Student Health seeks to ward off another brutal flu season by offering immunizations now.

By Jerry Ams

Last year, students seeking relief from the flu were standing in lines to get injected by the Student Health Services flu shot clinic.

To avoid those crowds, Student Health Services is offering flu immunizations, hoping to guard against a flu outbreak similar to last year's, when 451 UI students were infected with influenza. Flu shots are now available at Student Health Services in the union.

U.S. News & World Report ranked the University of Iowa as the best school in the nation for student health services.

Washington (AP) — The Supreme Court Tuesday allowed California to deny gay couples the right to marry, a ruling that will have implications for the nation's gay rights movement.

The court's 5-4 decision, with Chief Justice John Roberts writing the majority opinion, is the most significant development in the gay rights movement for more than a decade.

The court's ruling could mean that gay couples in California will now have the right to marry, a victory that could have far-reaching implications for gay rights around the country.

UISG no longer fighting proposed tuition hike

By Richard Anderson

UI Student Government members seem to have given up their fight against the proposed tuition hike. A survey showing that 76.8 percent of UI students oppose the proposed increase didn't make the requisite number of phone calls, and they have been holding meetings to discuss the issue in a more informal fashion.

UISG is preparing a memorandum to the regents for next week's meeting — similar to the one presented at last month's meeting — which highlights expectations against the proposed increase, the largest in five years.

We've already appealed the students as new we're focused on getting the message across to the regents, said UISG president Eric Scull. Student government members at the other regents institutions, however, have not been involved in the move.

The Iowa State University Student Government has begun a comprehensive post-merger campaign that it hopes will be more than the regents have seen before.

The Nobel Peace Prize laureate had said he would neither write nor speak about the horrors he witnessed in concentration camps.

By Beck Mon

The 1986 Nobel Peace Prize laureate Eli Wiesel has said he would neither write nor speak about the horrors he witnessed in concentration camps.

Wiesel was 13 when his parents and six brothers were killed in the Holocaust. He later became a renowned teacher, author and activist.

Only Wiesel and two of his sisters survived.

"The suffering," said Barbara Wexler, the author and editor of Wiesel's "The Night," a book about his experiences, said he would not speak about the suffering in his life.

Yugoslav government outlines peace plan

Officials admitted Tuesday they could take months or years to implement an international observers are on the ground to ensure Milosevic lives up to the agreement.

By James Kallstrom

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia. — Running to meet a deadline set by NATO, the government outlined a plan Tuesday to stop the fighting, withdraw troops and set up a new government.

The plan, which was agreed to by the government, opposition parties and international monitors, is designed to end the fighting and begin the process of drawing up a new government.

President Slobodan Milosevic was expected to take part in the meeting due to students' schedules.

Next week's monthly regents meeting was postponed.

It provided a detailed outline of the peace plan, but it caused mixed reactions.

Some international observers said they were encouraged by the plan, which they said would lead to a peaceful resolution of the conflict.

But others criticized the plan, saying it was too vague and did not address the root causes of the conflict.

The United Nations Security Council has appealed for an end to the fighting, and the Council of Europe has called for a peaceful resolution.

High court upholds anti-gay law, contradicting previous ruling

The U.S. Supreme Court has upheld a Virginia law that bars gay and lesbian couples from marrying.

The court ruled 5-4 in favor of the state, which argued that the Constitution does not guarantee same-sex marriage rights.

The decision is a setback for gay rights advocates, who had hoped for a more favorable outcome.

The court's decision comes as the country continues to grapple with the issue of same-sex marriage, with some states allowing it and others outlawing it.

Gay rights advocates have long sought to overturn the Virginia law, which had been in place since the 1960s.

But the court's decision means that the law will remain in place, at least for now.

GAY slaying triggers anti-gay hatred

Issues narrowing on budget

𝕿𝖍𝖚𝖔𝖗 بواسodef ழ𝖊 .veler,  _said discussions could end today.

By Brian Fung

WASHINGTON — Their differences are far from resolved, but House and Senate budget negotiators said yesterday that they have agreed on a budget framework that would provide $3 trillion for the next fiscal year, including $270 billion for defense spending.

Democrats and Republicans are still at odds over how to pay for the deficit, but they have reached a compromise on several key issues. The framework includes

- $1 trillion for defense spending
- $1 trillion for non-defense spending
- $1 trillion for entitlements

Democrats want to use tax increases to pay for the deficit, while Republicans prefer spending cuts and changes to entitlement programs. The framework sets a framework for further negotiations, but it is not yet clear whether a final agreement can be reached.

