Between her business accomplishments and the household chores she handles each day, Iowa State University student Natasha Courter has no time to doubt her abilities. Courter was crowned Miss Iowa last month, allowing Beach Boy Wilson of New Hampshire's high court to dismiss a lawsuit of a tell-all book by a former pageant queen who sought to sue Wilson to be sued for libel.

Courter was made Miss Iowa by her debutancy in Des Moines on June 8, taking the title over 120 former Miss Iowas. Courter, 23, is the daughter of a police officer and a nurse, and is the oldest of four children. She said, "I'm not your stereotypical beauty queen, tall, pale and redheaded. It's not about your height or your weight, it's about being a hard worker and who can make it out there in your community, in your state and, for Miss Iowa, country."

In civil cases, the goal of the court is to determine the legitimacy of the complaint and the defense's réponse.

1. Gather as much information about the water Crisis as you possibly can. This includes the history of the area, the water quality, and any previous incidents of pollution.

2. Frame your arguments in a way that highlights the defendant's negligence. Use evidence and testimony to demonstrate how the defendant's actions led to the contamination of the water source.

3. Cross-examine the plaintiff's witnesses carefully. Pay close attention to their answers and ask follow-up questions to show any inconsistencies in their testimony.

4. Present your case in a clear and organized manner. Use charts, graphs, and other visual aids to help illustrate your points.

US students interested in pursuing an international career will have the opportunity to gather information and meet US alumni speakers at the 12th annual International Job Fair.

Lori Gray, international programs at the UI Office of International Education and Services (OIES), said all majors are encouraged to come to the fair.

"All students, no matter their major, are welcome to come to the fair, because the purpose of the fair is to give everyone ideas of what it takes to work in a global position," Gray said.

The fair will offer a variety of events throughout the day where students can learn more about international careers. Included in the events planned are exhibits, career workshops, expert speakers in a variety of international fields and panels, keynote address by David Hamod, UI alumni and successful international businessman Hamod said he is pleased to be coming back to UI to meet with students and speaking to the UI students as someone who was here and now is out there. I hope I can impart some of the knowledge I have gained to the UI students."

I am pleased to be coming back to my hometown and speaking to the UI students as someone who was here and now I am out there. I hope I can impart some of the knowledge I have gained to the UI students."

Hamod said he will present the big picture of international careers, rather than focusing on specific fields or majors, in his "International Careers: Getting from Here to There." From what you best, and what ever field that involves, there will be an international component to it.

Sundee Arum, director of the OIES and the International Jobs Fair was organized to inform the growing number of UI students about the variety of global career opportunities.

Arum said the fair is organized for American and foreign students and faculty from colleges and universities across the nation, thanks to national growth by the year before.

"The purpose of the International Jobs Fair is to give information of what opportunities are available in the international dimension," Arum said.

Arum said the fair is ideal for all UI students. He said upperclassmen can use the fair to develop their skills for jobs that will be available in the immediate future.

For underclassmen, the fair is an opportunity to learn what international fields are available and to plan what one's major will be.

"The fair is an opportunity to hear what major one intends to go toward as international careers," Arum said.

Tuesday's Arum said the OIES is looking down the road and is planning internships for majors, in his "International Careers: Getting from Here to There." From what you best, and whatever field that involves, there will be an international component to it.

Kim, a South Korean diplomat in Washington, D.C., was charged with leak- ing classified information. Kim's arrest comes after an internal FBI investigation that found the diplomat had been passing classified documents to another government official for more than a year, according to a new affidavit.

The affidavit, written by a highly experienced FBI agent, accuses Kim of passing sensitive information to an unnamed recipient. The recipient, who is also a South Korean government official, has not been publicly identified.

The documents that Kim is alleged to have shared include classified information from the Department of Defense and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). The FBI believes that Kim passed the documents to the recipient in exchange for money.

Kim, who has been a diplomat in the United States for several years, is accused of passing 10 top-secret documents to the recipient. These documents include information about military technology, intelligence gathering, and national security.

Kim is scheduled to appear in federal court on Friday, September 27, for his initial appearance. The FBI has not released any further details about the investigation or the recipient.

The FBI has been investigating Kim since last year, and the charges were filed in federal court on Wednesday. The charges carry a potential penalty of up to 10 years in prison and a fine of up to $10,000.

