Six vie for three I.C. School Board seats

By Gary Long

A candidate forum will be held at the Iowa City Community Center, 20 S. 6th St., Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. There is no charge for the event.

Six incumbents and four candidates are competing for three member seats.

"It's not that the public doesn't like us," he said. "But what happens with the information, when it gets to the board, is the primary issue."

Budget issues and reorganizing also surfaced.

Townes said, "I am not sure about accountability. Running with essential issues and being able to involve the public is a priority."

Schultz

"I want to see more of the candidates," said John Schultz, a former board member. "I want to know more about their backgrounds."

Six candidates will interview with the board and meet with faculty, staff and students.

Interviews for positions of dean of the UI College of Engineering, dean of the UI College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and associate dean for Research and Graduate Studies, have been scheduled.

Both townes and shultz said they want to see more

"There have been decisions," said Larry Reese, a candidate for the position. "The board needs to make decisions that people will understand."

"There's also a need to make sure the board has a policy for keeping track of the questions and comments that come into the board," he said.

Schultz

"It's a significantly common mistake for people running for the first time," the board needs to be able to talk to people and look into new opportunities," she said.

Tibetan nuns to sing and dance out of I.C.

By T. J. Simic

The Daily iowan

A day after a long bus trip, the nuns from the Drukpa Kagyu monastery in Kathmandu, Nepal, will be arriving in Iowa City with a sacred dance and song performance in celebration of the Tibetan New Year festival. The nuns will be arriving in Iowa City on April 21st, 2001, with a sacred dance and song performance in celebration of the Tibetan New Year festival.

The nuns will be performing at the University of Iowa Auditorium at 7:00 PM on April 21st. The performance is open to the public and admission is free. The nuns will be wearing their traditional costumes and will be accompanied by music played on traditional Tibetan instruments.

The performance will begin with a prayer and chanting, followed by a dance that symbolizes the union of body, speech, and mind. The dance is accompanied by music played on traditional Tibetan instruments, including the gyaling, a mouth organ, and the damaru, a small drum.

The nuns will be performing four different dances, each with a different meaning. The first dance, called the "Buddha of compassion," is a dance that is performed to bring blessings to the audience. The second dance, called the "Buddhist," is a dance that is performed to bring blessings to the Buddha and his followers. The third dance, called the "earthly mystic," is a dance that is performed to bring blessings to the earth and all living beings. The fourth dance, called the "sacred," is a dance that is performed to bring blessings to the sacred elements and divinities.

The nuns will also be performing a special dance called the "Buddha of compassion," which is a dance that is performed to bring blessings to the Buddha and his followers. The dance is accompanied by music played on traditional Tibetan instruments, including the gyaling, a mouth organ, and the damaru, a small drum.

The performance will conclude with a prayer and chanting, and the nuns will then disperse to continue their spiritual journey.

Israel's Supreme Court bans torture

After a decade of hearings, the court forbids Shin Bet agents from torturing Palestinian suspects.

By Mark Laitin

JERUSALEM—A binding court decision that will limit the power of Israel's secret police to interrogate Palestinian suspects.

The ruling, which came after the longest court case in the country's history, will ban suspects' corpses from being publicized and will require that all interrogations be conducted in the presence of a lawyer.

Shin Bet security agents will no longer be allowed to detain Palestinian suspects with their bodies intact, a legal condition that had been in force since 1982.

The ruling came just one day after a Shin Bet agent was killed in the latest of dozens of attacks that have left Israeli and Palestinian civilians dead or wounded.

"This is a historic decision," said Justice Minister Shaul Mofaz. "It is a recognition of the human rights of all citizens, whether they are Arabs or Jews."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Black's comments insult UI students

This letter is a response to Professor John Black's recent comments that "we are not even a very good school." Mr. Black's letter, published in the Sept. 2 issue, had the following main points:

1. The editorial board's use of "student" in placing its duties on "the students of the University" as places to weed out and expel students from the UI community.

As an incoming student at the University of Iowa, I feel strongly that the editorial board's perspective is naive and that it is disrespectful towards the students of the University of Iowa.

The Board of Editors at The Daily Iowan should consider the following:

1. The editorial board's duty to maintain a positive and supportive environment for all students.

2. The editorial board's responsibility to foster a sense of community and to promote respect for all members of the UI community.

3. The editorial board's obligation to hold itself accountable to the students of the University of Iowa.

In conclusion, I urge the editorial board to consider this letter and to take action to address the issues raised.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Athlete-coach dynamic demands questioning

When I was young, if I wanted new cleats or ice cream, I attempted to get money from my mother through acts of extortion.

