?

I'd get rid of the sexual competition and have everyone compete on who can make the most money for charity. I'd change the stupid pageant competition and have everyone make a film at the contest.

Group considers extending cemetery into park

The Daily Iowan

Oakland Cemetery, known by quip as "the best kept secret in Iowa City," is in the process of expanding, according to the Iowa City recreation commission. The commission is considering expanding the park after a long day at work or exploring other options before making a decision.

"It's something that we've been looking at, " said commission chairwoman Lucy R. Hayes. "It's not a big park and it's going into a green space."

In a couple of years, the commission will hold a public meeting to discuss whether or not it should expand into the park, although nothing is definite at this point. The commission will decide whether or not it should remain on the park, and the expansion will be decided in the next City Council meeting.

"I suggest they build a soccer field," said UI student Mark Dill, who regularly goes to the park after a long day of work or exploration.

The commission will hold a public meeting at the corner of Court and Madison Streets on Sept. 15 at 12:41 a.m. 2:57 a.m. Residence Hall, with public consumption at the Burge Center and public intoxication and interference with official duties at the corner of Court and Madison Streets, known to Based on the public's input, the commission will decide whether or not it needs to extend into the environment as some residents suggested.

Panel urges debates sans Perot

Sandra Guellich
WASHINGTON — In a decision welcomed by Republicans, a negotiatory commission recommended Tuesday that Perot be denied a spot in this fall's presidential debates. The commission said Perot would not deserve to speak unless he could show he was prepared to play the game.

The recommendation was a non-binding resolution that Perot was expected to accept. The commission made its decision after several hours of closed-door negotiations between the Perot and Clinton campaigns, which met for three hours Tuesday without public comment.

The commission, which was appointed by the two candidates, ruled that Perot be excluded from the debates because he has not prepared to debate.

In a statement released Tuesday night, Perot said: "I enjoyed having him in there in '92. I thought he made a valuable contribution. I'm not afraid of any debate.

But we believe we've unearthed more than a handful of facts that show he was not, in fact, prepared to debate."

The commission's decision was a surprise to many political analysts, who expected Perot to be included in the debates.

"He's done a lot of work on the issues," said one analyst. "It's a bit of a mystery why he's being excluded."

Perot has been criticized for his lack of experience in the political process. He has also been accused of being too androgynous to be taken seriously as a candidate.

But many observers believe his exclusion from the debates will do more harm to him than good. They say he will be seen as a man who is not prepared to debates, who is not ready to take on the hard questions.

"He's been too tough on the issues," said another analyst. "We need him in the debates."

The decision was greeted with mixed reactions by the candidates. Clinton said he was pleased with the recommendation, while Perot said he was disappointed.

"I think this is a good decision," Clinton said. "It shows that the commission is taking its job seriously."

But Perot said: "I think this is a bad decision. I think I'm being denied a chance to debate my ideas."

The commission's recommendation is expected to be considered by the managers of the debates, who will make the final decision on whether Perot is included.

It is not clear how the commission's decision will affect the public perception of Perot. Some observers believe it will make him look like a man who is not ready to debate, while others believe it will make him look like a man who is not afraid to take on the hard questions.

"What we're finding is a majority of children are in the wrong restraint for their age, height and weight -- and the majority of restraints are being used improperly," said Elaine Weinmann, safety board chairman.

In 1993, the safety board reported a single death of a child involving a passenger-side airbag. "Many more are out there," Weinmann said.

In 1993, there were 50 million models on the market in a variety of makes and models, Weinmann said.

"At particular risk are riders between 8 and 11 years of age, who are thrust forward in a crash and then suddenly struck by the inflating airbag," Weinmann said.

"Right now we've got 12 million families driving with children who are not properly restrained," Weinmann said.

"Weinstein said the agency is looking into child car safety, including looking for ways to improve airbag technology.

Iowa running back Brandon BIack has done so much, so well.

"I look for a real tough ball carrier," said Fry.

"Three years ago, Iowa accepted a 6-foot, 157-pound Black last January," Fry said.

"But with Black and Gibson both in the lineup, the Hawkeyes will certainly have more firepower than expected. With Black still starting in the backfield, Shaw has ranked in the top 100 yards - per - carry against teams like Purdue, with Black in both the first and second games, and Black has been for Iowa. "I'm going to use them when I want to," Fry said. "I'm not going to use them when it's not a good play." Black has been for Iowa.

"Our defense is not as effective as it was a year ago, but we still have a lot of work to do," said Hargrove.

"We're making progress, but we're not there yet," he said.

"It's important to him than other things," Joyner-Kersee said.

"I'm doing the right thing, if you can run up and down the court as I do for the coach," Fry said.

"We've got to have good players to use in every stop on the court," Fry said.

"The thing that makes it so special for me is that we're all giving it our best effort. We get out of bed every day knowing that we're doing something that's important to us," Joyner-Kersee said.

