Main Library ITC receives a facelift

The University of Iowa Library has a shake-up in store for the students who use the new flat-screen computers that are part of a $2.1 million interdisciplinary technology initiative program to give the campus a new look.

The 41 new workstations, which the university installed in the second-floor Informational Technology Center, are made of flat-screen monitors, Power Mac G4 Cube processors and digital video editing software, and are faster than the older ones they replaced, said Holli Wexler, 38, who is a senior in public safety, said.

“I like the new Mac computers a lot because the screen is better and the keyboard is easier to see,” said junior Julia Hausman, 20, who is a member of the student computer fund.

The student computer fund paid for the computers, which were part of an 83.1 million grant to computer science programs in the university’s ITCC during the next three years.

The university will sell $700,000 of student stock to replace ITC technology.

President Mary Sue Cullen, of the University of Iowa, said the money from the sale will provide funds for the university’s Information Technology Center, which is the site of an old computer lab.

The university spent 235,700 to replace the old computer lab with new workstations.

The computers are paid for by the student computer fund, of which the university has an 83.1 million grant, and the computers are designed to replace the old computer lab, which was shut down in March.

The money from the sale will be used to replace the old computer lab with new workstations.

The computer lab is being replaced with the Power Mac G4 Cube processors, which were introduced to the new Mac computers.

Press legend Graham dies

By Nancy Beach
Associated Press
WASHINGTON—Katharine Graham, who defied the Washington Post through the turmoil of the Pentagon Papers and Watergate and built down President Nixon, died Tuesday. She was 84.

Graham had been unconscious since her fall and injury on May 14 in a fall at her home in the Rivergate development in Buxton Valley, Idaho. Her family was at her bedside when she died at St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise, where she had been taken for surgery.

At chairwoman of the Wash­ington Post Co., in two decades, Graham built the paper her father had founded into a hard­nosed business empire that reached 271 in on the Washington 400 but by the end of the last year, she turned over her key role in 2011. Along the way, she became a force both respected and feared.

The showdowns with which Graham turned the Post into a powerhouse newspaper was made notable during the tur­bulent 1970s in the showdown over the Pentagon Papers, a document that brought down President Nixon, and in the Portland daguerreotype lawsuit that was greeted with a head on July 14 and 15, 2003.

As the official moment in 1971 when she made the deci­sion to publish the Pentagon Papers, in defiance of govern­ment secrecy and against legal advice — but after the New York

Amnesty program confused

Some experts contend that President Bush's new immigrant plan could spark a rush to the border.

By Mike Ezele

WASHINGTON — Many in Mexico believe the amnesty program Bush is to bring order to the nation's immigration system — is a proposal designed to do just the opposite — a rush of ille­gal migrants north in hopes of gaining U.S. residency.

President Bush is expected to unveil a plan to control illegal immigration on Tuesday, but the 2.1 million U.S.-Mexico border residents who have lost their legal status, says Bush's pro­posal will not stop the flow of border jumpers — and could do little to help families waiting for amnesty.

Bush already the proposal should be tied to an overall plan to deal with immigration. "It is geared for the people who have been here for a long time without papers who have had no papers, no recognition of their rights," said Arthur Roht of the nonprofit Center for Border Human Rights and Human Rights inBexly. "But it's not schol­arly or by a panel, it could be highly inflammatory. There will be more than 2 million people who don't control the cause."

"...students should understand the appropriate age for an implant to be successful. Research on children is complex because it is difficult to communicate with them and determine their learning abilities, he said.

"There is no figure on how much hearing children have lost at what age so that hearing level and sensitivity by age can be gauged," he said.

"None of the deaf community members were able to talk about the implants, particularly the elderly, in whom candidates for devices are identified. "This means the use of sign language specific to the centennial to push for implantation.

"Research shows that it's too early to say," said Dayton Ontiz, assistant professor of otolaryngology.

"We're always going to have to educate younger parents, especially for a really young child," he said.

But parents feel good about pushing after watching their own implantation benefits in their own children.

I.C. had put his foot in his mouth and he had a feeling that he was going to be pointing a finger at himself for a long time. But his family and friends were most understanding. And he had a lot of faith that he would be able to make things right.

John Doe's good job of his job included:

- Developing the plan for the new system, which was gaining traction.
- Representing the project in front of the board of directors.
- Providing feedback to the team on their performance.

He was proud of what he had accomplished and was looking forward to the future.

Juanes leads the Latin Grammy list

Academy voters are finding new artists to reward, the group’s president says.

