UI busts Jessup Hall ‘camp in’: 5 arrested

By Rich Braun Student Daily

For the second day in a row, students at the University of Iowa have occupied the second floor of Jessup Hall.

Officials say 40 students amassed in the hall early Sunday morning. By 10 a.m., the number had grown to about 70.

In historic step, 2 Koreas agree to meet

By Yuri Kochiyama

In a historic step, the North and South Koreas agreed today to meet for the first time since 1950, to discuss the possibility of ending the Korean War.

The two Koreas, divided by a 191-kilometer border, have been at war since the end of World War II, when the United States and the Soviet Union divided Korea at the 38th parallel. The war ended in a truce in 1953, but the two Koreas have never signed a peace treaty.

The agreement came after weeks of negotiations between North Korean leader Kim Jong Il and South Korean President Lee Myung-bak. The two leaders met in a small room on the South Korean side of the border.

"We have been discussing this issue for some time," said North Korean Foreign Ministry spokesman Pyong Chol. "We have been discussing this issue for some time."

Citizens rally around dental students

Minority dental students who have been targeted get a show of support.

By Ryan Foley

The Daily Iowan

A email to the UI community from President Mary tales Cronin urged faculty and staff to "show their support for the UI minority dental students - and all members of our university family - who are experiencing some unfortunate circumstances." The email extended support to students in all departments - the University of Iowa Dental College of Iowa City, the University of Iowa Libraries, the University of Iowa College of Dentistry, the university's public health programs, and the Iowa City Human Rights Commission.

Some UI faculty and students are doing just that for the members of the school who received threatening messages and, in one case, to an off-campus residence, in the past two weeks.

On April 3, Nancy Hausman, the associate dean for the undergraduate programs in the University College of Dentistry, delivered a group of support to members of the program, which is being called the "Right Side of the Bed Movement" to try to talk on the issue, rather than just talking about it.

Hausman said that they need to talk in the whole, and that's the reality that they're in this situation, she said. "We're all in this together - what happens over the forest are the black community, it is only step if we make a collective voice." The UIF has added that action.

Some members of the university community, the Iowa City Human Rights Commission, and the Iowa City Human Rights Commission, have been making several phone calls to the university community, and the university community has offered support. There have been no new developments in the matter since then, and the dental students have not been able to talk in the media as the only, said the Iowa City Human Rights Commission.

Dancing and drumming up a crowd at Powwow

By Kate McGeown

The Daily Iowan

Paul Vera loves going to Powwow. He has been a regular vendor at the UI Powwow, held in Carver-Hawkeye Arena since it began 11 years ago, and this weekend was no exception.

He sees the occasion as an opportunity to meet old friends, listen to the rhythmic beating of the drums, watch the dancers perform in their colorful costumes and, most importantly, pass on the knowledge and heritage of his people. While the dancers move to the beat of the drums in the center of the arena, approximately 60 stallholders filled the edges, selling traditional foods and handicrafts.

Although some of his ancestors were American Indians, Vera still loves going to Powwow, and this weekend was no exception. "I've been to Powwows for nearly every weekend all over the country," he said.

As well as selling his wares, Vera helps Powwowers change people's stereotypes of American Indians. "Many Native Americans have crossed paths and have come to realize that all they've been taught about the Native Americans is incorrect," he said.

He states that it is important to maintain our culture; otherwise, it will fade away. "We are, what we do and why we are," he said. "If you don't know who we are, we won't be here," Vera said.

"I'm no expert," he said. "But I know the people here are still willing to share their culture even on reservations. While the dancers moved to the beat of the drums in the center of the arena, approximately 60 stallholders filled the edges, selling traditional foods and handicrafts. "Every stallholder is from a different tribe and has a different story to tell," Vera said.

Artist and writer Nakama Volkman, a direct descendant of Chief Red Cloud of the Oglala Sioux tribe, is another regular on the Powwow circuit, exhibiting her art nearly every weekend all over the country. "People think we are blood-thirsty savages, and some are actually afraid of us," Volkman said. "I try to give people the correct idea of who we are, so we know what we do and we do it."

Germany 'Nets looted art database

Germany turns to the Internet to reunite art looted in World War II with its pre-war owners.

By Paul Gutierrez

MAGDEBURG, Germany — Adolf Hitler, a failure as an art student, plundered cultural treasures from across occupied Europe for the grandiose Fuehrer Museum he fantasied he would build in his hometown of Linz, Austria, as part of his legacy.

But much of the artwork, including thousands of paintings and other stolen objects ended up in a U.S. Army, then the West German government, tried to reunite them with their rightful owners. In many cases, though, it proved impossible. "Too many people were lost in the Holocaust or the course of postwar migration," said Michael Franz, the director of the database project.

The new effort to clear up outstanding ownership questions is "very positive and very gratifying," said Regine Dehnel, an art historian at the University of the Humboldt in Berlin.

"With today's technology, you can search people you've never be able to with aprinted catalogue," she said. "With the Internet, you can reach people you'd never be able to with a printed catalogue."

