Impeachment inquiry looms, officials say

Several Democrats and one leading Republican say there is a possibility of punishment short of impeachment.

By David Esposito
 Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The House of Representatives is increasingly likely to vote for a formal impeachment inquiry in the next few weeks, congressional officials said Sunday, a step that could ratchet up the political jeopardy confronting President Clinton. Judiciary Chairman Henry Hyde said he personally believes hearings are warranted.

"I must say I do, but I want to hear from everyone on the committee," said Hyde, the Illinois Republican whose committee is in charge of the case.

Officials in both parties, speaking on condition of anonymity, said lawmakers and key advisers have been examining the report of Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr over the weekend and concluded Sunday that it appeared likely the House would vote on an impeachment inquiry before the election.

Key Republicans, speaking on condition of anonymity, said that if the House votes a formal impeachment inquiry, it would not necessarily limit the scope to Starr's review of Clinton's sexual relationship with Monica Lewinsky and his attempts to deny it under oath.

Instead, these officials said, the House Judiciary Committee might be empowered to range over numerous other issues, from Whitewater to Clinton's involvement in questionable

Local reaction to report ranges from 'so what' to 'yuck'

The details of the Starr report have some local residents turning their heads away in disgust.

By Steven Cook
 The Daily Iowan

As the House of Representatives appeared likely Sunday to open an impeachment inquiry against President Clinton, Coralville resident Ivan Stuck said he was not impressed with the case brought by Kenneth Starr.

"He never had a case," Stuck said while sitting outside the Java House, 211 E. Washington St. "The real scandal is the $40 million he's spent, and he doesn't have anything to show for it."

Starr's report — sent to Congress last week, with portions released to the public — cites 11 potentially impeachable offenses, all stemming from Clinton's sexual relationship with former White House intern Monica Lewinsky — described in explicit detail — and the president's later denials under oath.

Stuck discounted the report, saying it went too far.

"He's trying to humiliate the president as much as possible," Stuck said of Starr.

The report was released on Sept. 11 on the Internet; millions of people logged on to read it.

One of those people was UI senior Drew Dennison. He said he didn't read the entire report, just the segments detailing the encounters between the president and Lewinsky.

Dennison said he couldn't believe that he was reading about Clinton.

"It really makes you think highly about the president," he said sarcastically.

Sosa homers twice to catch up with McGwire's record

By Rick Gano
 Associated Press

CHICAGO — Goodbye Babe, so long Roger. Slammin' Sammy hit two more homers to tie Mark McGwire — and now they're in the greatest home-run derby of all time. Sammy Sosa hit Nos. 61 and 62 against the Milwaukee Brewers Sunday to match the record McGwire had set five days earlier.

With two powerful swings on a wild and spectacular afternoon at Wrigley Field, Sosa passed Babe Ruth and Roger Maris.

Sosa and McGwire now have two weeks left in their race for the most-treasured record in baseball in one of the sport's most unforgettable seasons.

Cubs fans decide to keep both home run balls, Page 1B
 McGwire leaves game with back spasms, Page 6B

"It's unbelievable. It was something that even I can't believe I was doing," Sosa said following the Cubs' 11-10, 10-inning victory. "It can happen to two people, Mark and I."

Sosa, who trailed McGwire 24-9 in late May, homered off Bronswell Patrick in the fifth inning, sending an 0-1 pitch 500 feet into the street behind the left-field fence at Wrigley Field. He hit another 480-foot homer in the ninth, a solo shot off Eric Plunk.

That one dropped Ruth into fourth place on the single-season list with 60, which he hit in 1927.

Maris hit 61 homers in 1961 for a record that McGwire broke Sept. 8 against the Cubs in St. Louis.

Now, amazingly, a mark that had stood for 37 years has been passed twice in less than a week.

With tears and sweat running down his face as he sat in the dugout after his second triumphant tour around the bases, Sosa came out for three emotional curtain calls. Fans littered the field with paper cups and other debris while chanting "Sam-mee! Sam-mee!" — causing a delay that lasted six minutes.

"I don't usually cry, but I cry inside. I was blowing kisses to my mother. I was crying a little bit," Sosa said.

"I have to say what I did is for the Big Bad Voodoo Daddy didn't swing into Iowa City as planned Sunday night, but Everclear and HawkEye Music Festival organizers tried to make it up to the crowd.

Coordinators announced to a swearing and riled crowd at 9:50 p.m. that Big Bad Voodoo Daddy had missed its flight and would be unable to close the festival.

But the ticket stubs that disappointed fans left with may still come in handy — Midwest Entertainment Group plans to accept them as vouchers for a Big Bad Voodoo Daddy show that organizers expect to reschedule before the end of the school year, said Iowa City festival coordinator Erik Nordstrom. Ticket prices may differ.

The voucher system and Everclear's extra sets weren't enough for two University of Northern Iowa students who made a trip from Cedar Falls to see the show.

"I want my money back," said UNI junior Sarah Kertges, accompanied by her friend Clark Tripp, a sophomore.

The Johnson County Fairgrounds was homebase for the concert, which was promoted by KRNA and included Bambú, the Nadas, Fool's Journey, MU330, Confessing Sila and the Buzz. Some audience members were there to see the lesser-known acts and didn't

Help Me, Harlan

Dear Harlan:

I'm very confused about men, especially relationships. I've never had a relationship, and I'm 22 years old. Guys just used me over and over again. Nobody ever wants to be my "boyfriend" — they just get what they want (money and sex) and leave.

Personally, I think it has to do with my looks. I've had some guys even tell me so! I mean I'm average looking, but do looks really matter? Also, why do guys use women? There are so many women out there who will play their game with them — why choose someone who they know will get attached and hurt?

— Hurting again

Dear Hurting,

Guys use women because some women allow themselves to be used. Not all guys seek to hurt women. It's just that sometimes, a woman who thinks she's only "average looking" will do certain things that make her more vulnerable when seeking out a boyfriend.

The best way to avoid being used is to take things VERY slowly. The slower the go, the less likely you are to be used. If a guy is that hungry for sex and money, he'll be forced to go to an ATM and rent a dirty movie.

As for looks, they only matter until you get to know someone. There are a lot of beautiful people with ugly personalities. And an ugly personality in a pretty dress is still pretty ugly.

In 1992, University of Central student Teena Conquest shuttling for an engagement and about to begin a new job, she signed up to be a bone-marrow transplant donor — and started the process that would eventually save the life of a complete stranger.

At the same time, halfway across the country, Davenport native Becky Christy, now 46, was suffering from T-cell proliferation and needed a bone-marrow transplant to save her life.

Conquest, now 26, walked into a booth where people were signing up to become bone-marrow donors and decided to see if she was able to make a donation — one that would ultimately bond her to Christy.

On Sept. 11, a bone-marrow transplant recipient met her donor for the first time at the UI Hospitals and Clinics.

The Daily Iowan

In 1992, University of Connecticut student Teena Conquest was shopping for an engagement ring and about to begin a new job when she signed up to be a bone-marrow transplant donor — and started the process that would eventually save the life of a complete stranger.

At the same time, halfway across the country, Davenport native Becky Christy, now 46, was suffering from T-cell proliferation and needed a bone-marrow transplant to save her life.

Becky Christy (right) of Davenport, embraces her bone marrow donor, Teena Conquest of Monroe, Conn., as they meet for the first time at the first-ever bone marrow transplant reunion. The event was held at the UIHC on Friday, Sept. 11 and was sponsored by the Adult Bone Marrow Transplant Program and the Iowa Marrow Donor Program.

Before the meeting, Conquest and Christy said they were a little overwhelmed by the experience, but looking forward to it.

"I'm excited to meet her, but being in front of everyone has definitely made me nervous," Conquest said. "For a day of my life I was able to give someone a chance to fight for their life — that reward is immeasurable."

"I am extremely excited to meet Teena," Christy said. "We have written letters back and forth; it almost feels more like a reunion than an introduction."

When the two women met, the room erupted with the sound of noise makers, which were provided to everyone before the reunion.

Christy was matched with Conquest after unsuccessful attempts to match her with family members.

"We were a little disappointed when no match was found among my five brothers and sisters," Christy said. "But there was never any gloom or doom."

At the meeting, Conquest described the day she received the phone call for the transplant's final go-ahead and she had to inform her boss that she needed to miss the first day of work.

"There was complete silence on the other end of the phone and he said, 'I don't know what to say, I've never heard of anyone doing this before,'" Conquest said.

After a tearful embrace, the two women and their husbands left the reunion for a dinner and to learn more about each other.

"I've thought a lot about this moment, and aside from getting married, this is the happiest moment of my life," Conquest said.

Alleged counterfeiter nabbed

Coralville police and federal authorities are leading an investigation of Mark D. Prince of Iowa City in connection with an alleged counterfeiting operation.

Officers obtained a search warrant for Prince's home, 717 Woodside Drive, which went into effect on Sept. 11. Prince was arrested that afternoon by authorities.

He was charged with 25 counts of forgery and possession of marijuana and methamphetamines.

Police said investigators uncovered 25 sheets of $20 and $50 counterfeit bills at Prince's residence. A computer and copying equipment for production of the counterfeit money were also seized, according to the reports.

The U.S. Secret Service is part of the probe because counterfeiting is a federal crime, coming under the jurisdiction of the Department of Treasury.

One of the steam in the line had difficulties with water in it, officials said.

"We've been tracing the lines to see the problem," said Mike Krantz of the Mechanical Distribution Utility Services department of the facilities group.

"We usually use red." An ambulance, a fire truck, members of UI Public Safety and the Iowa City Police Department all responded to investigate the dye.

Leach speaks to local synagogue

First District Congressman Jim Leach, who as chairman of the House Banking Committee leads the Swiss-Nazi gold hearings, spoke to a local synagogue on Sept. 11.

He addressed the Agudas Achim congregation, 602 E. Washington St., for nearly 30 minutes and answered questions for about another 30 minutes about the hearings.

The hearings are part of the effort to give back possessions such as artwork and gold taken from Jews and moved to Switzerland during the Holocaust.

Leach said progress has been made and that efforts will continue at least until 2000.

Dye scare dies down

What looked to many like toxic sludge floating in the Iowa River near the Iowa Avenue bridge early on the afternoon of Sept. 11 was a harmless dye.

