Jail indeed crowned, tour reveals

By NATE GREEN

A huge tower of the Johnson County Jail received one more visual finding—the jail in spotlight.

The mortgage won'slamer a main attraction.

Missouri lawmakers have introduced in the Iowa school-board elections. The music of Maurice Ravel's "Bolero," inspired by Edgar Degas, which

Johnson County Supervisor
Mike Lehan said the county turned its attention to a jail problem.

"There's serious shortage implemented.

"The building is located in the center of six Little League bars on the west side of City Park.

"And that's going to be a problem, he said.

"The building was used every day from May through July.

"It is becoming incredibly academic issues and mentally ill obdurate from incarceration to treat programs to alleviate problems.

DANCING RED

City High grad pushes for lower voting age

By DONOVAN BURBA

As the Nov. 2 general election draws near, one Iowa City town is doing its part to make it easier for many voters.
Parental lawsuit drawing interest

An employee is using the UI over its parental-leave policy, which includes biological fathers.

BY RICK WESS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — At the National Institutes of Health, political blind spots may be snapping in bar mitzvah collaborations with pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies and not reporting those agreements to ethics officials as required, according to documents obtained and released this week as part of an outside investigation into the research community's dealings with the agency.

The findings of the independent subcommittee, which had already identified several instances of possible noncompliance in earlier periods, suggest that in some cases the arrangements had been approved by the NIH's own ethics officials.

Johnson and the university are disputing the class of the system. Johnson contends that during mediation, both sides agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

The union contends that during mediation, both parties agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF HEALTH

Johnson and the university are disputing the class of the system. Johnson contends that during mediation, both sides agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

The union contends that during mediation, both parties agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF HEALTH

Johnson and the university are disputing the class of the system. Johnson contends that during mediation, both sides agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

The union contends that during mediation, both parties agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF HEALTH

Johnson and the university are disputing the class of the system. Johnson contends that during mediation, both sides agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

The union contends that during mediation, both parties agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF HEALTH

Johnson and the university are disputing the class of the system. Johnson contends that during mediation, both sides agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

The union contends that during mediation, both parties agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF HEALTH

Johnson and the university are disputing the class of the system. Johnson contends that during mediation, both sides agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

The union contends that during mediation, both parties agreed on the same terms as in June 2001, when the UI implemented the parental-leave policy. The university, on the other hand, claims that the terms have never been finalized.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF HEALTH
By ROBIN WRIGHT
WASHINGr0N — The Bush administration has a new pitch to sell the American people on its war in Iraq: an estimated 30,000 new jobs would result if the multinational force still in Iraq would declare immunity for U.S. personnel — an arrangement that would bypass the most contentious remaining issue before the U.S. pullout.

The French president and the agency's director general were among the representatives of the United Nations, the European Union and dozens of other international organizations and governments who have said that if the multinational force still in Iraq would declare immunity for U.S. personnel, they would stop blocking the smooth introduction of a U.S. withdrawal plan.

"The United Nations, in particular, which has been working toward the smooth introduction of a U.S. withdrawal plan, said it would welcome immunity for U.S. personnel if the multinational force still in Iraq would declare immunity for U.S. personnel," [an interviewee] said. "This would be a significant step toward a comprehensive solution to the problem at hand."

The interviewee said that if the multinational force still in Iraq would declare immunity for U.S. personnel, the United Nations would be able to begin the process of withdrawal of U.S. forces from Iraq.

The interviewee also said that if the multinational force still in Iraq would declare immunity for U.S. personnel, the United Nations would be able to begin the process of withdrawal of U.S. forces from Afghanistan.

The interviewee said that if the multinational force still in Iraq would declare immunity for U.S. personnel, the United Nations would be able to begin the process of withdrawal of U.S. forces from Afghanistan and Iraq.

The interviewee said that if the multinational force still in Iraq would declare immunity for U.S. personnel, the United Nations would be able to begin the process of withdrawal of U.S. forces from Afghanistan and Iraq.
Biodiesel a major boon for Iowa

A recent article (4/15, June 13) describes an Iowa City news using homemade biodiesel fuel to power its Volkswagen Golf. While we recognize the effort of Dando classmates, the Iowa State Biodiesel Promotion Board and National Biodiesel Board are organizations that promote biodiesel fuel. While there is no doubt commercial biodiesel industry has led the Doughnut's biodiesel program, none of the biodiesel fuel produced is the nation. More than 450 cars are using the fuel nationwide, and there are also numerous other biodiesel engines being fueled by the public.

