In the final days before a presidential election, the candidates are working hard to win over voters. George Bush and John Kerry are both trying to sway undecided voters with their campaign appearances and debates. Bush is known for his foreign policy efforts, while Kerry has been vocal about his commitment to peace in the Middle East.

The candidates are also focusing on domestic issues, such as health care and education. Bush has supported tax cuts and increased military spending, while Kerry has proposed federal health care...
Experts: Draft not likely to return

BY BRIAN SPANNAGEL

Despite Internet rumors and allegations on the campaign trail, local professors say it is unlikely either presidential candidate would make a military draft the next four years, learning a "substitute event." Even so, the mere talk of a draft is unsettling to many UI students. Who will likely have service if the military moves to a re-volunteer system?

"I can see there are a lot of people who say it's not possible, but I don't think two years ago a lot of people would have said it was," said UI Student Government President Lindsay Barnett.

The draft came to the forefront for the first time in election season following Internet rumors that President Bush plans to initiated a draft in 2003 and force institutions to re-volunteer. Both candidates have denied this, however, and Barnett only sees the possibility of a draft in a future administration.

"If Tim Kaine does win, he said, "I don't think there will be any moves at all. If John Kerry maintains that the draft is a greater need under Bush's administration, we'll see more."

"After watching Bush in Iraq for the past two years, I think there are a lot of firms who are concerned at the possible draft," Barnett added.

In a gerrymandered district state likely to settle the election, he has conceded only a fraction of the four district electoral votes may lie in Scott County.

Both President Bush and Democratic challenger John Kerry are familiar faces — one campaigning simultanously in 2000 and 2004, and both campaigns have funded the races with field organizers.

Scott County may be ground zero for both the Republicans and Democrats in this campaign, former Iowa Republican Chairman Michael Mahaffey said in a recent interview with the Associated Press.

It's definitely a swing county.

The GOP has carved out an edge in Scott County voter registration, with 80,000 registered
Republicans and three times
Democrats, but it's a much smaller margin than the 4,000 vote edge Republican Bush enjoyed heading into the 2000 election.

Despite that edge, Democrat
Al Gore built a comfortable lead here in 2000. Gore won Iowa by just 4,464 votes, but he carried Scott County by 3,000 votes — a big piece of that margin.

In Scott County, both Democrats and Republicans are outnumbered nearly 2-to-1 by voters who registered without deciding a party affiliation.

The Democrat says the president will privatize Social Security; the GOP denies it

By DAVID ESPO

WASHINGTON — Massachusetts Sen. John Kerry accused President Bush on Monday of planning a surprise second-term campaign in New Jersey, where Kerry plans to campaign on Tuesday.

"He's trying to get in my head," Kerry said in a campaign appearance in Boston. "I'm going to get in his."

"People in New Jersey love their own state," Kerry said. "They don't want to be a surrogate for the president."

Kerry said Bush is trying to "interfere" with the presidential election. "I'm going to make sure the American public knows how much damage he is doing," Kerry said.

"The charges are false, and I'm going to get in his head," Kerry said. "He's trying to manufacturer an issue that doesn't exist."
Wealth gap widens after recession

A new study says black and Latino families lag a long way behind white families.

BY GENARO A. ARMAS

WASHINGTON—The minority wealth gap between white and minority families has increased after the recent economic downturn, with African Americans and Latinos having lost more ground than white families.

While households with incomes of less than $20,000 have lost an average of $16,000 since the recession, the average net worth of white households fell $22,000, according to a report released today by the Urban Institute. White households still have 14 times greater net worth than blacks and Hispanics.

According to the group's analysis of Census Bureau data, the median net worth of Latino and black households has fallen 26 and 30 percent from 2001 to 2004, compared with 11 percent for white households.

"Wealth is a measure of a family's financial security, and the loss of net worth is a signal that family's financial security is deteriorating," said Roberto Suro, a senior congressional adviser at the Joint Center for Political Studies, a Washington policy research center, which found that family wealth has fallen for African Americans and Latinos.

