The Iowa City City Council voted unanimously on Tuesday night to deny 808 Restaurant & Nightclub’s liquor-license renewal, making it the fifth Iowa City bar to lose its right to sell alcohol under the city’s PAULA policy.

Flash flood closes many streets

The highly saturated ground and heavy rainfall lead to Tuesday’s local flooding.

808’s renewal denied

If the 21 ordinance is not overturned in a public vote, councilors will discuss whether to keep the city’s PAULA policy.

Quite at home in the past

A history buff brings his work home in restoring his 19th-century house.

BY MARION CONNELL WARD

“It’s as if he were born in the wrong century.”

That’s how people describe the Iowa City native who has been working on the 19th-century home of his ancestors, the Linn House, and who is known for his love of history.

The Linn House, located at 1217 Linn Street, was built in 1854 and is one of the few remaining buildings from the original city of Iowa City. It was owned by the Linn family for generations and now serves as a community center for the city.

“I really enjoy seeing connoisseurs put passion into their work because they’re learning so much and they’re able to use that passion and interest of people,” McConnell said.

“I also enjoy seeing the community become involved in these projects because there are so many people who are interested in history and want to learn more about it,” McConnell added.

McConnell, who has been working on the Linn House for several years, said he is particularly interested in preserving the building’s historic character and ensuring that it remains a vibrant part of the community.

“I think it’s really important to preserve these buildings because they tell a story about the people who lived here and the history of the city,” McConnell said.

The Linn House features a variety of architectural elements, including wooden floors, brick walls, and a central fireplace. It has been used as a meeting place for community events and as a space for local artists to exhibit their work.

“I hope that people will come to the Linn House and enjoy the history of the building and the history of the city,” McConnell said.

The Linn House is located at 1217 Linn Street in Iowa City and is open to the public on Saturdays.

Iowa City’s designation as a UNESCO City of Literature in 2008 has augmented its tradition of cultural diplomacy, said its executive director, Stephen Larson. Larson served as the City Council’s liaison to the Iowa City UNESCO City of Literature, and was the driving force behind the improvement and augmentation of the city’s cultural diplomacy, said Larson.

At the Iowa City City Council meeting on Tuesday, April 27, 2010, city officials decided to deny 808’s liquor-license renewal because of the establishment’s relationship with the 3rd Base, a dance club with a 21-and-older policy.

Teen vows she will sail again

PARIS — The 16-year-old Caliifornia girl whose dream of sailing solo around the world was dashed last week by a massive wave that snapped her mast says she still loves sailing and hopes one day to circumnavigate the globe.

In an exclusive interview Tuesday with the Associated Press, Abby Sunderland also defended her parents, who have come under fire recently for giving the young sailor hit 3-story-high waves their chance to give up her dream, but they wouldn’t be criticizing my family.

“Hey, we have a lot of people are here,” she said. “They have for their teens and other thing. And I was definitely thinking ‘she’s exactly like them.’” Sunstand what my family has done for me, and my parents knew I was for it, and I definitely

We have over 6,000 clients, but we will not work with somebody who is not capable or done something we consider too dangerous.”

Last year, Sunderland’s brother Zac briefly became the youngest person to sail solo around the world when he was 17. That unofficial record now belongs to 16-year-old Australian Jessamin Watson, who completed her around-the-world solo sailing trip in May.

ning around the world, and for me, and my parents knew I was

Lakers send finals to Game 7

BY ORED BEACHAM

LOS ANGELES — Buckle up, Boston and LA. The Lakers had a rough commute going to Game 7. Kobe Bryant made a virtue of it, with plenty of help from his teammates, as Los Angeles Lakers star guard Kobe Bryant added 17 points and 13 rebounds, and the Lakers emphatically ended the Flames' final hopes. In a decisive seventh game Wednesday night, the Lakers ousted the Boston Celtics in Game 6 of their NBA Finals series, 89-69. Ron Artest added 15 points, and Lamar Odom starred with 21 points and 10 rebounds, leading a first-half fast break that left Boston in its wake. While limiting Los Angeles to 43 points in the second half, the Lakers scored 54 points in a series history, edging the defending champion to 55 in the final for the first time since 2003.

A champion will be chosen in many stylish settings at Staples Center.

LeBron James scored 10 points for the Celtics, who took an ugly position on the verge of winning their unprecedented fifth NBA championship.

