Ames partially bans restaurant smoking

The ordinance, which prohibits smoking from 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., has drawn some criticism.

By Rachel Landrphotos

Ames became the first city in the state Monday night to ban smoking during days and evenings in restaurants and bars. However, some Ames residents have expressed their concerns about the partial smoke-free law.

The Ames City Council unanimously passed an ordinance that prohibits smoking in certain restaurants and bars. The law took effect on Aug. 1, before the beginning of the semi-annual meeting, said a city official.

The American Tobacco Industry has been opposed to the ordinance. "Our customers have a right to know that we are not a smoker-friendly restaurant," said one customer.

In an interview with the Ankeny City Council, District Manager of the White House said: "We want to go to the better of the two complete meals, he said."

As one of the sides of the issue in Ames it would affect the public, city councilors said.

Scott King urges youth activism

Comet Scott King is running for the Iowa State University Student Body President. His campaign is focused on promoting activism among youth.

"I'm running for the Iowa State University Student Body President because I believe that it is crucial for students to be involved and engaged in their community," King said. "I believe that we can make a difference and we can make a positive impact in the world."

King's campaign aims to empower students to take an active role in their community and to use their voices to advocate for social justice.

"I believe that we have a responsibility to use our voices to speak out against injustice and to fight for the rights of all people," King said. "I believe that we have the power to make a difference and to make the world a better place."

King's campaign is focused on issues such as diversity, inclusion, and social justice.

"I believe that we need to work towards a more inclusive and equitable society," King said. "I believe that we need to promote diversity and acceptance, and to end all forms of discrimination."

King's campaign is also focused on environmental issues.

"I believe that we need to take action to address the urgent issue of climate change," King said. "I believe that we need to prioritize sustainability and to protect our planet for future generations."

King's campaign is also focused on economic issues.

"I believe that we need to work towards a more equitable economy," King said. "I believe that we need to promote economic opportunity and to ensure that everyone has access to the resources they need to succeed."

King's campaign is also focused on issues such as mental health and wellness.

"I believe that we need to prioritize mental health and wellness," King said. "I believe that we need to provide resources to support individuals and to promote well-being."

King's campaign is also focused on issues such as education and healthcare.

"I believe that we need to prioritize education and healthcare," King said. "I believe that we need to invest in our schools and in our healthcare system, and to ensure that everyone has access to the resources they need to succeed."

King's campaign is also focused on issues such as housing and homelessness.

"I believe that we need to prioritize housing and homelessness," King said. "I believe that we need to provide resources to support individuals and to end homelessness."

King's campaign is also focused on issues such as gun violence.

"I believe that we need to prioritize gun violence and to end the senseless bloodshed," King said. "I believe that we need to prioritize the safety and well-being of our communities."
Lure of the West exhibit draws controversy

The Museum of Art's western exhibit is too ethnocentric, some critics say.

By Michael Poe
The Daily Iowan

An exhibit of the U.S. Museum of Art depicting U.S. westward expansion is the latest controversy in the city, but this one is about the exhibit's content.

"There are no native voices represented," said Pamela Trimpe, the museum's director. "It's a token effort to include Native American people, but it's not cost effective."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life." "We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.

"The Meskwaki tribe helped develop the area," said Joseph Williams, the museum's director. "They're not recognized for anything." "It's a disaster," said Sarah Stickney, who is based for Florida this year. "It just couldn't catch a break."

"I don't see a lot of cultural diversity," said Tracie Connolly, a student at the University of Iowa. "There's a lot of white people and their perspective on life."

"We have to first assess the bias in the exhibit," he said.
Congress repeals job-injury rules

The Clinton-era regulations were aimed at limiting repetitive-motion injuries.

By David Eggert

WASHINGTON — Congress voted Wednesday to repeal new workplace rules aimed at curbing repetitive-motion injuries that the Clinton administration had hoped to put into effect in October.

The measure passed the House on a largely party line 230-197 vote, with 33 Republicans and organized labor voting nay.

But President Bush has indicated he will sign it.

There has been no effort to make all the injuries go away, and that to make all the injuries go away would violate a treaty signed by Kennedy and Sen. Byrd of West Virginia, who argued that the regulations were aimed at "job and injury rules in repetitive-motion injuries that were recognized as injuries, when they do, the machines are never actually repaired.

Last week, 43 local businesses reported 14 injuries as part of a staff that researchers from the University of Wisconsin-Platteville are conducting over the next six months. Iowa City and Tiffin, Iowa, and other places, are the test sites for the study, which will investigate if measures will have an effect on workplace injuries.

"Demonstrate expressed out in the House floor permitted only one hour of debate for legislation overturning regulations that had been under study for a decade," Brinkman said.

"That's ridiculous," said Democratic Leader Dick Gephardt, who pressured the House floor for three days prior to Wednesday's vote.

The regulations were aimed at preventing workplace injuries such as carpal tunnel syndrome, tendonitis and lateral epicondylitis. They had been opposed by a variety of groups, including organized labor, but the White House was determined to see them passed.

