The government has the authority to regulate tobacco, an addictive drug even though some may be the "single most significant threat to public health," the Supreme Court said Thursday in a unanimous administrative appeals court ruling. The 5-4 ruling, a victory for an industry under pressure from numerous fronts, Congress did not authorize the Food and Drug Administration to regulate tobacco, President Clinton and tobacco companies specifically and repeatedly asked the FDA to do so, and would drag down on cigarette prices, "in order to prevent the FDA from writing rules that regulate cigarettes, Congress has required the FDA to consider whether the use of "cigarettes involves a risk that is unreasonable compared with the benefits of the use,"" the Court said. "Congress has clearly precluded the FDA from asserting jurisdiction to regulate tobacco products," the Court said.

Tax day creeps up the horizon
As April 17 get closer, groups urge students to think about taxes.

By Masre Metter
The Daily Iowan

With less than a month until the deadline, many student groups and the University of Iowa’s Association of University Students are urging students to learn more about their tax systems.

The tax season, which is made up of the filing process, can be challenging for many. Here are a few tips to keep in mind:

1. Know your taxes: Be aware of the different forms and regulations that apply to you. This can help you avoid penalties and fines.

2. Use tax software: There are many online tools and software programs available that can help you file your taxes accurately and efficiently.

3. Stay organized: Keep all your tax-related documents and records in one place. This will make it easier to find what you need when you need it.

4. Consider getting a tax preparer: If you find the tax process overwhelming, consider hiring a professional to help you.

5. Take advantage of tax breaks: Check out your state and local tax laws for any deductions or credits that you may qualify for.

Remember, the deadline is April 17. Make sure you file your taxes on time to avoid any penalties. Good luck!

WASHINGTON — Israel and the Palestinians swapped Middle East talks Tuesday at a screened-off U.S. Embassy meeting room, and both sides said the talks were off to a promising start.

As Israeli, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the talks are part of a step-by-step process of coming to terms with the Palestinians. The official said the U.S. position is that the Palestinian demands will be met out of U.S. conditions. "I believe that the Palestinian official said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

In an interview with the Washington Post, however, Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak said that Israel and foreign leaders have come close to a peace agreement through indirect talks that have continued uninterrupted since the 1990 Israeli-Palestinian

President Clinton is due to meet on March 26 in Geneva, Switzerland, with Syrian President Hafez Assad. Their first meeting in six years is likely to test the current relationship between Israeli and Syrian leaders, but Israel would not commit to a response to the request until Israel has met its own conditions for negotiations.

We are hopeful that the Israeli will be sensitive to the requirements of achieving a comprehensive peace agreement in the Middle East," said Hassan Abdul Rahim, the chief Palestinian negotiator. "We will try to ensure that the requirements of achieving a comprehensive peace agreement in the Middle East are met." He said the U.S. position is that Israel and Syria agree to meet in Geneva on March 26 with Palestinian and Jordanian leaders to discuss the peace process.

We do not expect to see any early breakthroughs," he said. "The deadline for meeting the Palestinian leaders was set for the end of the third week of March, with the possibility of extending it to the end of the month.

The talks were off to a promising start, and both sides said they were ready to continue the discussions.

John Paul begins historic pilgrimage to Israel

The pontiff's visit to Israel marks the first papal trip to the Holy Land since 1964. He arrived Jan. 15, 1984, and was greeted by a sea of faithful, including thousands from the Arab world. The pope's journey, through which he plans to make a symbolic visit to the Western Wall, is expected to bring a new dimension to the Middle East peace process.

John Paul's trip marks the 40th anniversary of the Six Day War, which led to the occupation of the West Bank and Gaza Strip by Israel. The war, which ended with a cease-fire, marked a turning point in the Arab-Israeli conflict and led to the establishment of Israel as a nation.

In his visit to Israel, John Paul will also visit the Western Wall, the holiest site in Judaism, and the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the site of Jesus' crucifixion. He will also meet with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, who is a strong supporter of peace negotiations.

The pope's visit is expected to be a significant step in the ongoing efforts to achieve peace in the Middle East. It is hoped that his presence will help to bring the region closer to a peaceful resolution.

The amendment, which passed, has gone unnoticed.

"Some colors can be made at certain times, so we expected it to take a couple of more weeks," said Lehman. "But we don't expect any other problems."

The skywalk's construction underwriter, the State Farm Insurance, has recommended that the councilors not pay for the new glass, UI said.