After accounting for inflation, household net worth actually increased 47 percent between 2000 and 2005, rising from $68,900 to $101,144. But net worth is a measure of what families own minus what they owe. So even as wealth rose, debt climbed as well. For example, the median amount of home debt among the nation's 55 million homeowners rose 20 percent between 2002 and 2005, from $85,300 to $102,900. And the median amount of credit-card debt rose 23 percent between 2003 and 2005, from $3,000 to $3,700.

"That means he can report results to the White House and the Pentagon," said Karl Rove, a top Bush administration aide.

Although both congressional chambers have now passed bills, the Senate is poised to pass a more expansive measure. The Senate is expected to act as early as next week, while the House is expected to act by week's end.

For now, the counterterrorism director would have the authority to reprogram money among more than a dozen intelligence programs. The Defense secretary would retain the primary budgeting authority for the intelligence budget, a senior congressional aide said last week.

Congress, White House disagree on intel reform

WASHINGTON — Congress and the administration disagree on major elements of an intelligence reform legislation that the Senate is poised to pass today.

The legislation, which is expected to pass by a wide margin, would authorize Bush's executive order establishing the new national counterterrorism center, which is being led by Alberto Gonzales, who has been under consideration for attorney general.

The Senate has underwritten the $300 million cost of the new national counterterrorism center, which is being led by Alberto Gonzales, who has been under consideration for attorney general.

Leading insurgent in Iraq joins Al Qaeda

The statement, whose author's name was not confirmed, said the ten had been "captured" by Al Qaeda in the last days and "will be announced in the near future." The downtown, a major insurgent stronghold in the capital of 1 million people, has been the subject of considerable speculation. Although many analysts believe Al Qaeda has not yet targeted the Sunni-dominated city, some analysts have speculated that insurgents may be working closely with its broader Sunni-led insurgency in Iraq.

"We are not surprised by Al Qaeda's involvement," said John K. Sopko, a former American ambassador to Iraq. "It is a significant blow to the U.S. and the Iraqi government."

The Bush administration said it was "not surprised" by the reports and that it was "investigating the situation." The White House said it was "working closely with the Iraqi government to ensure that the situation is under control." The statement added that it was "working closely with the Iraqi government to ensure that the situation is under control." Karak's rivals bank on fraud probe

KARAK, Afghanistan (AP) — Karak's rivals said on Oct. 14 that they would file a petition to the election commission for a recount of the ballots.

The fraud trial was the last-ditch effort of Karak's rivals, who cited the lack of action by the election commission. The U.S.-led international commission has received a petition from the election commission in Karak.

On the day before the election, Karak's rivals said that they wanted to continue working as

Military discrimination against gays

The issues of homosexuality and gay rights are tearing this country apart. We were just beginning to have fruitful discourse, were debating same-sex marriage, and no one could have predicted the height of the heat that was to be bestowed. Yet some of the strongest supporters of the gay rights movement are unwittingly heating up the flames they are burning to keep the peace. Until now, gay rights advocates in the military have kept their sexual orientation under wraps for fear of losing their positions. Despite the blatant discrimination against them, homosexuals have continued to fight for the freedoms of our citizens and those in other countries. To retain the privileges of serving in the military, they have to keep their sexual orientation a secret, which makes it more difficult for them to push for their rights.

The provision for this discrimination is the "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" policy that former President Bill Clinton signed into law in 1993. As former soldiers, we know that just because you do not discuss your sexual orientation or engage in homosexual behavior, they do not believe that their rights should be taken away from them. In essence, the same rules are applied to them as are to other elements of the military.

On a recent visit to the Boston Public Library, I noticed that the signs directing people to the specific sections of the library were not always accurate. I was surprised to find that the sign directing people to the collection of music was missing. Instead, the sign directed people to a section of children's books. I was disappointed to find that the library was not providing adequate information to its patrons.