"We believe the regulations were necessary to protect workers from injuries and to promote economic growth," said the White House.

The vote was still in progress when the White House announced the news. This administration was dedicated to promoting health and safety of workers," said the White House.

It was a testament that the Bush administration was determined to see the regulations passed. The House floor has been a focal point of the debate over workplace injuries in recent years.

"I think it's a big deal for us," said Rep. John Boehner, R-Ga., who opposed the regulations. "We have to continue to push for this bill to pass."
Teen charged with murder in rampage

As the suspect in the San Diego shooting rampage was charged, his classmates returned to school.

By Dan Fox

SANTEE, Calif. — The 15-year-old California student who allegedly opened fire at Monument High that the pair there was a list of creation of a hit.

The brief, nationally televised hearing.

San Diego, arrested seven California students at three schools for making threats.

Teen charged with murder in rampage

On one of the boys' homes. Police said freshman Brent Paucke, 14, was able to get

Teen- age girl wounded in school shooting ticket

The shooting happened around noon during band in the cafeteria. Filed with approximately 130 students at Bishop Montgomery Junior Senior High, a Roman Catholic school.

Police said freshman Brent Paucke, 14, was able to get

Teen- age girl wounded in school shooting ticket

San Diego, arrested seven California students at three schools for making threats.

Teen- age girl wounded in school shooting ticket

The shooting happened around noon during band in the cafeteria. Filed with approximately 130 students at Bishop Montgomery Junior Senior High, a Roman Catholic school.

Spring into break...

Teen- age girl wounded in school shooting ticket

San Diego, arrested seven California students at three schools for making threats.

Teen- age girl wounded in school shooting ticket

The shooting happened around noon during band in the cafeteria. Filed with approximately 130 students at Bishop Montgomery Junior Senior High, a Roman Catholic school.

Spring into break...

Teen- age girl wounded in school shooting ticket

San Diego, arrested seven California students at three schools for making threats.
Deferring taxes with TIAA-CREF can be so rewarding, you might wonder why you didn’t do it sooner.

15% OFF
20% OFF
25% OFF

Your First Home or Home Theater Component
Your Second Component Purchased At Same Time
Your Third Component Purchased At Same Time

*Includes speakers and components by: Yamaha • Onkyo Integra • Definitive Technology Paradigm • Marantz • REL • ARCAM • JM Lab

SALE ENDS SATURDAY, MARCH 10, 2007

For more information, visit hawkeye.com or call 1-800-842-2776

Mention this ad for your 15% off discount.

Your savings are instantly reduced when you purchase online. • All pricing and product availability subject to change without notice.

It's the perfect time to replace your existing speakers with new, high-performance Paradigm speakers. You'll enjoy bettercast sound and better bass -- just in time for the NCAA basketball tournament! (In-home installation not included.)

Your First Home or Home Theater Component

Your Second Component Purchased At Same Time

Your Third Component Purchased At Same Time

*Includes speakers and components by: Yamaha • Onkyo Integra • Definitive Technology Paradigm • Marantz • REL • ARCAM • JM Lab

SALE ENDS SATURDAY, MARCH 10, 2007

For more information, visit hawkeye.com or call 1-800-842-2776

Mention this ad for your 15% off discount.

Your savings are instantly reduced when you purchase online. • All pricing and product availability subject to change without notice.

If you filled this form out in the past, just sign your name and it will be entered into a drawing for a Toshiba DVD player.

The Daily Iowan © Iowa City, Iowa. Thursday, March 6, 2003 - 54
Gunning for their quotes

The Iowa City City Council added in 2002 to the city's budget Monday night, rejecting amendments that would have wasted the community's money.

Councilman Terrance Metals proposed the amendments, including one that would ban local alcohol sales in the city's owner's for the $60,000 Electric, including the localces and Local Law Enforcement American Promise Fund program. The federal grant funds the $60,000

While the task force plays a role in community by help-vading certain drug use and preventing drug use, the ways in which it does so are not clear. The task force's recommendations for improving the system.

Court considers discrimination against religions

Reject intolerance in schools

The Supreme Court is expected to rule on Thursday on the constitutionality of a 1996 law that authorizes a state's religious education. The court is considering whether the law violates the establishment clause of the Constitution. The court will also consider whether the law violates the First Amendment by permitting religious groups to receive public funds for the purposes of religious instruction.

Letters to the Editor

The Student Election Board was justified in deciding to strike the name of a candidate from the ballot for failing to meet the requirements for the office. The board's action is consistent with the Supreme Court's decision in Board of Regents v. Roth, which held that students have a right to free speech on campus.

Votes are not the best protectors of women

In the wake of the recent shootings, many people are calling for stronger gun laws. However, the National Rifle Association has been successful in blocking legislation that would have prevented gun violence. The group has been able to use its influence to prevent gun control measures from being passed.

The school should not be a place for prayer

The school should not be a place for prayer or other religious activities. Students and teachers should be free to practice their religion in their own time and place, away from the school environment.

Q & A

I am Al Gore, and I used to be a senator...