"We always like to get our own money back, but we can't order more glass at the very last minute," he said. "I'm not sure how the very last minute turned out."

To expand, Mark Danielewski's novel, a story of love and horror.

By Tyler Steward

The Daily Iowan

Thursday, March 28, 2000

The text is about the novel "The House of Leaves," which is a complex and sprawling work that plays with the reader's perception of reality and narrative. The book is known for its innovative structure and the use of multiple fonts and typographies within the text, creating a sense of disorientation and confusion that mirrors the themes of the novel. The author, Danielewski, is described as a professor and avocated filmmaker. He has expressed a deep love for film and has said that his book, much of his book, was going to look like, so he just jumped into it, "It really wasn't until 93, right after my father's death, that I began to conceive of it as a full structure." He conceded that in writing his book about fear, fear itself might be much, but it is also reflected in his book. "I couldn't imagine the book without a sense of life, without a sense of the unknown, without a sense of..." He also wrote out of the "opposite ends of fear, love, and belief," which were raised on such a mortality game in the immediate gesture."

For 5th time, Fed nudges up interest rates

WASHINGTON - Empowered by the Federal Reserve's unprecedented good economic news, the Fed raised its key interest rate up by one-quarter of a percentage point on Tuesday for the fifth time since June 28.

Wall Street took the increase in stride, but some economists warned that the Federal Reserve's ongoing quest for higher interest rates could rip the roof off the housing market and stunt the expansion.

The Dow Jones industrial average, already at a record high, rose higher on the news, finishing the day up 272.10 points at 10,892.43.

As with the previous Federal Reserve increases, the central bank's actions were tied to its assessment of the country's good economic times, the Federal Reserve's Chairman Alan Greenspan said in a statement.

"We are not out of the woods yet," Greenspan said. "But the need for a strong central bank has spilled over into other sectors."

NCAA TOURNAMENT

Good, bad, ugly on screens, behind scenes

The NCAA Tournament is the most complex sporting event to cover, and CBS has already blown its share of stories this year.

By Howard Fendrich

Associated Press

Seton Hall's Brian Kellerman didn't look like much of a threat to anyone around the country when his junior year, published by a one-notch team, was released last year. But the junior guard, an MVP in the Big East, is now the nation's top player in the NCAA Tournament.

The senior guard, hobbled by a sore ankle, made a layup with 3.3 seconds left to win the game for Seton Hall, 64-62, indicating the tournament's upset.

Wrestlers will be fully loaded for title No. 21

With only two deities and six Americans hungry for more titles, Iowa will be favorites again next year.

By Jeremy Sobel

The Daily Iowan

It's a cliché that many journalists use to label different athletic programs. That's because the Iowa wrestling program fits the stereotype better than any.

They don't rebuild, they reload. Fresh off their NCAA title (and only a Hawkeye is already looking for more), the Iowa wrestling team is already fielding questions about next year's team.

They lost only two wrestlers off last year's undefeated squad. That doesn't look like much of a hero to Iowa head coach Dan Gable.

The only major problem for the Hawkeyes is a health scare. With his sleeve back up, the wrestler he said is healing along with the wrestler who's doing fine and defense at point in the answer.

"When our defense plays well, our pitchers are confident, and when our offense is confident, things look like they're working," said Gable. "That's one reason we've been a lot more competitive this year."

NCAA clears Iowa State in recruiting of Ernest Brown

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — The NCAA has closed an investigation into how Iowa State recruit Ernest Brown, Iowa State said Tuesday that it had received a notice from the NCAA, which said it was satisfied with the result and that "no further action will be taken." The notice said Brown reclassified from a junior high schooler to a college recruit before he signed his letter of intent.

At NCAAs, the madness is back in March

After a dice first round, some favorites were bounced from the NCAA Tournament.

By Jim O'Connell

When the first round of the NCAA Tournament tipped off six weeks ago, the highest seeds were expected to survive and advance to the second round. But it wasn't all about the top seeds. Many upsets occurred as the field was narrowed from 65 to 32 teams. There were nine eighth-seeded teams that advanced to the Sweet 16.

The second round brought the madness that is associated with the NCAA Tournament.

There are nine sixth-seeded teams in the Sweet 16, including the Blue Devils from Duke.

The bad news for those teams was, "We can't lose. We can't be tired because of the consecutive games," said Sadie Thomasen of Michigan. The Blue Devils knew what it was like to return to a regional regular after hitting Florida's Peter Worrell since 1947 to a regional regular.

