Elders speaks out on health

By Jeff Claryn

An enthusiastic audience listened to and commented on some of the Republic's Elders' Tuesday.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m. and continuing for approximately an hour and a half, Elders shared their important insights into the health of students and themselves. "Liking a hair as a hold main," Elders commented, "it only goes in one direction." Elders also briefly discussed her common redness in the skin and how it has improved. She also mentioned that she is starting to use a new soap and how it has helped with her appearance.

City Council ponders repeat ticketing in parking lot

The City Council passed the first reading of the ordinance Tuesday.

By James Bank

Residents parked illegally along busy Iowa City streets in hopes of new ordinances passed by the Iowa City Council. The ordinance allows for multiple tickets to be issued to a vehicle once in 48 hours. Under the ordinance, new parking spaces and limited parking permission are now available.

PROMOTING DISCUSSION:

A new course in Mediterranean studies

Course description:

The Mediterranean region is a hub of cultural and religious diversity, with a rich history spanning thousands of years. This course will explore the region's diverse cultures, religions, and societies, from ancient Greece and Rome to modern-day Israel and Egypt. Students will study the region's languages, literatures, and histories, and learn about its role in shaping the modern world. The course will be taught by a team of experts in the field, and will be offered in conjunction with the department of classics.

Promoting discussion:

This course aims to promote discussion and debate on the role of the Mediterranean region in world history and politics, and its impact on modern-day societies. The course will encourage students to think critically about the region's role in shaping the modern world, and to engage with current events and debates on the region.

Registration:

To register for this course, please visit the registrar's office or call 335-0756. Registration is open to all students who have completed the prerequisite course in Western civilization.

Sponsorship:

This course is sponsored by the department of classics, and is funded by a grant from the university's Office of Teaching and Learning.

Contact:

For more information, please contact the professor in charge of the course at 335-1234.
Justice Lewis Powell died at 90

Lewis F. Powell Jr., a Supreme Court justice for 26 years who cultivated a reputation for impartiality and served as an embodiment of the court's conservative wing, died late Wednesday. He was 90.

Born in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Powell was nominated to the court in 1972 by President Richard Nixon. Powell was known for his conservative views and was a key player in many of the court's most significant cases.

On the court, Powell was known for his intellectual prowess and his ability to analyze complex legal issues. He was also known for his integrity and his commitment to the rule of law.

Powell was a member of the so-called "conservative bloc" on the court, which included justices such as Antonin Scalia and Clarence Thomas. Powell's jurisprudence was driven by a strict interpretation of the Constitution, and he was often at odds with the court's more liberal members.

I love surprises. but not when it comes to my bills.

"So I got one of these. The AirTouch Prepaid Cellular Card. No monthly bills, no credit approvals, no contracts. Just pay up front and go. Thirty bucks gives me up to 50 minutes of local calling time. It also tells me how many minutes I have left before each call. And with AirTouch, I get really great coverage. It’ll even work for the cell phone I already have. Or a new one...like for my birthday. That would be a nice surprise."

U.S. cites Iraqi tie to Sudan factory

WASHINGTON — Drawing fire from a link to a Soviet-built U.S. nuclear reactor in Sudan, the Clinton administration said Tuesday it had evidence linking the plant to a weapons program.

The State Department said that in the past three months, missile technical experts have found several instances of military equipment at the site of the reactor, including a radar system that could be used to test missiles. The experts also found sophisticated electronic equipment and a radio frequency emitter, which could be used to test electronic systems.

The State Department has not yet been able to locate and interview the technical experts involved in the investigation, nor has it been able to verify the accuracy of their findings, the department said.

The reactor was built by the Soviet Union in the 1980s and was used to produce plutonium for nuclear weapons. It was dismantled in 1998 and has been under international control since then.

The State Department said it was unable to find any evidence of a uranium enrichment facility at the site, nor did it find any evidence of a uranium enrichment program at the site.

Delays mount on phone lines

Customer frustration rises at the U.S. West strike continues.