Editors note: This is an editorial written by the editorial board. The opinions expressed in this editorial do not necessarily reflect the views of the Daily Iowan.

Get Real

By Bill Peterson

...who needs Luke Recker?

I admit it

T is time for 수도 to do something about the school's drug problem. Students who are caught with drugs should face consequences. Parents who allow their children to use drugs should be held accountable as well.

Therefore, I am proposing a new policy that will make it clear to all students and parents that drug use is not tolerated at this school. This policy will include:

1. Implementation of a zero-tolerance policy for drug use.

2. Increased monitoring of students and staff.

3. Mandatory drug testing for all students and staff.

4. Strict enforcement of the policy, including expulsion for repeat offenders.

I urge you to support this policy. The safety of our students is our top priority, and we cannot afford to allow drug use to continue.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The school shouldn't be a place for prayer

The school should not be a place for prayer or other religious activities. Students and teachers should be free to practice their religion in their own time and place, away from the school environment.

Votes are not the best protectors of women

In the wake of the recent shootings, many people are calling for stronger gun laws. However, the National Rifle Association has been successful in blocking legislation that would have prevented gun violence. The group has been able to use its influence to prevent gun control measures from being passed.

The school should not be a place for prayer

The school should not be a place for prayer or other religious activities. Students and teachers should be free to practice their religion in their own time and place, away from the school environment.

Votes are not the best protectors of women

In the wake of the recent shootings, many people are calling for stronger gun laws. However, the National Rifle Association has been successful in blocking legislation that would have prevented gun violence. The group has been able to use its influence to prevent gun control measures from being passed.

The school should not be a place for prayer

The school should not be a place for prayer or other religious activities. Students and teachers should be free to practice their religion in their own time and place, away from the school environment.

Votes are not the best protectors of women

In the wake of the recent shootings, many people are calling for stronger gun laws. However, the National Rifle Association has been successful in blocking legislation that would have prevented gun violence. The group has been able to use its influence to prevent gun control measures from being passed.

The school should not be a place for prayer

The school should not be a place for prayer or other religious activities. Students and teachers should be free to practice their religion in their own time and place, away from the school environment.

Votes are not the best protectors of women

In the wake of the recent shootings, many people are calling for stronger gun laws. However, the National Rifle Association has been successful in blocking legislation that would have prevented gun violence. The group has been able to use its influence to prevent gun control measures from being passed.

The school should not be a place for prayer

The school should not be a place for prayer or other religious activities. Students and teachers should be free to practice their religion in their own time and place, away from the school environment.

Votes are not the best protectors of women

In the wake of the recent shootings, many people are calling for stronger gun laws. However, the National Rifle Association has been successful in blocking legislation that would have prevented gun violence. The group has been able to use its influence to prevent gun control measures from being passed.

The school should not be a place for prayer

The school should not be a place for prayer or other religious activities. Students and teachers should be free to practice their religion in their own time and place, away from the school environment.

Votes are not the best protectors of women

In the wake of the recent shootings, many people are calling for stronger gun laws. However, the National Rifle Association has been successful in blocking legislation that would have prevented gun violence. The group has been able to use its influence to prevent gun control measures from being passed.

The school should not be a place for prayer

The school should not be a place for prayer or other religious activities. Students and teachers should be free to practice their religion in their own time and place, away from the school environment.

Votes are not the best protectors of women

In the wake of the recent shootings, many people are calling for stronger gun laws. However, the National Rifle Association has been successful in blocking legislation that would have prevented gun violence. The group has been able to use its influence to prevent gun control measures from being passed.

The school should not be a place for prayer

The school should not be a place for prayer or other religious activities. Students and teachers should be free to practice their religion in their own time and place, away from the school environment.

Votes are not the best protectors of women

In the wake of the recent shootings, many people are calling for stronger gun laws. However, the National Rifle Association has been successful in blocking legislation that would have prevented gun violence. The group has been able to use its influence to prevent gun control measures from being passed.

The school should not be a place for prayer

The school should not be a place for prayer or other religious activities. Students and teachers should be free to practice their religion in their own time and place, away from the school environment.

Votes are not the best protectors of women

In the wake of the recent shootings, many people are calling for stronger gun laws. However, the National Rifle Association has been successful in blocking legislation that would have prevented gun violence. The group has been able to use its influence to prevent gun control measures from being passed.
Closed doors unacceptable in grad-student fees debate

On Monday we went to what should have been a public meeting, composed of public employees in a public building, at our public university and the Public Safety told us to leave.

Numerous graduate students tried to attend a meeting Monday at the Old Capitol to discuss the post-fee increase in fees. Matthew VanderVort, a graduate students' making public member of the Graduate Council, contacted the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences in advance about attending but was denied. He decided to hold the informational picket to educate departmental executive officers—UI's political officers who are the department heads—about the meeting and to provide information on proposed budgets and to protest by excluding graduate representatives.

For 65 minutes, we distributed informational packets to the department heads and then went into the building to ask why we wouldn't attend. A worker informed us the building was closed, and we had to leave. We didn't leave immediately, and Public Safety officers showed up in less than five minutes.

