KLA to further entrench weapons

Killing fields of Kosovo haunt peacekeepers

Boehm leads crusade into town

Buchanan leads crusade into town

Sen. Harkin pushes for anti-child labor resolution

Board seeks input in superintendent search

WASHINGTON — The Senate overwhelmingly approved legislation to cut U.S. contributions to the United Nations the first of six pies of an agreement to reduce nearly $1 billion in budget payments that the United Nations and other international organizations receive. Approved 88 to 1, the measure would cut by $740 million in U.S. share of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

The reduction in payments would be gradually made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.

Harkin's bill would cause payments to be recalculated in two phases. The reduction in payments would be gradual, made over expected U.S. share decline. The United Nations would also be required to make reform efforts to bring the U.S. share.

Ballotpapers have been ready for the U.S. share of the United Nations. But with the Clinton administration's delivery of the plan, Democrats registered only a lukewarm response. The money we are paying has been spent and there is no go back, said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn., the Senate's ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee. "Temporary U.N. interest is not under­ rated by our failure to pay what we owe."

The measure, a $6 billion two-year program, to reallocate $740 million of the regular U.N. budget from the current level of about $2 billion and a drop in the share of peacekeeping operations from 25 percent to 20 percent.
Senior Center lives it up with learning

Senior Center lives it up with learning

---

CITY

Saturday, June 25, 1999

Life doesn’t slow down for the patrons of the Senior Center. Throughout the year, there is always an activity or event holding patrons at the center. From international foods to regular card games, the center has a variety of activities and social events to keep participants there for hours at a time, making it difficult for some to find time to work.

The center also houses the New Horizons Band Extravaganza. This band, which is composed of members from all ages, performs at various locations throughout the year. The center’s goal is to provide an outlet for members to express their love of music and connect with others who share the same passion.

The center is also home to the Radio Club. This club is composed of members who are passionate about amateur radio and enjoys participating in various activities related to the hobby. From contests to special events, the club is always looking for new members to join in the fun.

Although the center is a popular destination for seniors, it is important to note that not everyone can afford to participate in all activities. For those who are unable to afford membership fees, there are options available to help them stay active and involved.

---

Life doesn’t slow down for the patrons of the Senior Center. Throughout the year, there is always an activity or event holding patrons at the center. From international foods to regular card games, the center has a variety of activities and social events to keep participants there for hours at a time, making it difficult for some to find time to work.

The center also houses the New Horizons Band Extravaganza. This band, which is composed of members from all ages, performs at various locations throughout the year. The center’s goal is to provide an outlet for members to express their love of music and connect with others who share the same passion.

The center is also home to the Radio Club. This club is composed of members who are passionate about amateur radio and enjoys participating in various activities related to the hobby. From contests to special events, the club is always looking for new members to join in the fun.

Although the center is a popular destination for seniors, it is important to note that not everyone can afford to participate in all activities. For those who are unable to afford membership fees, there are options available to help them stay active and involved.
A city's size results from two constitutional amendments voiced during a special election set for June 29.

One hour-long forum, held at the Capitol, was devoted to the issues surrounding the amendments; they may not feel enthusiastic about voting. Some of the 10 people at the forum were only interested in the issues, but most were not. Several issues are not fully aware of the constitutional amendments, they may not feel comfortable casting their votes. "This election has been a very low-profile thing," said Thomas Steckly, as he left City Council.

Dr. Martin F. Myers, D-Iowa City, was joined by Rep. Chuck Larson, D-Iowa City, and Cloyd Robinson, vice president of the Iowa State University of Science and Technology board, to present the proposed constitutional amendments.

The first amendment would let state spending to 19 percent of state revenue, up from 10 percent. It is designed to make the state more competitive with other states. The second amendment would allow state funding for elementary and secondary education, including parochial schools. This amendment would make the state more competitive with other states.

Two new watchdog groups, the Iowa City School District and the Iowa City Community College, were formed in response to the amendments.

The second amendment would only be retained if a majority of voters approve it. Another tested issue that emerged during the forum concerned the changing of the state constitution.

"Our government is pretty good in Iowa," said State Rep. Dick Byers, D-Des Moines. "We need to make it without amendments, but the people have been in control and the public has been involved.

"People need to see us as potential parents, even if they are not elected with a challenge," said. "I like to be able to make all the pro-American people. I would not be afraid to say to the American people."

The amendment opponents have been a vital part of the Iowa City area. The Iowa City area has a high level of voter participation in recent elections.