Kim, who is a 35-year-old South Korean national, is currently living in the United States. He was arrested on Tuesday, September 24, after the FBI conducted a search of his home in Washington, D.C.

The documents that Kim is alleged to have shared include classified information from the Department of Defense and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). The FBI believes that Kim passed the documents to the recipient in exchange for money.

Kim, who has been a diplomat in the United States for several years, is accused of passing 10 top-secret documents to the recipient. These documents include information about military technology, intelligence gathering, and national security.

Kim is scheduled to appear in federal court on Friday, September 27, for his initial appearance. The FBI has not released any further details about the investigation or the recipient. The charges were filed in federal court on Wednesday.

The arrest comes after an internal FBI investigation that found the diplomat had been passing classified documents to another government official for more than a year, according to a new affidavit. The affidavit, written by a highly experienced FBI agent, accuses Kim of passing sensitive information to an unnamed recipient. The recipient, who is also a South Korean government official, has not been publicly identified.

Yeltsin faces coronary bypass

"If there's a feeling that the presidential staff is ruling instead of him, the question might be raised," in parliament, said Communist Congressman Sergei Ushenin.

"There is no reason why Yeltsin cannot function in his capacity as president."

Yankees storm to title

Brewers fall victim to Yankee hit parade

Tomm Wrather
Associated Press

NEW YORK — The AL East was finally won, yet the celebration was still so bold. The New York Yankees had another game to play.

The Yanks clinched their first AL East title since 1981 with its highest scoring game in 13 years. A 2 runs of the Milwaukee Brewers in the first inning of a doubleheader on Wednesday. The Yankees also won the second game 2-0.

Iowa volleyball coach Linda Schonborn didn't search for any excuses in evaluating her team's performance in Monday's sweep of Illinois. Instead, Schonborn got right to the point in describing her team's 15-10, 15-6, 15-4 win over the Fighting Illini.

"They showed up to play and we didn't," Schonborn said of the Illini.

Hawkeyes hope seven is enough

Chris Janes

The Daily Iowan

The dual came as seven for the Hawkeyes' starting lineup this season. The players included the usual seven starters, but also included the seventh-year junior, Jamie Stanko.

"Feel good about having seven players this year," Janes said. "It's good to have seven. Plus, I think there are advantages to having seven. The seven are going to be very good this year and I hope that they will probably carry us through the rest of the season as long as we stay healthy.

Mariners end skid, keep playoff hopes alive

Associated Press

Seattle and Texas - The Seattle Mariners ended a 10-game losing streak by stopping a three- against the Texas Rangers, their first win in 14 days.

The Mariners began the day 13 1/2 games behind the California Angels, who played at Baltimore on Wednesday night. The Rangers defeated Minnesota 4-3 and were helped by the Yankees, as the Florida Marlins strained a groin.

Brian McRae opened the game 1-0 with a leadoff homer. He had been sidelined with a groin strain since Aug. 25 and allowed two runs on Thursday. The Montreal Expos returned to the wild-card leader, which played at the New York Yankees on Wednesday, 1-0 with a 1-0 win.

Despite losses, Buckeye offense continues to dominate

Irish hold big game advantage

The start of the season has often been marked by questions about Ohio State's offense. Now, a similar query surfaces.

"I'd say they've been practicing since the first day," said Ohio State coach John Cooper, "so I don't know if we've got a question there."

With No. 4 Notre Dame visiting Columbus, Ohio State fans wonder if their offense is prepared for a showdown with the Irish. The Buckeyes have struggled to score consistently in recent games.

"We're probably more balanced this year," Cooper said. "We're not as one-dimensional as we were last year."

The question now: How many points can Ohio State score against Notre Dame? Some experts predict 30 points or more, while others think it will be closer to 20.

In his ninth season at Ohio State, Cooper is optimistic about his team's chances against Notre Dame.

"I'm anxious to find out how they'll respond," he said. "I'm really looking forward to this game."

Now showing at a theater near you...

"Alaska" (PG) — Arranged by an unethical polar bear hunt. In the story, Jamie and her brother Sean track a bear to the bush and capture it in the mountains. Opies Park, Cinema II, and Sycamore Mall.

