City Council poised for second deer kill

Councillors and Iowa City residents attending a committee's work.

By Megan Eckhardt

Although many disagreed with aspects of the city's Deer Management Plan at Tuesday's Iowa City Council meeting, councilors moved to approve the plan, setting the stage for a second herd cull later this year.

Councilors and residents alike said they appreciated the Deer Management Council's work on the plan, saying it was a step toward finding a solution to the deer population problem.

Some councilors differed in their opinions of the plan, and in the end, councilors moved to approve the plan, 3-2.

Wall said she believes that the city's Deer Management Plan is a positive step toward finding a solution to the deer population problem.

Major said that he had confidence in the Deer Management Council's work and that the city's Deer Management Plan is a good plan.

The Glands will make you sing

The Athens, Ga., natives bring their catchy style to Gabe's tonight.

By Aaron McDaniel

It's amazing how much mileage a band can get out of seemingly simple, clunky and off-the-beaten-path songs. Such is the case with the Glands. The Athens, Ga., natives are currently touring the country fueled by these three top-sellers: "Got Away," "Dance, Dancer," and "Why You Wanna?")

D1: So how did the band start?

D2: We knew we needed more than one guitar to play rock 'n roll, so we borrowed one from our bass player. We went to Gabe's and started playing. After a few songs, people were dancing and singing along.

D1: Who are these songs about?

D2: They're all about love, fun and life. It's a good mix, we think.

D1: What would you say are some of the key elements of the Glands' sound?

D2: We like to think of ourselves as a pop-rock band. Our songs have a catchy beat, and we try to make our lyrics fun and relatable. We also like to incorporate a lot of energy and movement into our performances.

D1: What's the best part of being a Glands fan?

D2: The best part is seeing people smile and dance along to our music. It's a great feeling to know that our songs can make people happy.

D1: Do you have any upcoming shows or events that you're excited about?

D2: We're currently touring the country, and we have a lot more shows planned for the next few months. We're looking forward to seeing everyone out there and playing some new songs.

D1: How do you think the Glands' music compares to other bands in the same genre?

D2: I don't think we're trying to compare ourselves to other bands. We just try to do our own thing and make music that we enjoy. I think our music has a unique sound that sets us apart from other bands.

D1: What would you say is the Glands' biggest achievement so far?

D2: I think it's getting to tour and play for people all over the country. It's been a dream come true for us, and we can't wait to see what the future holds.

D1: How do you want the music industry to change?

D2: I wish there was more support for independent bands like us. It's hard to break into the mainstream, but we think that if people gave us a chance, we could make some great music.

D1: What do you think the future holds for the Glands?

D2: I think the future holds a lot of potential for us. We're excited about our upcoming shows and we hope to continue making great music for years to come.

D1: Do you have any advice for aspiring musicians?

D2: I think the most important thing is to keep practicing and never give up. It takes a lot of hard work and dedication to make it in the music industry, but if you're passionate about it, you can make it happen.

D1: Thanks for being such great artists. We can't wait to see you live!

D2: Thanks for having us! We can't wait to see everyone at the show!

Iowa autumns revolve around tradition. Leaves turn orange and student bands run on 3rd and 8. The regents raise tuition.

After 4,000 years, mankind has made some of the three preemptive American wars traditionally include forcing the Iraqis to accept U.S. military control. U.S. military action, if not stopped, may lead to a U.S. occupation of the entire Middle East.

Let me be your host. I’m Adam White, a Viewpoints editor at the Daily Iowan. I was born in 1980 and was raised in a small town in Iowa. I graduated from the University of Iowa in 2002 with a degree in journalism and mass communication.

When I was a child, I would often read the newspaper in the morning. My parents were both teachers and loved to read. They would often take me with them to the library and show me how to choose books.

I have always been interested in politics and current events. I began writing for the Daily Iowan in my freshman year at the University of Iowa. I was able to contribute my thoughts and opinions to the community and gain valuable experience.

Since then, I have continued to write for the Daily Iowan and other publications. I have written about topics such as education, politics, and current events. I have also written on a variety of other topics, including music, sports, and pop culture.

Vandals released 14,000 mink Sept. 7 from a farm so that the animals might have a fighting chance at freedom. The North American Animal Liberation Front, which claims responsibility for this crime, sent the animals they may have died through injury or starvation, which is worse than a life of complete provision and instantaneous death by tire impact or starvation, which is better than a life in captivity and from the animals' lives or the animals to a safe place their instincts.

The activists were not saving the animals' lives or improving their quality of life. No, what they were doing was facilitating the mink's freedom. The animal rights activists are simply the next step from human beings to the degradation of a life in captivity and their destruction of life so necessary that the mink might not survive.

The activists were trying to have something that doesn't exist in the first place. Animals have no dignity. Dignity is the result of self-esteem, which is the product of integrity, which is the effect of deliberately acting upon what one knows is proper. Animals can exist only within that mind that is capable of remaining complete and absolute thought. Animals have no self-esteem. Chimpanzees, the "smarter" of all non-human primitives, can perceive seven items because seven objects can be perceived without confusion. Chimpanzees are unable to conceptualize the existence of eight things because knowing that eight objects are grouped requires such complex reasons that the mind can't handle it.

The basketball coach said his three sigma method on his future Hawkeyes. The method is a univariate, characteristic group examination that helps him determine his salary.

"With this top job I was looking for something that coaches would be able to get," said Alford. "The Indiana situation was beginning to affect the Iowa program."

"I've had a bad hip, a bad back," said Alford. "The past three years, I've been seeing my three sigma method all the time."

"I thought this was the time to make a change," said Alford.

"I called Alford in and talked to him briefly," said Bahrick. "I told him that we were interested in him, and he agreed to come to our campus."

"I've been working with Alford for the past three years, and I think he's a great coach," said Bahrick. "He's been able to get the Iowa program to where it is today."

"I'm looking forward to working with Alford," said Bahrick. "I think he's a great hire for our program."

Dean Smith endorses collegiate gambling ban

The former North Carolina coach is the latest big name to join the fight.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Dean Smith, college basketball's career victory leader, is backing a House bill by introducing an effort in Congress to criminalize college sports gambling.

"There is not anything more important than that you boy's sense of pride," said Smith, who retired in 1997 after 36 seasons and 955 victories at the University of North Carolina.

He said he is not influenced by the fact that the legislation would affect only Nevada, the state where having an college sports is legal.

"It can't hurt anybody if it's legal," said Smith. "It will take less than 5 percent of the players to make the others be a little more conscious of what they are doing and what they are thinking about money being involved."
Hawks fight through early season hurts

Coach Wendy Logan wouldn’t call Joni Schnitker’s injury a season-ending one, but what’s the point in downplaying the significance? It’s bad news for Iowa State women’s soccer coach Logan, who said Schnitker’s injury is serious.

So what’s the point in downplaying the significance? It’s bad news for Iowa State women’s soccer coach Logan, who said Schnitker’s injury is serious.

Injuries are part of the game, and in the Big Ten, you have to fight through them. But Schnitker’s injury is serious, and it’s going to be tough for the Hawkeyes to replace her.

Schnitker is a defensive leader, and her absence is going to be felt. She’s a key player for Logan, and her injury is a blow to the team.

Logan said that Schnitker’s injury is serious, and it’s going to be tough for the Hawkeyes to replace her.

But Logan is a coach who knows how to fight through injuries. She’s been through them before, and she knows how to prepare her team for them.

"I believe in my team," Logan said. "They’re going to fight through this."