Our goal was to present publicly the proposed budgets, the fees, and the secrecy, and to voice the concern of students. We also wanted to protest the lack of transparency in the Board of Regents, how we will be unable to protest, by excluding graduate representatives.

The post-fee increase in fees will take a further hit at UI's graduate students. VanderVort said the fee increase essentially because public protest by excluding graduate students, proposed budgets, fees, and secrecy in the Board of Regents, and lack of transparency in the Board of Regents, and lack of public protest by excluding graduate representatives.

The post-fee increase in fees will take a further hit at UI's graduate students. VanderVort said the fee increase essentially because public protest by excluding graduate students, proposed budgets, fees, and secrecy in the Board of Regents, and lack of transparency in the Board of Regents, and lack of public protest by excluding graduate representatives.

The post-fee increase in fees will take a further hit at UI's graduate students. VanderVort said the fee increase essentially because public protest by excluding graduate students, proposed budgets, fees, and secrecy in the Board of Regents, and lack of transparency in the Board of Regents, and lack of public protest by excluding graduate representatives.

The post-fee increase in fees will take a further hit at UI's graduate students. VanderVort said the fee increase essentially because public protest by excluding graduate students, proposed budgets, fees, and secrecy in the Board of Regents, and lack of transparency in the Board of Regents, and lack of public protest by excluding graduate representatives.

The post-fee increase in fees will take a further hit at UI's graduate students. VanderVort said the fee increase essentially because public protest by excluding graduate students, proposed budgets, fees, and secrecy in the Board of Regents, and lack of transparency in the Board of Regents, and lack of public protest by excluding graduate representatives.
Census reports soaring number of U.S. Latinos

Preliminary estimates show the number of Latinos in the U.S. has increased 58 percent since 1990.

By Karen C. Atzen
Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The growing Latino population has added a new color to the American melting pot, according to preliminary Census Bureau estimates that analysts say show a United States more diverse than ever.

Latino population growth outpaced predictions by at least 2.5 million in the 2000 census, with more than 58 percent due to higher-than-expected immigration, said Wednesday.

An estimated 35.3 million Latinos in America had an income of $60,000, an increase of 20 percent from 1990, the preliminary Census Bureau estimates show. The black population, meanwhile, increased by 58 percent from 1990, according to the American Legal Defense Force and Educational Fund.

For instance, recent Census Bureau data showed that the Latino population increased by 58 percent from 1990, according to the American Legal Defense Fund and Educational Fund.

"My hope is perhaps we will finally realize the needs we have been receiving all along," she said.

One early estimate projected that the Latino population would grow by 23.7 million by 2050, with the finest figures uncertainty because Americans, for the first time, were asked to identify their race and ethnic background.

The bureau is scheduled to release unadjusted data was sent in April 1 of last year.

"Today is a very important day for us to show the nation what our diversity means," she said.

"The government may have a job that expected to be receiving underestimated findings, including narrowing the censusscope, the Census Bureau has said. Immigrants, for example, may have been overlooked on previous censuses, and non-Latino whites may be in large number to census-recognized in the national head. That means some people who may give as large as possible, but sometimes now they will be considered as not Latino.

"That's just fantastic," said Scott King. "I think it's great to see that the census is really counting everyone."
Aikman waived by Cowboys

Three-time Super Bowl winner Troy Aikman is looking for work.

By John Roesen

The Dallas Cowboys have released quarterback Troy Aikman on Tuesday, following three years in which he was out of the lineup altogether. According to reports, the Cowboys cut ties with Aikman in an effort to shore up their depth at the position.

Aikman had made a total of nine starts over the past three seasons, and was a reserve in four of them. He finished his career with a 62-43-1 record and 14,468 passing yards in 226 games played. Aikman was a first-round pick out of Southern Methodist University by the Cowboys in 1989.

The Cowboys were one of the few NFL teams that did not have a quarterback situation heading into the season, with Aikman still in the mix. However, the team decided to move in a different direction, likely due to the emergence of Dak Prescott.

Aikman, a four-time All-Pro selection, said in a statement released by the Cowboys that he was disappointed to be released but is looking forward to continuing his career elsewhere.

Aikman's release comes after a disappointing season for the Cowboys, who finished the year with a 4-12 record. The team is in need of a new quarterback, and Aikman's departure will likely open the door for Prescott to take his place under center.

Hawkeye women play waiting game

Reid is the only thing going to help Leah Magner's ankle as Iowa waits for March 11.

By Rebecca Smith

The Iowa women's basketball team is playing a waiting game as they wait to hear the results of their NCAA tournament selection.

The Hawkeyes finished the season with a 23-11 record, including a 10-6 mark in the Big Ten Conference. They were one of the final six teams selected for the NCAA tournament, and will now wait to hear their fate.

Iowa head coach Lisa Bluder said she will be sitting on pins and needles until she hears the results.

"It's the first time we've been in this position," Bluder said. "We're just going to wait and see what happens."
By Bruce Laliberte
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — A will accepted by Florida’s widow of a football player who would have been eligible for the first round of the NFL Draft after his death, but the state denied it to her late husband’s estate. The will was rejected by a Florida court, but the Florida Supreme Court has upheld the will and the estate’s decision not to accept it.