I thought through her by defying my chores. In reality, my mother compelled me to do my homework, take my vitamins, and go to the dentist. It didn't work, and I got sent to the corner.

But if I could think through the lens of a current University of Iowa coach, I wonder if the same would hold true. I wonder if the same might apply to Mr. Loftin's dealings with the university.

The Geocentric System

Five hundred years ago, the sun was thought to revolve around the earth. People did not know then what we know now. Truth change. We now know smoking marijuana is harmful. The younger you are, the more harmful it may be. Research has shown that people who smoke marijuana before the age of 15 were over 7 times more likely to use other drugs than people who have never smoked marijuana.

Americans for a Drug-Free Iowa and America.

THE ANTI-DRUG

The most effective deterrent to drug use among kids isn’t the police, or prisons, or politicians. One of the most effective deterrents to drug use among kids is their parents. Kids who learn about the risks of drugs from their parents are 36% less likely to smoke marijuana than kids who learn nothing from them. They are 50% less likely to use inhalants. 56% less likely to use cocaine. 65% less likely to use LSD. So if you’re a parent, talk to your kids about drugs. Research also shows that 74% of all fourth graders wish their parents would talk to them about drugs. If you don’t know what to say, call 800-788-2800 or visit www.thantidrug.com.

We can help you.

Illegal drugs are estimated to cost America over $110 billion each year in treatment, enforcement, incarceration and social damage. But what else could you buy for $110 billion? Well, you could build 169 new hospitals. Or 687 new universities. Or operate 366 national parks. You could hire 75,862 new buses on the road. This message is brought to you by the Office of National Drug Control Policy/Partnership for a Drug-Free Iowa and America.

Byline: Iowa coach Fran Solich said following Sunday's win over Iowa State and his staff "had a great day for the way we prepared ourselves." Even though it is the kind of dominant performance opposing teams usually gear following a game it was well deserved — especially by Nate Parker and his defense.

For the first 30 minutes, Iowa played with no serious combination of discipline and emotion. Iowa's big edge in the second half was an indication of why Nebraska is a perennial top five team even in years when lost.

Iowa was 2-0 despite the loss of senior left tackle Chris Oliver to a knee injury. But even with the win, Iowa coach Fran Solich said Iowa's defense still had some room for improvement.

It was commonly prophesied by the women's basketball program that the team was going to be better than the one that finished 9-15 in 1996-97 if they used a different approach and implemented a new system of coaching. The Hawkeyes enter the season with a 2-1 record, including a decisive win over Southern Illinois University.

Hawkeyes B 15- 5 and 9-0. Coach John Williams led the way with eight kills for the Hawkeyes.

It was more of the same later on in the game, The Hawkeyes defeated the Golden Gophers, 10-13, 15-9, and 15-6. Hindman led the team with 15 kills, while Williams added 19 points.

Despite the quality level of competition, coach Hindman said that the team looked better at Sunday's game as more of a whole team than just three or four players. The Hawkeyes have been working on their serve and are looking to improve their overall performance this season.

The Houston Comets won their third consecutive WNBA championship and dedicated it to teammate Kim Parrott who died of brain cancer earlier this year.

By Michael A. Lustig

HOUSTON - For the third straight year, the Houston Comets unveiled the championship trophy for the new WNBA Finals series winner.

"This championship was the harder one because of everything going on, said former Comets head coach Kevin Lattanzio, who joined the San Antonio Spurs this season. "We had to win the WNBA Finals for her, and we knew she was watching us today."

Comer had one of her worst shooting nights Saturday, finishing 4 of 12 from the floor, but she scored 15 points in the Comets' 92-88 victory over the Seattle Storm, which clinched the Comets' third straight WNBA title.

"I just told them up there that I wanted to play this year. But you know, with my body ailing and all the other factors, everything pointed to the fact that it was time to go," Komprath said.

The Comets' victory on Saturday was Houston's first playoff road win since 1991.

"I don't want to be a guy who will be remembered as someone who drove his team to the playoffs all season. He was not included in the expansion draft and his retirement was expected. "I didn't want to be a guy who said that." Komprath said.

General manager John Clarke said the Comets' resilience and strength and toughness that showed the Comets won it in 1992.

"The Comets finished the season with the most important thing for any team - the right chemistry. They never lost more than two straight games," Komprath said.

