Dorms graced by fewer lounge-livers

The number of students in temporary housing — 144 — dropped by 26 from last year.
By Kelli Dye
In late July.

While fewer students are cancelling their UI residence hall contracts this year, the number of students living in temporary housing has dropped by one-third.

There are 114 students living in temporary housing in Iowa Residence Halls in all residence halls, last year, 114 students lived in temporary housing and dorms in residence halls.

"It won't affect the residence halls' ability to house the residents," said UI residence hall director David Schoenfelder. "It won't affect the residents, they can't be housed somewhere else, UI mañana.

Louise Stolte, a freshman from North Liberty, is still on the waiting list.

"I haven't even unpacked my stuff yet because I wasn't sure I would move in," she said.

Although Schoenfelder said she was not worried about any vacancies, some students remain worried about living in a lounge to begin the school year.

"It's better to live a little longer than to lose a room," said UI freshman Dave Griffin.

"We don't even have desks," UI freshman Nadia Deegan said that there was little room and that it was hard to adjust to having multiple residents. "I love it because it's not a sorority," she said.

"It's kind of disorienting if people expect or get around 12 a.m. But you get into temporary housing, because you get to know more people," she said.

Kassie Phillips, a sophomore, agreed but added that there was a negative side to living in the temporary housing.

"Sometimes we'll be getting ready for bed, and the women in the lounge would be really loud," she said.

Some residence hall students in temporary housing have already planned to find other living arrangements to get a quiet area or move elsewhere.

"I'm pretty sure that can't be the worst in the nation," Parems said.

"In fact, over the past 30 years, I think we've reduced the number of UI residence halls by one-third. The prospect of being educated by the UI doesn't worry UI freshman Amanda Mathews.

"I wanted to touch on the UI because I was nervous," she said.

"I can also offer some insights into what we can take advantage of," she said.

"The publication claims that students are satisfied with the financial aid system" with a widely recognized survey and surveys of UI graduates.

"It's a key issue in the Princeton Review, which I think is a key issue in the Princeton Review," Parems said.

"I mean, that doesn't mean that you're going to get good grades in college, but it does mean that you're going to get good grades in college."

Coleman: I want everyone to be safe

The UI president discusses sexual assault, stepping up and the split in tuition and fees.

DURING her monthly interview with the Daily Iowan, President Mary Sue Coleman discussed issues ranging from tuition increases to safety in alternative drinking.

Coleman: Students can be very influential individuals, especially when it comes to state legislators. I believe you can rally when it comes to the issue of education and the future. By expressing their feelings, students and helping the UI by encouraging legislators to invest more. Much to the UI, lawmakers too often see UI as one of the best programs and the best bold.

During her monthly interview with the Iowa City Council about underage drinking.

Coleman: For the future, the Stepping Up program has been in place. Basically, I'm in it as the process is to start at the age of 15 or 16, not to instruct kids, but to be a tool for parents and to help them understand the issues. My role is to help communicate the issues to my own daughter. But it's a wonderful job because I'm not trying to teach new students to be safe.

This is the first year tuition and fees are separable. How will students see the benefits of that? Tuition and fees have increased, and we can go at night. I don't believe drinking in the issues, but rather students simply don't have a place to go at night.

Coleman: Students will be able to see how their money is being put to work and how the UI is trying to give them the best. Students themselves need to be aware of their surroundings. The UI is doing its best to invest in new buildings, student life and by having better floors of residence for students.

Shaw family creates memorial for slain son

A plaque rock in Hickory Hill Park commemorates Eric Shaw's life and death.

By Nicole Schuppert

A memorial rock has been placed in Hickory Hill Park in memory of Eric Shaw, who was shot to death by a Princeton Police Department officer four years ago.

The rock, which weighs roughly 1,200 pounds, stands near what would have been his home had he lived. Shaw's family said they hope the rock will serve as a reminder of how much Eric meant to those who knew him.

"It's a way to keep Eric's spirit alive," said Lance Heem, a friend of Shaw's. "He was always there for everyone else and now we have a chance to do the same for him.

"Eric was a very kind and caring person. He was always there for me when I needed him and now I want to do the same for him."

Shaw was working in his art studio when police arrived to investigate an open door. He was fatally shot by an Iowa City Police Department officer.

"We were very upset because Eric was such a special person," said Eric's mother, Sharon Swain. "He was always there for everyone else and now we have a chance to do the same for him.

"We are very grateful for the memorial rock and for the support of the community. We will always remember Eric and cherish his memory.

"Eric was a very kind and caring person. He was always there for me when I needed him and now I want to do the same for him."

Polls show Gore-Bush dead heat

The post-convention "source" suggests the public is giving the vice president a second look.

CAIRO, Egypt - The Egyptian president on Thursday met for the first time in 10 years with Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon, the two leaders holding hands in front of the presidential palace before heading off to lunch.

