Watergate or Peyton Place? - Clinton inquiry opens

Republican and Democrats face off as the House Judiciary Committee begins impeachment probe.

By David Edgar Associated Press

WASHINGTON — In a historic step for Gene Therapy of cystic fibrosis over the last few years.

Dr. John Engelhardt, a UI professor of biology and the director of the new Medical and Tourist attractions along the route. In order to become part of route 10, the road must be improved from "not really a road" to "highway," he said.
A bedridden man being visited by a nurse in a hospital setting.
Paint-it-yourself pottery craze coming to town

As an alternative to the bars, people can head for a paint-it-yourself studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

The "bottom line is, everybody is creative," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

The "bottom line is, everybody is creative," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.

"People now have an alternative to the bars," said Michael Bart, co-owner of "DillyDilly," a pottery studio opening today.
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sports writers miss the point

Dear Editor,

I am responding to the National League Baseball Writers and Managers Association's announcement press release dated Sept. 20. The authors to be enshrined in the Hall of Fame cannot and should not be compared with the greatness of the athletes. The Hall of Fame is not a sports achievement award. It is a recognition of the contribution made by individuals to our sport. Writers are encouraged to focus on the overall impact of players, coaches, and managers on Major League Baseball, not just their individual performance statistics. The Hall of Fame is not a reflection of personal achievements.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Bowen's column rings true with fan

I am writing in response to a recent column by Bowen about what it means to be an all-time great. Bowen mentions the need for players to compete at the highest level consistently throughout their careers. While it is admirable to have players who are consistently great, it is also important to recognize those who had one great season or one standout moment.

In my opinion, an all-time great player is someone who consistently performs at a high level throughout their career. They may not have the most impressive individual statistics, but they consistently contribute to their team's success. An example of such a player is the former Iowa Hawkeyes football player, Kyle Field. Field's contributions to the Hawkeyes were consistent, and he was named to the College Football Hall of Fame. He was an all-time great player because of his consistent play and contributions to his team.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Heard no hear, speak no English

I N 1974, when Trent Lott was a first-term freshman congressman, he was appointed to the House Judiciary Committee, he said this as the committee considered the impeachment of Richard Nixon: Presidents should be impeached "only for serious misconduct dangerous to the system of government" for "general misconduct.

On Sept. 24, which was recent news, Trent Lott made the following statement to the House floor: "I think that the president was impeached because he lied to Congress.

We can all agree that the impeachment process is a difficult and costly endeavor. However, we must also remember that the impeachment process serves as a check and balance on the executive branch and helps to ensure that our government remains accountable to the people.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Teen pleads guilty in Paducah shootings

In 1990, a 15-year-old person was charged with four counts of attempted murder and three counts of assault in connection with a shooting incident at Paducah High School. The individual, identified as Patrick J., pleaded guilty to all charges and was sentenced to a minimum of 12 years in prison. The incident occurred during a basketball game, and several students were injured.

Sincerely,

[Signature]
Hellebrooks gives Serbs bombing warning
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — with Serbian forces attacking civilian targets, U.S. envoy Richard Holbrooke deter mined in an interview Tuesday that Washington's plan to pressure the Serbs is failing unless the United Nations, with Holbrooke as its mediator, can begin a counteroffensive.

Holbrooke, the U.S. assistant secretary of state, said in an interview that Washington prefers a diplomatic solution rather than a military one.

Holbrooke, who has been trying for a cease-fire with the Serbs, said he was concerned about the human rights violations that have occurred in the past.

He said it's time for the Serbs to stop the bombing of civilians.

Holbrooke, the U.S. assistant secretary
of state, said the United Nations is not doing enough to prevent the Serbs from attacking civilians.

Holbrooke, who has been working to end the war in the Yugoslav province of Kosovo, said he is concerned about the
human rights violations that have occurred in the past.

He said it's time for the Serbs to stop the
bombing of civilians.

Holbrooke, the U.S. assistant secretary
of state, said the United Nations
is not doing enough to prevent the Serbs from
attacking civilians.

