Russia to return to world power, Putin vows

Many Russians hope that the former KGB officer will end years of em-memory and living standards, root out abandoned corruption, and restore political stability after the turbulent decades of elderly, often ailing, president Boris Yeltsin.

Putin took the oath of office amid the somber scenes of the Andrea Hallway, the old imperial throne room that is a glistening confession of gold columns, white marble and crystal chandeliers. The presidential guard in 19th-century cus-band played out trumpet fanfares, and sandals of honor were placed before a screen where a black velvet emblem was broadcast live on Russian TV.

Grad student ‘fair’ after explosion

A small explosion and fire injured a UI student in the Chemistry Building.

By Jack Kuehner

A UI graduate student was injured in a small explosion at a chemistry lab in the UI Chemistry Building. Michael Sliger, 20, a UI grad student working in a third-floor laboratory in the building, suffered a small amount of organic solvent into the waste container and a small explosion occurred. Fire chief Mark Johnson said the student, Sliger, was working on an experiment involving a small amount of organic solvent.

"He was dumping into a waste bottle and proceeding as you always would," Johnson said, adding that it was a routine procedure to avoid environmental pollution.

Sliger was able to escape himself in a lab safety shower and he was wearing safety goggles at the time of the incident, Johnson said. Sliger sustained second- and third-degree burns to his hands, head, back and feet.

The Johnson County Ambulance Service transported Sliger to the UIHC burn unit, where he was admitted in serious condition. He was upgraded to fair condition Sunday afternoon.

The Chemistry Building was evacuate, the fire was extinguished by the building's fire extinguishing system. It is not known exactly what triggered the explosion, but it could have been caused by a pressure buildup in the waste container. When the solvent that Sliger was working with is not burning, it is relatively nontoxic, Johnson said.

There was no damage to the lab or home where Sliger was working, Johnson said. (Photo: John Kuehner / Daily Iowan)

Discrimination suit filed against Kirkwood

A former Kirkwood Community College employee filed a discrimination suit against the college in Johnson District Court last week. The suit is the first discrimination case to go against the college in the past seven years.

The suit was filed by a woman who was employed at the college in a clerical position and later terminated by the college.

The woman was not required to respond to the complaint because it was external, and the community college does not give any further representation of the complaint, court records indicated.

Eventually, confidential information

The suit was dismissed by the college, according to court records, which made the entire process very simple for the plaintiff.

The suit was eventually dismissed by the court for lack of jurisdiction.

Hunt continues for 'love bug' creator

The FBI is investigating a virus that can be found on computer systems.

By Other News

MANILA, Philippines — U.S. government agents are zeroing in on an elusive computer virus that has brought the Internet service provider ICSAnet to its knees.

The FBI has been investigating the virus, which first showed up on April 6, and is now under the scrutiny of the Philippine police.

On Monday, the FBI said it had identified a man as the creator of the virus, but did not provide his name.

The virus, known as the "LOVE BUG," is a computer worm that infects computer systems and spreads through e-mail attachments.

The worm spreads itself by attaching itself to e-mail messages and是由 the recipient's e-mail address to send copies of the e-mail containing the worm to all the recipients.

The FBI said it had received around 5,000 reports of emails infected with the worm.

The virus is believed to have originated in the United States, but it has since spread to other parts of the world.

So far, the FBI has not been able to locate the creator or creators of the virus.

The FBI said it was working with the Philippine National Bureau of Investigation to track down the virus's origin.

The bureau has set up a special task force to deal with the ongoing investigation.

Storms swamp Missouri

The National Guard is dispatched as flash floods hit near St. Louis.

By Donn Buehrig

Associated Press

UNION, Mo. — Flash floods washed out roads, inundated homes and killed at least two people early Saturday morning after more than two feet of rain swept across southeastern Missouri.

The National Guard was called in to help with rescue and cleanup in Union, Franklin County, west of St. Louis, and Jefferson County south of the city.

The floods were caused by a storm system that moved in late Friday afternoon, according to Missouri State Highway Patrol. Areas in central Missouri were also expected to see flooding.

Firefighters rescued people from the water in a neighborhood near Flat Creek, normally just a small stream, people spread their tents and pitched a veil of water washing on hospitals.

I'm no Brad Ett or Edward Norton, but I am living in a Fight Club kind of world. And you probably are, too.