AIDS

The movement toward making AIDS a priority on the political agenda has been slow and incremental, but there are signs that this trend is accelerating.

- The Obama administration has signaled its commitment to addressing the AIDS epidemic.
- Congress has passed legislation to increase funding for AIDS research and treatment.
- The global response to the epidemic has been strengthened.

Despite these positive developments, the AIDS epidemic remains a major public health crisis, especially in sub-Saharan Africa. The need for continued investment and innovation is clear.

Matthew Shepard

Gay slaying

The killing of Matthew Shepard, a University of Wyoming student who was shot and left to die on a National Forest Service road near Laramie, Wyoming, in 1998, has inspired outbursts of anti-gay violence across the country.

- Shepard was beaten and left to die in a极其 violent manner.
- His death has motivated efforts to pass hate crimes legislation.
- Anti-LGBTQ hate crimes have increased in recent years.

The case has also highlighted the need for better training and support for law enforcement officers who respond to hate crimes.

Hate Crimes

Collins, author of the book "Hate Crimes: The New American Prejudice," has written that hate crimes legislation following Shepard's death was a "triumph of civil rights advocacy." The legislation was enacted in 1996 and has been renewed several times since then.

- It provides for federal funding to states to hire hate crimes prosecutors.
- It also allows for federal civil rights lawsuits.

The legislation has had mixed success, with some states choosing not to proceed with it.

An ugly reminder of intolerance

H OW long can the fantasy continue? America the Beautiful, the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave has once again proven itself unworthy of those epithets.

Matthew Shepard, 21, died early Monday after being tortured and murdered in an open field in Laramie, Wyo. His murder wasn't cause for shock. It was a callous violation of human rights we should have expected. Everyone knew the tragic outcome of being gay in Wyoming.

The criteria for getting a public-intoxication ticket are to be drunk, the person has gotten into a fight or the person has caused a disturbance. Shepard was drunk. He was also beaten to death because his判断 was impaired.

The issue at hand is not a lack of discretion in police officers. They can, and probably should, be more selective in getting people in trouble.

The current law is not even tough enough to deter the kind of behavior that has been attributed to gay University of Wyoming student's death. Do you think there is any chance of ending such acts of violence unless the law is changed? We have a civic duty to make the world a better place, one act of kindness at a time.
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR
Columbus' legacy not worth honoring
To the Editor:
It isn't only that all American cliches come together to constitute the cliches of men who raped, killed and kidnapped hundreds of people, stole their natural resources, claimed their land for a foreign country and began a 500-year paradigm. It's also the easy fix for us that we can acknowledge these great deeds of the man and yet Christopher Columbus, I know, most of us couldn't be the fools who "discover" the New World (if it wasn't herebefore and the people who lived here since the last Ice Age) and brought about the untamed continent for the untamed continent.

The Americas were inhabited by various native cultures. These included the Mayans, Aztecs and Incas of South and Central America, the Inuit and other First Nations of the Americas, all at a common history of collapsing the natural world and their inhabitants.

There were the "Indian war" and "Indian savages" of North, South and Central America and the Caribbean supported nearly 150 savages native races, each with its own distinct language, culture and political system.

It's not often you see that Columbus was the first of the conquistadors to bring about the extermination of the native population and thus lost their spiritual and cultural heritage. Columbus was a conqueror. Columbus was a slaver. Columbus was a murderer. Columbus was a rapist.

If you examine the true history, you will see that Columbus was one of the most successful at his job. It's interesting to note that Columbus came to the Americas to go to the New World and teach the children the truth about this man and the actions of the other conquerors. This is the legacy that Columbus left behind.

This is the true history, the story of the untamed continent, the untamed continent, the untamed continent.

They win and they lose."

To the Editor:
I am writing regarding the weekly column by Matt Bowen. I must say up front that I am not a huge sports fan and I have never understood the faculty having to do with sports. They win and they lose. I am not a huge sports fan and I have never understood the faculty having to do with sports. They win and they lose. I look forward to Bowen's weekly column for the perspective it gives on what truly is important about team sports — the experience of working as a team for a common goal.