By Bruce Laliberte
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — A will accepted by Florida’s widow of a football player who would have been eligible for the first round of the NFL Draft after his death, but the state denied it to her late husband’s estate. The will was rejected by a Florida court, but the Florida Supreme Court has upheld the will and the estate’s decision not to accept it.

By Bruce Laliberte
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — A will accepted by Florida’s widow of a football player who would have been eligible for the first round of the NFL Draft after his death, but the state denied it to her late husband’s estate. The will was rejected by a Florida court, but the Florida Supreme Court has upheld the will and the estate’s decision not to accept it.

By Bruce Laliberte
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — A will accepted by Florida’s widow of a football player who would have been eligible for the first round of the NFL Draft after his death, but the state denied it to her late husband’s estate. The will was rejected by a Florida court, but the Florida Supreme Court has upheld the will and the estate’s decision not to accept it.
Illini, Spartans tourney favorites

Iowa City, Iowa

$4.45
$3.95
$4.95
$2.95
$2.95
$.25
$.95
= $1.25

1) Illinois (23-4, 13-3)
Why they're in: Illinois has won Big Ten Player of the Year, Frank Williams. Williams is the heart of the team, and with him, the Illini are one of the best teams in the conference. Their defense is solid, and their offense is balanced. The Illini are a tough team to beat.

Why they won't: They play a high-scoring team like Michigan, and that could be their undoing.

2) Michigan State (24-3, 13-3)
Why they're in: Michigan State is a balanced team with a strong defense. They have a deep bench and a solid core of players. They are a tough team to beat.

Why they won't: They could have a letdown against a team like Penn State, who could give them a tough game.

3) Ohio State (26-5, 13-3)
Why they're in: Ohio State is a balanced team with a strong defense. They have a deep bench and a solid core of players. They are a tough team to beat.

Why they won't: They could have a letdown against a team like Penn State, who could give them a tough game.

4) Indiana (19-11, 10-6)
Why they're in: Indiana is a balanced team with a strong defense. They have a deep bench and a solid core of players. They are a tough team to beat.

Why they won't: They could have a letdown against a team like Penn State, who could give them a tough game.

5) Wisconsin (18-9, 9-7)
Why they're in: Wisconsin is a balanced team with a strong defense. They have a deep bench and a solid core of players. They are a tough team to beat.

Why they won't: They could have a letdown against a team like Penn State, who could give them a tough game.

6) Minnesota (17-12, 5-11)
Why they won't: For as many Big Ten teams, upset have happened the Spartans. Without quality depth on the bench and finding a true go-to player, Keady's team may find it tough to make an early exit. Ready has his team on a roll and a point to prove. A poor shooting performance would make Wisconsin home sooner than it would like.

7) Iowa (16-11, 7-9)
Why they'll win: It could be the difference between the NCAAs and the four teams that are going to Iowa, which comes which they are a multi-title for the Big Ten. Senior Dean Oliver doesn't want to end his career anytime soon, and Big Ten coaches need to make their best experience, as his teammates to finish his Iowa career.

Why they won't: History without Becker dictates Iowa will not be playing Sunday evening. The Hawkeyes have won the last five games in a row since he returned to the sidelines on Jan. 27. They have won only twice since Jan. 1 and were in overtime at home. Long story short, but the Hawkeyes are on a roll.

8) Penn State (17-10, 7-9)
Why they will win: The Nittany Lions have the ability to be a dark horse in the tournament, as they look to ensure a post-season bid. Jerry Dougherty's team has as much experience as the other teams in the conference. Nittany Lions could be a team that makes an early exit. Keady's team has shown it is finally coming together. They have already shown signs it is finally clicking, and the team is one of the best teams in the conference.

Why they won't: A lack of depth in the frontcourt. The Nittany Lions have the ability to make an early exit. They are not the most experienced team, and they are a dark horse to make a deep run.

9) Purdue (18-9, 8-7)
Why they'll win: Why the won't: Why they won't: Why they'll win: They can't pull off two upsets in the Big Ten 'lburnament. Defense is the key to winning in the Big Ten for as long as he coaching purg. The Big Ten is the deepest in the country, and the Spartans are one of the best teams in the country. They are a tough team to beat.

Why they won't: For as many Big Ten teams, upset have happened the Spartans. Without quality depth on the bench and finding a true go-to player, Keady's team may find it tough to make an early exit. Ready has his team on a roll and a point to prove. A poor shooting performance would make Wisconsin home sooner than it would like.

10) Michigan (19-10, 7-10)
Why they will win: They can't pull off two upsets in the Big Ten 'lburnament. Defense is the key to winning in the Big Ten for as long as he coaching purg. The Big Ten is the deepest in the country, and the Spartans are one of the best teams in the country. They are a tough team to beat.

Why they won't: For as many Big Ten teams, upset have happened the Spartans. Without quality depth on the bench and finding a true go-to player, Keady's team may find it tough to make an early exit. Ready has his team on a roll and a point to prove. A poor shooting performance would make Wisconsin home sooner than it would like.