We study hard so we won't get a job. We work as a team so we can make a lot of money. We want it, because the names-and-numbers business is the one way we can have picture-perfect lives. But then, for most of us, life can be lived in urban schoonah huts, with the latest features and, of course, an SUV or two.

But there is another consumerist lifestyle, one that would disrupt the public's desire to just get by.

Importantly, however, this same need to get a job, to use the adage, is quickly expanding its influence on the world, the United States, and the arts.

In music, for example, the idea is to get a job, to get the most from the arts. MTV and similar channels, such as MTV Europe and MTV America, owned by Viacom. According to Jack让 in the Wall Street Journal, “the business is changing.”

To present the issue in a way that would disrupt the public's desire to just get by.

Banks wrote, “the goal is within reach. Today, with the exception of McWorld, MTV is available. These stations, along with others, such as VH1, CNN, ESPN, and spins, available from textbook suppliers, are the easiest probably the most along the lines of the test itself, that cause our thoughts to shape the way these individuals think. "Basically, I'll attempt- ing to even the night exam the highest grade in the class? Then you are silent, and the communication of that silence is the most important aspect of current issues written by readers and the editors, according to Mr. Schiller, "it is the day's event."

Tips for beating test anxiety during this finals week

There are many things I can do to keep from blanking out during my final exams. I get so nervous that even though I know the material, I don't do as well as I should.

There are several strategies that can even help you function well in testing situations.

The problem develops when the level of nervousness is so high that it interferes with what you are doing there. Actually, it is often our thought patterns, rather than the test itself, that cause our review reactions. With two people taking the test, there will be two different reactions, as there is a great deal of nervousness and collected, while the other is a pile of nervousness: Why? Many experts would say it's the way you think.

"I'm going to think of this, think of that, and think of out, and feel like a failure," while the calm one's thoughts are more along the lines of "I may not get the highest grade in this test, but I'll do my best, and I'll be just fine." Negative or "dichotomous" thoughts increase anxiety and decrease perform ance quality. You can learn these thought patterns by first becoming more aware of them. Once you realize that you are thinking thoughtfully, ask your self, "what is it about my life that is causing these thoughts?" Then ask yourself if these thoughts are more than what you might consider as "true" and meaningful. Terms that don't mean bloody thinking "true" (i.e., telling yourself you'll get the highest grade in this test, but I'll do my best, and I'll be just fine")

You can also decrease test anxiety through "expanding the day of silence" and the most important aspect of current issues written by readers and the editors, according to Mr. Schiller, "it is the day's event."

UNITED NATIONS - The Security Council met in emergency consultations Monday to discuss the Eritrea dispute after indirect talks between Eritrea and Ethiopia broke down.

Ethiopia's foreign minister accused Eritrea on May 6 of violating the peninsula's truce, saying Ethiopia had not been informed of Eritrea's military deployment.

The council had stressed the need for Eritrea and Ethiopia to resolve their border issues through talks. The Security Council has previously expressed concern about the confrontation.

Barak, Arafat meet on lagging negotiations

JERUSALEM (AP) - Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Barak and Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat met Sunday to try to bridge gaps over the scope of a Palestinian state and other issues that threaten to scuttle negotiations.

The meeting was described as productive, and the two leaders agreed that the negotiations on the permanent peace agreement would be resumed Monday. Barak's spokesman said Barak and Arafat had reached mutual understandings on the exchange of prisoners, the establishment of a Palestinian civilian administration, the status of Jerusalem and the Gaza Strip.

Barak and Arafat discussed all the main issues on the agenda, from the permanent peace agreement to the proposed Israel-Turkey treaty withdrawal under the interim agreement, Baltsky said.

Flames' bats heat up at Iowa Field

The Iowa baseball team won its first conference game over the weekend.

By Greg Wallace

The following was submitted in an upcoming game's event report on Illinois-Chicago, pooled in the Iowa baseball digital. In general, they don't swing it.

"Oh yeah!"

The Flames exploded the 39 runs and 42 hits in handling the Hawkeyes, 17-6, in three games over Iowa Field in Iowa City's final home series.

"We just didn't get the quality pitching, we didn't get the key hits," Iowa coach Larry Hawken said. "I don't know what's happened when you add a pretty good team. They're better than us in the key.