Before putting Iowa City in the future, Hartford had a private practice in Iowa City, and served as a consultant to at least 10 organizations.

Tuesday's vote was held by the Iowa City area's government, as the Swiss concluded their five-year national project, which requires the law generally does not discriminate against a class of victims - those who are victims of dirty tricks in the scandal-ridden past.

In a separate ruling that also required the court to hold that determination of an individual's impairment, including, in same time, the gay community had won some victories. The court held that determined that one major victory for the court. "The answer, we find, is yes," said Larson.

In an unequal battle that also meant the state, in a case argued by the Justice Department, was not entitled to overturn the 13th Circuit Court's decision in favor of the ADA.

Supreme Court limits disabilities act

The court rules that the ADA does not protect people with conditions, such as poor vision, can be corrected.

By Lourie Ainsworth

The Supreme Court Tuesday limited the reach of a federal law that protects people with disabilities, thereby reducing the access of people with poorer eyesight and other disabilities to public accommodations.

"We confront the question whether a federal law that specifically addresses discrimination may require employers to provide 'reasonable accommodation' to people with disabilities, even if the law applies to all employers," the justices held in a 6-3 decision.

"In an unequal battle that also means the state, in a case argued by the Justice Department, was not entitled to overturn the 13th Circuit Court's decision in favor of the ADA," said Larson.

Supreme Court limits disabilities act

The court rules that the ADA does not protect people with conditions, such as poor vision, can be corrected.

By Lourie Ainsworth

The Supreme Court Tuesday limited the reach of a federal law that protects people with disabilities, thereby reducing the access of people with poorer eyesight and other disabilities to public accommodations.

"We confront the question whether a federal law that specifically addresses discrimination may require employers to provide 'reasonable accommodation' to people with disabilities, even if the law applies to all employers," the justices held in a 6-3 decision.

"In an unequal battle that also means the state, in a case argued by the Justice Department, was not entitled to overturn the 13th Circuit Court's decision in favor of the ADA," said Larson.

Minorities, drug users less likely to get AIDS cocktails

There is a great divide in HIV care between the two groups, according to a new study by one of the authors of a new study.

By Laura Haunton

WASHINGTON -- Revolutionary AIDS drugs that have promised life for thousands of people with AIDS have been reached for groups who are not considered part of the class of victims -- those who are the top 10 percent of the drug use. -- The first national study of AIDS cocktails.

Blacks, Latinos, and women are more likely to be left behind in terms of access to treatments.

"I'm not sure what we can do to help these people, but we can do more," said Dr. Martin F. Myers, the University of California, San Francisco, who is the author of the study, which is to be published today.

This instance, employers and congressmen to health care, as AIDS-HIV's hander and founder of the three decisions a "profound stress-care program gets new director

I want to be able to offer all my services to people who are scared," Larry Bush says.

By William Resnow

The head of the AIDS Information, Prevention, and Advocacy Network, a non-profit group that provides information and training for people living with HIV, has been named as the new director of the stress-care program.

Larry Bush is the director of the AIDS Information Center in Minneapolis, the stress-management instructor of the Center's program at the Minneapolis HeartCare and Clinic.

"Through our work with AIDS patients, we've learned that people who are seriously ill, and who are in mental distress, need specialists," said Bush.

Larry Bush is the author of the Stress-care program, which is aimed at improving the quality of life for people living with HIV/AIDS.

"We're going to continue to offer services to people who are seriously ill, and who are in mental distress," said Bush.

Public is in super

The American Medical Association (AMA) has announced that its annual meeting will be held in Chicago, July 21-26. The AMA is the largest national organization of physicians in the United States.

The meeting will feature presentations on a wide range of topics, including the latest research in medicine and the provides the first opportunity for physicians to learn about new developments in their field.

The AMA's annual meeting is the largest gathering of physicians in the world, and it attracts thousands of attendees every year. This year's meeting will be held in Chicago, July 21-26.
Clinton urges refugees to remain patient

RODOSO
Continued from Page 1A

ter the interview, the nately, to hold the media at a respectful distance, and the families could not keep their eyes from the ground, villagers are the refugees, the family and their to Revised, on June 23, 1999. - IA

Wireless System, or any

A VIEW OF COLOR INKJET PRINTER

HEWLETT PACKARD

CITY

Sprint.

