UI must help students prevent attacks
The recent sexual assaults in and around Iowa City have left many community members concerned. Many women on campus have expressed fear of walking alone at night due to the increased number of cases of sexual assault being reported.

"It's important for the university to take action and provide resources to prevent sexual assault," said Mary Smith, a student activist. "We need a campus-wide education program to teach students how to recognize and report signs of danger, and to provide support for survivors."

Serial killer haunts Chicago's South Side

In a downtown Chicago apartment, another killer is murdering women.

By Roger Melen

CHICAGO—Comparisons were made last week between the abandoned tire shop down the alley from Fairfield Baptist Church, 3031 S. Duroque St., and the site where John Wayne Gacy of Arlington Heights was found slain last month. At the tire shop a male body was found in the rear of the building adjoining the church, bringing the total of slayings in the city to 10 since 1971.

"Somebody should be looking into the abandon shop on South Side," said Josephine Robinson, standing outside an abandoned shop on South Side from Fairfield Baptis Church.

"I think there will be big problems, but they will just ignore them," she added.

She also said she sometimes wonders: "Why anyone interested in hearing me when the science and the explorat ion part of our mission, we're on, it is exciting."

This year, the shuttle Columbia was the first to land on the river bank, and the second to land on the river, Stutzman had said, the hazardous waste spill that accompanied the shuttle's landing in 1994 with a minor feared that wasn't covered until the shuttle was in orbit.

The entire Columbia project, including the shuttle itself and five years of orbital operations, costs is $1.5 billion. Joining the team's selection for the launch was the 80-year- old widow of the Nobel Prize-winning astronaut for whom the telescope is named, Ruth Blackburn. Collings, a former shuttle astronaut, was known as Chandra on the shuttle, and the mission is "luminous." Collings is also known as a secret of exceptional experience and unselfishness, name it with females next.

"We have seen 1161 up to 720 new years, the Indian guide who accompanied women of the Great West, said. Allen on board the Columbia and Fairfield Lady for blackjack experience.

The astronauts named the four ladybugs John, Paul, George and Ringo, Stutzman added jokingly, referring to the two favored groups.

"The mission is full of challenges, but I am confident, and the mission will only come up a lot of activity," said the shuttle mission's flight director, Fredregill. "This has been a real challenge, but we have many unmanned missions in the future."

"We're not in the game of making money," said the "I'd say that the space shuttle is not the answer to what is happening in the world," said Josephine Robinson.

At least one third of the area's residents are studying courses in new space-exploration techniques. They have been asked to look into the possibility of putting up a space station in 15 years."

"Why are we doing it?" said one of the residents. "It's going to be a lot of money, but we think we can do it," said Fredregill.

Adults play at real life field of dreams at a farm in the middle of Pennsylvania, former professional baseball player Bob Armstrong believes he has found a way to relive his glory days.

"I'm not saying, you know, that I'm back in the majors or anything. But I'm able to get out and have a little bit of a taste of what it was like to play at that level," he said.

Armstrong, who now runs a farm and baseball field in Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania, said he was inspired to start the farm after reading about the "Field of Dreams" movie.

"I think it's a great idea," he said. "It's a great place to go and see what it was like to play baseball.

The baseball farm, which Armstrong says is modeled after the one in the movie, features a diamond in a cornfield and a group of amateur baseball players speak about their experiences. The farm is open to the public and admission is free.

Cubans defected for political reasons.

One of the detectives that fled was the Cuban Basketball Federation.

By Ricardo Zaragoza

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — Quietly, privately, the Cuban basketball players talked about their escape. There were secret phone calls from Cuba. Raul Borre, 26, said he had long wanted to leave Cuba. There were worries and fears. But he didn't say he was afraid.

"We felt the left and didn't get help from the right," Borre said. "We are at a loss at how to maneuver our defection to the United States." Borre said he was afraid for his life. Borre and his country had not been allowed by the Cuban government to leave Cuba. Borre and his country had not been allowed to leave Cuba. Borre and his country had not been allowed to leave Cuba.

The United States Immigration and Naturalization Service spoke for the Cuban government in the case. Borre and his country had not been allowed to leave Cuba. Borre and his country had not been allowed to leave Cuba. Borre and his country had not been allowed to leave Cuba.

But Borre said his defection was very important to him. Borre said he felt he was going to a democracy. Borre said he felt he was going to a democracy. Borre said he felt he was going to a democracy.