11) Northwestern (16-12, 5-11)
Why they will win: The Wildcats can be a dark horse in the tournament, as they look to ensure a post-season bid. Jerry Dougherty's team has as much experience as the other teams in the conference. Northwestern could be a team that makes an early exit. Keady's team has shown it is finally coming together. They have already shown signs it is finally clicking, and the team is one of the best teams in the conference.

Why they won't: A lack of depth in the frontcourt. The Northwestern have the ability to make an early exit. They are not the most experienced team, and they are a dark horse to make a deep run.
The Coralville Hy-Vee is seeking applications for experienced child care providers. Stop in to interview with Colleen or Steve.

CHILD CARE NEEDED

SITTCt!R for 2-112 year old June & July. Five days a week. Five hours a day, 8:30am-1:30pm. 319-337-8504.

FACULTY couple seeks experienced caregiver for 19-month old Toddler. 8-16 hours/week. Flexible hours but prefers weekday. Possibility of extended similar employment. Convenient to location. Two references required. Non-smoker; only. $9.00/hour with standard deductions. Contact Doria and Bluford. (319) 337-4597.

SUMMER child care for 3 & 7 year olds. Must be flexible, 4-5 days part-time. Must be able to drive. (10) 311-338-7617.

PART-TIME caregivers needed in toddlers room for afternoons. Apply in person at LONE-A-LOT 213 5th St. Coralville or call Julie at (319) 351-3108.

PRESCHOOL LEAD TEACHER to implement school readiness activities in a diverse, NAEYC accredited program. Full-time, $8.50/hour plus benefits. BA in Education/Early Childhood and Spanish speaking preferred. Send resume or fill out application by March 8th to: Neighborhood Centers of Johnson County, PO Box 2491 Iowa City, IA 52244 or call (319) 358-0014.

MEDICAL

GROUP LEADERS• SPECIALISTS

LIFEGUARDS

(Paid lifeguard training offered)

TAMARAK DAY CAMP

TWO compatible plans.

Best offer, ask for Dan. 319.1187-3132.

J&D Cooks, Unleavened Breads Cooks and Prep Cooks wanted. Full and part-time hours. No experience necessary - will train. Top pay based on experience. Apply at The Vine, 39 Second St, Coralville.

Malone's is hiring for experienced line cooks & delivery drivers. Please apply within between 11am-2pm.

A Photo Worth A Thousand Words

SELL YOUR CAR

30 DAYS FOR $40

(photos and up to 15 words)

Call our office to set up a time that is convenient for you to bring your car by and be photographed. Your ad will run for 30 days - for $40. Deadline: 2 days prior to run date desired. For more information contact: The Daily Iowan - Iowa City's Morning Newspaper. 333-335-5764 or 333-3785.
A lford should suit up. It would likely eliminate Iowa from the tournament, but that's the Big Dance, isn't it? State doesn't want to play these teams, according to its Feb. 7 game in Iowa City. If Alford and the Iowa offense is efficient, it will likely win the game. The Hawkeyes are a versatile team, able to run down the court, but also score inside, which is what they need to do to win. The defense will be key, as Iowa will likely try to limit the Hawkeyes to stop them from scoring.

Hawks told not to listen to analysts. Iowa's performance in its last 10 games, all of which were losses, is concerning. The Hawks have struggled offensively, with a lack of consistency and poor shooting from the field. The defense has been more consistent, but it hasn't been enough to make up for the offensive struggles. The Hawks need to find a way to get more scoring from their perimeter players and improve their overall efficiency. The Hawks have been over-reliant on their shot blocking ability, and need to develop a more balanced scoring approach.

NORTHWESTERN
Continued from Page 1B

e: A victory over the Wolverines would solidify the Cats' hopes of being in the NCAA at Selection Sunday. Alford said that despite everything that has happened this season, the Cats are still a great team. The Cats have finished the season with a 9-7 record, good for a three-place finish in the Big Ten. The Cats have a chance to finish the season with a win over Michigan, which would give them a three-game winning streak.

KELLY
Continued from Page 1B

would likely eliminate Iowa from the tournament, but that's the Big Dance, isn't it? State doesn't want to play these teams, according to its Feb. 7 game in Iowa City. If Alford and the Iowa offense is efficient, it will likely win the game. The Hawkeyes are a versatile team, able to run down the court, but also score inside, which is what they need to do to win. The defense will be key, as Iowa will likely try to limit the Hawkeyes to stop them from scoring.

Alford should suit up Recker. Iowa's performance in its last 10 games, all of which were losses, is concerning. The Hawks have struggled offensively, with a lack of consistency and poor shooting from the field. The defense has been more consistent, but it hasn't been enough to make up for the offensive struggles. The Hawks need to find a way to get more scoring from their perimeter players and improve their overall efficiency. The Hawks have been over-reliant on their shot blocking ability, and need to develop a more balanced scoring approach.

