A judge denied Smokin’ Joe Frazier down for the count.

• A special very topside friendship

LONDON - (AP) - Catherine Zeta-Jones, photogenic trophy newly awarded to her by film critic Roger Ebert, will be her very special friend.

"You are kind of like a god, you are just a god," Ebert said.

Frazier alleged that a nongovernmental organization had sued him for his allegedrole in the importation of dynamite.

Frazier had no knowledge of any such importation law.

AMES (March 21-April 19) - Taurus is hands-on. Your friends may look at you like a million bucks. Your outgoing personality can attract many people, but you can be a real handful at times. Be sure to keep your emotions in check.

TAURUS (May 21-June 20) - Expect a social worker or your boss to be a little underhand. Keep your knees on and avoid getting into something you had no part of initially with others.

GEMINI (June 21-July 22) - Get back into the creative hobbies you used to enjoy. You need an outlet for the tension that's building up. Problems at home have gotten out of control, but now is the time to try to rectify them.

CANCER (July 23-Aug. 22) - You are the leader today, but you won't be the best in this project. You must get much help from your two independent home departments regarding your emotions.

We will cause uncertainty.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) - You can't depend on correspondence to clear up major problems. You will have to look back into legal formats and in person. Use your charts, but don't be a dummy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) - You won't confide in anyone important. Your reputation is at stake. Someone is trying to make you look bad. Children often try to bully their friends because of that. Everyone is watching.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) - You are the best choice for the job. Your loyalty is recognized and your partner doesn't hang on your every word. You may need to make some serious changes around your home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) - You do not need to mix business with friends, especially when it comes to your finances. Acceptance will be a necessary item. It's time to make changes at home.
UI moves to protect Tiger Hawk from sweatshops

The university has joined a group that requires companies to conform to a code of conduct.

By Troy Shawn
Tuesday, June 30

The UI has taken steps to ensure that the Tiger Hawk trademark does not appear on clothing made in sweatshops.

In a move to protect the university's image, UI intends to join a City Transit Bus Pass. The passes will allow students to travel for free on all city buses.

In the wake of a recent situation, the university is working to ensure that all products purchased with university money meet certain standards.

UI's move comes in response to concerns raised by students and faculty. The university will require all companies holding contracts with the university to abide by certain guidelines, including those that prohibit sweatshops.

The membership will include companies that have already signed on, including those that have expressed interest in the university's initiatives.

The national organization, which has been working to protect the environment and promote ethical business practices, has invited the UI to join.

The organization has set a goal of expanding its membership to include all major corporations.

UI hopes to join the organization by the end of the year.

The move is expected to have a positive impact on the university's image and reputation.

Iowa government is not warranted of lawmaking's cutting-edge

Thursday in Idaho, the $1,000 award limit forumble races becomes a thing of the past. So, too, does South Carolina's law prohibiting intermarriage.

George Bush, the nation's first black president in public, and New Hampshire_becomes the first state in a permanent holyday for Martin Luther King Jr. Why those in the US? As the Episcopal Church's culture becomes more diverse, exactly who is soluble in that without equal American culture? That, of course, makes tonight Final New Year's Eve, and its is probably. Those who want to be past-widely combined as reviners under the new business. Well, all right. Perhaps hangovers weigh too much of this problem, but hangovers are not the only reason for many new laws that have been passed across the country may not get through the day soon.

Effectiveness today are a variety of laws hang but single origin, from coast to coast. A new law in Washington state makes it a crime to sell their product to minors.

The Republic would like to hold themselves up as the protectors of the Bill of Rights, too. But while this might be true, it also shows a lack of respect for the constitution and its principles.

Turkey to execute Kurdish rebel leader

A Turkish court sentenced Abdullah Ocalan to hang.

A Mandalay court sentenced the separatist leader Abdullah Ocalan to hang.

The sentence, which was later commuted to life imprisonment, is among the harshest in Turkey's modern history.

The sentence was widely criticized by human rights groups and international organizations.

Turkey's government had been under pressure to release Ocalan, who was captured in Kenya in 1998 and has been in prison ever since.

The case has been one of the most controversial in Turkish law.

A Hungarian youth's tale of a journey after last year's hurricane took New York by storm.

By Donna De Cruz

NEW YORK — A 13-year-old Honduran boy’s dramatic tale of surviving 37 days by himself in the jungle of Honduras to escape the reach of Hurricane Mitch, which killed more than 4,000 people in the region, has captured the headlines in America.

The story of Edwin Sabillon, who used his knowledge of the jungle to survive, has been praised for its resilience and determination.

Edwin’s father, Grevis Hernandez, said Tuesday that he wants his son to return to Honduras, where he was born.

Edwin admitted Tuesday that he lied about his age and that he knew his father was dead and his mother alive, according to the Associated Press.

The detectives interviewed the boy after his grandmother reported the false. Edwin’s maternal grandmother, Maria, said she did not know why he did not leave New York after losing his father.

The boy said he and his mother, grandmother and younger sister in last year’s mudslides, hoping to find the father he never knew.

For 27 days, he hitchhiked, rode buses and sometimes just walked — often using the crossbars of cars and trucks — to find his way to New York.

The boy’s story made front-page news here. He exchanged all his money — including New York police and Maine Brooklyn police — and gave gifts and assistance to Hurricane Mitch survivors in Honduras last October.

Haskins, the former director of the academic counseling unit, recently returned to the Gophers, whose No. 2 ranking in the nation has him busy rebuilding and making the team a success. "The Gophers are in the early stages of becoming a new team," he said. "We've been working on it, but it's not easy."

Haskins said he enjoyed coaching the Gophers for 12 seasons, helping them to the Big Ten title and the NCAA tournament. He has now moved on to his next challenge. "I'm excited about the opportunity," he said. "It's a new adventure."

Yes! Marv Albert
rehabed by NBC

Marv Albert, 48, has been in Los Angeles for more than a year trying to return to the NBA, where he's been a broadcaster for 25 years. The former New York Knicks player said he was cleared to return to the court.

"It still isn't completely set," Albert said. "TV is still not going well, though." Albert said he is getting his fingers crossed for the Knicks, who are expected to have a good season.

Albert and his doctors are keeping a close eye on his recovery. "They're trying to make sure I'm doing everything I can to get back," Albert said. "I'm really looking forward to getting back on the court."

"But how many of those six fellows mean to accomplish with their dramas as they keep pushing into new areas of violence, into new areas of drama?" Dick Wolf, the goal is "a thought provoking experience." Otherwise, "The people's response on the part of the viewer, it's scary, sometimes it's loving. But it's scary, sometimes it's loving."