The green slime that made its way down the river was fluorescence, a non-toxic, neon-green dye. The UI Facilities Services Group was using the dye to track the source of a problem in a storm sewer line.

campaign fund-raising in 1996. Democrats would vigorously oppose any expansion beyond Starr's report, one aide said Sunday night.
 Attorney General Janet Reno has steadfastly refused to appoint an independent counsel to review campaign fund-raising, but the Justice Department has been conducting its own investigation, and Republican committees in Congress have investigated the issue for more than a year.
 Several Democrats, joined by a top Republican senator, talked publicly during the day about a punishment short of impeachment for Clinton and demanded his lawyers end "legal hairsplitting" as they rebut Starr's report.
 "There's going to be some sort of sanction here," said Sen. Orrin Hatch, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. "The question is what — from impeachment to censure to rebuke to condemnation or what," the Utah Republican said.
 Added Rep. David Bonior of Michigan, the second-ranking House Democrat: "I think in the days and months ahead, you will find people talking about the middle option — that of a public rebuke for his personal behavior."
 One lawmaker, Rep. Vic Fazio, D-Calif., addressed the issue of a formal impeachment inquiry during cally. "It's not a good situation for anybody."

 Among the most sexually explicit parts of the report was an incident between the president and Lewinsky involving a cigar.
 One local business, the Tobacco Bowl, 111 S. Dubuque St., has been capitalizing on that part of the report by holding a "Monica Lewinsky sale" on Cuanyo Hermanos cigars, cutting the price from $7.10 to $2.95 each.
 But lurid details such as the cigar incident have kept Iowa City resident John Coyne away from the scandal. He said he paid attention to it when it first broke in January, but he's since stopped following it.
 "The whole thing disgusts me," Coyne said, sitting on a bench on the Pedestrian Mall. "What Clinton did was absurd, and all the attention it's getting is making it more absurd."

 He said the amount of money spent on the investigation has also prevented him from following the story.
 "There are a lot more serious things going on in the world," Coyne said. "They are a lot more important than the president frolicking in the Oval Office."
 The amount of money spent on the investigation was also one of the aspects of the case that UI graduate student Nava Fahimiy said she was against.
 Fahimiy, a native of Israel, said that in other countries affairs such as Clinton's aren't given much notice.
 Former French President Francois Mitterrand, who fathered an illegitimate child, was one of the many leaders who have had affairs, she said.
 "And they always will," Fahimiy said. "I don't think it's anything new."

the day in an appearance on ABC. "Ultimately, if the president and the Congress want to have the due process that they are both allowed in this instance, we may end up going to that next level," said the California Democrat, third-ranking member of his party in the House.

A second lawmaker, Rep. Asa Hutchinson, R-Ark., a member of the Judiciary Committee, said in a telephone interview, "It would be very hard to avoid an impeachment inquiry with the seriousness of the allegations and the review that we're going through now."

Sosa: I didn't want to lose that moment for Chicago

SOSA

people of Chicago, for America, for my mother, for my wife, my kids and the people I have around me. My team. It was an emotional moment."
 Randy Maris, Roger's son, phoned to congratulate Sosa.
 "He wished me good luck and said he was going to watch me," Sosa said.
 Commissioner Bud Selig, who was in St. Louis last week when McGwire hit 61 and 62 but was not at the Cubs game, also phoned. The Rev. Jesse Jackson and comedian Bill Murray were at the game to offer congratulations.
 In Sosa's hometown of San Pedro de Macoris, where his mother watched the game, residents flooded into the streets to celebrate. It was there that Sosa once shined shoes and sold oranges to help support his family.

 Sosa, who has four homers in his last three games, was carried off the field after the victory, which kept the Cubs one game ahead of the New York Mets in the NL wild-card race. He was on deck when Mark Grace hit the game-winning homer.
 "I'm sorry I hit that home run and Sammy couldn't come to the plate. I know everyone was disappointed," Grace said, tongue-in-cheek.
 But seeing Sosa do what McGwire accomplished earlier is something the first baseman will never forget.
 "It was chilling when McGwire did it. I was dumbfounded," Grace said. "I thought pretty much the home-run race was going to be McGwire's. But when my buddy gets hot, he can hit them in a hurry. And he proved that."
 "I just hope Sammy gets the attention he deserves. Not only has he hit 62 homers, but he has carried us. He is without a doubt the MVP of the National League."

 McGwire was 0-for-2 at Houston Sunday night and he declined comment before the game. He and Sosa have homered 20 times on the same day this season, feeding off the competition to set the record.
 "When it happened to Mark in St. Louis, I thought I want it to happen to me in Chicago," Sosa said. "I didn't want to lose that moment to all the people in Chicago."
 Then Sosa had a message for McGwire:
 "Mark, you know I love you. It's been unbelievable. I wish you could be here with me today. I know you are watching me, and I know you have the same feeling for me as I have for you in my heart," he said.

mind the cancellation.
 "People don't need to look outside Iowa to find quality music," said Burlington resident Jon Hazell.
 Before the big bad cancellation, concert-goers were satisfied that Iowa City was hosting such a diverse and unique music scene.
 "It's all about rock and roll and just havin' fun," said Gerry Lundquist, one of the dancing trombonists from MU330.
 Thomas Carrigan, an event coordinator from Midwest Entertainment Group, said he hoped the festival would become an annual event for Iowa City.

 Adam Steck, a promoter from Steck Productions, voiced the opinion of many at the concert.
 "They should have alcohol here — but depending on the band," said Steck. "With a hard-core band you shouldn't add fuel to the fire."
 In turn, many of the band members appreciated the audience.
 "The intensity here seems very focused," said Jason Shoucair, singer for Bambú. "They all knew what they came for."
 As crowds set up mini-camps on the grass in front of the stage, there was foot-tapping to the beat, arms waving in the air and snapping fingers, demonstrating an overwhelming verve.

 "Everyone's been really cool," acknowledged Steve Cable, singer for Fool's Journey.
 "Great people," said Everclear's lead singer Art Alexakis. "Love the corn," he added, referring to a field of Iowa's staple crop thriving not far from the stage.
 Dusk only harkened greater numbers of concert-goers. And a little sprinkling of rain didn't stop the body-surfing.
 However, security guard Sam Dains, of the Two Star Detective Agency, was injured in the mosh pit. A body-surfer came over a barrier and Dains was treated on the scene for an injured wrist.

in their celebration.
 One police official said after the game there were scattered reports of fighting, including a scuffle downtown. Police issued 71 citations, with 37 going to out-of-towners.
 But while Cyclone fans celebrated, Hawkeye die-hards were heart-broken and mourning.
 "It was like a dagger in the heart," said Hawkeye fan and Iowa

City resident Graig Taylor, who blamed the loss on the Hawkeyes' lack of experience.
 While other Hawkeye fans rationalized the loss by playing arm-chair quarterback, Moore said the failure to win was due to overconfidence on the UI's part.
 "We had chalk marks in the win column before they even stepped out onto the field," Moore said. He said the team seemed to overlook the ISU game, concentrating more on next week's Arizona game instead.

At the Sports Column, Hawkeye fans who hadn't cleared out by game's end were unnaturally quiet, Beller said. With many UI fans in a sullen mood, Cyclone fan taunting was enough to incite some minor incidents.
 But for now, the bragging rights belong to Iowa State. Until the two teams meet again next September, all Hawkeye fans can do is cope with the loss.
 "After the game, I got very drunk," Taylor said.

By Laura Myers Associated Press

WASHINGTON — As Clinton faces some of the daunting foreign policy challenges of his presidency, foreign affairs officials worry that his fight against impeachment is reducing U.S. influence overseas.

Two former national security advisers say it would be difficult to lose focus on brewing economic instability in Russia to nuclear proliferation in Asia and missile proliferation in Iraq. Clinton's fight in Kosovo. Iraqi President Saddam Hussein is defying weapons inspectors again despite past threats of U.S. action.

"I think this is going to be a difficult fall since the fall of the Clinton administration," said Anthony Lake, who as a security adviser helped Clinton shape U.S. policy in Bosnia, Haiti, Somalia when they were volatile. Today's "extremely difficult" situation will become all the more so "if people assume Clinton is being impeached by problems caused by his own administration," said Monica Lewinsky, Lake's former aide. And President Bush's adviser, Gen. Brent Scowcroft,

A controversial politician who once cried "segregation forever," he later recanted racist views.

By Kendall Weaver Associated Press

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Gov. George C. Wallace, the time firebrand segregationist who was paralyzed by a would-be assassin's bullet as he campaigned for the presidency in 1972, died Sunday.

Wallace in recent years had battled Parkinson's disease as well as the lingering effects of his stroke and had been hospitalized several times.
 Wallace entered the hospital Sept. 10, suffering from breathing problems and septic shock by a severe bacterial infection. He also had been hospitalized several times with similar problems.
 As a third-party candidate in 1968, Wallace received nearly 9 million presidential votes, seemed poised to do as well as he did in 1964. Years later, when he was shot during a campaign in Maryland, he had gained national notoriety in the early 1960s, when he called for "segregation forever" and stood for an Alabama schoolhouse to keep blacks from enrolling. He was, however, the first unprecedented fourth term as governor with the help of black voters.

"We thought it was in the best interests of all concerned; we were mistaken," he told a black group during his last gubernatorial campaign, in 1982. "The South is gone," but "the New South is still opposed to government action on our lives."
 A political legend in a region accustomed to fiery oratory, Wallace dominated Alabama for a better part of two decades, bowing out of politics with a surprise April 1986 announcement that he would not seek a fifth term.
 Urging voters to "send 'em home," Wallace made four runs for the presidency, including the 1964 contest in which he won five southern states and 46 electoral votes.
 He married three times, and his first wife in the governor's mansion when state law barred him from succeeding himself.

As the South reeled from rights clashes and the bombing of black churches during his career, Wallace loomed as a symbol of racial oppression across the region.
 But after being crippled by a stroke and confined to a wheelchair for the rest of his life, Wallace was the jut-jawed, fist-clenching figure who threatened to "shake the eye teeth" of the South.

Late in life, the shrewd firebrand segregationist had mellowed. He had pledged to help people of all colors. His election in 1963 was a triumph for a coalition including the black community. He was once scorned, and he was embraced by liberal members of his

NATION & WORLD

Clinton stews; crises brew

Some are worried that the president may be too weakened by the ongoing scandal to deal with the various foreign-policy crises.

By Laura Myers
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — As President Clinton faces some of the most daunting foreign policy challenges of his presidency, foreign affairs professionals worry that his fight to avoid impeachment is reducing U.S. influence overseas.

Two former national security advisers say it would be dangerous to lose focus on brewing crises — from global economic turmoil and instability in Russia to nuclear and missile proliferation in Asia to fighting in Kosovo. Iraqi President Saddam Hussein is defying U.N. weapons inspectors again, too, despite past threats of U.S. military action.

"I think this is going to be the most difficult fall since the fall of 1993," said Anthony Lake, who as national security adviser helped Clinton manage U.S. policy in Bosnia, Haiti and Somalia when they were volatile.

Today's "extremely difficult problems will become all the more dangerous" if people assume Clinton is weakened by problems caused by his affair with Monica Lewinsky, Lake said.

And President Bush's security adviser, Gen. Brent Scowcroft, had this advice for Clinton: "I would be doing everything I could to try to reassure people that there are no gaps in our attention, that we are able to act, that there is no paralysis."