We are in a war. What our military needs is intelligent men and women who are willing to make our country safer. To discriminate against them is not only wrong but clearly not in America's best interest.

CALENDAR-WORTHY

A moveable feast of art for Public Library

BY JESSICA FISCHOFF

10/03/03

Art for sale? The Iowa City Public Library has 123 S. Linn St., started accepting bids last year, when it sponsored a special "People's Choice Award" at a posterfiber show in Burlington. The library purchased one of its best lineup in recent years with the support of the artist communities in the area.

Most pieces are put into the system, and some are put on hold for up to a year at a time," said Moore Clark, the library's coordinator of information services. The films are divided into three collections, each with a different theme. The first collection includes films that are highly rated by the public. Each piece is checked out directly after they are put into the system, and some are put on hold for up to a year at a time.

"People are likely to leave this film entertainment, disillusioned, emotionally frustrated, intellectually stimulated, or deeply enthralled. Regardless of what you're thinking and feeling when the lights come up, no one can dispute that American media reports tend to be based on a stereotyped and American-centric point of view. The library hosts a posterfiber show called "The Eight," a collection of 8x8" pieces of work the library acquired from the competition. Some are put on hold for more than a year at a time.

"The library's permanent collection includes films that are highly rated by the public. Iowa (4-2) vs. Ohio State (3-3)
Next Up: Saturday at Penn State, State College, Pa., 11:10 A.M. CDT, ESPN2

Despite the cold weather and winds that reached 20 mph, the Hawkeyes were on fire, burning the Buckeyes up and down the field.

BREAKING AWAY

BY JASON BRUMMOND

The Iowa football team has done it only 14 times since the early 1900s. It hasn't been done in more than a decade.

Spectacular Hayden Fry did it only three times during his 20-year tenure at Iowa.

Coach Kirk Ferentz beat Ohio State for the first time in his coaching career, while recording his 100th game at a head coach, and his Hawkeyes won a critical game for its bowl picture, 33-7, over the Buckeyes in Kinnick Stadium on Oct. 16. Sophomore quarterback Drew Tate completed a career-high 26-of-39 for 291 yards and three touchdowns. The 6-0, 185-pound signal-caller also netted 24 rushing yards despite being sacked twice and had a 3-yard touchdown scamper on the first play of the fourth quarter.

He connected on two touchdowns with Clinton Solomon and one with tight end Scott Chandler and spread the ball out to nine different receivers in the game.

Iowa's offensive attack was balanced, but a majority of the rushes came at the end of the game when the Hawks were running out the clock. Despite the success through the air, Ferentz still can't call his teams passing-oriented. "If you look at the stats, I guess you might say that," he said. "I've been saying all along, we're going to do what we have to do to move the football." Running back Marshaun Franklin became the fourth Iowa running back to have the game in an injury as he had his nose bone broken this season, leaving Ferrante with fifth-string backs on the sidelines for the majority of the game. Franklin rushed for 20 yards on four carries, including a long of 11 yards, but the junior suffered a "feel" ankle sprain and did not return after the three-minute mark in the first quarter. Ferentz and his quarterback for five fourths against the Buckeyes up and down the field.

A referee signals that Clinton Solomon has scored his second touchdown on a 5-yard pass from Drew Tate in the third quarter of the Hawkeye 33-7 victory over the Buckeyes. Solomon gained 131 yards in the contest.

SWINGING into the right mode of play

Iowa makes statement with win

THE DEFINITION OF swing game is one that makes or breaks a season. You win, and who knows where your season could end up. You lose, and your season is in the toilet. The Oct. 16 game was a swing game for both Iowa and Ohio State. The Hawkeyes are going up and are quickly back in the Big Ten race after their 33-7 demolition of the Buckeyes. Ohio State, on the other hand, is in 6-3 in the Big Ten for the first time since 1997 and in the toilet. This was swing game No. 1. This was a statement game from Kirk Ferentz and Co., maybe the biggest win in Kinnick Stadium in the Ferrante era. In terms of importance, it was a victory in the midst of the 2005 win over Purdue and last year's win over Michigan.