"It can be a misdemeanor, and I'm sure the district attorney and other people are doing what they're supposed to do. We've been extremely lenient with girls, downtown, whatever, but boy, it's getting a long time," Fry said.

"Each case is different," Fry said.

"I'm doing the right thing," Fry said. "We've got to have good players to use in every stop on the court."

Bettis returns to top form in Pittsburgh

Bill Cowher, Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — Jerome Bettis of the Pittsburgh Steelers knows he’s going to have a good game when his first carry feels like the one he’s counting on.

The way he’s running now — Barry Foster in 1992 or Franco Harris in 1972, every carry is starting from atop the line, and he’s not about to change for any reason.

Bettis had a club-record 143 yards in the Steelers’ 24-6 dismantling of the Buffalo Bills on Monday night but he had 121 in the first half.

He didn’t last season when he often was a stretch of attempts without finding the goal line.

“Barry Foster had a club-record 143 yards in the Steelers’ 24-6 dismantling of the Buffalo Bills on Monday night but he had 121 in the first half,” Bettis said.

Bettis scored two touchdowns.

Manning steers clear of Heisman talk

Tom Shap Associated Press

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Peyton Manning doesn’t want to hear about Heisman and Awards.

Regardless of how others see it, he says he’s focused on his team’s upcoming game.

“I didn’t want to do all that stuff before the season’s over,” Manning said. “I’m not even going to talk about it.”

Manning didn’t want to talk about the Heisman this week when he was asked at the news conference if it was on his mind with six weeks to go.

The moment has been building.

Each time in 54 and last week ended with during the SEC game.

Manning says he’ll consider it but he’s nowhere close to the second quarter.

After a touchdown pass.

“Play college football and go on the road and especially with people talk. Manning said. “It’s kind of right to have Pumpkins on the field.”

He already holds the school records for the most passes completed in a game (56), the most completions in a game with three over par, but he shot really well at 278 yards and a 14-stroke drop-off.

Manning steers clear of the quarterback showdown between Tennessee and Florida.

“Tennessee quarterback on the team’s upcoming game against Florida”

“Not a duel between him and Gators quarterback Danny Wuerffel for games like this. We’re playing for that. We’re playing for the right to say we won a great quarterbacking contest and he’s having a great junior year.”

Ryan Florida quarterback Peyton Manning throw during warm-ups before playing UCLA on Sept. 7, 1996, in Knoxville, Tenn.

Manning said, “We have a really good relationship. We talked on the phone a couple of times last year and at the SEC meetings, day after day, it’s a question of the week and we’re a very productive quarterback. We’re out there and there will be a lot of people watching.”

Manning says that he’s getting ready to go.

“All I can say is I’m playing my best football.”

IOWA MEN’S GOLF

Hayeskeys struggle but hang on for victory

The Daily Iowan - Iowa City, Iowa - Wednesday, October 30, 1996 - Page 58

Iowa's men's golf team took a 15-stroke lead against UNLV and UCLA, holed up in the 15th place and first place in the White Course and Grades in the college golf world.

Manning says the team will be ready for games like this.

“Danny’s performance was fantastic. I let the & More! service , but we’ve got time to work on that. We’re playing for the right to say we won a great quarterbacking contest and he’s having a great junior year.”

The win marks the second tournament victory in as many attempts for the Iowa Hawkeyes.

Possibly oldest American feature film found

LOS ANGELES — A 1923 motion picture or Shakespeare's "Twist," released in May 1923, was discovered in Los Angeles, and will then be shown to the American Institute of the Moving Image, according to Walter Reade, its director.

"It is considered one of the most important films in the history of the film industry," said Reade, who is also president of the institute.

"We are very pleased to have acquired it," he said. "It is in excellent shape and will be shown to the public soon."

Superman and Lois Lane are finally getting married, in print and in real life, after a courtship of about 60 years. No, that's not a Hollywood love story—just a good old-fashioned romance.

Superman and Lois have been together in one form or another since 1938, when they first appeared in Superman #1. But it wasn't until 1993 that their relationship was formalized when Lois dumped Lex Luthor for Superman.

The couple has dated since 1941, when Superman proposed to Lois Lane during a trip to Metropolis. The proposal was accepted, and the couple has been together ever since. In 1985, they were married in Superman #400, with Lois's father, Jor-El, performing the ceremony.

The couple has two children, Superman and Wonder Woman, both of whom they adopted. Superman and Lois have also been featured in many Superman comics and movies, where their romance has been a central part of the storyline.

In addition to their personal relationship, Superman and Lois have also been featured in many comic book stories that explore their lives and adventures. These stories have included their work as reporters for Daily Planet, their travels around the world, and their adventures battling supervillains and other threats.

In 2018, Superman and Lois were featured in the DC Comics crossover event, "DC Rebirth," where they were reunited after a long separation. The couple has also appeared in many other DC Comics and Warner Bros. Entertainment properties, including movies, TV shows, and video games.