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — U.S. West Region workers hope their strike will continue Monday, as they struck for the third day, after talks failed late Friday.

The strike involves about 18,000 workers in the region, which includes Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming. The company has offered to return to the table if the workers give up their demands.

On Friday, U.S. West and its union reached an agreement to return to talks, but the workers rejected the proposal.

The company has said it will continue to operate the phone system with the help of temporary workers.

In a statement, U.S. West said it was "disappointed" that the workers had rejected the proposal.

"We are committed to working with the workers to ensure a safe and reliable phone service for our customers," the company said.

The strike continues as the company tries to keep the phone system running despite the shortage of workers.

The strike has caused widespread disruptions, with many customers reporting service outages and delays.

U.S. West has said it is working to minimize the impact on customers and is taking steps to bring in additional workers.

The company said it is also working to improve its communication with customers, including through social media and customer service centers.

The strike is expected to continue for at least another week, with both sides hoping to reach a resolution.

The union has accused the company of not giving in to their demands, while the company has said it is willing to make concessions.

I. U.S. incites seven in plot to kill Castro

II. The Justice Department says the men conspired for four years and participated in an assassination scheme.

By Michael J. Saffir

WASHINGtON — Seven Cuban nationals were indicted Tuesday on a federal grand jury charge of conspiracy to assassinate Cuban President Fidel Castro.

The men were arrested in San Juan, Puerto Rico, and announced by the Justice Department here, charged the defendants plotted for nearly four years to murder Castro, in part by hiring hit men operating in the U.S. and Cuba.

If convicted, they face up to life in prison, the Department of Justice said.

At least one of the defendants, aentine Linera, is a member of the Cuban American National Foundation, but the foundation's president, Francisco "Payo" Rosado, refused comment.

Lawyers for both men had remained in Miami to fight extradition.

In addition to Linera, who is a member of the lobbying executive committee, others indicted were: Jose Robles, 43, of Miami; Antonio Alfonso Hernandez, 44, of Bronx, New York; Francisco Rafael Benitez, 29, of Puerto Rico; and Jorge Manuel Gonzalez, 41, of Tampa, Florida.

The indictment charges the men conspired to conduct a "hitman"-caliber assassination plan that was to be "executed at midnight".

The hitmen were to rendezvous at a "target location" where they were to be armed with guns and a "hitman" car.

The student will decide, I guess.

In some cases, the student might not even need to visit the IFC lab nor consult the person who refers him to the IFC for advice. In the meantime, the student can use the help desk within the course or the computer science center.

But Luschenberg and the open guidance counselor are very concerned about these options. They are concerned that the student is not receiving the benefit of the doubt.

It is targeted against one aspect of the Iowa City population: students. Multiple ticketing along the residential streets could cause a negative reaction from the student population and the city.

"As a student getting more involved in the ticketing," Chapman said, "I would hope for an "all or nothing" situation that would be fairer to local residents and the city.

On most of the streets that the ordinance would affect, cars would need to park one-hour off the side of the street each day. Chapman noted that the idea is not to make the student's life impossible and make it unworkable and impossible to park.

"I don't think anyone except the students would ever have to move their cars more than twice a day," Chapman said. "Students are already learning how to use the streets for parking, therefore the ordinance would not affect their habits.

However, Councilor Dea Vanderbeek said that change would make it tough for some to be removed from the streets.

"It would be a great place for students to go if they have any kind of personal checks, VISA, MasterCard or American Express.

Without contradictory testimony from former Latin American observers or the United Nations, the president agreed to sign the treaty in the absence of any opposition.

For more details on this story, see the Daily Iowan and the online edition.

The president’s speech did little to please his critics, nation

President Clinton’s half-hearted men culpa last week was a major disappointment. The president turned what should have been a major event into a major disappointment through his performance and his words.

The president delivered a speech that was filled with empty promises and weak solutions. His words were hollow and his actions were nothing but a cop-out. The American people deserve better and they deserve a president who is willing to stand up and take responsibility for the problems that we face.