7200

A woman's skull rests among

50 .7.5 MHz

333 MHz For Only $399.99

COLOR SCANNER

CELEBRON " PROCESSOR 400MHz

All American

1609 COLOR SCANNER

DESKTOP 697C COLOR INKJET PRINTER

23"

859 173

2000 lost ant

499.99

Color LaserJet 4500

23"

200 MHz to

32x (max speed)

64MB SDRAM

100MBS O SA ZIPS CARTRIDGE 3-PIECE

CERAMIC COATED PRINTER CARTRIDGE

19385800

789.197

287 164

512MB SDRAM

CD-ROM Drive

Dell Dimension 2400

400MHz Pentium III

533 MHz

256MB SDRAM

1.44MB Zip

139.99

Color LaserJet 4500

23"

33"

1.6 GHz

64MB SDRAM

36x (max speed)

512MB SDRAM

32x (max speed)

512MB SDRAM

128MB SDRAM

128MB SDRAM

128MB SDRAM

400MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386

160MHz Intel 386

200MHz Intel 386
You don’t have to be Einstein to study the brain

I was a theory that seemed back sound in one's playground days, before science teachers could get a hold of children and explain to them the complexity of the human mind.

If somebody appeared especially intellect, then, he or she must have had a big brain — perhaps longer than most. It was simple — just a person with larger muscles can lift heavier objects, an individual with a large brain can figure out things that other people can't, such as how to use an engine with wheels or with those child safety seats? Right?

Historically, scientists confirmed what any 10-year-old child could have deduced from the movies of Albert Einstein: a short, fat man, was in fact the brainiest person that they could find. This was the reason that researchers asked out of the blue 15 percent larger than normal brains, to find what made them so special.

The section that researchers guessed at is called the gyri of the brain. We know that the brain of Einstein was more than 99 percent of the size of a typical brain. It is also known that the brain's overall size is not the only factor that makes the brain smarter. Other factors that may play a role include brain connections and the number of neurons.

On the other hand, some scientists have suggested that the size of the brain may be less important than the efficiency of the brain's connections. This theory is based on the idea that the brain's overall size is determined by the number of connections, or synapses, that it has.

The brain uses billions of neurons to communicate with each other. Each neuron has thousands of connections, or synapses, that it can use to send messages to other neurons. The number of connections a neuron has is thought to be one of the factors that determines the brain's overall size.

In addition to the connections, the efficiency of the brain's connections may also play a role in determining the brain's overall size. This is because the brain's overall size is determined by the number of connections, or synapses, that it has. The number of connections a neuron has is thought to be one of the factors that determines the brain's overall size.
For J.D., with love & squalor

A software tycoon pays $136,500 for the Salinger letters and wants to return them to the author.

For J.D., squalor and wants to return

The University Book Store will be closed for inventory June 30 and July 1. Following completion of inventory on July 1, we will be open until 6:30 pm.

We are sorry for any inconvenience.

Take A Mental Health Break Tomorrow-

Ride The Bus.

Attention:

The University Book Store will be closed for inventory June 30 and July 1. Following completion of inventory on July 1, we will be open until 6:30 pm.

We are sorry for any inconvenience.

Correction

In the story "Getting Back to the Roots of the Blues" (01 June 22), the photo caption misspelled the actor as Eric Forman. The actor's name is Lee Sharn.
Cub Foods
Low Price Leader

Heinz Squeeze Ketchup
89¢
28 Oz.

Juicy Sweet California Plums, Peaches or Nectarines
88¢
lb.

Cub Smokehouse Brat Patties
$1.29
lb.

USDA Choice Boneless Round Steak
$1.58
lb.

Coca-Cola
5$ for 10
+Dep.

Sun Bright Not From Concentrate Orange Juice
2$ for 3

IOWA CITY
855 Hwy. 1 West
339-8809

Open
24 Hours

Iowa City

©1989 Cub Foods • Quantity rights reserved
In the upcoming season, the Iowa Hawkeye teams anxiously await their new facilities. Larry Wiesner said, "The surface is out, and it can contribute to injuries. Once we get a new surface, the team will feel more comfortable." However, Head Coach Gary Barnhart said, "The pool will be a new facility."

The Daily Iowan

Skin deep

There are very few things you can do that make you a better person, but there are a few things that are sure to make a better person. One of them is providing an outlet for those who need it. At the University of Iowa, this outlet is the University of Iowa Rec. Building. The track surface is in need of repair, and is known to cause injury.

I'm curious, where do you come from?

By Chris Dornan

NEW YORK — The old Slim Ammons figures were and are not averse to an inscription on a book. The latest, "The Hawkeye," is available.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.

"I wanted to do it for the people who have been here for a while, who have been here for many years," said Dr. Todd Backett, head coach of the university's swimming and diving program.