Scowcroft added: "There's bound to be a significant foreign policy cost to (the Clinton crisis) because the president, after all, is a human being. He can't give the kind of attention to foreign policy that is necessary."

But Secretary of State Madeleine Albright insisted: "We are occupied more than 24 hours a day with absolutely no distractions." She and the rest of Clinton's foreign policy team, including Defense Secretary William Cohen and National Security Adviser Sandy Berger, met with the president on Sept. 12 to talk about world affairs.

Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr, in a report to Congress released on Sept. 11, alleged 11 grounds for impeaching Clinton, including perjuring himself and obstructing justice by concealing his affair with Lewinsky. The White House, in two separate rebuttals, said that nothing in Clinton's actions warrants impeachment.

Some members of Congress, mostly Republicans, want a Clinton resignation. On Sunday, Rep. Tom DeLay of Texas, the GOP's third-ranking House Republican, said Clinton appears to have cost himself the right to world leadership.

"We as a nation have to look within ourselves and answer the question: 'Has Bill Clinton disqualified himself to lead this country and the world?'" DeLay said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Even while traveling abroad, Clinton has to field questions about his affair with the former intern, a relationship he initially denied. His first apology for it came during a photo opportunity in Dublin, Ireland.

Rep. David Bonior of Michigan, DeLay's House counterpart with the Democrats, said on NBC Sunday that Americans understand "despite his personal behavior, that the president is the most-respected world leader today."

The White House dismisses any talk of a loss of focus on foreign policy and points to Clinton's triumphant trip to Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic in early September and his speech today to the U.N. General Assembly.

"He has helped set the U.N. agenda regarding arms control, proliferation and terrorism, and we can expect him to sound a similar call for action," said P.J. Crowley, a National Security Council spokesman.

He said the Ireland trip "was just the latest example where, as is always the case, the world looks to the United States and the president for leadership."

Clinton launched missiles against alleged terrorist targets in Afghanistan and Sudan last month in retaliation for the bombings of U.S. embassies in Kenya and Tanzania, which killed more than 250 people, including 12 Americans.

Still, signs of political damage are appearing around the globe.

"A weakened presidency, its energy to deal with global issues sapped, is bad news for the world," Singapore's Straits Times newspaper said in an editorial. The Washington correspondent of La Repubblica, of Italy, wrote: "Even if Clinton survives, his presidency is already dead."

Jordan: Deep-six notes to Clinton

The Starr report claims that the president's friend told her to ensure that her Clinton correspondence disappeared.

By Larry Margasak
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — When they met for breakfast, Vernon Jordan, the president's friend, told Monica Lewinsky to "make sure" any copies of notes she'd written President Clinton disappeared from her apartment.

When she moaned that the president made her mad, Jordan told her the problem was she was in love.

And as he worked to find her a lawyer — and a job — Jordan kept Clinton informed every step of the way, according to Jordan's testimony.

The new details of Jordan's interactions with Lewinsky last fall show that the Washington power broker is at the heart of some allegations against Clinton that Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr has outlined to Congress.

Starr's report alleges that Clinton tried to obstruct justice by triggering the job hunt when Lewinsky could have become a harmful witness to him in Paula Jones' sexual harassment lawsuit.

Starr also contends that Clinton lied in the Jones case by denying his conversations with Jordan about Lewinsky.

Clinton's attorneys say the president generally was aware of Jordan's efforts on Lewinsky's behalf but never sought to facilitate them. "As a private individual, he is free to offer job advice wherever he sees fit," the White House says.

Among details in Starr's report: Lewinsky told Jordan that she "reacted to (Clinton) more as a man and got angry at him like ... just a regular person." Jordan told her: "You're in love, that's what your problem is," Lewinsky said.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Former Gov. George C. Wallace, the one-time firebrand segregationist who was paralyzed by a would-be assassin's bullet as he campaigned for the presidency in 1972, died Sunday. He was 79.

Wallace in recent years had battled Parkinson's disease as well as the lingering effects of his wounds and had been hospitalized repeatedly.

Wallace entered the hospital on Sept. 10, suffering from breathing problems and septic shock caused by a severe bacterial infection. He also had been hospitalized this summer with similar problems.

As a third-party candidate in 1968, Wallace received nearly 10 million presidential votes and seemed poised to do as well four years later, when he was shot campaigning in Maryland.

He had gained national notoriety in the early 1960s, when he vowed "segregation forever" and stood in an Alabama schoolhouse door to keep blacks from enrolling. Ultimately, however, he won an unprecedented fourth term as governor with the help of black voters.

"We thought it was in the best interests of all concerned; we were mistaken," he told a black group during his last gubernatorial campaign, in 1982. "The Old South is gone," but "the New South is still opposed to government regulation of our lives."

A political legend in a region long accustomed to fiery oratory, Wallace dominated Alabama for the better part of two decades before bowing out of politics with the April 1986 announcement that he would not seek a fifth term.

Urging voters to "send 'em a message," Wallace made four runs at the presidency, including the 1968 contest in which he won five Southern states and 46 electoral votes.

He married three times, and put his first wife in the governor's chair when state law barred him from succeeding himself.

As the South reeled from civil rights clashes and the bombing of black churches during his early career, Wallace loomed as a symbol of racial oppression across the region.

But after being crippled by gunshots and confined to a wheelchair for the rest of his life, Wallace no longer was the jut-jawed, fist-shaking figure who threatened to "shake the eye teeth" of the establishment.

Late in life, the shrewd firebrand segregationist had mellowed into a populist who pledged to help poor people of all colors. His election to a fourth term in 1982 was built on a coalition including the black votes he once scorned, and he was courted by liberal members of his party.

Removed from the political spotlight, he worried that history would remember him only for his segregationist defiance.

Stephan Leshner, who wrote a 1994 biography of Wallace, "American Populist," with the former governor's cooperation, said that even though Wallace recanted his racial stands, he will always be remembered most as the man who cried "segregation forever" and stood in the schoolhouse door.

"It's like the blood stains on Lady Macbeth's hands," Leshner said. "He will never be able to wash out the stains of racism."

George Corley Wallace was born Aug. 25, 1919, in Clio, in the rural, row-crop country of southeastern Alabama. His father was a farmer and county commissioner, his mother a county health worker.

The short, dark-eyed farm boy became a scrappy Golden Gloves boxer. He earned his law degree from the University of Alabama and served in World War II as a flight engineer on B-29 bombing missions over the Pacific.

After the war, he became an assistant state attorney general, then ran successfully for the Alabama House of Representatives in 1946.

When he won election as a circuit judge in 1952, he used his court post to become known as "the fighting little judge" for battling federal authorities over blacks' voting records.

In his first race for governor in 1958, he lost the Democratic primary to John Patterson, who had taken a harder line than Wallace in support of racial segregation. Wallace reportedly vowed that he would never be "out-segged" again.

He was successful on his next try, in 1962. On Jan. 14, 1963, as bands decked in Rebel uniforms played "Dixie," Wallace took the oath of office beneath the white-domed capitol, in which Jefferson Davis had been sworn in as president of the Confederacy a century before.

"Let us rise to the call of the freedom-loving blood that is in us and send our answer to the tyranny that clanks its chains upon the South," Wallace told the crowd.

"In the name of the greatest people that have ever trod this earth, I draw the line in the dust and toss the gauntlet before the feet of tyranny. And I say ... segregation today, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever."

In a matter of months he made his celebrated "stand in the schoolhouse door," an unsuccessful bid to block the entrance of two blacks to the University of Alabama.

Wallace ran in a few Democratic primaries in 1964, pulling significant protest votes but hardly stopping President Johnson's steamroller.

Blocked by Alabama law from succeeding himself in the 1966 election, he got his wife, Lurleen, to run in his place. It was a daring move, and she won overwhelmingly, establishing a new mandate for Wallace's politics and a new springboard toward the White House race of 1968.

CITY BRIEFS

Garofalo defendant popped for open container
Chad A. Diehl, one of the men an Illinois family believes is responsible for the 1995 alcohol-related death of their son, was charged with possession of an open container of alcohol in a public place on Sept. 12, according to Iowa City police records.
Diehl, 527 S. Van Buren St. Apt. 1, was cited on the corner of Burlington and Madison streets at 9:48 a.m. The maximum fine for open-container possession is $150.
Diehl, 24, a former member of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, is the last remaining defendant in a wrongful death lawsuit brought by the parents of Matthew Garofalo, an associate member of the former house. Diehl was Garofalo's "big brother" in the fraternity.
Garofalo died following a "Big Brother/Little Brother" pledge ceremony at Lambda Chi on the night of Sept. 7, 1995. Garofalo was found dead the next morning at the chapter house due to fluid in the lungs caused by acute alcohol intoxication.
The lawsuit against Diehl and three other defendants was scheduled to go to trial last week.
However, after the judge dropped the cases against the other three defendants, the trial was put on hold until an appeal by the Garofalo family can be heard by the Iowa Supreme Court.

Area man arrested in I.C. home break-in
A North Liberty man was arrested early Sunday morning after allegedly breaking into an Iowa City home, according to Iowa City police records.
Ronald J. Cohrs, 29, was charged with third-degree burglary and interference with official acts after allegedly breaking into a home at 806 Alpine Drive, Iowa City police Sgt. Jim Linn said.
Officers were checking for similarities to a string of recent burglaries in the Alpine Drive area, Linn said.
"When you have something like this, the first thing we do is work backwards," Linn said.
Officers were called to the house after a resident heard glass breaking and saw a man walking around the house with a flashlight, Linn said.
The house was then surrounded by police officers, who ordered the man to come out. When the man came out, he allegedly attempted to flee and officers had to subdue him, Linn said.
A warrant was being served at Cohrs' home Sunday, Linn said. The investigation is ongoing.

"Rounders"

Where: Campus Theaters, Old Capitol Mall
When: 7:10 & 9:40 p.m.

★★★ out of ★★★★★

By Phil Kennedy

He's back. The Brooklyn accent, the immovable hair and of course he's got the best-looking girl in the film. No, it's not Ben Affleck. It's Matt Damon. Damon has ditched the custodial arts/genius role that he played in his last starring role in "Good Will Hunting" and picked up a classier role as a law-school student/poker hustler in "Rounders." A very predictable but fascinating look at the world of poker.

Damon's character, Michael, has got the skills to pay the bills. Poker isn't a game of luck. It's a game of skill. What's great about "Rounders" is all the card slang and information that is given. The film takes Michael through the good times and bad times of "risking it all in a game," and sometimes it's brutal.

This is without a doubt Damon's role — a quick-tongued, charming man who's very street smart. It may sound similar to "Good Will Hunting," but it's really not. Yes, Damon gets the crap beat out of him, and his hair and clothes still look perfect, but Damon has a much more serious role in "Rounders."