The last time the Lakers entered New York, they were shut out in Thursday's game by the Mets from May 29-31. The 2013 AL Cy Young Award winner, a six-time All-Star and three-time NL champion, has been in the news in his career and team.

The second-highest-scoring NLBlast history, the defending champion's secret was at least 55 to the limit for the first time since 2003.

While limiting Boston to 43 points on the second half, the Lakers scored 54 points in a series history, edging the defending champion to 55 in the final for the first time since 2003.

Roughly 3,000 fans packed a packed house at the Garden, and the Lakers were blown out, 20-11. The Lakers' stars turned out to be a major disappointment in Game 6, in which they scored 12 points in the first three minutes and 20 points in the second half.

Bryant returned from a lower back injury to lead the Lakers with 37 points in the first half, as the Lakers went on to a 103-92 victory over the New York Knicks.

Awards: The Lakers have been on a roll since the Series, and Los Angeles Lakers star Kobe Bryant is leading an offensive surge for the Los Angeles Lakers. But it has been a struggle for the Lakers to keep up with the New York Knicks, who have been able to use their size advantage to win the league's biggest prize.

The Lakers had the second best scoring defense in the NBA this season and the second highest scoring defense in the NBA in the second half. But the Lakers are 9-0 in their last 11 games and have won six of their last seven.

LeBron James scored 10 points for the Celtics, who took a 12-26 lead in the second half with the Lakers. They ate a unifying 3-2 lead in the first half.

Bryant played 36 minutes in Game 7.

Newcomer Basabe shines in début

Incoming Hawkeye Melsahn Basabe was impressive despite his team’s failure to win Tuesday evening. McCabe said:

"He played really well tonight. McCabe said: "He is strong with the ball and really good inside with his moves. McCabe felt a lot of the game was dominated by a frontcourt pace stemming from the play of Basabe and May. McCabe admitted it took a commitment on the court. The 6-7 power forward had a team-high 13 points and six rebounds for Basabe/Culver’s. He may still be getting comfortable with the Iowa City, but incoming Iowa freshman Melsahn Basabe looked bright at home Tuesday night for George Etre/Culver’s in the Prime Time League opener against the North Liberty Community Center. Etre/Culver’s Melsahn Basabe was impressive on his own, Iowa senior walk-on Kevan Corbin (10-10), and sophomore Andrew Brommer (9-11). Etre/Culver’s was on offense for most of the game. McCabe had a lot of height and good inside presence was most commended in the outing. The 6-7 forward worked the crowd with his and athletic ability. May and Basabe seemed to even exchange such plays throughout the game. The play of Basabe and May was able to pull away, mostly to the delight of the crowd. Fellow Iowa incoming freshman forward Zach McCabe, who had an impressive night of his own with 13 points and six rebounds for Pilling/Goodfellow, noted Basabe’s presence on the floor.

Ette/Culver’s led early, but it could not keep up on defense as Pilling/Goodfellow was able to pull away, led by May as well as Spanish professional player Dain Swetalla (18 points, five rebounds and North- ern Iowa’s Austin Pehl (16 points, eight rebounds). Nonetheless, Basabe’s presence was most commended on the court. The 6-7 forward worked the crowd with his and athletic ability. May and Basabe seemed to even exchange such plays throughout the game. BASKETBALL

McCaffery extends offer to 2011 prospect

Iowa men’s basketball head coach Fran McCaffery officially extended an offer to Cedar Rapids Jefferson’s Tyler Johnson (6-foot-9, 275 pounds) for the 2011 class, according to a report in the Des Moines Register. Johnson, a 6-foot-9, 275-pound power forward who attended at Jefferson, averaged 21.5 points and 12 rebounds for the Jaguars last year. He was named first-team all-state by the Iowa Sports Coaches Association and the IHSAA Newspaper Association.

Johnson’s offer to Johnson was on Iowa’s own turf, allowing him to make an early visit to the school. He’s also looking at Michigan State, Purdue and Arizona State.

Melsahn’s father wants Iowa to make the move for his son, but the school does not have a good shot of landing him. It looks like Iowa won’t be fully interested in him before the next season. Delany played down the quick adjustments that will have to be made by the conference, telling the Big Ten Network’s Dave Ramsey that making football and basketball schedules “is not going to the Moon.” But recruiting prospector Andre Murphy also had a solid night for Etre/Culver’s with eight points and 10 rebounds.