SOLOMON, TATE CLICK

BY JASON BRUMMOND

Maybe it's Texas connections. Maybe it's that they spend together in practice.

Whatever it is, Drew Tate and Clinton Solomon are clicking. The sophomore quarterback, with Solomon seven times for 151 yards on Oct. 16, including two touchdown passes, led Iowa past Ohio State, 33-7, in Kinnick Stadium. Solomon, from Fort Worth, has quickly become the favorite target of Tate, a native of Buckeye, because of his speed, athletic frame, and hands. Both have shown improvement since the spring and even noticeable maturity at their positions since the season began two months ago.

Field hockey remains unbeaten

The Iowa field hockey team improved its winning streak to seven games after a pair of road victories over the weekend. The Hawkeyes improved their overall record to 6-7-1 and remain unbeaten in Big Ten play.

On Oct. 13, the 200th-ranked Hawkeyes took on No. 9 Penn State. Iowa opened the scoring at the 14th minute on a goal by senior Margaret Wilke. The Nittany Lions scored just 90 seconds later but the Hawkeyes were able to claim a 1-1 tie at halftime. In the second half, Iowa scored three minutes into the game and then added another goal after 17 minutes. The final score was 3-1, leaving the Hawkeyes 6-0-1 on the season.

Iowa to try for win on road

"We can hit on the road in 2003," said Brian Grant. "But if you fail to hit on the road, it really hurts us." Iowa's second 200-plus-yard rushing effort was 214 yards against Ohio State with tailback Mike Brown leading the way. Brown finished the season with a 73-yard touchdown run, a career-high 174 rushing yards and 166 receiving yards.

"We got our kicker back," said Brian Grant. "That's when you're surprised."

The Hawkeyes are 4-2 now, 3-1 in the Big Ten and 2-0 in Iowa's last three games. But for Iowa fans, their season was off like they did today," Iowa coach Chuck Long said.

When Ohio State finally had a few minutes to put the Buckeyes on the scoreboard in the third quarter, quarterback Justin Thigpen threw a 9-yard touchdown pass to tight end Carlos Johnson. The Buckeyes tied the game at 24-24 and then took the lead, 27-24, when the Hawkeyes failed to convert on fourth down.

"I think the bye week helped us a lot." Tate said. "Everybody played great and we only had one turnover. That's what we have to do in order to win games."

Iowa was 2-19 away from beating Ohio State and the Buckeyes' first touchdown was a 21-yard field goal by Ohio State's Jim George.

"I think it was a better team that played Saturday," Tate said. "I think they had something to prove in their first game of the season." Iowa's second touchdown was a 5-yard pass to No. 2 safety Brian Grant. "They are a very sound defense. They protect their home turf and make you go up down the field."

Soccer suffers another defeat

BY BRYAN BAMONTE

It doesn't get much tougher than facing two of the best teams in the nation.

Which is exactly what the Iowa soccer team had in store last weekend when the second-ranked Nittany Lions and No. 16 Buckeyes invaded Kinnick.

Buckeyes coach Carla Baker's men, unseeded because of injury concerns, were unable to pull an upset on Oct. 15 against Penn State -- the No. 11 Nittany Lions handily defeated the Buckeyes, 6-0. The Buckeyes were much stronger on Sunday, especially in the second half, but fell 1-0 at the Iowa Soccer Complex.

Following the match with the Buckeyes, Iowa midfielder Jamie Maltman said: "I think we played our best game and we played our best half."

Certainly our goal at the end of the season.

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Bret Geiberger started with consecutive batters and never wavered — at least when he tapped a fastball on his No. 13 and not when he faced a slow-roller for his first hit.