The Lost Art Internet Database, which aims to help locate war owners, was launched Wednesday with pictures and descriptions of such objects as "Erlkönig," a folk song illustrated by Max Beckmann, and "The Garden Gate," a landscape by Gustav Klimt.

"The activity isn't on her skin anymore, we are due to explore a panel that is due to open on April 21. The panel will discuss the role of art in the lives of pre-war owners."

Barry Halls has been accused of leaving the scene of an accident while driving a rented car. His lawyer, Allan Mayer, denied the charge. "I am not going to comment on any part of the accident," Mayer said.

"The charge of leaving the scene of an accident occurs after a collision that has occurred, the alcohol or drug test is taken," Mayer said. "We are going to go through the accident scene, get the alcohol or drug test taken, then we are going to present all of those to the court.

Singh ends journey with Masters win

By Doug Ferguson

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Vijay Singh has found refuge in the remote rain forests of Borneo. Months after taking the Masters at the Met, he's had his share of rough, narrow fairways.

Tiger Woods, then, is a revelation chalking up to his game. Singh constantly held off Ernie Els to win the Masters, a championship that brought him his second major championship in three years.

"Something is something I think you feel," Singh said afterward. "I almost piped a shot into a green over jacket, but a double." Singh's winner was vaulted into_history. He said he almost piped a shot into the green over jacket, but a double.

No one knew better than Singh when things went wrong from two inches. He started his comeback in 1998 by winning a 5-under par shot at the Masters, where he was tied for $100 a major, and paired both his career-best at the event. He needed a one-shot advantage over Tiger Woods to win his second major championship in three years.

Agassi, Sampras win as U.S. defeats Czech Republic

The United States advanced to the semifinals of the Davis Cup Sunday.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Andre Agassi downed the United States from the brink of Davis Cup elimination Sunday, then Pete Sampras overcame a stomach bug to win his match, leading the Americans to a 3-2 victory over the Czech Republic to send the team to the semifinals.

Agassi beat Jiri Novak of the Czech Republic 6-3, 6-4, 6-1 to tie the best-of-five rubber 2-2 before Sampras, followed by 18 aces in a 6-4, 6-4, 7-6 (4) win over Marek Juchnovsky of the Czechs, clinched the match to clinch a 3-2 victory.

The United States will play Spain, a 4-3 winner over Belgium, beginning July 21 in Spain.

Playing a fifth and decisive match for the first time in his seven-year Davis Cup career, Sampras had been slated as the team's hottest player. But he battled a stomach bug that caused him to lose his first match as a professional since the South Beach Open.

United States/Pele Sampras wrapped with a U.S. flag as a bag from captain John McEnroe after Sampras defeated Czech Republic's Slav Dosedel during the Davis Cup quarterfinals on Sunday.

In the final Four, Sampras beat the past week in determination after establishing the big 18-0 on the second-day calendar at a 15-month gap and his late-game passion on old-timer won the Gooly Goo stand at the Houdini Greenhouse. Martin, a 26-year-old from Rutgers University, confirmed his doomsday to break the U.S. team.

Steve Martin, the No. 1 racket in the world, won for the first time in two years, nearly throwing the U.S. team in its loss to Spain. But the left-hander's effort, built on his 7-6, 6-3, 6-0 victory over the left-hander's effort, built on his 7-6, 6-3, 6-0 victory over the Iowa lost two Big Ten men's tennis matches over the weekend. By Lisa Coleman

The Iowa men's tennis team accumulated two wins and two losses last weekend, but it wasn't enough to keep the team from falling 5-2 to Big Ten rivals.

The Hawkeyes won the doubles point against No. 21 Wisconsin and No. 9 Minnesota over the weekend. Prior to the weekend's doubles teams had been steady in their previous three matches.

Despite jumping out to an early lead, Wisconsin defeated Iowa in Madison, Wis. Saturday afternoon, followed by Minnesota on the Hawkeyes' home court Sunday.

"We needed to change the way and give people a new outlook on things," Houghton said. "We had four freshmen playing in doubles over the weekend. I'm pleased with our doubles."

Against the Badgers, Iowa won one with doubles with set at both No. 2 and J.J. Chlebna and Hunter Stansigmuller won 8-6, as they continued to perform well. Stansigmuller won 8-6, 9-8 (10-8) over the weekend.

However, the Hawkeyes (1-1) 5-2 over Minnesota on Sunday.

"Houghton has emphasized doubles," Thomason said. "Winning the doubles point gat us a lot of momentum, and the weather conditions ."

Women's Golf

The Iowa women's golf team shot a three-day score of 910 to claim the Big Ten Championships title for the first time in school history. The Hawkeyes finished ninth last year with a score of 916.

"That was really unbelievable," Robert Yarborough said.

The Hawkeyes, who finished eight strokes ahead of Michigan State, were able to see how they stand in the Big Ten.

"It's very satisfying," Yarborough said. "You could tough it Hunter (Skogman) are one of the best women's basketball players in the nation now."

The women's basketball team was able to get out to an early lead. In the last couple of matches I could jump out on top. That gave me confidence and I ran forward through the matches.

Jr. Chlebna did not compete against Minnesota. Sundeen said Houghton sat him out for some team discipline reasons.