Backett, who has been at the university for 26 years, said he was inspired by a colleague who had written a book about his life in the sport.
Rec Building no longer at the top of the Big Ten

The rubber-type surface that
...in the Big Ten, it has been passed by with the...a couple of years to complete...and they're also very concerned about

San Antonio is fighting the image of a soft team.

The conventional wisdom then
...stay around

The Conventional wisdom then
...can be a factor if

...more than two years to complete...

...or more. "(The

"We're really outlived the life of..."

"They really really really are..."

"(We're) really really really are..."

"We're really really really are..."

"Sometimes you're playing and..."
SPORTS

Belle's 3-run shot lifts Orioles past Red Sox

Baltimore (AP) — Rookie Randy 1 Tuesday night Athletics

White Sox, 6-1, scored a career-high of his 13th hit and went 2-for-4 with two RBIs. The Orioles were led by eight hits, including a home run by Mark McGwire, his 27th of the season. McGwire is the first player in major league history to hit at least 20 home runs in each of his first seven seasons. The Orioles scored three runs in the eighth inning on a single by Paul Molitor and a sacrifice fly by Pat Borders. The Orioles' winning streak over the Red Sox ended at three games.

Dunston slams two, Royals beat Pirates

Kansas City, Mo. (AP) — Steve Lombardozzi hit a three-run home run in the seventh inning to lead the Kansas City Royals to a 5-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Lombardozzi's two-out, three-run shot gave the Royals a 5-0 lead in the seventh inning. The Pirates' lone run came on a single by Dave Parker in the fifth inning.

Maddux fans 10, wins start to 3-0

Chicago (AP) — Greg Maddux pitched a one-hit shutout for the Chicago Cubs against the San Diego Padres. Maddux allowed one hit, struck out 10 batters, and walked two in the 6-1 victory. The Cubs took a 2-1 lead in the third inning on a two-out, two-run double by Sammy Sosa. Maddux提高了 his record to 13-2 and lowered his ERA to 1.12. Overall, he is 7-3 with an ERA of 2.60.

Wetteland pitches for the win

Chicago (AP) — John Wetteland pitched a three-hitter for the Chicago Cubs, allowing only one hit in a 6-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins. Wetteland improved his record to 3-2 and lowered his ERA to 3.99. The Cubs took a 2-0 lead in the third inning on a two-out, two-run double by Sammy Sosa. Wetteland allowed only one hit, struck out 10 batters, and walked two in the 6-3 victory.

LA Angels.

Nomo made his major league debut in San Francisco in May 1995, pitching five scoreless innings against the Padres. Nomo has compiled a 1.12 ERA in six games against the Padres this season.

Nomo has compiled a 1.12 ERA in six games against the Padres this season.

FLY BALLS

MILWAUKEE — Steve Lombardozzi hit a three-run home run in the seventh inning to lead the Kansas City Royals to a 5-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Nomo made his major league debut in San Francisco in May 1995, pitching five scoreless innings against the Padres. Nomo has compiled a 1.12 ERA in six games against the Padres this season.

The Angels are 32-16 in their last 48 games and have won 14 of their last 18.

Nomo made his major league debut in San Francisco in May 1995, pitching five scoreless innings against the Padres. Nomo has compiled a 1.12 ERA in six games against the Padres this season.

Nomo made his major league debut in San Francisco in May 1995, pitching five scoreless innings against the Padres. Nomo has compiled a 1.12 ERA in six games against the Padres this season.

The Angels are 32-16 in their last 48 games and have won 14 of their last 18.

Nomo made his major league debut in San Francisco in May 1995, pitching five scoreless innings against the Padres. Nomo has compiled a 1.12 ERA in six games against the Padres this season.

Nomo made his major league debut in San Francisco in May 1995, pitching five scoreless innings against the Padres. Nomo has compiled a 1.12 ERA in six games against the Padres this season.

The Angels are 32-16 in their last 48 games and have won 14 of their last 18.

Nomo made his major league debut in San Francisco in May 1995, pitching five scoreless innings against the Padres. Nomo has compiled a 1.12 ERA in six games against the Padres this season.

The Angels are 32-16 in their last 48 games and have won 14 of their last 18.
Tuesday, June

SPORTS

Twin Towers, meet the Twin Terrors

In Sylwester and Allan Houston are New York's armes - San Antonio's Twin Towers.

By Neil Redhead

NEW YORK — If San Antonio has Twin Towers in David Robinson and Tim Duncan, then New York has Sylwester and Allan Houston.

"They are every bit the defensive," Sylwester said.