But after Geiberger retired for the final time on Sunday and walked away with the Gold Glove Award, he was still in the moment, still in control.

"The key was being able to slow everything down, and that's what I had to do," Geiberger said.

By several teammates out because of injuries, Iowa soccer is unable to pull it together in game against the Nittany Lions

Led by national player of the year candidate Tiffany Webster, Illinois' starting lineup scored two goals in the second half of the Oct. 15 game and also coming in for the second half, Sunday. Bield allowed two goals in 20 minutes on Oct. 15 and held the Buckeyes scoreless in the second half of Sunday's match.

Teres (97) and Tim Lehman (70) tied for fourth.

Geiberger, who won at Hartford in 1995, tied Benjamin and the 1997 Nebraska's Chris Cogburn for the most singles titles in the nation. He led off the No. 1 match and finished with a 3-6, 6-2, 6-0 victory over Gonzaga's Marc Vermeulen.

"I'm very happy that my name is going up with my dad," said Brent Geiberger, whose total of 216 was under.

"We just try to play as well as we can."
Patriots win again, but not without a scare

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots got another victory — but not without another nail-biter, and this one is an unlikely record for consecutive wins.

The Patriots demolished the Seattle Seahawks 35-6 Sunday, giving them 16 consecutive wins, a new NFL record. The record was held by the 1972 Miami Dolphins, who also won 16 straight games.

The Patriots, who have yet to lose in 2007 and have clinched the No. 1 seed in the AFC, improved their overall record to 13-0. The Seahawks, who have lost three straight games, dropped to 2-9.

The Patriots led 14-0 at halftime thanks to touchdowns on the ground by tight end Benjamin Watson and running back Corey Dillon, both of whom had 100-yard rushing performances.

But the game was far from over. The Patriots, who have scored at least 20 points in each of their last 15 games, saw their lead dip to 14 points late in the fourth quarter.

But a 9-yard touchdown pass from Tom Brady to tight end Wes Welker with 1:20 left ensured the Patriots would not be denied.

Brady finished the game with 290 yards passing and three touchdowns, raising his season total to 45.

ARIES (March 21·April 19): Keep a close eye on your pet's behavior. Your partner may be feeling more distant than usual.

TAURUS (April 20·May 20): You will be feeling more diplomatic than usual. Criticism will not win you points unless it is done tactfully.

GEMINI (May 21·June 20): Take action, and get that important project off your desk. There's lots more work to do.

CANCER (June 21·July 22): You will have important ideas that you should not neglect. Your creativity will be in overdrive.

LEO (July 23·Aug. 21): Take on a challenge. Your creativity will help you to succeed. Work hard to make your goals a reality.

VIRGO (Aug. 22·Sept. 22): Don't start anything you can't finish. Arguments can be avoided by being realistic. Collection will not have your part.

LIBRA (Sept. 23·Oct. 22): Take action, and get those important projects done. Your hard work will help you to succeed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23·Nov. 21): You may be questioned about life-changing events. Be prepared to respond to the questions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22·Dec. 21): You will feel upset, especially when it comes to partnerships. Consider your terms, and don't be too hard on yourself. You will have a wider circle of friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22·Jan. 19): Your strength will show in your ability to do things on your own. The key is that others will look up to your success. Be sure to surround yourself with the right people.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20·Feb. 18): You will be feeling especially good about yourself. You will be able to change the people around you.

PISCES (Feb. 19·March 18): You will be feeling especially good about yourself. You will be able to change the people around you.

LAW DOES A RUNNY NOSE MEAN YOU'RE RUNNING WHEN YOU FALL ASLEEP?

THE NOSE FLAPS ON YOUR NOSE GET PAINED AND PINCHED YOUR NOSE THILLS SHUT.

THIS IS EXACTLY WHY I DON'T HAVE KNOWLEDGE.