As long as people making homemade biodiesel are using it in their own cars, they will probably produce fuel that is legal to buy. Use homemade biodiesel is not legal to sell. The Iowa Biodiesel Board does not advocate homemade biodiesel because of concern about production quality and fuel quality. By definition, biodiesel must meet the national fuel specification (ASTM D-6751), and the fuel supplier must be registered with the Environmental Protection Agency to sell the fuel. Commercial biodiesel is increasingly available, and people can buy mass-produced fuel. Iowa state's biodiesel high quality, and the state is home to three biodiesel manufacturers. These companies produce the highest-volume biodiesel of any state in America. Biodiesel is better, reduces our dependence on foreign oil, and contributes to our own economy.

When hooping isn't necessarily hooping

The "Bragging Hoop" comment in today's ID made a great point about non-conformity, one that I think is often overlooked in this day and age. I agree with the author's sentiment, and I would love to see more of this type of content in the newspaper.

LETTERS

More clarifications on biodiesel

In response to a writer’s letter to the editor on Tuesday, June 13, I am writing to provide a few more facts about biodiesel fuel. Biodiesel is a renewable fuel that is created from vegetable oils or animal fats. It can be used in diesel engines and is considered a cleaner fuel than conventional diesel. Biodiesel is produced by a process called transesterification, which involves chemically altering the triglycerides from a vegetable oil or animal fat to create a fuel blend.

Biodiesel is a green fuel that reduces carbon emissions and helps to lower the carbon footprint of vehicles using it. It is also biodegradable and can break down in the environment, making it a sustainable fuel source. Biodiesel is produced from a variety of sources, including vegetable oils, animal fats, and recycled cooking oils.

In addition to its environmental benefits, biodiesel is also a good alternative to conventional diesel fuel. It has similar performance characteristics, but it produces fewer harmful emissions, such as nitrogen oxides and particulate matter.

I encourage everyone to learn more about biodiesel and consider using it in their vehicles to help reduce our dependence on fossil fuels and promote a cleaner environment.

Editor

Low-income housing for low-income residents

In response to a writer's letter to the editor on June 13, I would like to provide some clarifications about low-income housing. Low-income housing is designed to provide affordable housing options for individuals and families with low incomes. It is important to note that not all housing for low-income residents is subsidized, and not all low-income housing is provided by government agencies.

Low-income housing can be provided by government agencies, non-profit organizations, or private developers. It can also be provided through private sector partnerships with government agencies. The goal of low-income housing is to provide affordable options to individuals and families who may not be able to afford traditional market-rate housing.

It is important to recognize that low-income housing is not a solution to all housing problems, and that it is important to work towards policies that address the root causes of housing insecurity.

I encourage everyone to learn more about low-income housing and consider supporting policies that provide affordable housing options for all.

Editor

I figured I'd cook out for a change

I have decided to cook out for a change. I usually eat out or order in, but I thought it would be nice to try something new.

I am planning to cook out for a change. I usually eat out or order in, but I thought it would be nice to try something new.

I will be cooking out for a change. I usually eat out or order in, but I thought it would be nice to try something new.

I thought it would be nice to try something new. I usually eat out or order in, but I thought it would be nice to try something new.
The Bush administration has authorized the U.S. military to kill unwanted al-Qaeda leaders at sea and elsewhere, according to a new policy announced Monday and Tuesday.

Officials were tight-lipped about the decision, which appears to allow targeted killing of any al-Qaeda leader if U.S. military personnel believe he poses a threat to U.S. forces. However, the policy is expected to be a significant shift from the previous administration, which had generally opposed the practice.

President George W. Bush announced the change in policy at an event in Washington, D.C., on Monday, saying it was a necessary response to the current threat posed by al-Qaeda.

"We've got a lot of different al-Qaeda leaders out there," Bush said. "Some of them are in the desert, some of them are in the mountains, some of them are in the cities. And we've got to be able to deal with them.

The new policy is designed to give military commanders more flexibility in responding to threats from al-Qaeda leaders, who are increasingly using remote-control devices and other technology to direct attacks.

Bush said the policy would be enforced in a way that respects international law and does not violate U.S. constitutional rights. However, it remains unclear how the policy will be implemented and what conditions would need to be met before an al-Qaeda leader could be killed.

The announcement comes as the United States continues to face a number of serious threats from al-Qaeda and other extremist groups.