By Antonio J. Delgado
Associated Press

MIAMI — Colombian upstart Juanes received a leading six nominations Tuesday as the award voters stepped up their intent to reward rising new artists that can be successful this year a little more on Martin and Marc Anthony.

"We’re looking for someone with something new, something different," said Producer-songwriter Emilio Estefan Jr., who was joined Tuesday night in the announcement of this year’s Latin Grammy nominations by Colombian rockers Aterciopelados and Brazilian musician Babi.

"This is beautiful," he said. "Juan’s song and album of the same name, "Alma a la Aire," received nominations for song of the year, best male pop vocal album, and best music video.

Nominees will compete in 33 categories, but 38 awards will be given because two categories were combined.

"Miami, which turned down the awards show last year over politics, will be the host this Sept. 13 in celebration of Latin music, which has grown in popularity because of the success of such crossover artists as Ricky Martin and Marc Anthony."

"People have realized that the music is good, we’re not in conflict," said Estefan, who’s married to famed ballad singer Gloria Estefan.

The 11th annual Latin Grammy Awards were held in Los Angeles last year over the objections of Miami-Dade County Mayor Manny Diaz and his colleagues because the county had rejected a request from both of the Latin Recording Academy’s parent organizations to be the host of the show.

Diaz said Tuesday he was glad he committed to Miami instead.

"This is a center of ideas of cultural exchange," he said. "People who have contributed to the show "Who Wants to Be a Millionaire" are going to be here, it’s going to be a Marsayas and a surprise to see how it’s going to be lived.

The ceremony and emphasized his support for bringing the show to Miami.

"It’s amazing, they have really like the idea of having the TV show," he added.

"It’s going to be a big show," Estefan said, "and people are going to want to see it."

Desperately being Regis

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What began as an attempt to attract a three-pack version of the hit game show "Who Wants to Be a Millionaire" instead turned into a bidding war that saw销售额 from "Desperately Being Regis".

Approaching 130, Regis Philbin sponsored the game show for three chances at one of about eight new positions in the new attraction slated to open at Disneyland’s California Adventure this fall. While many of the male candidates were dressed in the requisite dark suit, blue shirt, and solid tie, the casting director said she was not seeking a Regis clone.

"We’re looking for someone with a big personality, a little bit of attitude, and a big heart," said Ben Rogers, who was shown during Thursday morning. Rogers of Tishomingo, Miss., would be given two more opportunities.

Regis’ new host will vie with the likes of "Who Wants to Be a Millionaire" and "Desperately Being Regis". The two categories, but 38 awards will be given because two categories were combined.

"It’s going to be a big show," Estefan said, "and people are going to want to see it."

The world of boxing, however, is a chaotic mess.

“Most importantly for him, is that we have the rights to the fight,” Greenburg said of the Lewis-Brown rematch.

Tough rough awaits Woods

Last year’s champion could have his hands full.

By Doug Ferguson

LITHIA ST. ANNES, England — As if the wind whipping off the Irish Sea and the 160 bunkers at Royal Lytham & St. Anne’s weren’t enough, Tiger Woods got another reminder that a new year brings a new challenge at the British Open.

Woods was playing in the pro-am Tuesday with a golf professional at Lytham St. Annes, where Woods set a British Open record by finishing at 10-under 276 to complete the career Grand.

“Not only was he very relaxed, but he even smiled after a tentative 5-foot par putt on the 17th green, which I think is a good sign,” said the player who was paired with Woods.

Woods is one of 124 golf professionals who will be playing in the Open, which begins Thursday, and will be joined by the British Open’s other three champions, Retief Goosen, Mark O’Meara and Tom Watson.

Woods, who is coming off a 15th-place finish at the PGA Championship, said he was looking forward to the test.

“I’m really looking forward to the Open,” Woods said. “I feel I’ve done a lot of things this year and I’m excited to get a chance to play one of the best courses in the world.”

The Open is the first of four majors this year.

The Wizards’ top draft pick is taking Michael Jordan’s advice.

By Jenny Siegel

Associated Press

BOSTON — Kwame Brown is already showing signs of taking Michael Jordan’s advice.

“He told me to have fun. He said not to worry about the game. If I can do that, I’ll play,” said the Wizards’ top draft pick.

Brown played all the first half of Tuesday night’s game against the Boston Celtics, and then left with 8:22 left in the second quarter.

“I’m just trying to get my feet wet,” Brown said. “I’m not trying to look like a rookie.”

Brown, 19, a 6-foot-11 center, was the first overall draft choice in the NBA draft.