Michael has everything going for him. He's an intelligent law student with a great girlfriend (Gretchen Mol, who's hyped as a star of the movie and appears for a grand total of about five minutes). But his dreams are nearly wiped out when he loses all his money ($30,000) to an underground Russian card shark known as Teddy KGB (John Malkovich). He believes cards are his destiny, but he never knows when to quit. Very annoying.

"Rounders" is a fundamentally entertaining and exciting movie. But there is nothing surprising in the film. I could have written a crude story line just from the preview I saw on television, which is on about every 30 seconds of the day.

Besides Mol, the cast is very strong. Edward Norton plays Michael's best friend Worm, a smart-ass weasel who motivates Michael to get back in the game and basically screws up Michael's life. Not a role Norton will be famed for. The rest of the cast is basically money lenders, their hit men and card players.

So deal me in. Poker's the game, and I don't have much skill. None, actually. But after seeing this film, I want to learn. That's just what "Rounders" does. It leaves you interested in the game of poker. But not in the plot.

Premier power play

Beethoven's works will come alive at Hancher tonight and Wednesday.

By John Russell
The Daily Iowan

The Grammys are coming to the UI. Sort of.

The Emerson Quartet, a Grammy-winning string quartet, will be performing the works of Beethoven at Clapp Recital Hall today and Wednesday at 7 p.m. Following each performance, the quartet will lead a discussion on the works of Beethoven.

Hancher Assistant Director Judith Hurtig will be moderating the discussions, which she said are ways for people to connect with the music.

"These (quartets) are a kind of monument in the same way as Tolstoy's 'War and Peace' or Michelangelo's Sistine Chapel," she said. "This music is really powerful, and a lot of times after a really powerful concert, it's hard to just walk out into the night. People want to share what they heard."

Hurtig said the Emerson Quartet is regarded as one of the premier chamber music ensembles in the country.

"I would say if they aren't the top quartet at the moment, they are definitely No. 2," she said.

The work of the Emerson Quartet has spanned more than 20 years and culminated this spring with their fourth Grammy Award.

Its seven-disc recording of Beethoven's string quartet series won the Grammy's Best Chamber Music Recording of 1997.

The four members — Eugene Drucker, Philip Setzer, Lawrence Dutton and David Finckel — have toured extensively around the United States and the world. Their most recent accomplishment was a four-part performance series of the Beethoven Quartets at Lincoln Center in Washington, D.C.

BOX OFFICE

The gambling drama "Rounders" played its cards right to lead the box office going into the fall season, but summer releases, including "There's Something About Mary," dominated the Top 10.

Here are estimated grosses at North American theaters for Sept. 11 through Sunday as compiled by Exhibitor Relations Co. Inc. Final figures were to be released Monday:

1. "Rounders," $8.8 million.
2. "There's Something About Mary," $8 million.
3. "Blade," $5.2 million.
4. "Saving Private Ryan," $4.7 million.
5. "Simon Birch," $3.3 million.
6. "Ever After," $2.4 million.
7. "Knock Off," $1.9 million.
8. "Snake Eyes," $1.7 million.
9. "Armageddon," $1.6 million.
10. "How Stella Got Her Groove Back," $1.6 million.

Iowa lost for the first time in 15-year history when Michigan State humiliated an upset victory over the Hawkeyes. Michigan State kept Michigan from its first victory that put three losses on virtually everybody.

Add in BYU's big win over heavily favored Utah State and most players were lucky to walk away with a win.

This week's winners include: Duce (7), Greg Foreman (7), Matt Miller (7), Kurt Bedell (6), Ron Rahde (6), Sarah Keninger (6), Aaron Granquist (6), Adam Wiley (6). Of all the winners, only one was able to select as many as two of them.

Homers set off mad scramble

Sammy Sosa's 61st and 62nd home runs left people fighting for the balls outside Wrigley Field Sunday.

By Nancy Armour
Associated Press

CHICAGO — Sammy Sosa didn't have any warm-and-fuzzy meetings with the guys who caught Nos. 61 and 62. The fans apparently were more interested in cold, hard cash.

Both of Sosa's historic home runs sailed over the left-field fence at Wrigley Field on Sunday, and a pack of fans chased them as they bounced along Waveland Avenue. Major league baseball did not mark any balls Sosa hit as it did for Mark McGwire.

Moe Mullins claims he got 62, but it wasn't in his hands for long.

"Fifty people landed on top of me. One guy bit my left hand and wrestled the ball away," said Mullins, whose hand was bleeding. "People tried to help me catch the guy, but the cops took him off in a squad car."

The man, whose name was not immediately available, was taken to a police station near Wrigley Field, said Chicago police Sgt. Mary O'Toole. The man, described as being in his late 20s, left the police station a short time later, she said.

"We got him out of there because we thought he was going to get his behind kicked," she said. "We brought him over here for his own safety."

"The story is changing now every minute," she added. "It's a big mess. The guy who has it is not the guy who started out with it."

Mullins planned to file a police report about the incident.

Unlike McGwire's 61st and 62nd balls, which were immediately returned to him by St. Louis Cardinals' fans, no one has contacted the Cubs to offer Sosa either ball, team spokesman Chuck Wasserstrom said.

Sosa didn't say whether he wanted the balls back, but when he heard there'd been a mad scramble for them, he laughed.

"If I wasn't a player, I'd be fighting, too, for that ball," he said.

Sosa has been known to let the fans who catch them keep them. After the woman who caught No. 56, which tied Iowa State's Robert Lewis (23) celebrates along with Cyclone fans after defeating Iowa, 27-9, Saturday at Kinnick Stadium in Iowa City.

Fry optimistic despite loss

Iowa coach Hayden Fry said Iowa is not out of the Rose Bowl picture yet.

By Wayne Drehs
The Daily Iowan

Hayden Fry said all along that one of these days, "The Streak" was going to come to an end.

Kickoff for next Saturday's game is scheduled for 9:15 p.m. Iowa time in Tucson. Fry assures his Hawkeyes will be ready.

"I'm encouraged by this teams fight," Iowa coach Hayden Fry said. "I'm not one for predictions or anything, but what happened today against Iowa State happened way back in the 80's — we got beat by a team we thought we should have beat, but didn't."

"That season, we went on to win the Big Ten and the Rose Bowl. I'm not saying this young team can do that, but you are never out of it."

The outcome of the game against the Cyclones was hardly a fluke, Fry said.

his four years as a head coach.

Now the Hawkeyes must prepare for their biggest test of the young season against No. 16 Arizona knowing they are the team that let The Streak come to an end.

"What's happened in the past, happened in the past, but Hayden Fry - we kicked your guys' ass," Iowa State quarterback Todd Bandhauer said after the game.

Cyclone fans stormed the field after the win — Iowa State's first on the road since 1991. It also marked coach Dan McCarney's biggest victory in

Cyclones exploited Iowa weaknesses

There had to be a few people in Kinnick Stadium who thought Iowa State would beat Iowa on Saturday. But a total domination?

Iowa State beat Iowa in every facet of the game, leaving the Hawkeyes and their fans dumbfounded by what happened in the 27-9 Cyclone romp.

The Cyclones exposed Iowa's already proven weaknesses on offense and they uncovered some new problems, such as stopping the run, for the Hawkeye defense.

"I would've been shocked if we didn't play good," Iowa State coach Dan McCarney said. "Whether the score could have been like that, I don't know that in 100 years I could've envisioned that score, over here, against a tremendous traditional program like Iowa."

This Iowa team needs to make some immediate corrections if it's to add to the Iowa lore.

The biggest area of concern right now is Iowa's inability to control the line of scrimmage.

The offensive line had six illegal procedure penalties against the Cyclones and the Hawkeye running game totaled just 42 yards. A week ago, a TCU team coming off a 1-10 season ran for nearly 300 yards against the same Cyclone defense.

The Iowa State offense wasn't supposed to be able to run the ball against the Hawkeyes, but the Cyclone offensive line pushed the battered Hawkeye defensive line around, paving the way for Darren Davis' 244-yard day.

Although they didn't need any breaks, the Cyclones seemed to find them from the opening kick.

ON THE LINE WEEK TWO

Iowa lost for the first time in 15-years to Iowa State. Michigan State humiliated an upset Notre Dame and Syracuse kept Michigan from its first victory — three games that put three losses on virtually everybody's entry slip.

Add in BYU's big win over heavily favored Arizona State and most players were lucky to win half the games. This week's winners include: Duane Dronebarger (7), Greg Foreman (7), Matt Miller (7), Todd Smith (6), Kurt Bedell (6), Ron Rahde (6), Sarah Hotop (6), Sam Keninger (6), Aaron Granquist (6), Jake Speer (6) and Adam Wiley (6). Of all the winners, only three players were able to select as many as two of the upsets.

Gary Dolphin, the voice of Iowa football on the radio, didn't fare well as the Daily Iowan's guest picker. Dolphin missed six of 10 games, but did manage to predict Michigan State over the Irish.

The Daily Iowan selection panel had a pretty good week judging games. Wayne Drehs, James Kramer and Andy Hamilton all finished 6-4 and would have been in contention for t-shirts and pie if they weren't employees of the publication. Rounding out the panel were Chris Snider with a 5-5 record and myself, who finished 4-6.

NFL ROUNDUP

Former Hawkeye Banks helps spark Jaguar victory

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Reggie Barlow scored on an 85-yard punt return and Tavian Banks had a 65-yard kickoff return to set up another score as the Jacksonville Jaguars beat the Kansas City Chiefs 21-16 Sunday.

James Stewart gained 103 yards on 26 carries to become the first back to record consecutive 100-yard rushing games for the Jaguars (2-0).

The game was built up as a potential preview of the AFC Championship game, but both teams came in with many injuries, most notably on the Jaguars' defensive line and with the Chiefs (1-1) missing Elvis Grbac and Andre Rison.

Ravens 24, Jets 10

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Rod Woodson had two interceptions, returning the second 60 yards for the clinching touchdown, and Jermaine Lewis went 69 yards on a punt return to lead the Baltimore Ravens over the New York Jets.

Lewis, who had a 97-yard punt return against the Jets (0-2) in the preseason, headed down the middle, then quickly cut to the sideline and sped to the end zone. It was the third score on a punt return in Lewis' two-plus pro seasons.

Dolphins 13, Bills 7

MIAMI — Miami sacked Rob Johnson eight times, limited Buffalo to 187 yards and won a defensive struggle.

Trace Armstrong, Jason Taylor and rookie Lorenzo Brownell had two sacks apiece to lead the charge for the Dolphins. Their sack total was one shy of the team record set in 1973.

Saints 19, Panthers 14

NEW ORLEANS — Danny Wuerffel, given a chance to start when Billy Joe Hobert was knocked out for the season last week, shook off constant pressure and led New Orleans to its first 2-0 start since 1993.