To make matters worse, Northwestern, Iowa's main competitors for the conference and state titles, is playing well, with the team currently ranked No. 1 in the Big Ten.

"They're doing a great job of making it difficult for us," Iowa's head coach said. "It's been difficult for us to get by the conference and state titles, and we're struggling to get by the conference and state titles.

Blacksburg, Va.

The Hawks are 15-6 this season and are currently ranked No. 1 in the Big Ten.

"Our team just doesn't seem to be able to get by the conference and state titles," Hawken said.

Track meet just a vacation for Dwight

Dwight is more concerned with his future status as a free agent than his time in the 200 meters.

The Daily Iowan

It's been nearly a year since Tim Dwight signed a contract with the 49ers, but in a track meet over the weekend, it showed.

The 49ers' first suspect, in 1988, precipitated his own success, but also his career, and contributed to a certain degree in the NFL last year.

"After being through everything that I've been through in the NFL, I've learned a lot," Dwight said. "I've learned a lot about myself, and I've learned a lot about the organization and how it operates.

"I believe the 49ers are a team that wants to win, and they want to win with me," Dwight said. "I believe the 49ers are a team that wants to win, and they want to win with me."
I got four or five crosschecks to the back of the head standing in front of the net. Then, at the end of the game, I’m on the ice and (New Jersey guide Martin Brodeur) sticks the end of his stick in my back and says ‘I guess if he wants to do that, I’m going to run him over next game.’

—Toronto’s Darcy Tucker, after New Jersey took a 3-2 lead in their playoff series with a 4-3 victory Saturday night. Tucker sparked a pre-game commission when he took some swings at Brodeur at the final horn.

Shaq parlayed his home-court advantage into a win over Phoenix.

Pirates take Kid K task, blast Cubs 11-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Kerry Wood was bound to have a day like this. Making only his second appearance since undergoing reconstructive elbow surgery last year, Wood showed a few flashes of his old self. Instead, it turned into a monthly Sunday in the history books.

He struck out six, but gave up seven runs on seven hits in 3 1-3 innings. But the course of these games can be summed up in three, by two batting artists and a pitcher who hit a sacrifice fly in the third for his only run.

Wood (1-3) walked five, but hit batter and hit his third wild pitch, threw three more balls, 60 of them for strikes.

Wood is only his second win at Wrigley Field. The Cubs have lost their first 11 games.

Wood (1-3) struck out eight and walked four in his nine-inning start against the Cubs, who watched the lefty engage in a wild pitch for the win.

Wood's six-out stretch of the seventh inning gave him a 6-0 Saturday night to snap such streak since 1975 — the Elias

IT'S A Sunday.

Wood's third start since returning from the injured list on Aug. 9, he was especially effective in the first three innings.

Wood, 6-foot-6, said he's starting to hit his stride with the season.

Wood has converted four straight relief appearances since replacing Ryan Dempster (3-2) in the first.

Wood is 3-12 with a 7.81 ERA in 22 starts this season.

Wood (1-3) closed with a 68 at Iowa's home opener, which was a key finish to the in.

Philadelphia Flyers scored a dramatic win over the Pittsburgh Penguins on Sunday, bringing them one step closer to the Stanley Cup finals. The Flyers, who entered the series as the higher seed, took a 3-1 series lead with their 4-1 victory.

Flyers defensive star Keith Ballard had two goals in the game, including the winning tally, a power-play goal in the third period that sealed the victory for Philadelphia. The win was significant as it gave the Flyers a commanding lead in the Eastern Conference finals, where they already held a 2-0 lead heading into the series.

Philadelphia's win was fueled by strong performances from several players, including goalie Brian Boucher, who made 32 saves to help secure the victory. The Flyers' defense, led by Ballard and their veteran leadership, was on point throughout the game, controlling the play and keeping the Penguins at bay.

The Flyers' offense was also strong, with rookie Steve Downie scoring his second goal of the series and Cristobal Huet picking up the win in net. The win was particularly sweet for the Flyers, who had lost their last two games against the Penguins in the regular season.

With the win, the Flyers move one step closer to the Stanley Cup finals, where they will face either the Vancouver Canucks or the Boston Bruins. The Flyers' victory was a testament to their resilience and determination, and they will look to further solidify their lead when they return to Philadelphia for Game 5 on Wednesday.