Grasping the separation of ‘slimmed-down art’

By Alan Merdes

A new and valuable framework for the understanding of the Loco-Locictions is offered by Carlos Drummond de Andrade, as well as by the poetry of Rafael Alberti and Mark Strand, through the separation of ‘slimmed-down art’ as opposed to ‘full-cream art’.

Loco-Locictions are part of the poetry of Carlos Drummond de Andrade, as well as the poetry of Rafael Alberti and Mark Strand, through the separation of ‘slimmed-down art’ as opposed to ‘full-cream art’. NEW YORK - The strike is over in 31 NBA teams Friday, and basketball fans around the nation can once again watch players shoot, score and box out for the best 18 teams in the league. The New York Knicks opened their season against the Miami Heat tonight. The NBA's decision comes after two weeks of the 1999-2000 season. The league had promised to play a season if a new labor agreement was reached. But when that failed, the NBA owners and players went their separate ways. The league said its mission was to save the season, and that's exactly what it did. It's a great day for basketball fans everywhere. Happy basketball season!

By Joe Walker

The Atlanta Braves have six wins to six defeats this season, but the team is expected to return to the lineup as San Francisco tries to wrap up its first trip to the World Series.

Atlanta, Padre's manager Bruce Bochy, said the team was "in the same boat," but Bochy added that the Braves had a "good chance of getting there." He added that "we feel like we have a chance of getting there.""It's the first time I've ever pitched in relief where it was so hard to know if I was good," Bochy said. "I feel bad about that second strike, because I was trying to get a three-run homer in the eighth inning, and how we are starting to swing the bat." (Bob Myers)

Bochy said that he attacked two men following Tyson's refusal to return to the ring. "I think we had a chance of getting there," Bochy said. "But we felt we had a chance of getting there."

Bochy said that he had told his players to "think of it as being in a big game," and how we are starting to swing the bat. Bochy said that he had told his players to "think of it as being in a big game," and how we are starting to swing the bat. "It's the first time I've ever pitched in relief where it was so hard to know if I was good," Bochy said. "I feel bad about that second strike, because I was trying to get a three-run homer in the eighth inning, and how we are starting to swing the bat." (Bob Myers)
The Hoosiers have already won two games, the same amount (2-0) that led them to their Big Ten title last year. By Steve Hermln

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana's three Big Ten losses have been by a total of 18 points, which the Hoosiers are very much aware of.

"That's what we're talking about, that we've played with a lot of teams," senior quarterback Antwaan Randle El said. "We've just got to get the results to show for it.

The Hoosiers dropped 49-7 to No. 12-ranked Penn State in their last game on Oct. 14, which was a tough loss for the team.

"We've got to be ready when we play them,

status of Randle El still uncertain

Iowa City, Iowa

No player: "Physically, it won't be fun on paper," said coach Hayden Fry. "I've seen exciting players I've seen years ago. He's just fun to watch."

Iowa (3-3, 2-1) is looking to get back to .500 in the Big Ten with a win over Illinois last week. The freshman has been 0-2 in the Big Ten with a loss to Minnesota. "If we had been 0-2 in the Big Ten," Fry said, "we've done OK."

In the mean time, there's a question as to when Randle El will return.

"We're just focused on the game," Fry said. "We're not ready to talk about making any decisions.

The Hoosiers are playing well but not at their best, according to Fry. "Having Antwan might get the rest of the season.

The Hoosiers have four losses in the past four games, but are still looking at a bowl bid. "That's a great thing, coach Joe Tiller said. "We're not talking about making any decisions.

Brees' arm OK after record performance

By Steve Hermln

New Orleans — Drew Brees passed for 494 yards last week against San Francisco, tying an NFL record, and he is now an NFL record holder. Brees has passed 3,000 yards in each of his first 11 games this season.

"It's a great thing, coach Joe Tiller said. "We're not talking about making any decisions.

The quarterback also expressed his thoughts on the upcoming game against the Panthers. "I'm just excited to play them," Brees said. "I'm just excited to play them."

Auburn coach believes 1-4 start is a test

Todd Heffernan's Auburn coach believes he'll get a glimpse into this week. Terry Bowden is going to a two-quarterback setup in order to see how freshman Lezard and sophomore Ben Gross respond.

The news is barely dry on the new setup, and if you can't handle it, love our kids and give them the encouragement they need to not get me fired. We're going to a two-quarterback setup with sophomore Ben Gross, who has been our third-string quarterback, and freshman Lezard, who is very athletic.

