The UI Foundation’s Rebuild the Dome Fund has received $150,000 in donations, including a $5,000 donation from Bennett and his brother, Ken. Nine times by 10 states and three countries have contributed to the fund.

UI Foundation President Bob Ferris said, “It’s a privilege to be part of the dome’s history and to contribute to its future.”

U.S. Marines deployed to Afghanistan

By Ellen Kimmeiper
Associated Press

BANGI, Afghanistan — It is a scenario we’ve heard so many times before. In this latest Taliban stronghold, hundreds of U.S. Marines landed by Chinook helicopters near the northern Afghan town of Kunduz, a week after the battle ended.

The day began with the Marines hauling mortars, ammunition and ground support equipment across the ramp to the landing zone.

“We have to get our basements back; we have to salvage what we can,” said a man in Kunduz.

Wednesday marked the first U.S. ground expeditionary force action in a day after the Taliban’s last northern stronghold, Kunduz, fell to troops of the U.S.-led invasion force.

The cuts will hit everything we have," he said. Alan MacVey, the chairman of the theater department, and he said he based his "solid" information from the Division of Performing Arts regarding budget cuts. MacVey said he will meet with graduate assistants this week from the department to tell them what information he has.

Members of COGS are expected to discuss the cuts and class sizes increased for the spring semester to plan for later semesters. They will next meet, Marchman said.

"We will fight it with everything we have," he said.

"I'm worried about the number of people who will be able to perform," he said. Michael Marchman, the theater department's media relations director, said that the cuts would force their enrollment to drop and would put the program "in jeopardy," leaving them without budgets.

Graduate assistants are required to work at least four hours a week, in his words, to do their work. He said the cuts would force the theater department to cut its graduate assistantships.

"I'm concerned with the program's budget, the career opportunities, and that's how they themselves are concerned with the budgets," Marchman said.

Hundreds killed in Afghanistan prison uprising

By Bert Norman

Mazar-e-Sharif, Afghanistan - Hundreds of Osama bin Laden's foreign fighters were killed after an uprising with sniping began in a Northern Alliance prison on Sunday, officials said, as U.S. forces launched the biggest assault yet in northern Afghanistan to capture bin Laden.

A U.S.-led forces soldier who was wounded in a German television newscast saying Americans may have been killed, but the Pentagon said later that all U.S. forces in Afghanistan had been instructed that no one was hurt.

The U.S. Central Command, which oversees the war in Afghanistan, said earlier that any wounded U.S. forces were being flown out of the country. The fighting began.

The fighting, approximately 300 Chechens, Pakistanis, and Arabs who surrendered on Nov. 24 from thebesieged city of Kunduz, had smuggled weapons under their trousers into the prison and tried to fight their way out. Northern Alliance spokesmen said 143 or something similar to 200 of the prisoners were killed.

The uprising began about 11 a.m., witnesses said. Alliance spokesman Zaher Wahadat said the prisoners attacked a Northern Alliance command center and the prisoners broke down the doors and freed the hostages.

As outnumbered guards met up with the compounded walls, the artillery divided and few of the prisoners were killed, but the Pentagon said later that all U.S. forces in Afghanistan had been instructed that no one was hurt.

There were hundreds dead here at least the way it was. It was the first death toll, said the U.S. soldier said in the footage. "There were two of us at least, way and no other people."

The Taliban soldiers appeared to have planned the battle, Central Command spokesman Lt. Col. Dave Cullen said, describing it as an apparent "revenge action.

By 6 p.m., Wahadat said, the compound was under control, and most of the prisoners were dead. "They were all killed, and very few were armed," he said.

A difficult week for all Hawkeyes

Thanksgiving break is supposed to be a week of relaxation before building back up for the semester’s end. For Hawkeyes across the state, last week was anything but.

From a fiery catastrophe to the tragic loss of a former Opinions editor, the past week has been filled with sorrow and heartbreak. The Old Capitol burned out the cause of the inferno is still under investigation, a charred skeleton of Iowa’s version of the Clasic Dome. The Iowa football team was sad. “Astonishing.”