"A Time to Kill" (R) — Do not expect adult viewers to enjoy this. This film is about a young man who takes the law into his own hands after his daughter is brutally raped. However, understand all the hype, as the film draws about a poor factory worker (Laren T. Jackson) who will take the law into his own hands. At CoralIFF Theatres, Coralville.

"Big Head" — A trailer for the latest installment of "The Teddy Bear Movie" — a movie about a cute and original who is chased across the country by bad guys. The only original aspect of the film is the title. At CoralIFF Theatres, Coralville.

"Bullseyeproof" (R) — Damon Wayans and Adam Sandler star in the latest installment of "The Teddy Bear Movie" — a movie about a cute and original who is chased across the country by bad guys. The only original aspect of the film is the title. At CoralIFF Theatres, Coralville.

"Extreme Measures" (R) — Hugh Grant gets "Nine Months" onto the screen with "Extreme Measures." It is about a blind band of vigilantes who catch up in the excitement. At CoralIFF Theatres.

"Fly Away Home" (PG) — To the stunts in Harvey. If you're going to make a corny, yet heartwarming family movie centering around environmental conservation and conservationism, this one sure matches the genre. At Corn Valley.

"Independence Day" (R) — Following the really disastrous destruction of major cities across the globe by alien spaceships, the president (Bill Pullman) and a computer wizard (Jeff Goldblum) band together to save humankind. Although the film narrative is complete and balanced sentimentally, the creative special effects allow viewers to get caught up in the excitement. At Englert Theatre.

"Lost Man Standing" (R) — Will Smith plays a mysterious driver/rancher who assassinates a photographer on both sides of the border. Will it be exciting? No. But it's worth a look. At Cascade.

"The Coup" (R) or "An washed-up golfer you the Hobie, Robert Culp adds to his string of portraying crooks (and, in this case, convoluted) characters. In one scene he's goofy and dumpy, in another he's the same dumpy, but Culp can't find the bridge that connects them. At different side.

Guitar show, sale to be held Sunday

Niva Nowel
The Daily Iowan

Local guitarist Victor Oren is planning to hold a guitar show and sale in a hotel in Iowa City. The event will be held in the Holiday Inn Restaurant and Convention Center.

Oren, a student at the University of Iowa, is a musician who specializes in classical guitar. He has been playing the instrument for several years and has performed at various events around the state.

He is planning to sell a variety of guitars, including some he has made himself. The guitars will be priced reasonably, and Oren will be available to answer any questions about them.

The event is scheduled for Sunday, October 26, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. It is open to the public and free of charge.

The Holiday Inn Restaurant and Convention Center is located at 700 University Ave. in Iowa City. For more information, contact Victor Oren at (319) 335-5900.
Museum exhibits headrests

Kirsten Mullee

The Daily Iowan

“People often just don’t sleep — at least not at the UI Museum of Art,” said "Sleeping Beauties" curator Anne Keeton Browne, museum curator of the arts of Africa, Oceania and the Americas.

"It is in the first time anyone has pulled together a collection of headrests," Browne said, "and so interesting in that all the pieces were made to serve the same solution for a functional problem. What to put your head at night.

"The headrests, which date from a variety of cultures, serve as a means of studying the evolution of art that was made.

"Everyone around the world dreams, and it is interesting to see how people in other parts of the world sleep and what they use for how people in other parts of the world sleep and what they use for..." Browne said.

"In all the different parts of the world, the headrests are made, then religious and spiritual images," she said. "In some cases, they are viewed as a way to stay in contact with anterior spirits.

"Sleeping Beauties," an exhibition of more than 150 headrests from Africa, Asia and Oceania, is currently on display at the UI Museum of Art. The exhibit will be on view at least until late 1994 when the museum will have a new exhibition of more than 150 pieces from around the world.

"You may wonder if the headrests are comfortable or not," Dewey said. "I've tried it — it's hard, but it is fun. I don't know what you'd use it for."

"One reason for the wooden sculptures in the hall is probably fitting the times of the 15th century," Dewey said. "They are also a means of showing that people can be more expressive and not just animals as in earlier times.

"Several stone headrests from Asia also show some Chinese influence, as well as a few that have been made to protect belongings of ancestors.

"Although the features of the headrests are universal, in many cases, they are very unique."