Bengals 34, Lions 28 (OT)

PONTIAC, Mich. — Corey Sawyer intercepted Scott Mitchell's pass to Johnnie Morton on the fourth play of overtime and returned it 53 yards for a touchdown.

The win was a great relief for the Bengals (1-1) who wanted desperately to get off to a good start. Since 1991, the Bengals have gone 9-48 in the first half of the season. Last season, they won their opener but lost their next seven.

Barry Sanders, who rushed for 185 yards and three touchdowns for the Lions (0-2), tied the game at 28 on a 5-yard scamper with 1:52 left in the fourth quarter.

Vikings 38, Rams 31

ST. LOUIS — Randall Cunningham, subbing for injured Brad Johnson, threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to Cris Carter with 2:09 left to lift Minnesota over St. Louis.

The Rams (0-2) almost tied it on the final play when quarterback Tony Banks dove for the end zone following an 8-yard scramble, but he was stopped less than a yard away.

Robert Smith rushed for a career-best 179 yards and two first-half scores, including a 74-yard dash for the Vikings (2-0), who led 24-10 at the half.

Falcons 17, Eagles 12

ATLANTA — Rebounding from a dismal first half, Atlanta scored on its first two possessions of the third quarter and improved to 2-0 for the first time since 1986.

Chris Chandler threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to Brian Kozlowski and Jamal Anderson added a 1-yard scoring run for the Falcons.

Chargers 13, Oilers 7

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Ryan Leaf set up San Diego's only touchdown with a 20-yard scramble, and John Carney kicked two field goals as the Chargers spoiled Tennessee's first regular-season game in their new hometown.

Not even a sellout crowd of 41,089 at Vanderbilt Stadium could lift the Oilers (1-1), whose final drive ended when Steve McNair overthrew Jackie Harris on fourth-and-5 at midfield with 1:34 left.

Wade Payne/Associated Press

San Diego Chargers running back Natrone Means (20) reaches over the goal line for a third quarter 1-yard touchdown run that gave the Chargers a 13-7 win over the Tennessee Oilers in Nashville, Tenn., on Sunday.

White got three sacks and led a pass rush that harassed Trent Dilfer all day as the Green Bay Packers won their 29th straight home game.

Packers 23, Buccaneers 15

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Reggie White got three sacks and led a pass rush that harassed Trent Dilfer all day as the Green Bay Packers won their 29th straight home game.

Dilfer was sacked six times, losing the ball on three of them, as the Packers (2-0) put the Bucs (0-2) in an early hole in the NFC Central.

White, who retired briefly in the offseason, increased his record sacks total to 179 1/2 despite the hot, muggy day that sent several players to the sidelines with cramps and dehydration.

Broncos 42, Cowboys 23

DENVER — Terrell Davis ran for 191 yards and three touchdowns as Denver beat Dallas, which lost quarterback Troy Aikman for 4-8 weeks with a broken left collarbone.

John Elway threw for 268 yards and two touchdowns and ran for another score for the Broncos (2-0) before leaving in the fourth quarter with an injury to his right hamstring.

The Cowboys (1-1) lost Aikman midway through the second quarter when he scrambled for a 6-yard gain, was hit by three defenders and left the field holding his left shoulder.

Seahawks 33, Cardinals 14

SEATTLE — Willie Williams and Shawn Springs returned interceptions for touchdowns and Ricky Watters had his first 100-yard rushing game for Seattle.

In going 2-0 to open the season for the first time since 1994, the Seahawks have outscored their first two opponents 71-14. Seattle won 38-0 in Philadelphia last Sunday.

Raiders 20, Giants 17

OAKLAND, Calif. — Greg Davis kicked a 26-yard field goal with 1:59 remaining as the Oakland Raiders gave new coach Jon Gruden his first win in a penalty-plagued game.

Oakland's Eric Turner sacked Danny Kannel for an 11-yard loss and then intercepted his fourth-down pass to end the final possession for the Giants.

The Raiders got an 80-yard touchdown run from Napoleon Kaufman on the first play from scrimmage. Oakland was penalized 16 times for 113 yards, while New York had 15 penalties for 90 yards.

Patriots 29, Colts 6

FOXBORO, Mass. — Peyton Manning threw three interceptions and fumbled — giving him seven turnovers for the season — and remained winless in his two pro games as New England rolled past Indianapolis.

Manning's four-year football education at Tennessee didn't keep him from throwing two interceptions to Ty Law, one for a 59-yard touchdown, and losing a fumble, leading to 13 points as the Patriots (1-1) led 16-0 at halftime.

SUNDAY'S STARS

Rushing

Terrell Davis, Broncos, ran for 191 yards and three touchdowns in Denver's 42-23 rout of Dallas. He had 134 yards on six carries in the first quarter.

Barry Sanders, Lions, ran for 185 yards and three touchdowns on 26 carries in Detroit's 34-28 overtime loss to Cincinnati.

Robert Smith, Vikings, rushed for a career-best 179 yards and two first-half scores, including a 74-yard dash, in Minnesota's 38-31 victory over St. Louis.

Napoleon Kaufman, Raiders, had 139 yards on 20 carries, including an 80-yard scoring run, in Oakland's 20-17 victory over the New York Giants.

Jerome Bettis, Steelers, ran for 131 yards and a touchdown to lead Pittsburgh to a 17-12 victory over the Chicago Bears.

Passing

Neil O'Donnell, Bengals, was 25-of-36 for 303 yards in Cincinnati's 34-28 victory over Detroit.

Jeff George, Raiders, was 25-of-44 for 303 yards and a touchdown in Oakland's 20-17 victory over the New York Giants.

Receiving

Isaac Bruce, Rams, caught 11 passes for 192 yards, including an 80-yard touchdown, in St. Louis' 38-31 loss to Minnesota.

Muhsin Muhammad, Panthers, caught nine passes for 192 yards in Carolina's 19-14 loss to New Orleans.

Darnay Scott, Bengals, had five catches for 130 yards and two touchdowns in a 34-28 overtime victory over Detroit.

Defense

Rod Woodson, Ravens, intercepted two passes, including one that he returned 60 yards for a clinching touchdown in Baltimore's 24-10 victory over the New York Jets.

Reggie White, Packers, had three of Green Bay's six sacks of Trent Dilfer in a 23-15 victory over Tampa Bay.

Corey Sawyer, Bengals intercepted Scott Mitchell's pass on the fourth play of overtime and returned it 53 yards for a touchdown, giving Cincinnati a 34-28 victory over the Detroit Lions.

SPEAKING

"Woodson baits, he lures, he guesses. That's his game and it's all based on experience. He's heady, he's physical. You've got to be careful with him." — New York Jets QB Glenn Foley after Rod Woodson intercepted two passes in Baltimore's 24-10 victory.

Close, but no cigar for Bears again

■ Bears have chance to win in fourth quarter again, but don't.

By Alan Robinson
Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Steelers wonder if they can continue to play so poorly and win. The Chicago Bears wonder if they can continue to play so well and lose.

Jerome Bettis bounced back from his worst game with Pittsburgh, running for 131 yards and a touchdown to lead the sluggish Steelers over the Bears 17-12 Sunday — Chicago's second down-to-the-wire loss in as many weeks.

The Bears (0-2), 24-23 losers to Jacksonville last week when they couldn't score from the 1-yard line with four minutes left, again had a chance to win in the fourth quarter. But Carnell Lake intercepted Erik Kramer's pass on third-and-10 from the Steelers' 16 with 44 seconds remaining.

"Big-time players make big-time plays," Steelers defensive coordinator Jim Haslett said of Lake, a two-time Pro Bowl safety who moved to cornerback. "He made it in the right situation, too."

Bears receiver Curtis Conway, who slipped on the play, said, "I didn't just fall, but I guess they didn't see it. I didn't even see him coming. I saw the ball then, boom, I get hit."

Chicago wasted rookie Curtis Enis' 94 yards — he has 171 in two games despite missing most of training camp — and an excellent effort by a much-maligned defense that yielded a team-record 421 points last season but forced Pittsburgh to punt on its first four possessions.

"It was another heartbreaker," linebacker Ricardo McDonald said. "It's unfortunate to have a turnover when we did. Believe it or not, we have a good team. I think we've raised a lot of eyebrows around the league. We've played two good play-off teams and we played them tough."

Just as Baltimore did last week in losing 20-13 to Pittsburgh, the Bears stacked eight defenders along the line of scrimmage to slow Bettis, who gained 3,096 yards the last two seasons.

"It wasn't that easy," Bettis said. "If they keep playing that way, they're going to beat a lot of teams."

But the 250-pound Bettis often powered through the first wave of defenders, forcing the defense to tackle him 1-on-1 — something he couldn't do while being held to 41 yards on 22 carries last week.

"Obviously, the Bears looked at the films and saw what was successful and what's been done to stop the Bus," guard Brendan Stai said. "But we adjusted, too."

GOLF ROUNDUP

Andrade wins Canadian Open in playoff

OAKVILLE, Ontario (AP) — In a duel of bizarre bounces and heroic putts, Billy Andrade won the Bell Canadian Open on Sunday by purposely playing into the bunker and saving par to beat Bob Friend on the first playoff hole.

The victory — which felt more like survival — ended a seven-year victory drought for Andrade. He has won three times on the PGA Tour and has trailed going into the final round in all three.

"When you don't win for awhile, you don't know if you're ever going to win again," said Andrade, who finished at 13-under 275 and won $396,000. "But I had a funny feeling about this week."

He could have never dreamed how it would finish.

Andrade had a one-stroke lead over Friend going to the 508-yard closing hole at Glen Abbey Golf Club, the same hole where Andrade hit into the water in the third round for a double bogey that cost him the lead.

Friend, needing at least a birdie for a chance of a playoff, left his 3-wood short, but it somehow bounced over the bunker and skipped through the green into a back bunker.

Andrade, from 237 yards, also decided to go for the green but went in the water for the second straight day. He hit his fourth shot to 30 feet, then holed the putt for par, leaning over to watch it track to the cup and leaping into the air when it fell.

Friend, who earlier holed out a bunker shot for birdie on No. 9 and chipped from the front of the green to the back on the 17th to save par and stay in the game, blasted out of the bunker to 6 feet and rolled in the birdie to force the playoff.

"I don't think I ever shook as much as I did over that putt," said Friend, who earned $237,000 for the biggest paycheck of his career.

Sorenstam wins Safeco Classic

KENT, Wash. — Annika Sorenstam won her fourth tournament of the year and substantially widened her money lead over Se Ri Pak on Sunday, shooting a 4-under-par 68 for a five-stroke victory over Patty Sheehan and Laura Davies at the Safeco Classic.

The 27-year-old Swede, gearing up for this week's Solheim Cup, won $90,000, pushing her 1998 earnings to $896,188. Sorenstam, who also won the Michelob Light Classic, ShopRite LPGA Classic and JAL Big Apple Classic this year, had led Pak by a mere $6,000 entering the tournament.