COURT
Continued from Page 1B

the Hawks were led by their seniors, including star guard Lakeer Reke. The Hawkeyes have lost seven of their last eight games, all against Big Ten teams. If Alford and the Iowa offense is efficient, it will likely win the game. The defense will be key, as Iowa will likely try to limit the Hawkeyes to stop them from scoring.

Bluder hits the road. Women's basketball coach Joanne P. McCallie announced that the team will travel to Chicago for the Big Ten Tournament in March. The team will play in the United Center, home of the Chicago Bulls and Chicago Blackhawks. The Hawkeyes have had success in the Big Ten Tournament, advancing to the quarterfinals last season. The team hopes to build on that success this year, as they look to make a deep run in the tournament.

Laws successfully blew a 16-point lead in its season finale against Dartmouth, preserving Penn State from elimination in the Big Ten. The Nittany Lions scored 86 points, good for the most points scored in a Big Ten game since 2000.

Hypothetically, both Iowa and Illinois are tied for the Big Ten lead with 10-7 records. One of these two teams will go on to the NCAA Tournament, while the other will host on NIT. The two teams will meet to determine the Big Ten champion and who will host the NCAA Tournament.

The selection committee will undoubtedly take into consideration Recker's recent absence and the NCAAs' review of the Hawkeyes eligibility. If Recker is ruled eligible, he will likely play the remainder of the season, providing an additional boost to the Hawkeyes. Even if Recker is ruled ineligible, the Hawkeyes still have a top-25 team, and the NCAA Tournament is the ultimate goal.
So Spring Break starts Friday, and you haven't managed to book a flight south for the week. Lucky for you, Iowa City is located in the heart of the Midwest, just a short drive away from four bustling cities. They may not have 10 downstairs rooms and sandy beaches, but Chicago, the Twin Cities, St. Louis, and Kansas City do have some great shopping, hopping club scenes, and unique attractions, and the Di has set out to find them for you.

Chicago — The Windy City

From the Art Institute to Shedd Aquarium, Chicago is well known for its downtown area, but the city is also famous for excellent shopping spots, clubs, restaurants, and attractions. Chic flow is an ideal spot for those UI students wanting to get away from Iowa but still have the funds left over from the cold.

Maggie Hall, also known as Maggie St. Louis, who runs the Windy City, says of the city: "There's so much there, you can't even see it all in one week. So Spring Break is a great week to see what's up. The Di has done the finding for you, so there's a greater variety of things to do. If you're interested in being out and about, Maggie Hall is the place for you.

Win Cities North Midwest Avenue

North Midwest Avenue has been thrilled with the Magnificent Mile for years, and it's also the place to go to if you're interested in being out and about. If you're looking for a change from the usual, be sure to check out Maggie Hall's book, "The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets." It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

Magnificent Mile

The Magnificent Mile is the place to go if you're interested in being out and about. If you're looking for a change from the usual, be sure to check out Maggie Hall's book, "The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets." It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets

There are a lot of things for younger people to do, too. The city is full of amazing restaurants, and its bars and nightclubs are always jumping. If you're looking for a change from the usual, be sure to check out Maggie Hall's book, "The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets." It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

Kansas City — Hey, Hey

Kansas City is the heart of the world, and the city is always bustling. If you're looking for a change from the usual, be sure to check out Candice Starman's book, "The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets." It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

Hey, Hey

The city is always bustling. If you're looking for a change from the usual, be sure to check out Candice Starman's book, "The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets." It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

St. Louis — Gateway City

St. Louis is the crossroads of the Midwest, where every kind of entertainment and culture can be found. Whether you're interested in being out and about, be sure to check out Candice Starman's book, "The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets." It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

St. Louis 323

The city is always bustling. If you're looking for a change from the usual, be sure to check out Candice Starman's book, "The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets." It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

Roadtripping across the Midwest

The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets

There are a lot of things to see and do in the Midwest, but the Windy City is the perfect starting point. It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets

There are a lot of things to see and do in the Midwest, but the Windy City is the perfect starting point. It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

Kansas City 307

Kansas City is the heart of the world, and the city is always bustling. If you're looking for a change from the usual, be sure to check out Candice Starman's book, "The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets." It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

"The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets"

There are a lot of things to see and do in the Midwest, but the Windy City is the perfect starting point. It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

St. Louis 323

The city is always bustling. If you're looking for a change from the usual, be sure to check out Candice Starman's book, "The Windy City: An Insider's Guide to Chicago's Best Kept Secrets." It's not only about the city, but also about the people who make it what it is.

St. Louis 323
A triumph of the heart

You Can Count on Me

A film about a single mother named Lulu who is eager to provide a better life for her son, Terry. Despite facing numerous challenges and setbacks, Lulu perseveres and ultimately succeeds in creating a positive environment for Terry. The film was directed by Kenneth Lonergan and stars Emily Mortimer and Julia Roberts.

Openings Friday

15 Minutes

This film tells the story of a man who is given only 15 minutes to live. As his time runs out, he reflects on his life and makes decisions about his future. The film is directed by Adam Kempenaar and stars Chris Rock and Tracy Morgan.