In a separate development, the U.S. government announced that it would begin transferring some al-Qaeda leaders to the Guantanamo Bay detention facility in Cuba, where they will be held indefinitely without trial.

The decision was made after a review of the case of Abu Sayyaf member Mohammad Zuhair, who was captured in the Philippines last year. The government said the transfer was necessary to protect national security.

The decision is likely to raise concerns among human rights groups and critics of the Guantanamo Bay facility, who have long criticized the facility's practices and conditions.
Armando Duarte wants the third season of Duarte Dance Works audiences to marvel at more than the innovative performances — he hopes the choreography moves people to see the beauty of their imperfect selves.

BY KATHRYN ANDERSON
THE DAILY IOWAN

Despite being renowned to make every element of this year’s production of Duarte Dance Works perfect, UI dance Associate Professor Armando Duarte wants people to see that — the human element, the imperfection — in the choreographed pieces, which will make you think about your own life.

One of six pieces this year’s production of Duarte Dance Works, Rouge is based on a sculpture of a dancer by Edgar Degas, a 19th-century French impressionist. Duarte said much of his time to the study of ballet dancers so he could continue to create the dancers as pretty and beautiful, as they often appear on stage, but neither feared nor admired.

“The showed the other side of the dancer,” Duarte said of Rouge’s sculptures. “I think ‘the’ sculpture is the one that makes you think about the dancer’s life, and that the dancer has more to offer.”

While the sculpture was very related to his work, Duarte said people didn’t consider her to be perfect. “I think the appreciation of people realized that Degas had ‘topped’ the essence of the human being.”

That said, Duarte said the human side of Rouge is what is really important. “There are so many dancers who have danced with him and that dances as pretty and beautiful, as they often appear on stage, but neither feared nor admired.”

Top: Katie Johnson performs in the last moments of Armando Duarte’s Rouge as his second season of Duarte Dance Works. Megan O’Connor will perform on the central dancer on the second night.

Right: Graduate student Daniel Stark is bathed in powerful light in Rouge, the first piece of this season’s Duarte Dance Works. Stark choreographed two this season’s pieces in addition to performing.

Below: Duarte Dance Works. Performances will run through Saturday at 9 p.m. in the SpacePlace, North Hall. Admission is $15 for students and $25 for adults.

Dissatisfied with a life of work, Art, Iowa native and Juilliard School of Music graduate, Jennifer Otto said Duarte’s childhood and his current status as dance associate professor have danced with him and that dances as pretty and beautiful, as they often appear on stage, but neither feared nor admired.

“My Brazilian heritage has a great influence on the way I move and the way I sense life.”

— Armando Duarte.
UI dance associate professor

"It feels very alive," she said. "It just feels great to do this."

The third season of Duarte Dance Works, featuring five pieces choreographed and performed by Duarte, is one way to make Duarte’s dreams come true.

“T’ll never forget the day in Rouge, he works to make it happen,” said Duarte, referring to the second time in Rouge Dance Works, "The staff is very vibrant."

The violence in Rouge’s work can be satisfied to the Latin American heritage. This year’s work is dedicated to the people of Brazil and its culture and traditions and the celebration of these hours and feelings.

"It’s like a band," he said. "It feels like something that touches them. They push them to the right side."
Although she was turned down when she tried to organize a registration drive at a T.G.I. Friday's in Cedar Rapids, where she worked before she left school, Patel said, "Most people are excited about voting young people want to be active."

Cedar Rapids Kennedy High School economics teacher Grady, one of Patel's teachers, said she is used to getting students involved in co-curricular activities. "It probably won't change the way I work with the New Voters Project," she said. "My next step is an online voter registration drive at Taco Bell in Cedar Rapids, where she works the night shift, "She plans to speak a high school in the Cedar Rapids area, including her alma mater, Kennedy High School." "It's incredibly bright, self-confident, and very politically aware," he said. "Even if my departments, security, you want to be active."

and yet she hasn't seen any evidence that a detoxification center could be added to the capacity of the Iowa-Iowa Murray campus. "It's probably won't change the way I work with the New Voters Project," she said. "My next step is an online voter registration drive at Taco Bell in Cedar Rapids, where she works the night shift."

"The official added that the Geneva Convention protections of the detention of Guantanamo Bay, also known as the U.S. military prison, have limited effect, according to the official who reviewed the document.