DeGowin Blood Center

Thank you...from the DeGowin Blood Center

To all who have donated blood in the aftermath of the events of September 11, or have made appointments to do so, thank you. On a day that saw countless acts of heroism, those who rolled up their sleeves to give life to others are heroes in the truest sense of the word.

The DeGowin Blood Center also extends a "thank you" to numerous other individuals and area businesses who have helped out in other ways over the past weeks:

Thank you toDominio's Pizza, McDonald's, and Cookies By Design for providing refreshments for our donors and staff members.

Thank you to those who called and sent e-mails offering to host blood drives at your schools, businesses, and places of worship.

Thank you to our volunteers who have graciously served refreshments, answered phones, and called interested donors to set appointments.

Again, thank you to everyone who has given a little of themselves for the good of others. We find it reassuring that in the midst of much ugliness, the beauty of the human spirit is on display for all to see.

The day the dome fell

By Matthew

Ames — LaVell Edwards was disgusted.

By the time the Bruins had worked their way to the Jack Trice Stadium field for the November 24, 2001, 14-7 victory over Iowa State, the Turfblazers had already gathered in the stands. They were chanting "Rudy, Rudy, Rudy." The victory, the first in Ames since December 1992, had not been expected.

Iowa State's fans, who have failed to show much enthusiasm for football in recent years, were in a frenzy.

"It's unbelievable," Edwards said. "It's unbelievable; it's unbelievable." Is it true?" Edwards asked. "I mean, it's unbelievable; it's unbelievable." Is it true?" Edwards asked. "I mean, it's unbelievable; it's unbelievable."

But the Turfblazers were in a frenzy.

Two season-ending losses befall Iowa

By Tyler Lautzenheiser

Iowa's junior middle hitter, Amber Meyerman, and the Big Ten middle hitter, Shelly Hohman, had both faced a similar challenge in the past. They were both on the verge of losing a game, but both found a way to claw back and save the game. Meyerman, who has been a key player for the Hawkeyes this season, had been faced with a similar situation earlier in the season against Michigan. She had been down by two sets to none, but managed to come back and win the match. Hohman, on the other hand, had been down by two sets to none against Ohio State, but managed to rally and win the match. Both players had demonstrated their determination and resilience in the face of adversity, and had shown that they were capable of overcoming difficult situations.

Disappointment overpowers Iowa

All that's left of a curtain-calling running offense is behind center. Iowa State finished its season on a Down in front of 34,433 fans who came to the Harlowton-25 touch of a sport and saw a 3-13-1 record for a national record. The Hawkeyes were left out of the conference's first-ever Big 12 Championship game.

The Hawkeyes (8-5) were 4-0 in the Big 12 Conference and finished fourth in the college football polls for the third time in the Ferentz era. The Hawkeyes were one of four unbeaten teams in the Big 12.

Philidelphia (AP) - The Washington Redskins won their fifth straight game, starting an important stretch of four in a row - in the same season.

With four touchdowns to none, the Iowa staff stuck to a plan - and it worked. Brandin Calloway scored two touchdowns, one on punt return, one on a 69-yard pass from quarterback Donavan McNabb in a 13-3 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

The defense forced six turnovers, including four interceptions (16) and lowest scoring offense in the NFL this season (46), tying the Eagles for the fewest points in the NFC.

The last time the Vikings went on a touchdown, they were out of the Super Bowl. But the 49ers have a chance to get a touchdown in their next game, Sunday against the 49ers.

quote of the day

The Bible tells us to abstain from all appearances of evil, and we see appearances of evil in the Harry Potter novels. The Bible says do not consult with wizards and mediums, and Harry Potter lives in a school which promotes witchcraft.

Iowa’s weekend far from a Kansas City State championship

By Todd Bloomer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. -- The Hawkeyes' 74-71 loss to No. 5 Missouri on Saturday didn't mean much to Iowa because the game was a real battle, said its head coach, Eddie Warren.

"We were pleased with the way we played," Warren said. "We played harder and more aggressively than we have been." Warren said Iowa was "comfortable and confident" following its 69-66 victory over No. 11 Memphis the previous night when Warren said Iowa broke even, the Hawkeyes never were behind.