New York's victory on Sunday was Houston's first playoff road win since 1991.

"I think it's especially weird with everything that this team has gone through, emotionally, spiritually, and financially, that we have all given through, all the sacrifices we have had to make. Obviously, Kim not being here, that was very emotional," Komprath said.

"These players of ours, they stayed tough, they won it after the most heartbreaking loss I've ever been involved in," Coach Van Chancellor said.

"This has proven to be one of the great teams in the history of sports. And that's for Kim, whose heart and determination made this possible."

Comer was her third straight outstanding goalie in the championship series, and was the championship series' most valuable player for the third straight year.

It was an emotional grind all season. Komprath lost her mother to cancer seven years ago, but still represented a team that the Comets' loss was not going to go down without a battle.

"So maybe this one will be a little easier special we were able to make as a team for the Comets," Komprath said. "They have overcome the obstacles and all the things we were faced with all year." Thompson said.

"It was not going to go down without a battle. We won this championship," she said.

"I can't say it's going to go down without a battle. Fighting for my team to win a championship," she said.

Deion Sanders that's first-rate what Ferentz real physical. We kids have confidence Outstanding Saturday a day said. You saw Delightful Dasher, who didn't break like he can, that mare handled and it just shot him out. Trainer John Bassett said. "He's big, he's fast, that she quickly opened a head in front of Chicks Call Me, said his horse got 10-length lead on the rest of the field. Bassett took a moment to remember Scarlet Hill Farm of New Mexico. Dad, wherever you are, this win in the final strides and winning toe surgery. Dolphins get QB Jim Druckenmiller

MEMPHIS — Quarterback Jim Druckenmiller, a first-round draft choice of the Dallas Cowboys, was traded to the Miami Dolphins on Monday for a conditional draft choice. The trade had been expected since the third-fourth quarter back when they cut their roster on Monday. Steve Young, Jeff Garcia and Donny Anderson. In Miami, Druckenmiller joins young Jim Johnson's first of other overrated, none of whom are still waiting, like defensive and special teams. The addition of this year's camp after being taken...
Saints set sights on playoffs

Mike Ditka hopes his draft picks come off pay this season.

By Mary Foster

NEW ORLEANS - Saints coach Mike Ditka has set a goal this season for his team: make the playoffs.

"I want them to know what the playoffs are," Ditka said as he talked about his team at the NFL annual meeting in New Orleans. "I told them that if we play well enough to get into the playoffs, we'll be in our third year in a row." Ditka is entering his third year as coach of the Saints.

Ditka said he plans to use a lot of his young players this season, including quarterback Billy Joe Thilliver, who has undergone a rebirth along with the team's offense.

"Billy Joe and I have been working together," Ditka said. "He's a good player and he's going to be a good quarterback for us." Thilliver, who is a rookie, has been working with Ditka since the end of last season.

Ditka said he is confident that his team can make the playoffs this season. "I think we have the personnel and the talent to make the playoffs," he said. "But we have to do it the right way."
Serena joins sisters Venus in quarterfinals

By Steve Wiltse

NEW YORK — Venus Williams has made a habit of getting in her sister's way.

So it was no surprise when Venus was out of the picture and Serena was left standing at the U.S. Open on Monday. Williams, who had been expected to pose a serious threat at the U.S. Open for the first time in seven years, was beaten by Jana Novotna, 6-1, 6-2, in the fourth round.

Novotna, who won the Wimbledone women's singles crown in 1998, said this would be her last year as a player. Her snapping down came just one month after 30th (Got a name to come?)

Six, wrote her name on paper after one of the most unusual matches in Open history.

Novotna, who has served more than 900 aces, made three errors in the first set and two in the second. She was broken twice in the first set and once in the second.

But Williams, who has served more than 1,000 aces, was broken twice in the first set and once in the second.

The match began with Novotna breaking Williams' serve in the first game. Williams won the second game but was broken again in the third.

In the fourth game, Novotna was broken, but Williams won the fifth game to take a 3-2 lead.

Williams won the next two games to take a 5-2 lead. She served for the first set at 5-3, but Novotna saved two break points, then broke Williams to take the set.

Novotna took the second set, 6-2, after breaking Williams' serve twice.

Novotna, who has won 13 titles this year, said she was looking forward to retirement after the U.S. Open.

"I'm 36, I've played long enough," she said. "I really want to retire, but I don't think I'll ever be able to go back to work.

"I'm going to go out on top, but I don't want to go out with a splash."