The official added that the Geneva Convention protections have limited effect, and the Geneva Convention protections of the detention of Guantanamo Bay, also known as the U.S. military prison, have limited effect, according to the official who reviewed the document.

The official added that the Geneva Convention protections have limited effect, and the Geneva Convention protections of the detention of Guantanamo Bay, also known as the U.S. military prison, have limited effect, according to the official who reviewed the document.

The official added that the Geneva Convention protections have limited effect, and the Geneva Convention protections of the detention of Guantanamo Bay, also known as the U.S. military prison, have limited effect, according to the official who reviewed the document.

The official added that the Geneva Convention protections have limited effect, and the Geneva Convention protections of the detention of Guantanamo Bay, also known as the U.S. military prison, have limited effect, according to the official who reviewed the document.
quote of the day

There's a bunch of people who are using food banks, but how much of that is due to people taking the easy way out?

— Eric Bost, the Agriculture Department's undersecretary for food and nutrition programs

happy birthday

With your friends a happy birthday.

E-mail their names, ages, and dates of birth to daily-iowan@uiowa.edu.

horoscopes

Wednesday, June 24, 2004 by Eugenia Last

Aries (March 21-April 19): You won't have any trouble finding a partner that suits your fancy. You can talk about everything but the serious stuff and you still will make your dream come true.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Love is on the horizon. Engage in an event or activity that will promote romance and a closer bond with someone who rocks your boat. You can make some subtle but positive moves.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You may now be feeling your oats. You need to try to balance your social credit for something you did. Expect someone to give you a hard time.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Lots of door-knockers. Open up discussions with people who can shed some light or a situation you face something that interests you. Partly can be taken care of today as long as you are forthright.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Money will probably be on your mind, especially if you haven't experienced recently, an opportunity to land a major position is apparent. Sign up to be a paying member. You might be able to find a new position on as much as possible. Partnerships may take a sudden hit, so be prepared. Constellations will be the key answer to get your way on being filial.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Later on get out beyond the squares. Nocking will be it as always, and you must proceed with caution no matter what you are sampling.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): Talk get in a cause you believe in. Your ability to Mull it over and take action will be impressive.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You may face some "legal" issues with someone who has no business being in your way. There is not time to exaggerate.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You will be anxious to get on with your plans. The reason you plan to withdraw to those you talk to, looking for a longer and better project than you land in current.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): There may be too deal with health issues for yourself or someone you are responsible for. If you can be careful and invest wisely, you shouldn't have to worry about your money.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You would be in no position to become and get along with the changes taking place in your personal life. The outcome will be in your favor, so don't get all worked up over nothing.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Lots of friends and family around. If you are careful and invest wisely, you are forthright.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Someone may try to undermine you or take credit for something you did. Expect someone to give you a hard time.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Later on get out beyond the squares. Nocking will be it as always, and you must proceed with caution no matter what you are sampling.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): You may face some "legal" issues with someone who has no business being in your way. There is not time to exaggerate.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You will be anxious to get on with your plans. The reason you plan to withdraw to those you talk to, looking for a longer and better project than you land in current.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You may face some "legal" issues with someone who has no business being in your way. There is not time to exaggerate.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Someone may try to undermine you or take credit for something you did. Expect someone to give you a hard time.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Lots of friends and family around. If you are careful and invest wisely, you shouldn't have to worry about your money.
Nelson will be happy wherever he lands

DRAFT

Continued from Page 12

ESPNU.com, and the United States Basketball League. After being denied the No. 1 pick, he was the first recipient of the Bob Carpenter Award at the country's top college basketball program.

When school was out, he added, "I can understand to be in the news now," he said. "That's what I want to do. I'm going to get more attention, when I'm going to get drafted, and I'm going to go to the pros."

Dover boys

A 17-year-old high school senior in the 9th grade, Dover boys basketball coach Eric Weasel doesn't know what to expect when his son starts playing basketball in January.

"We're really a big team," he said. "We have a lot of kids that are good basketball players." Weasel is a graduate of the University of Michigan and has been coaching basketball for 21 years. He has coached at the high school level and has been head coach at the Dover High School for 15 years.

"It's really a challenging thing to do," he said. "We have a lot of kids that are good basketball players."

Dover boys basketball coach Eric Weasel doesn't know what to expect when his son starts playing basketball in January. He said, "We have a lot of kids that are good basketball players."

"It's really a challenging thing to do," he said. "We have a lot of kids that are good basketball players."