Pak, the rookie from South Korea who has won four tournaments this year, shot a 75 Sunday and tied for 21st, winning just $5,624.

Sorenstam's 68 gave her a four-day total of 15-under 273. Sheehan, who led Sorenstam by a stroke entering the final round, hit only four fairways and shot a 74 for a 278, which slid the Hall of Famer into a tie with Davies.

Davies, who will team with Sorenstam on the European Solheim team at the Muirfield Village Golf Club in Dublin, Ohio, shot a 68 Sunday for her best-ever Safeco finish.

Danielle Ammaccapane, winner of last week's Safeway LPGA Golf Championship, was just one under after three days but shot an 8-under 64 Sunday and finished at 279. Rosie Jones, who had a closing 68, and Brandie Burton, 69, finished at 280.

Pak, the leader after two rounds, preceded her 75 with a 74 on Saturday. Pak had three consecutive double bogeys on Saturday, a career first, then followed that up with her first career triple bogey on Sunday on the par-4 6th.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

COLLEGE FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Upset Saturday strikes all of college football

Michigan, Florida State, Notre Dame and Arizona State were all upset victims in college football Saturday.

By Richard Rosenblatt
Associated Press

When it comes to college football, nothing is too far-fetched. Florida State, Notre Dame, Michigan and Arizona State took mighty tumbles on a surreal Saturday and fell out of the national title picture, probably for good.

As the scores rolled in, each result was more unlikely than the next: Syracuse 38, Michigan 28 — at Ann Arbor; North Carolina State 24, Florida State 7; Michigan State 45, Notre Dame 23; and BYU 26, Arizona State 6. And the games weren't close.

"When the ship sinks, it goes down fast," Michigan tackle Jon Jansen said after the defending co-national champions fell to 0-2, their worst start in 10 years. "We have to find out where those holes are and get them patched fast."

The biggest surprise took place in Raleigh, N.C., where fans tore down the goal posts after Torry Holt scored on two long TDs and the Wolfpack intercepted six of Chris Weinke's passes.

"I'm pretty stunned," Bowden said as the Seminoles, favored by 25 points, lost only their second Atlantic Coast Conference game since entering the league in 1992. "To get beat like that, I'm very surprised, surprised how we fell apart."

At East Lansing, Mich., the Fighting Irish fell apart against the revived Spartans (1-2), who got three TD passes from Bill Burke and led 42-3 at the half.

"I'm embarrassed, this football team's embarrassed," Irish coach Bob Davie said a week after his team soundly defeated Michigan. "I think we came in here expecting to play well and we didn't. We had no chance because of our execution."

And finally, the Sun Devils were unable to regroup from their heartbreaking 42-38 loss to Washington last week and were easy prey for the Cougars (1-1) in Provo, Utah.

"They just outplayed us," Arizona State coach Bruce Snyder said after his team fell to 0-2 for its worst start since 1979. "We do need to play a lot better, but I believe in this team."

The results were reflected in The Associated Press' Top 25 poll.

The Seminoles, annual title contenders, dropped from No. 2 to No. 11, while North Carolina State (2-0) moved in at No. 20; Notre Dame tumbled from No. 10 to No. 23; the Wolverines completed their free fall from No. 5 in the preseason to No. 13 to out of the poll; and Arizona State dropped out from the No. 14 spot.

"I doubt if anybody is out yet with one loss," an optimistic Bowden said, "but the way we played today we wouldn't even be in the Top 20."

One score was not a surprise: No. 8 Penn State 48, Bowling Green 3. The victory put Joe Paterno in the 300 club as the fourth major-college coach to reach 300 wins. The others are Bear Bryant (323), Pop Warner (319) and Amos Alonzo Stagg (314).

No. 1 Ohio State 49, Toledo 0
Joe Germaine threw three TD passes and Michael Wiley ran for 151 yards and two TDs as the Buckeyes (2-0) prepare for next week's game against No. 21 Missouri.

Ohio State intercepted five passes and won their 20th straight home opener.

No. 2 Florida 42, Northeast Louisiana 10
At Gainesville, Fla., Jesse Palmer threw for 292 yards and four TDs in the Gators' second warmup before next week's SEC showdown at Tennessee. Florida

North Carolina State wide receiver Eric Leak (10) celebrates with Ray Robinson (5) and other teammates after he scored on a 31-yard pass from quarterback Jamie Barnette Saturday against Florida State in Raleigh, N.C.

At Berkeley, Calif., Bobby Newcombe missed his second game with a knee injury, but backups Eric Crouch and Monte Christo accounted for three TDs as the Huskers (3-0) extended their winning streak to 17 games.

No. 4 UCLA 49, Texas 31
At Pasadena, Calif., it wasn't 66-3, but it was still an impressive 11th consecutive win for the Bruins (1-0) as Cade McNown threw for 339 yards and three TDs.

Texas trailed 35-3 at the half, but Ricky Williams ran for three TDs and finished with 160 yards in a duel of Heisman Trophy contenders. Williams passed Earl Campbell to become Texas' leading rusher with 4,530 yards.

No. 5 Kansas State 73, Northeast Illinois 7
At Manhattan, Kan., Wildcats coach Bill Snyder defended his decision to let Martin Gramatica kick a school-record 65-yard field with two seconds left in the half — even though K-State was ahead by 49 points and playing a team that lost its 20th straight game.

"He had an opportunity to put his name in the record book, and in the first half of a ball game — no matter what the score — you ought to let him have that opportunity," Snyder said.

Michael Bishop ran for two TDs and threw for two others as K-State set a school record for most points in a game.

No. 7 LSU 42, Arkansas State 6
At Baton Rouge, La., Kevin Faulk gained 266 all-purpose yards and scored three TDs. Faulk ran for 180 yards and two scores and added a 58-yard punt return for a TD.

No. 20 North Carolina State 24, No. 11 Florida State 7
Holt, who had five TD catches against the Seminoles in last year's 48-35 loss, scored on a 68-yard punt return and a 63-yard pass from Jamie Barnette with 9:31 left to put the game put of reach.

"Nobody gave us a dog's chance of coming in here and winning this football game — not a prayer," NC State coach Mike O' Cain said of his team's biggest win in 31 years.

No. 13 Syracuse 38, Michigan 28
Donovan McNabb was 21 of 27 for 233 yards and three TDs, and also ran for a score, as the Wolverines became the first defending nation champs to lose their first two games since Penn State opened 0-3 in 1983. The game was played before an NCAA-record crowd of 111,012.

NO. 21 ARIZONA 31, STANFORD 14

Iowa's next opponent moves to 2-0 on season

Arizona's two quarterbacks led them to an easy victory over Stanford.

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — It doesn't seem to matter which quarterback Arizona plays.

Keith Smith and Ortege Jenkins again shared duties Saturday, and each threw a touchdown pass and combined for 288 passing yards as No. 21 Arizona defeated Stanford 31-14 in the Pac-10 opener for both teams.

"They talk about making a decision after the fourth week, but I don't know how they can," said Jenkins, who threw for 158 yards. "We have two great quarterbacks trying to lead this team and we each have things we can do."

Kevin Eafon ran for two touchdowns and Trung Canidate, in his first appearance of the year for the Wildcats, rushed for 110 yards.

Smith started and, while the Wildcats (2-0) moved the ball, they fell behind 7-0 on his watch.

"It's a good thing to have two guys," Smith said. "If one guy is not doing it, you know the other is going to do it."

Jenkins entered the game early in the second quarter and directed Arizona to a 24-point outburst.

"You have to go with the flow," Jenkins said. "I like coming in the second quarter. When you don't start, you have to relax and see what happens."

Stanford took a 7-0 lead late in the first quarter when Todd Husak hooked up with Dave Davis for a 12-yard touchdown pass.

The scoring drive was helped along when Husak found Troy Walters open for a 67-yard completion.

Walters, who owns Stanford single-season records for receptions (86) and receiving yards (1,206) last season, left the game shortly thereafter with a badly sprained right ankle and did not return. That also ended a streak of catching touchdown passes in four straight games, dating to 1997.

"Any time you've got your best player on the bench, it hurts," Husak said.

Arizona's first three scoring opportunities ended in an interception and two missed field goals. Stanford's Jamien McCullum picked off Smith's pass at the Cardinal 16 and Mark McDonald was wide left on field goals of 22 and 38 yards.

"We needed to have more to show for those opportunities," Arizona coach Dick Tomey said. "We didn't, but we hung in there and battled."

Arizona tied the score at 5:25 in the second quarter as Eafon raced 10 yards for the touchdown that culminated a nine-play, 56-yard drive. Jenkins' 20-yard run on a third-and-19 play gave the Wildcats a first down in Stanford territory on the scoring drive.

"Jenkins broke a couple on us," Stanford coach Tyrone Willingham said. "There are two very common threads to our losses: lack of tackling and penalties."

THE FACTS: The Iowa soccer team defeated Kansas and Western Illinois over the weekend. THE IMPACT: The Hawkeyes avenged a 1997 loss to the Jayhawks and improved.

By Roger Kuznia
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa women's soccer team upped its record to 4-0 with a convincing home win last weekend.

The Hawkeyes avenged last year's loss to Kansas, beat Jayhawks, 5-1, on Friday at Western Illinois, a team that went 0-17 last year, by the 7-0 on Sunday.

Head coach Stephanie Walters said scoring twice against the first 15 minutes made a difference. The goals came from defender Marcy Nelson and forward Beth Oldenburg.

"Because we were able to score (scoring) chances, we were able to take them out of their Gabbert said.

In the second half, Walters leading 3-0, Kansas' D. DeGuerre scored the first goal against Iowa this season. Walters is thus far the only Iowa goalkeepers Gabe Maurer and Melissa Wickart.

Iowa kept Kansas off the board the rest of the game, adding two more goals with Walters and Jenna Sorenson.

Walters, who accidentally scored the game-winning goal for last year, had two goals.

Iowa finished second behind national power Wisconsin, and had two runners in the top 10. However, the surprise of coach Larry Zorek, senior co-captain Steele was not one of them.

Steele, an all-Big Ten former who finished 17th in the year's Big Ten Meet, finished uncharacteristic 15th. Walters speculated that Steele's red shirt last spring's track field campaign may have had an effect on his running.

Steele hasn't had true competition since November of last year.

The Hawkeyes' other captain, senior Chad Schwan, was held out of Friday's meet to a knee injury, which Iowa's season-opening mance all the more impressive.

Hawkeyes dominate two opponents

THE FACTS: The Iowa soccer team defeated Kansas and Western Illinois over the weekend.
THE IMPACT: The Hawkeyes avenged a 1997 loss to the Jayhawks and improved to 4-0.

By Roger Kuznia
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa women's soccer team topped its record to 4-0 with two convincing home wins last weekend.
The Hawkeyes avenged last year's loss to Kansas, beating the Jayhawks, 5-1, on Friday and routing Western Illinois, a team that went 0-17 last year, by the score of 7-0 on Sunday.