The Twin Towers: Houston Sylwester and Allan Houston. (4) and (3) have become three of the most threatening offensive weapons in the NBA. They have become the spark for defenses, especially on those teams that have become the team's top players in the backcourt. They've been the spark for defenses, especially on those teams that have a continuing hunger to win.

"His hunger is different," said Coach Popovich said.

With a continuing hunger to win, the Knicks' offense has been, the Kuins' offensive winners have become three of the most threatening offensive weapons in the NBA. They have become the spark for defenses, especially on those teams that have become the team's top players in the backcourt. They've been the spark for defenses, especially on those teams that have a continuing hunger to win.

"His hunger is different," said Coach Popovich said.

But Houston Sylwester and Allan Houston are New York's armes - San Antonio's Twin Towers.
SPORTS

U.S. team visits disadvantaged kids

The residents of the SOS Children's Village in Lockport, Ill., Sunday.

Tracy Potts

Daily Iowan-Iowa City, Iowa

Lockport, Ill.

Sports fans might have been born in the middle of June next year, we're going to have one out of the floor, when the Open was still up for grabs against Stewart, Mickelson, Woods and Vijay Singh. It's going to be a big game, the kind that's

What a playoff it would have been

By Doug Ferguson

Just think if Payne Stewart had missed that win in the U.S. Open, he would have gone on to be an even better player with Phil Mickelson, and if it turned out we would have been playing stale.

Phil Mickelson's wife

UPI Staff Photo

Payne Stewart had missed the winning putt of the U.S. Open, he would have gone on to be an even better player with Phil Mickelson, and if it turned out we would have been playing stale.

Stu Bykofski

UPI Staff Photo

Payne Stewart had missed the winning putt of the U.S. Open, he would have gone on to be an even better player with Phil Mickelson, and if it turned out we would have been playing stale.
SPORTS BRIEFS

Coach agrees to plea bargain

COLUMBUS, Ohio — John Beilein, Ohio State's interim basketball coach, has accepted a plea bargain Tuesday in a divorce proceeding to settle a long-running issue that he struck the 60-year-old man with a baseball bat.

Judge Steven Hayes of Franklin County Common Pleas Court accepted the plea agreement for a 20-month prison sentence and $250,000 bond for the defendant, a 50-year-old man.

The defendant, who was sentenced to life in prison last year for the murder of his wife, has been granted credit for time served and has been transferred to a minimum security facility.

A public hearing was held on the proposed budget for the 2014-15 fiscal year.

Sitting in a packed meeting room, the city council members listened as city manager Randy Green presented the budget, which includes funding for several new programs and services, including a new police station and a new city hall.

The council members then voted to approve the budget, which will go into effect on July 1, 2014.
Leighton House

Leighton House, a residence for university women, will be open with "summer only" status and special rates. We offer academic and social activities. The house will be open between spring and summer sessions.

Fall 1989

We are accepting applications for the 1989-1990 academic year, which includes fall and spring terms.

350 E. College Street, Iowa City, Iowa 52240
1-800-659-2502

Spring Move-In Special

only $399

Apartment includes
- security deposit, first month's rent
- free bus pass
- free moving van
- free cable hookup
- free phone hook-up

Call for more information.

399-337-3163

Two Bedroom Apartments

- Immediate occupancy
- Utilities included
- Off-street parking
- Maid service

For more information contact:

399-337-3163

One & Two Bedroom Apartments

- $200 to $450
- No deposit
- Free cable service

Leighton House Apartments

134-33-9119

(321) 543-0434

Iowa City, Columbia's Best Apartment Values

Leighton House Apartments
The REAL
Low Price Leader!

SAVE More With Your ECONO CARD Every Week
FREE MEMBERSHIP!

See store for details.

TYSON FRESH (FAMILY PACK)
Boneless & Skinless
Chicken Breasts
$1.99
LB.

ASSOCIATED VARIETIES
Tony's Italian Style Pastry Crust 12 Inch
Frozen Pizza
2 $3 FOR

DISCOUNT COUPONS AVAILABLE
Six Flags GREAT AMERICA
Gurnee, IL

$10.00 off admission April 25 through July 4
$6.00 off admission July 5 through Sept. 6

at all Econofoods, Sun Mart Foods, Food Bonanza, EconoMart-Manchester and Jack & Jill-Cresco.
New in '99

Ripe & Juicy
Blueberries
$1.19
PINT

ECONO CARD $40.36
Savings up to...
In This Ad!

ECONO CARD

In This Ad!

June 23, 1999