A man living in a local motel faces two counts of federal bank robbery.

By Megan L. Eckhardt

The Daily Iowan

Two men and two bank robbers in less than a week, local authorities say the alleged robber is in police custody.

Police investigators say they have identified William Porter as the man in surveillance photos taken in the Coralville Iowa State Bank & Trust Co. ladder bank branch. Porter turned himself into Coralville police Sunday afternoon. He had been a regular customer of the Ainsworth Park Inn, 1568 S. Riverside Drive.

Porter is also a suspect in a robbery that occurred last week at Commercial Federal Bank, located in Hy-Vee, 1720 Waterford Drive.

Authorities say the quick identification of the suspect made within two hours of the robbery, was due to the high quality of the Iowa Law Enforcement's surveillance photos.

On April 20, Porter allegedly entered the Coralville Iowa State Bank and handed a note to a teller, demanding money. Employees complied with the man's request, and he fled on foot, with an unknown amount of cash.

The suspect's description was similar to one from a April 17 robbery at Commercial Federal. In that incident, which occurred in the evening, Porter allegedly entered the bank and demanded money from a teller by a note. No weapon was displayed, and no injuries were reported. Officials said of both incidents.

"We knew there was a lot of similarities," said Coralville Police Chief Barry Bedford.

The Quebec provincial security minister, Serge Monast, estimated the cost of providing security for the summit — the most extensive in Canada since World War II — exceeded $40 million.

Approximately 400 people were arrested, and scores more were injured, some seriously, in two days of confrontations, police said. On April 21, more than 25,000 people marched peacefully to protest the free trade talks. About 200 protesters punched and kicked the gauntlets off a 3.3-mile trade barrier in an attempt to unplug it.

■ Ames — On the night of April 20, an Iowa State University fraternity held a dance competition to attract VEISHEA-goers who wished to participate.

It was on that same Friday, April 19, that an Iowa City police officer was shot and killed while he was on duty.

Faster later years, the scene was one of laughter and cheer as people gathered to raise their hands to cheer in the air and sing the VEISHEA anthem.

This scene and others contributed to what organizers and local officials are calling the first successful VEISHEA in years.

The Ames acting police chief, Steve Hayes, said the Iowa City Police Department received a call at about 3 a.m. Saturday that a second-floor window in the city's public safety building had been broken.

ISU students Confront world's biggest Rice Krispies Treat

AMU, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State University students set a Guinness World Record when they created the largest Rice Krispies Treat using can-size popsicles.

They used a Food Science and Human Nutrition Department microwave to melt the chocolate covered Rice Krispies Treats.

The project was part of the South Dakota State University's annual microwave contest.

The treat was then molded into a giant Rice Krispies Treat.

ISU students will donate the treat to a local elementary school.

Iowa State University President Steven Leath said, "This is a great example of how we can use our resources to make a difference in the community."
RiverFest kicks off this week

The 23rd annual RiverFest will begin Wednesday afternoon in Hubbard Park.

By Mike McWilliam

Despite funding problems, the board of directors for the annual RiverFest is set to kick off RiverFest in Hubbard Park today.

Rajiv Pandit, a UI senior and the festival's media relations chair, said the board experienced some setbacks in regards to finding, especially with the university getting more involved in the event.

"We've been working a little bit harder and got it done," she said.

"We have over 200 volunteers that will make the whole thing happen.

A volunteer and event director for the Guyerans said the board has been scheduling and making arrangements for the event.

He agreed with Rajiv that the biggest obstacle the RiverFest committee has faced has been "insufficient funding." This year's RiverFest will feature a sand sculpture, a 5K and 10K run and walk, a concert, a raffle and a dance.

The bands lined up for RiverFest 2001 include: The Diplomates, Kelly Perdue/T GIVEL, the Devil's Backbone, DaveSolo and the Body Electric, with Bob Kenny, King Djang, Bargain Music, the Vagabond Club, the River System and Cursive.

Despite the funding hitch, Rajiv said everything has worked out for the festival this year.

"We'll be happy for anything," he said.

"I think when we look back in the future, you'll be glad we did this," she said.

The festival kicks off tonight with the band White People and the surf act The Waves at 6:30 p.m.