Head coach Stephanie Gabbert said scoring twice against Kansas in the first 15 minutes made the difference. The goals came from defender Marcy Nelson and forward Beth Oldenburg.

"Because we were able to finish our (scoring) chances, we were able to take them out of their game," Gabbert said.

In the second half, with Iowa leading 3-0, Kansas' Danielle DeGuerre scored the first goal against Iowa this season. The goal is thus far the only one given up by goalkeepers Gabe Mauren and Melissa Wickart.

Iowa kept Kansas off the scoreboard the rest of the game and added two more goals when Kate Walse and Jenna Sorensen each scored.

Walse, who accidentally scored the game-winning goal for Kansas last year, had two goals in the game. She was assisted on each goal by Nelson.

Walse and Nelson say it's not luck that they were able to hook up twice on scoring plays. They're roommates and have played on Illinois club soccer teams for the past four years. Being around each other a lot helps them on the field.

"I think Marcy knew where I was running to on the first goal and she slotted it nicely for me," Walse said.

Nelson, who plays as a defender, said it was nice to be involved with the scoring and give some credit to the defense.

"I think we came out here knowing that we had to step it up and get them back for last fall," Nelson said. "We all clicked today. It was a good team win."

On Sunday, Walse scored her first career hat trick against Western Illinois, giving her five goals for the weekend. She, along with the rest of the starters, got the opportunity to rest in the second half while the reserves scored three more.

"Reserves certainly have a desire to play," Gabbert said. "When they get out there, they're going to play as hard as they can."

One of the goals came from freshman Jistine Oates. It was her first ever collegiate goal.

The Hawkeyes play Iowa State on Tuesday at the Hawkeye Recreation Fields. Game time is set for 4 p.m.

VOLLEYBALL

Crockett sees her team go from 4-0 to 4-3

THE FACTS: Iowa lost three matches in the Miami of Ohio Classic.
THE IMPACT: Coach Rita Crockett said she and her assistants will participate in practice this week.

By Megan Manfull
The Daily Iowan

Coach Rita Crockett entered the Miami of Ohio Classic hoping for only one thing: the championship trophy. By Saturday's final match, she was ready to settle for her team winning just one game.

Iowa was swept by Miami-Ohio (15-13, 15-10, 15-9) in the first round of competition on Friday. Alabama then swept the Hawkeyes (15-2, 15-9, 15-12) in the second round.

The Hawkeyes' long weekend of losses ended after being defeated in four sets (15-2, 10-15, 15-11, 15-3) to Fairfield University. Fairfield went on to win the championship trophy.

"Now, we have seen another side to this team, and we have to get rid of it," Crockett said.

Iowa mixed up the lineup and changed positions, but nothing seemed to help the problems.

Sophomore Sarah Beck picked up part of the load, leading the Hawkeyes in the loss against Alabama with eight kills. And senior Jordan Schultz moved from the setting position to outside hitter, adding six kills and 18 assists. "If we're talking weather, our team was really, really stormy," Crockett said. "In the second match, our team was having a tornado watch. We saw the sun once in the final match, but it went back behind a cloud eventually."

Trying to adjust to the new coaching staff and the notoriety that follows it, the Hawkeyes are learning things aren't going to be as easy as imagined.

"They have to realize they are the underdog, but not play like it," Crockett said. "But I think they've realized that we're not going to be great because 'Our coaches have touched us.'"

"We have to get our minds prepared. We will be OK."

Crockett said she's using the bright spot in the final round to build on. With a week of practice ahead, the coaching staff has adjusted its agenda.

With the first and second teams not challenging each other enough in practice, Crockett's all-star coaching staff is going to hit the courts all week.

"We're going to do the drills with them and let them feed off of us," Crockett said. "We're going to play against them and boost up the level in practice. That's what we have as a coaching staff that many don't."

WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

Hawkeyes fare well despite absences

By Eric Petersen
The Daily Iowan

At first glance, the Iowa women's cross country team's third-place finish Friday doesn't look all that significant.

But factor in the physical limitations affecting two of the Hawkeyes' top runners, senior Mandy Vitense and freshman Megan Murray, and it seems all the more impressive that they finished only five points away from winning the Illinois State Invitational.

Vitense was bothered by an allergic condition that made it difficult for her to breathe, let alone race. As a result, Vitense and Murray, who was battling the flu, finished well below where they normally would if they had been at 100 percent.

"We just had a lot of bad luck," coach Sara Swails said. "It was a meet we wanted to win but just couldn't."

Host team Illinois State finished first, followed by Northern Iowa, Iowa, and Illinois.

The highly touted freshman class ran very well as first-year runners Val Olman, Amy Murphy, and Anna Shearer were the Hawkeyes' top three finishers. Senior Jill Schiebel, Murray, Vitense, and senior Chrissie Kubitz rounded out the top seven.

Although Swails was happy with the way her team ran, she knew that if things had been different, her team would have captured the meet.

"I don't like to talk in terms of couldas or shouldas, but I'm certain if those two would have been healthy, we would have won," Swails said.

Iowa will co-host the Iowa Invitational with the men's team this Saturday at Finkbine Golf Course.

FIELD HOCKEY

Cellucci's shutouts lead Iowa to two victories

Goalkeeper Lisa Cellucci posted her 18th and 19th shutouts last weekend.

By Tony Wirt
The Daily Iowan

After a defensive breakdown against James Madison on Thursday night, the Hawkeye field hockey team tightened things up and rode goaltenders Lisa Cellucci and Kelly Druely to back-to-back shutouts in Richmond, Va., this weekend.

Iowa got its first win by hanging five goals on Towson on Saturday, then continued its winning ways by defeating Richmond, 1-0, on Sunday.

"It was very important that we came in and got these wins under our belts," coach Beth Beglin said.

The Hawkeyes kept the ball in their end most of the game against Towson, gaining a 33-11 shot advantage. Five different players scored for Iowa, including freshmen Anita Miller and Maria Merluzzi, who each notched their first goal as collegiates.

Sonia Steffler netted her third of the year, while Kelly Dolan and Kerry Lessard rounded out the scoring.

"It was nice to see us spread the ball around and not just rely on one person to do all the scoring," Beglin said. Iowa continued to put on the pressure against Richmond, and racked up eleven penalty corners.

The only goal of the game came on one of those corners, when Lessard put one in the cage for the game's only score. It was Lessard's third of the season and 44th of her career. She is now 11th on Iowa's all-time scoring list with 104 points.

The constant in the two games was the play of Cellucci, who recorded her 18th and 19th career shutouts.

"Lisa was outstanding for us, and Kelly Druely came in and gave us some good minutes, too," Beglin said. "I wasn't that happy with our defense, though. We can't keep giving them over 20 shots and expect our goalkeepers to make all the saves."

The Hawkeyes will host the Iowa Invitational next weekend. Iowa will take on Miami of Ohio in the first round on Saturday.

MEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

Iowa men finish solid second

By Eric Petersen
The Daily Iowan

Those familiar with the Iowa men's cross country team would have looked at Friday's results from the Illinois State Invitational and wondered if they were correct.

Iowa finished second overall behind national power Wisconsin, and had two runners finish in the top 10. However, much to the surprise of coach Larry Wiecezorek, senior co-captain Stetson Steele was not one of them.

Steele, an all-Big Ten performer who finished 17th at last year's Big Ten Meet, finished an uncharacteristic 15th. Wiecezorek speculated that Steele's decision to redshirt last spring's track and field campaign may have had an effect on his running.

Steele hasn't had true meet competition since November of 1997.

The Hawkeyes' other co-captain, senior Chad Schwitters, was held out of Friday's meet due to a knee injury, which makes Iowa's season-opening performance all the more impressive.

"Given that, I was really pleased," Wiecezorek said. "We answered a lot of questions."

A pair of former walk-ons, junior Paul Sarris and sophomore Nick Nordheim, were Iowa's top two finishers. Sarris ran his best time ever, finishing sixth overall, and Nordheim came in ninth, topping his best time last year by a full minute.

Two more Hawkeye underclassmen, sophomores Michael Layne and Sean Moeller, finished right behind them at 12th and 13th, respectively.

Having his team and especially his younger runners finishing so well this early in the season was very encouraging for Wiecezorek.

"It gives me a real positive feeling about the potential that we have," Wiecezorek said. "Given the fact that Stetson was our fifth man in, that was even more impressive."

Host team Illinois State was third, with Illinois and Northern Iowa rounding out the final results.

Wiecezorek believes that Steele will come back and run strong in this weekend's meet and the return of co-captain Schwitters is also likely.

UI CAPSULE

Women's Golf

This week: The Iowa women's golf team travels to Myrtle Beach, S.C., to compete in the College of Charleston Invitational today.

Meet notes: The Hawkeyes will shoot 36 holes over the next two days in the first tournament of the fall season. Juniors M.C. Mullen and Kelli Carney are expected to lead Iowa. Mullen placed third last fall in both the Spartan Invitational and the Wildcat Invitational. Iowa will send five golfers to Myrtle Beach, but only the four lowest scores will be used to calculate the final team score.

McIlravy wins bronze at World Championships

Three-time NCAA wrestling champion Lincoln McIlravy, a UI assistant coach, captured a bronze medal at the World Freestyle Championships in Teheran, Iran, last Friday.

McIlravy, a 152-pounder, lost in the first round, but came back to win all of his consolation matches.

McIlravy defeated Daniel Igali, of Canada, 6-0 in the bronze medal bout.

Poised Rafter wins Open

Australian Patrick Rafter defended his U.S. Open crown, defeating Mark Philippoussis.

By Rob Gloster
Associated Press

NEW YORK — Poise and near-perfection. With an awesome display of speed and accuracy, Patrick Rafter proved he belongs as a U.S. Open champion.

Rafter made just five unforced errors in the entire match, retaining his title Sunday by winning an all-Australian battle with Mark Philippoussis 6-3, 3-6, 6-2, 6-0.

The third-seeded Rafter won the final 10 games as Philippoussis' usually overpowering serve became a liability. The unseeded Philippoussis had just five aces and 13 double faults, the last on the final point of the match.

Rafter's victory gave the Open its second consecutive repeat champion. Pete Sampras won in 1995-96. "Now I feel that last year wasn't such a fluke. Now I can look at people and say I've done it again," Rafter said. "Having the experience last year really helped me in this match. I was very relaxed out there."

It was Aussie Rules tennis in the final, with both players diving to the concrete courts and sending volleys rocketing across the net.

Richard Drew/Associated Press

Patrick Rafter returns the ball to Mark Philippoussis during the mens singles championship at the U.S. Open tennis tournament Sunday.

But Rafter had precision to go with his power.