Holbrooke, who has been working
to end the war in the Yugoslav province of Kosovo,
said he is concerned about the
human rights violations that have occurred in the past.

He said it's time for the Serbs to stop the
bombing of civilians.
it's something that we want Welsh said.
Continued from gene therapy and allow for new treatments. "If we can develop techniques that are more effective in the clinic, we will see a significant increase in the number of patients who can benefit from these treatments.
Continued from Page 1
he said. "I've been to Clarence Topf from Said

"Remember we are talking to a large number of people, and allowing for new treatments.
All the vehicles will continue him a speaker at the event.

Grants for both the U.S. and international programs are being considered.

Erica J. Gluckman, marketing director for the hospital, said. "We are pleased to sponsor the event and support the efforts of the Homecoming Council.

Homecoming a gold mine for local businesses

Homecoming is a major event for the homecoming

The event went successfully. The vehicles will continue to have an adverse effect on the region.

"I'm glad we made the decision to continue the event," said Melissa Hubbard, KGAN-TV
news director.

Many of the people in the region went to the event to see the carnival rides, games,
and food.

The event was a
total success,
and the council plans to continue to hold similar events in the future.

The Homecoming event was a major success,
and the council plans to
continue to hold similar
events in the future.

The event was a
total success,
and the council plans to
continue to hold similar
events in the future.

The event was a
total success,
and the council plans to
continue to hold similar
events in the future.

The event was a
total success,
and the council plans to
continue to hold similar
events in the future.
It's kids' stuff from Japan

"Wondrous Tales of Old Japan" will invade Hancher with vibrant color and sound.

By Suzanne Thomas

The theater holds an element of religion for all ages, but when it comes to parents, it's all about the color and sound, and wonder, a place where suffering and familiar tales are treated to this dramatic presentation. "Wondrous Tales of Old Japan," at Hancher Auditorium today through Friday, Nov. 6, is a stunning production of Japanese folklore. "Wondrous Tales" is performed in Kabuki style, a dance that was once used only by the highest of the Japanese court. Kabuki actors are masters of color, movement and the use of the Japanese drum, taiko, a drum that was once used in battles, but is now enjoyed by audiences.

The production, also known as "Wondrous Tales for Old Japan," was developed in late 19th century Japan as a way to preserve the art form and keep it alive. The show is directed by Hancher Auditorium's director of arts, Wally Chappell, and includes authentication and some of the cultures. "Old Japan," a good way to know Japanese culture, is well known in Japan and the United States. The show is performed at the Kabuki Theatre in Tokyo.

"Wondrous Tales" has been a hit with audiences and families alike. In addition to the visual spectacle, the centerpiece of which is the storytelling, a place where evening later, a place where people can be a place of enchantment.

"Wondrous Tales" also features the role of folk tales in the cultures. "Old Japan" educational as well, it is a Kabuki workshop was offered to the students. "Old Japan" is educational as well for students of all ages. The show is developed the project to involve the schools are a neat blend of the most entertaining and educational event of the year.

"Wondrous Tales" will present "Old Japan" to kids and maybe adults as well. The show is performed at Hancher Auditorium. Chappell believes the show's makeup, costumes and sets are well known in Japan culture. The show is performed at the Kabuki Theatre in Tokyo. "Old Japan" is educational as well for students of all ages. The show is developed the project to involve the schools are a neat blend of the most entertaining and educational event of the year.

"Wondrous Tales" will present "Old Japan" to kids and maybe adults as well. The show is performed at Hancher Auditorium. Chappell believes the show's makeup, costumes and sets are well known in Japan culture. The show is performed at the Kabuki Theatre in Tokyo. "Old Japan" is educational as well for students of all ages. The show is developed the project to involve the schools are a neat blend of the most entertaining and educational event of the year.

"Wondrous Tales" will present "Old Japan" to kids and maybe adults as well. The show is performed at Hancher Auditorium. Chappell believes the show's makeup, costumes and sets are well known in Japan culture. The show is performed at the Kabuki Theatre in Tokyo. "Old Japan" is educational as well for students of all ages. The show is developed the project to involve the schools are a neat blend of the most entertaining and educational event of the year.
DENVER (AP) - The Colorado Rockies have signed outfielder Larry Walker to a three-year contract to manage the franchise.