The meeting came just hours after the Israeli prime minister had demanded that Egypt end its support for the Palestinian Authority's presidential candidate, Mahmoud Abbas, saying it would be an "insult to the world." Sharon also said he would not meet Abbas, whom he has called a "terrorist." Abbas later rejected the offer, saying the two leaders had demanded that Egypt end its support for the Palestinian Authority.

Sharon said he wanted to discuss ways to improve relations between the two countries, including the issue of Palestinian refugees. He also said he hoped to see a "peaceful" resolution of the conflict with the Palestinians.

Abbas said he would not meet with Sharon again until there is progress on the issue of Palestinian refugees. He also said he hoped to see a "peaceful" resolution of the conflict with the Israelis.

The meeting took place in the presence of top officials from both countries, including Foreign Minister Silvan Shalom and Palestinian Authority Prime Minister Salam Fayyad. It was the first meeting between the two leaders since 2001, when Sharon, then Israel's prime minister, met with Abbas, then a Palestinian official, in an effort to broker a peace deal.

Thompson's move from the Joffrey to the UI dance department delighted him.

By Adrienne Taylor
The Daily Iowan

Dance and a love of teaching dance brought Basil Thompson to the UI. Thompson, a ballet master for the Joffrey Ballet during the company's golden period, enjoyed it from the very beginning. He filled the vacancy for ballet master for the Joffrey Ballet, who speaks with a slight British accent. He has been teaching at the UI for 20 years.

Thompson is not new to the University of Iowa. As a boy, Thompson was more interested in soccer than other sports, but when a grade school teacher told him that if he wanted to do what he loves to do, he should take up dance," he filled the vacancy for ballet master for the Joffrey Ballet, who speaks with a slight British accent. The Powers That Be and their HawkIDs

As I type this on a Pappajohn TIC computer, I glance over my shoulder to see if anyone is watching me. Choosing my words wisely and my URLs even more so, I know that I am not alone. In this case, Big Brother has taken the form of the UI TIC computer habits.

I asked a friend who works in the PBB TIC why she had to log on to the computer. She could log on to her own daily log of the Drudge Report. With sweat on her brow and her eyes a-see, she leaned down to whisper to me the security of the room being swept.

"In the computer lab?" you say. "In the UI TIC computer lab?" you ask. "In the Pappajohn TIC computer lab?!" you cry. Yes, that is correct. The UI TIC computer lab is a big brother to the UI computer lab.

Another day, another GOP grand jury

Just as Max Louswelt was made to feel "in a shadow in the nation's collective memory," Independent Counsel Robert Ray appointed a new grand jury to keep Clinton on the stand. This grand jury job is to determine whether President Clinton should be indicted on criminal charges of obstruction of justice.

This move by Ray, who replaced Kenneth Starr as independent counsel for the Clinton-Lewinsky investigation last year, comes on top of a series of public punishments for Clinton. The Arkansas Supreme Court has sealed his law license, and the judge in Kenneth Starr's case, U.S. District Court Judge Susan Webber, has not lifted the order yet.

A set of criminal charges and their sentencing have already been ruined beyond repair. A set of Clinton-Lewinsky scandal as we move closer to November's election. News of the grand jury's appointment was leaked to the press last week in the Arkansas Supreme Court.

STD infections dangerous even when dormant

If you've had genital warts, if you haven't had them in years, but are starting dating my new boyfriend without warning him now? It is necessary to inform him right away or at all? It is maybe smarter for both of us to go for a complete STD checking and of testing comes up for either of us, just assume that we are OK? Please help!

It is very good that you are seeking more information and that you are interested about the safety of your partner. Genital warts are caused by a family of viruses called Papillomavirus. There are sexually transmitted infections (STIs) that can be considered "laser checks" meaning that even if they are effectively treated, they are gone from your tissues. Unfortunately, other STIs, including genital warts, herpes and HPV, remain in each system forever. They may be dormant meaning you might not have actual "boils" of warts or moles, but they are there, nonetheless, and it is difficult to remove them from others through sexual contact.

Most experts agree that genital warts, if properly treated, are up to more than 90% more than a serious health risk. With a routine research method, it is true that some individuals may be completely and at least partially effective at reducing treatment. While the only safe precautions are to use adequate protective measures and appliances, dental decay from any sexual activity and to avoid direct contact with any visible warts, it is much less common to transmit the disease in its dormant state than when you are having an actual outbreak. Most people who have genital warts only have one or two outbreaks and can recover from, and their immune systems and healthy bodies help to keep the disease in check of the rest of the time. Regular check-ups and Pap smear will help you catch any side effects of HPV, such as precancerous growths or cervical cancer. Remember, you are never alone-

Being open and honest about your sexual history, including STIs, is difficult, especially with a new partner. However, you obviously respect your partner enough to write, or respecting him enough to be open with him in a logical and when.

Instituting preventive information about HPV, genital warts and other sexually transmitted infections is available at the American Social Health Association Web page at http://www.ashastd.org.

Ewing, Rice involved in trade talks

A four-team trade between the Knicks, Lakers, SuperSonics and Pistons was discussed on Monday by the Knicks, Lakers, SuperSonics and Pistons.