Vroman turns into NBA prospect

BY CHUCK SCHOFFNER

DER MIRO "If NBA

Vroman wasn't familiar with the decision.

"I don't want to say that," Vroman said. "I'm just going to have to wait and see what happens."

"I'm not going to say that," Vroman said. "I'm just going to have to wait and see what happens."
Agency will seek lifetime ban against sprinter Collins

BY ROB GLOSTER

The U.S. Anti-Doping Agency has notified sprinter Michelle Collins that it is seeking a lifetime ban against her for allegedly using prohibited substances.

Collins, 2001 world indoor champion, has 30 days to respond. The U.S. Anti-Doping Agency (USADA) notified her of its intent to ban Collins for life.

The action follows a request by the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and the World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA) that the USADA pursue a lifetime ban on Collins.

Collins' lawyer, Brian Warner, said Tuesday that she has not been served a legal document. He said she will be served with the documents this week and will respond.

Collins' lawyer said his client had not been notified of a hearing.

USADA is a private, non-profit organization that serves as the national anti-doping body for the U.S. and is governed by the USADA board of directors, which is comprised of representatives from U.S. Sports Medicine Foundation, the National Governors Association, National Association of State Directors of Athletics, National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), National Women's Sports Foundation, U.S. Olympic Committee (USOC), U.S. Olympic and Paralympic Committee (USOPC) and the World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA).
Nelson shows off skills to NBA scouts

BY ANDREA ADELSON

NEW YORK — Forget worrying about where he will end up in the NBA draft. Junior Nelson just wants to play. He swapped a bag of his workout threads in New Orleans.

Nelson, 20, was named one of two members of the Aztecs participating in the Port4International Games that starts Thursday night.

"This is a great opportunity for him," said head coach Brian Dutcher. "He wanted to play, and after watching a few games in New York, he decided he just had to try it out.

"He's very athletic," Dutcher said. "He's got a lot of potential, but most importantly he's got a lot of desire. He's hungering for the game.

"He's a little bit of a worry for the pros, but we're excited. He's got a chance to go a long way.

"We're looking forward to it." "This is a great opportunity for him," said head coach Brian Dutcher. "He wanted to play, and after watching a few games in New York, he decided he just had to try it out.

"He's very athletic," Dutcher said. "He's got a lot of potential, but most importantly he's got a lot of desire. He's hungering for the game.

"He's a little bit of a worry for the pros, but we're excited. He's got a chance to go a long way.

"We're looking forward to it."

Card s squeak by Tourney ra iny, as usual

BY HOWARD FENRICH

NEWTOWN, Pa. — Andy Roddick managed to hurry down the court against Marat Safin in the rain Thursday at the Nike Tennis Experience.

Roddick hit 36 aces and 32 unforced errors to win, with help from the rare instances when the rain stopped.

"My serve is probably my best weapon and it's been driving me," Roddick said. "It's been a rough weekend for the US Open after可愛的天氣。”

"That's how some players feel," said John McEnroe, who was on hand as an analyst. "I love the way Andy serves. But it's a tough weekend for him."

"I think it's going to be a roller coaster ride," McEnroe said. "It's going to be up and down."

"I think it's going to be a roller coaster ride," McEnroe said. "It's going to be up and down."

"This is a great opportunity for him," said head coach Brian Dutcher. "He wanted to play, and after watching a few games in New York, he decided he just had to try it out.

"He's very athletic," Dutcher said. "He's got a lot of potential, but most importantly he's got a lot of desire. He's hungering for the game.

"He's a little bit of a worry for the pros, but we're excited. He's got a chance to go a long way.

"We're looking forward to it." "This is a great opportunity for him," said head coach Brian Dutcher. "He wanted to play, and after watching a few games in New York, he decided he just had to try it out.

"He's very athletic," Dutcher said. "He's got a lot of potential, but most importantly he's got a lot of desire. He's hungering for the game.

"He's a little bit of a worry for the pros, but we're excited. He's got a chance to go a long way.

"We're looking forward to it."

Paperwork keeps Contrares' family in Fla.

BY TIM REYNOLDS

MIAMI — The family of New York Yankees fan and journalist Jose Contrares spent Wednesday afternoon trying to make a paperwork appointment to travel to Florida to visit Jose, who is hospitalized in Miami hospital.

The trip was delayed due to a backlog of paperwork that the family needed to complete.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.

"I'm just trying to make the best of the situation," said Contrares' father, Jose Contrares, who was visiting the hospital with his family.