Pandit said the festival will feature a "nice variety of acts, from the extreme to the folk." She said the annual RiverFest will feature the usual suspects, such as rock, folk, country and "a little bit of everything else.

"I think that we'll have a good variety of acts. I think we'll have a good variety of acts that will make it a nice variety of acts.

The festival continues all afternoon until 11:00 p.m.

Recent violence has been the topic of much international discussion, especially in the Middle East. The Palestinian Authority has condemned the attacks, stating that they undermine the peace process. While some Israeli leaders have called for harsher measures against the attackers, others have advocated for a more diplomatic approach.

The recent violence has also highlighted the challenges of living and working among the transgender community. Many transgender individuals have faced discrimination and violence because of their gender identity. However, some governments have taken steps to protect and support transgender individuals, including the provision of health care and the recognition of transgender identity in legal documents.

In a recent development, a Palestinian authority has announced that it will begin offering medical treatment for transgender individuals, including hormone therapy and gender reassignment surgery. This move is seen as a significant step towards protecting the rights of transgender Palestinians.

The situation remains complex, with both sides calling for greater security measures to prevent further attacks.

Kansas tornado leaves one dead, 28 injured

The man was killed on April 21 because he was waiting for the town animals that never scurched. By Raymond Neuman

HISONGEN, Kan. — Coral City, Iowa •

The first tornado of the season in the state swept through the area, killing one person and injuring 28 others. A man was killed when the tornado struck his home, and 28 people were injured when they were swept up by the tornado.

The tornado was the first in the state this season, and it caused significant damage. The area around Coral City was hardest hit, with reports of extensive damage to homes and businesses.

The National Weather Service said the tornado was a result of a storm system moving through the region. The storm system is expected to continue moving through the area, so residents are urged to stay alert for further tornado warnings.

The man who was killed has been identified as James Smith, 35. Smith was working on the roof of his home when the tornado struck, and he was found dead in his home after the storm passed.

The 28 injured people were taken to local hospitals, and their conditions were reported to be stable. Some of the injuries were minor, but others required medical attention.

The tornado caused significant damage to homes and businesses, with reports of windows and roofs being blown off. Power outages were reported in some areas, and some residents were left without electricity.

The National Weather Service is urging people to stay alert for further tornado warnings, and to take shelter when necessary. The agency has also advised people to stay away from damaged buildings and to be cautious when returning home.

The tornado comes as the state is still recovering from a series of severe storms last year. The storms caused widespread damage and left many people without power for days.

The state has declared a state of emergency, and emergency officials are working to respond to the situation.

The National Weather Service is monitoring the area closely, and will provide updates as necessary. Residents are urged to stay tuned to local news outlets for the latest information.
A pale tale of obsession

One of the most provocative of all Takeshi Kitano's films is Taboo, a young warrior named "Senzaburo" who, in a lustful way, arouses feelings of desire among his comrades. Takeshi Kitano, the famous Japanese director, plays a respectable, wealthy family. But beauty, which is so striking that it spun around him, sold the soldiers, Kana comes from a seafaring community. Several points we are privy to his life, including the power of his swordsmanship, and is drawn to his beauty in a lustful way. Hijikata informs the audience that Kana was the object of self-love. In 1998, he joined the militia, he explains: "Inexplicably, I was obsessed with him."

In addition, the movie presents a rather garish and desolate atmosphere. All of the characters are portrayed as if they were "souls" that were temporarily possessed by a demon in the past. The plot, to be frank, is driven forward by the actions of the spirits, and it doesn't respout until the last scene.

It was the film's sixth-weekend showing, and it took in $2 million more than Tora, Tora, Tora. "You can't really say the film is cracking through the box office," Newell said. "But I think it's doing reasonably well."

Samuel L. Jackson, who stars in the film, said: "I'm happy that people are enjoying it. I'm glad that people are coming to see it. I hope they enjoy it as much as I enjoyed making it."

Bridget Jones's Diary, which was released in January, has taken in $102 million in its first seven weeks of release. It is the highest-grossing romantic comedy in history.

The 500 is the third-fastest race in NASCAR history.

TALLADEGA, Ala. — The race was there to win. All Bobby Hamilton needed was a little push.

"I couldn't believe it," Hamilton said Sunday after shooting out of a massive pack two laps from the end to win the caution-free Talladega 500. "I was running maybe fifth or sixth on the inside and I could hold on by myself. To win it, though, I needed some help."