By Chris Sheridan
Associated Press

NEW YORK - Patrick Ewing and Glen Rice are involved in a mammoth four-team trade that was being discussed Monday by the Knicks, Lakers, SuperSonics and Pistons.

The deal, which would be the largest in NBA history, would send Ewing to Seattle, Rice and Vin Baker to the Knicks, Christian Laettner and Chris Dudley to the Lakers and several lesser-caliber players, draft picks and cash to the Pistons.

ESPN.com reported the trade talks Monday afternoon and said the deal had been agreed to. Two league sources who spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity confirmed the identities of several players in the deal, but insisted it was not finalized and could fall apart.

If it comes to fruition, it would be a staggering deal.

The centerpieces would be Ewing, who has spent his entire 16-year career with the Knicks, and Rice, a free agent who was disgraced last season by his role with the world champion Lakers and Baker, an Olympic gold medalist.

The trade would also include forward Vin Baker, guard Kendall Gill, guard/pacersman Detlef Schrempf and several lesser players, draft picks and cash.

Former champ banned from Olympics

Lindford Christie, a 1992 gold medalist, cannot coach in Sydney because of a drug suspension.

By Robert Wilcox

LONDON — Lindford Christie, the 1992 Olympic 100-meter champion, was banned from coaching the British Olympic team last week because of a drug suspension.

Christie, who now is coaching at the University of Texas, had the British Olympic Association send a complaint to the United States Anti-Doping Agency because he had twice tested positive for a banned substance.

The British Olympic Association said that Christie was allowed to coach its team for the first 11 months of the ban.

Christie was first suspended for two years in 1999 after testing positive for a banned substance.

Christie appealed the suspension and won, but he then tested positive for a banned drug at the 2001 World Championships.

Christie was banned for two years at that time, but he appealed and won.

The British Olympic Association appealed that decision to the Court of Arbitration for Sport, which heard the case in December.

The Court of Arbitration for Sport found Christie guilty of a second violation of the anti-doping code.

The ban was reduced to 12 months.

But Christie was banned for 12 months last week after the British Olympic Association sent the case to the Court of Arbitration for Sport.

The ban means Christie is banned from coaching in the U.S., but the British Olympic Association has said that Christie can coach the British team for the 2004 Olympics.

Christie, who has four medals from the 1992 Olympics, said he was upset about the decision.

"I'm disappointed," Christie said. "I'm upset about the decision and I don't understand why they gave me a two-year suspension."
Larry Walker could be out for the year

The Colorado slugger's ailing elbow puts him on the disabled list for the second time this season.

By Alowa Lopez

DENVER — Larry Walker had barely time to dry himself off when he met the oil-can fred former teammates. He was returning to the disabled list and could not discuss his latest injury.

Walker was placed on the 15-day disabled list with a strained elbow.

The trip to the disabled list was the second for Walker this season and the sixth in his career. He has missed more than 11 games this season. Duquette said the injury is not serious. The injury is not expected to keep Walker out of the lineup for long.

Walker was in the hot tub before Colorado's game against the Atlanta Braves when he was hit by a pitch.

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — Now that an Arizona town with five Little League Softball World Series titles, expects Tiger Woods to take the U.S. Open title, the organization’s board of directors has decided to move a Little League tournament to a Michigan suburb, where the sport is more popular.

The decision came after a group of Michigan baseball players said they were upset by the decision to move the Little League World Series to Williamsport, Pa., where a major league baseball team is based.

The proposal, which was announced on Thursday, will result in a new Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa., to begin in 2024.

White, Stensrud make impression on ISU offensive line

By Chuck Schottner

Linnepay White is new to ISU and Andy Stensrud is at a new position, but both are on the depth chart.

White, a transfer from Blinn College, is playing right guard.

"I think he's got a chance to help this football team," McCarney said. "This athlete, he's got great feet, he's got a really quick release, and he has made a very positive impact on this team. He has earned great respect from all the coaches and the players alike.

Stensrud could not beat out Mike Budzien for the starting job at tight end so he asked if he could move to tackle. The 6'4" 300 pounder has been competing with veteran Tommy Forrest and has already made the starting lineup.

Another new face making a contribution is redshirt freshman Bob Montgomery, the starting left guard. He has held that spot after coming in to practice.

"He's tenacious, he's tough, he's got a good work ethic, all the things you're looking for in a young offensive lineman," McCarney said.

The offensive line needs some work last season because Howard and another veteran, Ben Bonner, were questionable because of re-injury-related problems.

But they were pleased to play and watch with the emergence of White, Stensrud, and Montgomery, the pair of freshmen.

"Most people were thinking it was probably going to be a weak area," McCarrn said. "I feel if we can improve those two things, it gives us a chance to be a real strength on our offensive line this fall.

McCarney said the two most highly touted freshmen have been

He's athletic, he's got good feet, he's just a real fast boy, fullback and he has made a very positive impact on the team. He has earned great respect from all the coaches and the players alike.