This is not the first time that the president has failed to deliver on his promises. He has let us down time and time again, and his record is not one that we should be proud of. The American people want leadership, not a president who is willing to blame everyone but himself for the problems that we face.

We need a president who is willing to stand up and take responsibility for his actions. We need a president who is willing to put the needs of the American people above his own political interests. We need a president who is willing to work with Congress to find solutions to the problems that we face.

I urge all Americans to demand better from our president. We need a president who is willing to lead, not a president who is willing to cop-out. The American people deserve better and they deserve a president who is willing to stand up and take responsibility for the problems that we face.

What advice would you give to a new student?

Don't try too hard to be someone you aren't. College is about discovering who you are and what you want to be. Don't be afraid to make mistakes, because they are an integral part of the learning process.

Read widely and take advantage of all the resources available to you. There are libraries, study groups, and professors who are there to help you. Don't be afraid to ask for help when you need it.

Take care of yourself. College can be a demanding time, but it is important to take care of your physical and mental health. Get enough sleep, eat well, and exercise regularly.

Finally, have fun. College is a time to explore and discover new things. Don't be afraid to try new things and meet new people. Enjoy the experience!
Woman dies in blast

A man claims responsibility on behalf of a group, saying it was revenge for U.S. attacks in Sudan and Afghanistan.

By Paul Harris
Associated Press

Cape Town, South Africa — A bomb exploded inside a crowded Planet Hollywood restaurant Tuesday, killing one person and injuring 30. A man claiming responsibility for the attack said it was revenge for United States military action in Sudan and Afghanistan.

The blast occurred about 8 p.m. near the top of Table Mountain, where the restaurant is located. The blast occurred while the restaurant was hosting the country's tourism ministers and officials.

The man who claimed responsibility was not identified, but the attack was the latest in a series of attacks in South Africa. In August, a man claimed responsibility for the attack on the U.S. embassy in Pretoria, killing seven people.

An injured person is assisted outside Cape Town's Planet Hollywood restaurant.

In her diary, a woman describes her experience. "I saw people without arms and legs, the most horrible thing I've ever seen." She said she was injured in the blast.

DAVIDY Tries to Avoid More Pain

IF Wisconsin running back Ron Dayne can avoid the injuries he had last season, Big Ten defenses could be finding this season.

By James Krach

The Big Ten football season begins this weekend, and while Wisconsin's running back Ron Dayne had a season to forget last year, he is looking forward to the opportunities that this year may bring.

Dayne, who missed three games last season due to injuries, is ready to step up and lead the Badgers once again.

"I'm ready to go out there and play," Dayne said. "I know I have a lot to prove, and I'm ready to show the world what I can do.

Dayne's Alvarezy

Barry Alvarez, Michigan's head coach, is a masterful football mind, and his team is expected to be a contender this season.

"I'm Excited to see the growth of our team this year," Alvarez said. "We have a lot of young talent that can make a big impact."

Big Brother is Watching

"When Jared DeVries decided to sign up a chance to play in the NFL, to return to school to be with his brother, he said, "I just hit on him in little bit and helped him and quieted him."

Jared DeVries is a student athlete who will leave Iowa this year. He will not be a student in the Big Ten, but he will be back to help.

DeVries said his brother will be a little bit bigger than he was at 210 pounds. "We were out of town last year when we lost him in that sad school," he said. "It's a similar game plan, but with a different storyline." The two are now back together and playing the same game from the sidelines.

College girlfriend files civil suit against Peeler

Peeler pleaded guilty to the crime ten years ago, but his lawyer says he was just tricked into getting it over with before the 1992 trial.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A former college girlfriend of superstar Mark McGwire, the St. Louis Cardinals' home run king, has filed a civil suit accusing him of domestic assault.

Michelle Griffiths, who was awarded $9.9 million on a civil suit against McGwire for the 1992 attack, filed the suit on Friday in St. Louis County Circuit Court.