He came in the form of Andy Petree Racing teammate Joe Nemechek, who suddenly popped up behind Hamilton's No. 5 Chevrolet and gave him a big push past Tony Stewart. Petree had October's race at Talladega Superspeedway and the checkered Daytona 500 in February — which included a terrifying 18-car crash and another accident in which NASCAR supervisor Dale Earnhardt was killed — this run featured nearly constant two- and three-wide racing by most of the 43-car field.

Nobody was able to dominate, although Sterling Marlin, Dale Earnhardt Jr., and Stewart did take turns leading the race for extended periods. In the end, though, it was Hamilton at the front of it long line of cars on the high side of the 2.66-mile oval, that chased down Earnhardt's Pontiac two laps from the end of the 184-lap event.

"I got lucky that Joe was behind me," said Hamilton, whose last victory came in Martinsville, Va., in April 1996. "I'm not sure we could have won the race without him back there.

It was the first NASCAR race without a caution period in nearly two years and the third-fastest 500-mile race in NASCAR history, with Hamilton averaging 184.6 mph.

Stewart, who had led from lap 241, appeared unlikely to not only win until Earnhardt suddenly appeared in his mirror. Stewart, still trying for his first win of the year after leading the series with six last season, tried to block Hamilton, but the challenger was able to slip past as the leaders went into the first turn of lap 187.

"I kept watching the镜子 through the backstretch until lap 186," Stewart said. "Hamilton kept topping the three- or four-second gap.

Hamilton and Stewart battled to the end, with the winner crossing the finish line .013 seconds ahead of the massive pack of more than 30 cars that followed the two leaders, with no one able to hang on to third, followed by Mark Martin and Bobby Labonte.

It took NASCAR about 30 minutes, using video and the computer scoring to sort out the finishing order behind Hamilton.

Nemechek was eventually scored in sixth, followed by Johnny Benson, Earnhardt Jr., last-place starter Mike Wallum and Jeff Burton.

NASCAR's penalty to Dicks Team USA, 3, for the unapproved late-model, was suspended.

The series heads to Atlanta Motor Speedway for the July 4 race.

Iowa's track team competes against the world's elite

Several Hawkeyes turn in stellar performances at the Mt. SAC Relays.

Iowa City, IA - The Mt. SAC Relays, one of the most prestigious track and field events in the world, brought some of the world's top athletes to California this weekend. The Iowa track and field team, led by Coach Steve Bower, performed exceptionally well, with several athletes setting personal bests and earning All-American honors.

The Mt. SAC Relays, held in Los Angeles, California, is known for its high level of competition and attracts athletes from across the United States and beyond. This year's meet featured some of the world's top sprinters, jumpers, and distance runners, and the Hawkeyes were well-represented.

Leading the way for Iowa was senior sprinter Ali Hill, who ranked nationally in the 60-meter dash. Hill, along with fellow sprinters and previous Mt. SAC Relays抗癌冠军，raced to victory in the 60-meter dash, setting a personal best of 7.03 seconds. The win earned her a spot in the NCAA Outdoor Championships, making her one of only 10 Hawkeyes to qualify for the national meet this year.

In the 200-meter dash, another of Iowa's top performers was senior jumper Jalen City, who clocked a time of 22.68 seconds, improving her personal best by 0.05 seconds. This performance solidified her status as a national contender and earned her a spot in the NCAA Indoor Championships.

Other standout performances included vaulters Emma Goldman and Jessica Schaefer, who both set personal bests in their respective events. Goldman, a senior, vaulted 14 feet, 4 inches in the women's pole vault, while Schaefer, a junior, cleared 13 feet, 6 inches in the women's high jump. Both athletes are expected to qualify for the NCAA Championships with their performances.

The team's relays also contributed to the overall success, with the men's 4x100-meter relay team finishing third and the women's 4x400-meter relay team placing fourth. These performances were the result of strong teamwork and dedication to the sport.

Coach Bower expressed his pride in his athletes' performances, saying, "I am incredibly proud of our team's performances this weekend. To have so many athletes set personal bests and achieve our goals is a testament to the hard work and commitment of our athletes. I believe we have a bright future ahead of us, and I look forward to seeing what our team can accomplish in the upcoming season."