Get Over It

An animated film about a high school student who is struggling to get over the heartbreak of losing his first love. The film is directed by Kirk De Micco and stars the voices of Adam Scott and Sarah Michelle Gellar.

The Beyond

A sci-fi film about a group of astronauts who are stranded on a distant planet and must find a way to survive. The film is directed by Megan Mullally and stars the voices of John C. Reilly and Samuel L. Jackson.

Island

A film about a group of individuals who are stranded on a remote island and must work together to survive. The film is directed by Matt Damon and stars the voices of Will Ferrell and Kristen Wiig.

The Cloud

A comedy about a group of friends who go on a road trip and end up in a cloud. The film is directed by Judd Apatow and stars the voices of Jim Gaffigan and Kristen Bell.

* film debut

The film was directed by Kenneth Lonergan and stars Emily Mortimer and Julia Roberts. The film received mixed reviews, but was praised for its performances and direction.

For more information, please visit our website or contact us directly.

The Romans are coming

A R T S  B R I E F S

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion

Crowe and German actress, Tanja Szewczenko, will star in the upcoming film "Bette," which marks their first on-screen appearance together since the 1989 film "The Big Chill." The film follows the story of a woman who, after a tragic event, must confront her past and decide whether to stay in the present or return to the past.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

Los Angeles

Crowe and Szewczenko are expected to work together again on a new project in the near future.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.

New York

The Crowes' historic reunion continues with the announcement of a new album together.

Los Angeles

The network has pulled an episode of "Bette" from its fall schedule, as actress Geena Davis has been arrested for drunk driving.

Los Angeles

"Bette," the American television series based on the movie of the same name, has been canceled.
K.C. offers a variety of activities

KANSAS CITY

COSMOPOLITAN TIPS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kansas City offers a variety of activities ranging from food and drink to entertainment and cultural experiences.

The entertainment aspect of Kansas City resembles that of many cities throughout the U.S. but its impressive blend of dining options and nightlife is likely to impress newcomers. Kansas City is home to some of the best restaurants in the country, and you can find everything from casual dining to fine dining in the downtown area.

One of the best things to do in Kansas City is to explore the City Market, a large open-air market with a variety of shops and vendors. The market is home to a wide range of food options, including fresh produce and prepared foods.

Another great option for foodies is the KC Gardens Food Truck Festival, held each summer. The festival features over 100 food trucks and is a great way to sample local cuisine.

When it comes to nightlife, Kansas City is known for its lively bar scene. There are plenty of bars and nightclubs to choose from, ranging from laid-back lounges to upscale nightclubs. Some popular options include The Trocadero, a upscale bar and concert venue located in downtown Kansas City, and The Showboat, a historic boat located on the Kansas River.

To get a taste of the local culture, be sure to visit the Kansas City Museum of Art. This museum is home to a wide range of art, including works by local artists and international masters. The museum also features a variety of educational programs and events.

Additionally, Kansas City is known for its performing arts scene. The Kansas City Ballet is one of the most highly regarded ballet companies in the country, and the Kansas City Symphony is a world-class orchestra.

For those interested in history, be sure to visit the Liberty Memorial, a memorial dedicated to honoring those who served in World War I.

No visit to Kansas City would be complete without experiencing the unique and delicious barbecue that the city is famous for. Be sure to try some of the local favorites, such as Storm's Bar-B-Q and The Country Club.
Erin go Yippy Caya Yo

Dee Rathje and Gayla Drake Paul will perform a tribute on Western melodies at the UI Museum of Art.

By Mark Wilson

The Daily Iowan

For the past six weeks, the UI Museum of Art has hosted the traveling Smithsonian exhibit "Laren of the West," which attempts to "articulate" history and culture with the use of traditional Western artwork, music, and drama.

Today, Dee Rathje and Gayla Drake Paul will play traditional Western melodies with a new twist. The couple will perform songs that would not be expected to be sung in the classroom. In an interview, the couple said they wanted to bring music to life in a way that would bring it to the people.

"If you look closely at Western music, you'll see it's really the same music as Irish and Scotch music," Rathje said. "We're bringing 'Once the Shadows Fade' and 'I See the Sun' to life in a way that's exciting to the audience."

Rathje said they are both musicology students with a specialty in Irish and Scotch music. Rathje's music professor, meanwhile, is Russian-English musicology. Rathje is also the musicology advisor at the UI.

"Western music is often used to depict traditional Western themes, but it doesn't have to be that," Rathje said. "Music can be a powerful tool in helping to teach and learn about the world."

Two songs that will be performed today are "I See the Sun" and "Once the Shadows Fade." Rathje said they selected these songs because they are both traditional, yet they show the influence of music from other cultures.

"The songs are also important in their own right," Rathje said. "I See the Sun" is a traditional Scottish song that has been translated into many different languages. "Once the Shadows Fade" is a traditional Irish song that has been adapted to fit the style of music from other cultures.

"I'm really looking forward to seeing the reaction of the audience," Rathje said. "I think they'll enjoy hearing these songs in a new way."