The suit, filed by Griffiths' attorney, says that McGwire punched her in the head and dragged her by the hair during an argument in 1992. She was talking to Griffiths on the phone when McGwire arrived at her apartment and started arguing, the suit says.

McGwire was convicted of third-degree domestic assault in 1992 and sentenced to three years of probation.

The suit seeks unspecified damages and requests a jury trial.

Peeler, 41, was convicted of fourth-degree assault in 1992 and sentenced to three years of probation. He was one of several women accused of attacking Griffiths, who was 21 at the time.

The suit says Griffiths was around 25 years old when she was attacked in 1992.

The suit also seeks unspecified damages and requests a jury trial.

Peeler's lawyer, Mike Marshall, said he could not comment on the suit.

Griffiths' lawyer, Doug Denner, said his client was upset that Peeler was allowed to play baseball without facing any consequences for his actions.

Denner said Griffiths had been trying to get her case resolved through mediation, but Peeler refused to participate.

Duval, Furyk win, Arnie gets the applause

The NFL's Icon Duval, who is widely considered the all-time best player in the history of the U.S. Amateur, shot a 65 Tuesday to take match-play qualifying in the rain-interrupted tournament.

After a three-hour delay caused by lightening and heavy rain, both qualifying matches ended in a 7-7 tie. The two teams, which included 312 players still in the field of 112, will resume play Wednesday.

When art goes, what follows?

By Alan Murdock

A week ago in New York City, a small but dedicated and well-disguised mob of 40-odd people openly and joyfully invaded a crowded dance floor.

These were not the usual type of students that one usually finds at the Land O' Lakes. There were no loud gymnasiums, no band playing, nocqoagues, no intercollegiate sports being played.

There was only a small group of college-aged students who were having a good time dancing and enjoying themselves.

The music was the antithesis of popular music. It was a style that was not easily categorized, but it was popular with a select group of people.

The group consisted of people from different backgrounds, but they all shared a common interest in the music being played.

They were not interested in popular music, but in a style that was more experimental and challenging.

The dance floor was filled with people of all ages, from college students to older adults.

The atmosphere was electric, and the energy was palpable.

The music played was a mix of jazz, blues, and rock and roll, but it was all played in a way that was unique and different.

So, what is this music that is driving these people crazy? Is it the antithesis of popular music, or is there something more to it?

We decided to find out.

We asked the group to give us a brief overview of what they were doing and why they were doing it.

Here's what they had to say.

"We're not interested in popular music, but in a style that is more experimental and challenging. It's about getting away from the norm and doing something different.

We've been listening to this music for a while now, and we've found that it's something that we really enjoy. It's not something that we can easily categorize, but it's something that we feel is important.

We're not the only ones who feel this way. There are a lot of people out there who feel the same way. We've been trying to get the word out about this music, and we're hoping that more people will start to listen to it.

We're not sure what the future holds for this music, but we're definitely going to continue to listen to it and support it. We think it's something that is really worth supporting."

We hope that this brief overview of what is happening in New York City will help others to understand what is going on and why.

We'll be back with more updates soon.

OSU, Michigan the early favorites

Ohio State is ranked No. 1 in the Big Ten, and there is an overwhelming belief in the Big Ten office that the Buckeyes will be the best team in the Big Ten this year. Howie Rose, the Big Ten's television analyst and former Buckeye quarterback, calls OSU "the overwhelming favorite to win the conference."

If you ask Michigan fans, they'd probably select them as the Big Ten champions. "We're the team to beat," said coach Bo Schembechler. "We have the team to beat." And JohnFaber, the Ohio State athletic director, says, "We have the team to beat."

There are no breakthroughs in the Big Ten this season, according to Rose. "We have the same old story this year," he says. "We have the same old teams."

But the Big Ten office is confident that the Buckeyes will be the best team in the conference. "We have the best team in the conference," says Rose. "We have the team to beat." And John Faber, the Ohio State athletic director, says, "We have the team to beat."

"It's a case of déjà vu all over again," says Rose. "We have the same old teams."