"Larry was a key part of our success last season," Rockies general manager Dan O'Dowd said. "He's a proven leader who will help us continue to build our team."
Kurdelemeier calls Iowa lowa program around in early 1970's

Thigpen: Time to get things turned back around

Moving on

Joe Korpela

Iowa is listed in a 10-point final and things won't get any easier for the Wolverines after they leave Iowa City. Iowa's offense and defense both played well enough to give them a good chance to win on Friday. The offense managed just 302 yards, but the defense held Michigan to just 270 yards for the fourth time in the last five games.

Iowa's defense was led by defensive end Micah Parsons, who had a sack and forced a fumble. Iowa's defense also held Michigan's offense to just one touchdown in the first half.

On the line

Iowa (5-2) vs. Michigan (3-4)

Iowa Hawkeyes

Michigan Wolverines

Iowa vs. Michigan is one of the biggest rivalries in college football. The two teams have met 79 times, with Iowa leading 45-28-6.

The game is played on a Saturday at 7 p.m. at Kinnick Stadium in Iowa City. The game is a sellout and will be broadcast on the Big Ten Network.

Michigan is coming off a loss to Michigan State, while Iowa is coming off a win over Penn State. Iowa has won three straight games, while Michigan has lost three straight.

Iowa's offense is led by quarterback Spencer Petras, who has thrown for 1,256 yards and 10 touchdowns this season. Michigan's defense is led by defensive end Aidan Hutchinson, who has 7.5 sacks and 12 tackles for loss.

Iowa's defense is led by defensive end Micah Parsons, who has 7.5 sacks and 13 tackles for loss this season. Michigan's offense is led by quarterback Cade McNamara, who has thrown for 1,652 yards and 11 touchdowns this season.
Iowa teammates and fans make loss unforseeable

I am going to try to remember playing football against Minnesota State for the first time in 1998.
I don't have another chance to ever remember against Minnesota State. It was a mediocre team, with mediocre players, and it hurts.
I wish I had been able to play.

Matt Bowen

INSIDE THE HAWKEYES

I am suddenly a token player. We have a lot of character in this locker room, but they are not the type of character that you want anyone to label as token player. The only reason I am a token player is because of a Twitter account.
The account is called "Kinnick for President." It started that it was the one.

Approximately 22

Yes, they were averaging a little more than 3 yards per carry. But they were not run well. We actually stopped the Hawkeyes twice against the closet. They were effective against New England, where the Pats were 2-0, but they've been hard to see for the last two weeks. They should move up to one of the biggest teams in the nation.

A week ago, it was the Patriots. Right now it's the Patriots. They play tonight in New England after routing Philadelphia, 7-9-20. The Eagles are ranked 24th overall, so it's a big one, but the biggest of the big teams.

Patriots are the only prob-

Don't get too excited. I still have a few more weeks left. Then I'll be back and playing in the Big Ten. After two seasons.

I am still proud to be a token player. We have a lot of character in this locker room, but they are not the type of character that you want anyone to label as token player. The only reason I am a token player is because of a Twitter account.
The account is called "Kinnick for President." It started that it was the one.

Approximately 22

Yes, they were averaging a little more than 3 yards per carry. But they were not run well. We actually stopped the Hawkeyes twice against the closest. They were effective against New England, where the Pats were 2-0, but they've been hard to see for the last two weeks. They should move up to one of the biggest teams in the nation.

A week ago, it was the Patriots. Right now it's the Patriots. They play tonight in New England after routing Philadelphia, 7-9-20. The Eagles are ranked 24th overall, so it's a big one, but the biggest of the big teams.

Patriots are the only prob-

Don't get too excited. I still have a few more weeks left. Then I'll be back and playing in the Big Ten. After two seasons.
Former Iowa wrestling coach, Kurdelmeier, dead at 62

The man who helped to create the Hawkeye wrestling program died Monday in Florida.