Padres’ Martin, woman arrested

John Starks was waived by the Bulls, but will not be allowed to join another team this season.

CHICAGO — John Starks wanted to leave the Chicago Bulls so badly he offered to give up his salary for a chance to join a team headed to the playoffs.

It didn’t quite work out that way.

After arbitrator Roger Kaplan ruled Thursday on his unique request, Starks got out of Chicago and he’ll get to keep his paycheck, but he’s not going to the playoffs.

Kaplan’s ruling, based on a provision in the new collective bargaining agreement that deals with mutual termination of player contracts, could have an effect on players who are not guaranteed contracts.

The key issue for us was making sure that guys who were not able to make guaranteed payments in order to limit player movement," NBA lawyer Rick Buchanan said. "Jan. 10, it’s the date on which optionals are guaranteed for the season.

The case has gotten blown up to the point where it could have a huge impact.

“Tennis is one small thing. The case has gotten blown up to the point where it could have a huge impact. It is a really small thing,” he added.

The league will no longer be able to use the Jan. 10 date to force teams to make guaranteed payments in order to limit player movement," Buchanan said. "Jan. 10 is the date on which optionals are guaranteed for the season.

“Tennis is one small thing. The case has gotten blown up to the point where it could have a huge impact. It is a really small thing," he added.

Martin was accused of being a bigamist and was arrested on assault and battery charges last Monday night. The police report contained accusations of bigamy, threats of violence, and that he had on when arrested.

"I hit her several times, just not right now," he said. "There’s no moving parts. We’ll get with you as soon as we can.

In Scottsdale Justice Court, Martin was barred and was wore the same ripped white shirt, speckled with blood, that he had on when he and Haggerty-Martin were arrested.

The couple met when Haggerty-Martin was released from prison April 10, the same day the Padres are to play the Arizona Diamondbacks in San Diego.

Haggerty-Martin began hitting Martin during an argument, and he punched her in the jaw at least once, DeVries said.

She called 911, and Martin left before police arrived. Martin later called the house, and police asked him to return.

Johnson not on trading block

■ The Jets won’t trade Keyshawn Johnson, but they won’t renegotiate his contract either.

By Barry Wilner

HUNTSVILLE, N.Y. —When the New York Jets were thinking they’d be in their locker room this week, I was playing three-volleyball with my team. And I’m not going to lie, I was looking forward to it. I’m not sure what I was thinking, but I was looking forward to it.

As usual, the 32-year-old receiver is getting ready to make his third start in as many weeks. He’s had some ups and downs this season, but he’s been steadily improving. He’s caught 39 catches for 539 yards and three touchdowns in his first three games, and he’s averaging 14.0 yards per catch.

The Jets’ coaching staff has been happy with his progress, and they’re hoping he can continue to build on his performance.

“I think he’s really finding his rhythm,” said Jets head coach Bill Parcells. “He’s getting to know the offense better, and I think he’s starting to feel more comfortable.

Johnson, who was acquired in a trade with the Carolina Panthers last season, said he’s feeling good about his start to the season.

“I feel like I’m playing well,” Johnson said. “I’m getting more comfortable with the offense, and I’m starting to see some things that I can do to help the team.

While the New York Jets say they are committed to keeping Johnson in the fold, the receiver is not entirely sure of his future with the team.

“I don’t know what’s going to happen,” Johnson said. “I’m just trying to focus on the here and now. I’m just trying to do everything I can to help the team.”

Johnson has been the subject of trade rumors throughout the season, but he doesn’t think the team is seriously considering sending him elsewhere.

“I think they want me here,” Johnson said. “They’ve been really supportive of me, and I think they want me to stay.

As for his contract, Johnson said he hasn’t heard anything from the team.

“I don’t think they’re thinking about that right now,” Johnson said. “I’m just trying to focus on the here and now. I’m just trying to do everything I can to help the team.”

The Jets’ season has been filled with ups and downs. They began the season with a 3-0 record, but they’ve since fallen to 3-3 after losing to the Chicago Bears.

“Things have been tough,” Johnson said. “We’ve had some ups and downs, but we’re still fighting hard.”

The Jets will look to snap their three-game losing streak this week when they host the Miami Dolphins.

“I think we can win this game,” Johnson said. “We’ve got a lot of confidence in our team, and we’re just going to go out there and play hard.”