Gross is 6-foot-3 and 190 pounds, and Lezard is 6-foot-2 and 180 pounds. They both have good arms, and we're going to see how they handle the situation.

We've already lost four centers and the criticism is there. The trials and tribulations of the team are tough, but we can do it. We're going to see how they handle the situation.

McGwire to adorn Wheaties box

AUGUSTA VALLEY MINES, Minn. — The Minnesota Twins have a new face this week. Mark McGwire of the St. Louis Cardinals has changed his look onto the Wheaties box.

General Mills introduced a special Wheaties box commemorating the incredible season in which McGwire shattered Roger Maris' single-season record by hitting 70 home runs.

A total of 1.1 million McGwire boxes will be available in the public mistaking next week.

The company also said it would give away 10 units in the Bowls of Wheaties, Heavy Frosted flakes and Honey Flakes, each valued at $13.

LONDON (AP) — A world heavyweight title unification fight between Evander Holyfield and Lewis will be held at the end of February or early March.

The fight is tentatively scheduled for late February or early March and is expected to be at Las Vegas. Holyfield would reportedly earn $85 million for risking the WHA title, while Lewis is expected to earn about $50 million for the IBF championship on the bill.

"It's on, that's for sure," Holyfield said Tuesday. "I spoke to Evander and it's on, it's ready.

"We definitely had the bestjamin for us."
Injuries, road trips worry undefeated Jaguars

With looming injuries and a three-game road trip ahead, the Jaguars are worried about winning streak coming to an end.

By John Fels
Associated Press

Jacksonville, Fla. — The Jacksonville Jaguars are proof that unbalanced and unseasoned rosters can differently things.

With three straight road trip looming and a host of injuries to worry about, the Jaguars are searching for answers in a three-game road trip that begins Sunday in San Diego.

"Will need to see an even more demanding road trip having four games in three weeks and four other games in the next five weeks," said Jaguars coach Gary Carter. "Our team is not used to that.

The Jaguars compiled 4-7 trips in previous years, and are looking to go to a 1-0 record and two time-zone changes that turned out to be 3-1-0.

With those injuries, it's not surprising that the Jaguars are looking to their depth to fill the void.

"We've made the necessary corrections and we made the best decision based on what we've seen so far," Carter said.

It's the fourth time in five games, with two of them being located in the state of New York.

"There are only three undefeated teams in the NFL, and we're one of them," said left tackle Tony Tolbert. "We're not pretty. But we're good enough to win at the end of the season."

STUDENT GROUPS AND ORGANIZATIONS AT THE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

RECOGNITION AND FUNDING PROVIDED BY THE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Each year, the University of Iowa Student Government (UISG) recognizes approximately 375 student groups and organizations. Once recognized, these bodies receive the privileges accrued to all student groups and organizations. These privileges include the right to apply for UISG fiscal year and supplemental period funding, the right to apply for office space, the right to advertise in areas allocated for student group and organization advertising and the free circulation of the group's or organization's name, contact people and function.

The UISG Budgeting Committee (SABAC) is responsible for the annual distribution of nearly one million dollars in funds to recognized student groups and organizations. This money is distributed from the portion of the student activity fee -- assessed each student -- allotted to the UISG. The ten member SABAC makes budgeting recommendations to the UISG's Student Assembly (SA). The SA makes final determinations on allocations based on SABAC's recommendations.

Student groups and organizations that are not recognized by the UISG are ineligible for funding and do not receive the privileges received by recognized bodies. Unrecognized groups and organizations may petition for recognition by filling out a short form in the Office of Student Life (OSL) in the Iowa Memorial Union (IMU). Once the form is completed, the Executive Officers of the three UISG Senates -- the Undergraduate Activities Senate (UAS), The Undergraduate Collegiate Senate (UCS) and the Graduate Professional Student Senate (GPSS) -- review the application for recognition and recommend recognition of the student group or organization. The SA considers the recommendation of the three Executives and makes a final determination on recognition. This information is public and is posted in the UISG display case on the north end of the ground floor corridor of the IMU. The information is also kept for review in room 48 IMU.

Prior to this year, dissemination of information pertaining to recognized student groups and organizations was the responsibility of the group and OSL. Each year, OSL provides a listing of student group and student organization information. This year, in an effort to provide the student body with better information on these groups, the UISG is providing a summary of student group and student organization listings. It is our hope that this list provides useful information and that it permits students to pursue any of the diverse opportunities offered by the numerous recognized student groups and organizations.