By James Kurzawski

Gary Kurdelmeier, the former Iowa wrestling coach who began the process of building a dominant program, died Sunday in Surfside Beach, Fla., at 80.

Kurdelmeier was named head coach in 1976 and led Iowa to four NCAA championship titles and 11 conference titles. He also served as an assistant wrestling coach under Dave Carson at the University of Minnesota.

Kurdelmeier's most notable achievement came in 1983 when he led the Hawkeyes to their first NCAA title. The win ended a 48-year drought for Iowa in wrestling.

Kurdelmeier was instrumental in recruiting student-athletes to the program and developing coaching strategies that contributed to the team's success. He was known for being a mentor to his athletes and for his dedication to the sport.

In his honor, the University of Iowa will hold a memorial service for Kurdelmeier, who is survived by his wife, Linda, and his son, Tom.

Kurdelmeier's death is a significant loss for the wrestling community and a reminder of the impact that great coaches can have on their athletes and programs.

---

VICTORY SETBACK

The team didn't have the luxury of looking back after losing to Ohio State.

---

A man who helped to create the Hawkeye wrestling program died Monday in Florida.

By James Kurzawski

Gary Kurdelmeier, the former Iowa wrestling coach who began the process of building a dominant program, died Sunday in Surfside Beach, Fla., at 80.

Kurdelmeier was named head coach in 1976 and led Iowa to four NCAA championship titles and 11 conference titles. He also served as an assistant wrestling coach under Dave Carson at the University of Minnesota.

Kurdelmeier’s most notable achievement came in 1983 when he led the Hawkeyes to their first NCAA title. The win ended a 48-year drought for Iowa in wrestling.

Kurdelmeier was instrumental in recruiting student-athletes to the program and developing coaching strategies that contributed to the team’s success. He was known for being a mentor to his athletes and for his dedication to the sport.

In his honor, the University of Iowa will hold a memorial service for Kurdelmeier, who is survived by his wife, Linda, and his son, Tom.

Kurdelmeier’s death is a significant loss for the wrestling community and a reminder of the impact that great coaches can have on their athletes and programs.

---

A man who helped to create the Hawkeye wrestling program died Monday in Florida.

By James Kurzawski

Gary Kurdelmeier, the former Iowa wrestling coach who began the process of building a dominant program, died Sunday in Surfside Beach, Fla., at 80.

Kurdelmeier was named head coach in 1976 and led Iowa to four NCAA championship titles and 11 conference titles. He also served as an assistant wrestling coach under Dave Carson at the University of Minnesota.

Kurdelmeier’s most notable achievement came in 1983 when he led the Hawkeyes to their first NCAA title. The win ended a 48-year drought for Iowa in wrestling.

Kurdelmeier was instrumental in recruiting student-athletes to the program and developing coaching strategies that contributed to the team’s success. He was known for being a mentor to his athletes and for his dedication to the sport.

In his honor, the University of Iowa will hold a memorial service for Kurdelmeier, who is survived by his wife, Linda, and his son, Tom.

Kurdelmeier’s death is a significant loss for the wrestling community and a reminder of the impact that great coaches can have on their athletes and programs.

---

A man who helped to create the Hawkeye wrestling program died Monday in Florida.

By James Kurzawski

Gary Kurdelmeier, the former Iowa wrestling coach who began the process of building a dominant program, died Sunday in Surfside Beach, Fla., at 80.

Kurdelmeier was named head coach in 1976 and led Iowa to four NCAA championship titles and 11 conference titles. He also served as an assistant wrestling coach under Dave Carson at the University of Minnesota.

Kurdelmeier’s most notable achievement came in 1983 when he led the Hawkeyes to their first NCAA title. The win ended a 48-year drought for Iowa in wrestling.

Kurdelmeier was instrumental in recruiting student-athletes to the program and developing coaching strategies that contributed to the team’s success. He was known for being a mentor to his athletes and for his dedication to the sport.

In his honor, the University of Iowa will hold a memorial service for Kurdelmeier, who is survived by his wife, Linda, and his son, Tom.

Kurdelmeier’s death is a significant loss for the wrestling community and a reminder of the impact that great coaches can have on their athletes and programs.