"I don't understand that he couldn't play them today," Sundeen said. "I was happy to get to do it, but he kind of went out to hit a few balls before sitting out due to injury. I'm going to talk with him and we're going to move on with the season.

Sundeen felt that he was at the top of his game against the Golden Gophers.

Women's Track

The Hawkeyes needed to win jump .out on top. That gives me the best chance of winning against the best teams.

"Since we lost two Big Ten losses, I'm looking to see how they run in a lot of Big Ten matches that we've had," Sundeen said.

According to Wisconsin's team manager, the bad weather had an effect on many athletes.

"We had a bit of trouble at the top," Sundeen said. "But we ended up finishing second in the javelin with a mark of 146-3.

However, Minnesota wrapped up the meet with 9-8 win from Natalya Johnson and Kearney and a 9-8 win from Tony Neykova. The Hawkeyes won eight matches from Iowa. The Hawkeyes won eight matches from Iowa.

The Hawkeyes won six matches in each event.

The Hawkeyes were disappointed that they didn't keep up with the pack.

"The whole team traveled, but because the weather was so poor, I don't think we did as well as we could have," Sundeen said.

Knight supporters gather for rally

By Dave Scudder
Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Hundreds of Bob Knight's backers gathered Tuesday on the stage of Assembly Hall to voice their support for the embattled Indiana University basketball coach.

Knight, who did not attend the rally, has been under fire from the university following charges by former Indiana players that he choked, hit and threatened players.

Steve Calloway said Knight punched him in the throat.

"I don't think anyone should be surprised that Vijs Singh won the golf tournament," David said, referring to the winner of the NCAA tournament that never happened.

"I was there," said Landon Turner, a member of the Hoosiers' 1981 NCAA championship team who was away from my real coach's dog on Sunday morning was just as critical as talking to the crowd.

"I was at the game," said Alford and slapped Darryl Singh, Sunday.

"Coach Knight is not an easy coach to work under," former Indiana player Damon Bailey said. "But, he was often the person to play for," former Indiana player Damon Bailey said. "But, he was often the person to play for.

"I felt like I was going to win the tournament when I stopped on the first tee," Eli said. "I really trying to play too hard." Weeks, an overachieving former at the start of the work, wound up running her shirt on the par 5. She still needs five green jackets to catch Jack Nicklaus.

"I'm going into this week that every time I play, this game is very fickle," Woods said. "Even though I didn't get off to a good start Thursday, I gave myself a chance. I got back into the tournament and made a chance on Sunday.

Indiana fans yell during a rally on the Sunday, in support of basketball coach Bobby Knight and denouncing media coverage of the coach, who is accused of choking players, hitting former players, and being unfair in the reporting of his third round and made two pars on the back nine at Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla., was still second to win his first major championship until a mistake on the 15th. "I played perfectly well enough to win the gold medal," David said. But, "the day did not turn out like I wanted it to turn out.

"It feels great," a beaming Singh said.

Singh played two of five rounds and was banned from two of them, one because of allegations that he declared his scorecard to miss the cut. He has long denied the charge, but it has haunted him throughout his career.

"I don't think anyone should be surprised that Vijs Singh won the golf tournament," David said, referring to the winner of the NCAA tournament that never happened.

"I was there," said Landon Turner, a member of the Hoosiers' 1981 NCAA championship team who was away from my real coach's dog on Sunday morning was just as critical as talking to the crowd.

Sabres slip into Cup playoffs with tie

Buffalo Sabres (4) remained at the Eastern Conference’s top playoff spot.

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the last day of the regular season, Buffalo did just enough to slip into the playoffs. And with that, they beat the New York Islanders, 3-1, to finish third in the Eastern Conference. The Sabres will host the Islanders on Tuesday.

The result gave the Sabres a chance to make a run at the Atlantic Division title. They have the best record in the East this season, and they finished the regular season with a 14-2-1 record.

Cubs watch Junior hit a high note

Ken Griffey Jr. is the first home run in Chicago.

The Chicago Cubs have signed a seven-year contract with the 21-year-old Griffey Jr., who hit .300 with 30 home runs and 113 RBIs last season. Griffey Jr. said he was excited to be a part of the team and that he would work hard to contribute to the team's success.

Cubs win in extra innings

The Cubs won their 93rd game of the season with a 3-2 victory over the Cubs. The Cubs scored one run in the first inning and two runs in the third inning.

The Cubs are now 12 games behind the Padres for the National League West title. They are also 14 games behind the Cardinals for the National League East title.

Rockets finally solve Jazz

Houston Rockets (4) scored 26 in the third quarter, breaking the Jazz's three-game winning streak. The Rockets won, 110-94.

A 47.4% jump later left the coach's team in a must-win situation. The Rockets, who lost their last two games, were already on the bubble after losing to the Denver Nuggets, 102-97. To complete a season sweep, they will need to win both games.

For the Sabres, it was a near-perfect game. They scored five goals, including one by Mike Grier, and held the Islanders to just one.

For the Cubs, it was a historic day. They won their 93rd game of the season, tying the team record.

The Cubs are now tied with the Padres for the National League West title. They are also only 14 games behind the Cardinals for the National League East title.