"I really didn't do anything that much wrong, except for a few double faults," Philippoussis said. "Pat hit a lot of passing shots, he made me volley from my shoetops. He was playing great tennis. The guy's just quick."

Rafter, who had to rally from a two-set deficit in the first round but never was threatened again in the tournament, won $700,000 and moved up to No. 2 in the world rankings — just behind Sampras, whom he defeated Saturday in the semifinals.

The match was tied at one set apiece and 2-2 in the third set when Rafter took command. After holding serve, Rafter moved to break point on an incredible point when he raced around the court to return an overhead, a forehand into the corner and a drop shot. He broke Philippoussis' serve on the next point.

Rafter then won the next eight games to close out the match.

During changeovers, Rafter thought back to his five-set victory over Hicham Arazi in the first round.

"I was thinking to myself, 'This is not right, I should be at home,'" he said. "I was very lucky and I felt that way the whole tournament, very lucky to be here."

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Grace homer ends wild day for Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Sammy Sosa tied Mark McGwire for the home run record, connecting twice to raise his total to 62 Sunday in the Chicago Cubs' 11-10, 10-inning victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Sosa homered off Bronswell Patrick in the fifth inning and Eric Plunk in the ninth, sending both balls onto the street behind the left-field fence at Wrigley Field. Sosa has four homers in his last three games.

With Sosa on deck, Mark Grace hit the game-winning homer off Al Reyes (5-1). Rod Beck (3-2) pitched one inning for the win, which kept the Cubs one game ahead of the Mets in the NL wild-card race.

Mets 1, Expos 0
MONTREAL — Brian McRae threw out Shane Andrews at home to end the game and doubled in the only run. Willie Blair (5-16) and two relievers combined on a four-hitter.

Blair (5-16) struck out six and walked two in 7 1-3 innings, and John Franco got three outs for his 36th save.

Todd Hundley, activated from the disabled list Saturday, played his first game at catcher since last Sept. 16. Hundley blocked the plate on McRae's game-saving throw and walked three times in four plate appearances.

Mark Duncan/Associated Press

Chicago first baseman Mark Grace celebrates his 10th-inning home run by raising his arms as he runs the bases at Wrigley Field.

Cardinals 3, Astros 2
HOUSTON — With Mark McGwire already out of the game, St. Louis prevented Houston from clinching its second straight NL West title.

McGwire went 0-for-2 and left with minor back spasms after four innings. St. Louis then overcame a 2-1 deficit in the eighth when Sean Bergman (12-8) walked Eli Marrero and J.D. Drew and Doug Henry gave up a two-run double to Fernando Tatis.

Blue Jays 5, Yankees 3
NEW YORK — The Blue Jays have been spoiling a lot of people's fun lately, and Sunday they wrecked what David Cone hoped would be a big day.

Cone, bidding for his first 20-win season in 10 years, was stymied as Toronto rallied for a win over the New York Yankees and moved within three games of Boston in the AL wild-card race.

Toronto took three of four from the AL East champion Yankees, and with their 14th win in 16 games, the Blue Jays are as close to the Red Sox as they've been since May 30.

Tigers 4, Red Sox 1
BOSTON — Not even Steve Avery's turn in the rotation could end the Red Sox slide, with Tony Clark's tie-breaking three-run homer leading Detroit.

The loss was Boston's eighth in 10 games, with the only two wins coming on days Avery has started. The Red Sox were 14-0 in games that Avery had gone at least five innings.

With the score tied 1-1 in the eighth, Brian Hunter reached on Nomar Garciaparra's fielding error and Juan Encarnacion singled off Greg Swindell (5-6). Clark followed by driving the next pitch over the left-field screen for his 32nd homer of the year.

During their recent slide, the Red Sox have struggled in one-run games, going 1-5, and seen their wild-card lead over Toronto cut to its slimmest margin since May 30.

Indians 6, White Sox 3
CLEVELAND — Richie Sexson hit a two-out, three-run homer in the eighth inning as Cleveland avoided a sweep at the hands of Chicago.

Sparked by a second day of brushback wars and a bench-clearing brawl, the Indians scored two runs in the seventh and three in the eighth to reduce their magic number for clinching a fourth straight AL Central title to four.

Devil Rays 10, Rangers 5
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Wade Boggs hit his fourth career grand slam and Tampa Bay again played the spoiler role.

The expansion team took two of three games from Texas, which remained one game behind division-leading Anaheim in the AL West after the Angels' 12-7 loss to Baltimore.

Juan Gonzalez of the Rangers became the first AL player since 1949 to reach 150 RBIs in a season, hitting his 42nd homer, a two-run shot in the third inning. That raised his total to 151 RBIs, the most since Vern Stephens and Ted Williams each drove in 151 in 1949.

Orioles 12, Angels 7
BALTIMORE — Rafael Palmeiro had three hits and drove in the go-ahead run as Baltimore squandered a six-run lead before completing a three-game sweep.

Despite the loss, the Angels maintained their one-game lead over Texas in the AL West.

Athletics 9, Twins 6, 12 innings
MINNEAPOLIS — Ben Grievie hit a three-run homer off Rick Aguilera (3-8) in the 12th as Oakland finished off a three-game sweep.

Hawkeyes ponder 'The Streak'

Iowa State took home the Cy-Hawk trophy for the first time since 1982.

By Andy Hamilton and Wayne Drehs
The Daily Iowan

Sooner or later, Iowa State had to win one against Iowa. Matt Stockdale just wishes it wouldn't have been during his days as a Hawkeye.

The 15-game Hawkeye winning streak against the Cyclones came to an end, as did Iowa State's 31-game road winless drought.

"It hurts," said Stockdale, a freshman defensive back. "All these other Iowa teams over the past 15 years have done it. How come we couldn't do it?"

"It's kinda embarrassing that it had to happen to us. It's tough to stay on top for so long, but it was going to happen sometime, so hopefully not again."

As the clock expired, a strong contingent of Cyclone fans stormed the field to celebrate with the team as they brought home the Cy-Hawk trophy for the first time since 1982.

"I'm glad 90 percent of the state's mad now," Iowa State strong safety Dustin Avey said. "As far as I'm concerned, it's the Cyclone State right now."

NO EXCUSES: The Iowa defense was again without two of its top performers Saturday, Eric Thigpen and Matt Hughes.

Both seniors were limited to just one series in the game, then watched the remaining action from the sideline.

Travis Sinters, Jeff McCracken, and Mike Dolezal all took turns replacing Hughes at linebacker. Stockdale saw considerable action in place of Thigpen.

Despite the injuries, though, Iowa defensive coordinator Bob Elliott refused to make excuses for Saturday's defensive breakdown.

"We didn't allow those guys to go back out there for a reason, but the guys who played are more than good enough to replace them."

Stockdale was one player Elliott singled out after the game.

"That little guy played what I thought was a pretty good game, but Iowa State just kept making great passes and great catches against him."

MCCANN'S DAY: One of the few bright spots on a dark day for the Hawkeyes was the play of quarterback Kyle McCann in his first collegiate start.

The freshman completed 19 of 30 passes for 229 yards, despite having three passes dropped by Iowa receivers. But McCann took little solace in his performance.

"The scoreboard said the Hawks lost," McCann said. "So that's not good enough."

NEW OFFENSIVE WRINKLES: The Iowa offense featured several different looks that haven't been used by the Hawkeyes in recent years.

Iowa used the shotgun several times and the Hawkeyes also featured the option and wide receiver screen.

Last week, TCU's option game turned in a 297-yard rushing day though, with Iowa State dominating in almost all aspects of the contest. On offense, defense, and special teams, the 28-point underdog Cyclones were superior.

"It's obviously very frustrating," Iowa defensive tackle Jared DeVries said. "To lose to the intrastate rival really hurts. But we are not going to tuck our tails and run. We are going to regroup and get back at it on Monday."

"There is nobody packing their tent in on this team. I guarantee it."

Offensively, Iowa State had little trouble moving the ball on an Iowa defense expected to be the team's strength. The Cyclones managed 379 yards of total offense, and went three-and-out just three times.

Neither DeVries nor anybody else on the Iowa defense could successfully control Davis, who twisted, spun, and juiced his way to the most yards by an Iowa opponent in nearly two years.

On almost all of Davis' runs, Hawkeye players had their hands on the tailback, but couldn't bring him down.

"That little guy made us look bad," Iowa defensive coordinator Bob Elliott said. "He was very quick, very elusive, and we just couldn't get our hands on him."

On defense, Iowa State held the Hawkeyes to just 42 yards rushing on 25 attempts, and constantly pressured freshman quarterback Kyle McCann, tallying six sacks in the game.

Though McCann was one of Iowa's lone bright spots in the game, throwing for 229 yards on 19-of-30 passing, he often lacked the proper protection to find the open man.

The lack of a running game didn't help keep the Cyclone defense off balance.

"We have got to find a way to run the football, or they are going to bring the pressure to us every time," center Derek Rose said.

"They came out and played a great game, but the bottom line is how we played. We didn't play how we should, and today it wouldn't have mattered who we were playing."

On special teams, the Cyclones converted a pair of early turnovers into a 10-0 lead and a huge swing of momentum.

The first was a blocked punt by Kevin Wilson, which led to a 12-yard touchdown run by Davis.

On Iowa State's following possession, the Iowa defense held, but Hill fumbled the ensuing punt, leading to a Cyclone field goal and a 10-0 lead.

"That really helped them get their momentum and build their confidence," Fry said. "And it only built as the game continued."

The Cyclones next two touchdowns came on a pair of methodical drives that mixed a plethora of quick, three-step drop passes with in a 31-21 win over the Cyclones.

REINERS' INJURY: Head coach Hayden Fry said the decision as to who to start at quarterback was made much easier by an injury to Randy Reiners.

Fry said Reiners reinjured the same knee that troubled him last year. The injury occurred in the Central Michigan game.

Reiners didn't practice all week, and only dressed for the game Saturday as a decoy. Fry didn't want Iowa State coach Dan McCarney to realize his junior quarterback was hurt.

"We had to borrow Ryan Hansen from the defense just in case something happened to McCann and Scott Mullen," Fry said. "It's that same knee from last year, so we'll have to see how it goes."

Fry said McCann was pretty sore after absorbing countless hits from the Cyclone defense Saturday, but should be ready for next week at Arizona.

LINE WOES: Iowa's offensive line continued to struggle Saturday, allowing the Cyclone defense to harass McCann, with little running room for tailback Ladell Betts.

The offense managed just 42 yards on the ground, while allowing six sacks.

Offensive line coach Frank Verducci pointed out after the game that the line is starting two 19-year-olds in Alonzo Cunningham and Ben Sobieski, and patience is key.

"It's a process where they have to grow up and get better, and they are doing so week by week," Verducci said. "They are going to get better as this comes along. I've been really impressed with their effort. We've just got to work on some of the techniques."

Senior center and team co-captain Derek Rose said the unit
