UI tweaks student code

UI officials can now take disciplinary action in students’ off-campus arrests.

By MARIA GIBBS

Students arrested off campus are now in double trouble.

This year’s changes to the University of Iowa Code of Student Life mean students can expect even more scrutiny anywhere in Johnson County — as opposed to just on campus — for violence or drugs or alcohol possession will be subject to university disciplinary action.

Punishment can vary from a simple warning to suspension for repeat or serious offenders.

The changes went into effect Aug. 12. They echo the policies of more than half the Big Ten schools, including the University of Illinois, Ohio State University, and the University of Wisconsin.

Some students hope the new policies will encourage safe behavior, no matter where students choose to party.

“I think the students need that push to act responsible. We are students, so what we do would eventually reflect on us at the school,” UI junior Kyle Berthel said.

“I want the school to protect me as an individual. I don’t want to be paired up with someone who has been arrested for something like [violence],”

And students should be held accountable for what reflects back on the university, UI junior Kyle Berthel said. “I don’t expect this weekend, but two days before arriving in Iowa City, she was told she would be permanently removed from the apartment complex located nearly two miles away from campus.

Now she feels she is “missed out on the atmosphere.” A member of the largest number of international students at University of Iowa, Guan Su Jie, a 21-year-old University of America, was told she would be temporary dorm housing until she arrived in Iowa City.

Housing challenges face intl students

About 800 international students join the UI this fall.

The UI’s annual student orientation and events: • Bijou film, • New student orientation and • Welcome Week dry events:

• House of Cards is the BRU • Sponsored Trip to Target • Special Dinner in Coralville • Prom/Uni Fest 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. on campus • NCAA's Help Desk • A group of women walked in the Downtown Street walking on Wednesday. Iowa City police are expecting the number of house parties to increase at the beginning of the fall semester, but UI officials are hoping to combat underage drinking by providing students with alcohol-free alternatives, such as Welcome Week events.

UI provost was surprised to be chosen as Maryland’s president.

Loh didn’t apply for the job. Rather, he said he was an unknown source nominated by the University of Wisconsin. He heard the search committee's interest in him and contacted them.

He said that his decision to apply was based on his belief that he was the right person for the job.

Loh said he is grateful for his time, both at the UI and with the U.S. Department of Education, and he is hopeful that his time there will be remembered.

To his surprise, University of Maryland president Wallace Loh, has proven to be a bit of a wild card. His tenure as University of Maryland’s provost, Loh has proven to be a bit more raucous and quite unexpected experienes. His surprise appointment as University of Maryland provost in April has been met with a mix of excitement and skepticism.

UI provost was surprised to be chosen as Maryland’s president.

Loh has been a vocal advocate for the importance of higher education and has been a strong supporter of the arts and humanities. He has been a strong supporter of research and innovation, and he has been a strong advocate for diversity and inclusion.

In his second year as provost, Kiefer said he's always thinking about the future, and he's still waking up in the middle of the night in disbelief.

"I have to pinch myself," he said. "It hasn't really hit me yet." His new position is "grounded and firm in his mind," he said. "It hasn't really turned around.

He emphasized the other options for students to be responsible for themselves.

"I'm skeptical that one weekend will determine the success of the 21-ordinance," he said. "I think a good idea is that we need to stay on top of the bars to comply with state laws."

"I can have a heart attack and die, and the UI's plan," he said, "is upset that the bars are not affected."

He also has faith in the continuation of the alcohol-safety program, which he feels, so far, has been effective in focusing on early years because the numbers have risen steadily before this year's spike.

The Good Samaritan Policy would send a notification to the parents of the student who was injured after assessing the student that he or she needed it. Students would still be held responsible for things like the destruction of property and law enforcement could hold students responsible for underage drinking," said UI Dean of Students David Grady. He emphasized the other changes that started the vague descriptions of sanctions for drugs and alcohol, as well as making the UI's Code for Student Life more in line with state laws.

Conlin still faces uphill battle in Senate race

BY STEPHEN SCHMITT

The latest Rasmussen poll shows Sen. Chuck Grassley leading Conlin 55 percent to 4 percent. This is a wide gap that should give a vote of confidence to Conlin and his supporters. The poll also shows that nearly 19 percent of Iowans would vote for neither candidate.

I remember reading about the last time that 19 percent of American Muslims were members of the majority.

We are not there yet, but we are getting close. In fact, we have more than 100,000 Muslim voters in Iowa alone. This is a significant number, and it is only a matter of time before we reach the majority mark.

Grassley should be retired.

We should be looking towards a new Senator from Iowa who will represent the interests of all Iowans, regardless of their religion. Grassley’s record shows that he is not a champion for the common good, and he has voted against the interests of many Americans.

Grassley’s record is one of:- Supporting tax cuts for the wealthy and corporations.- Opposing comprehensive immigration reform.- Voting against gun control measures.- Supporting war and military funding.- Voting against environmental protections.

The time has come for a new Senator from Iowa who will represent the interests of all Iowans, regardless of their religion.

Though Smashed Pumpkins hasn’t played in Iowa City before, Bina knows the city well, and he is excited about playing here. In addition to its show at the Yacht Club on Saturday, Smashed Pumpkins will play at the Blue Moon on Aug. 26. The prospect of playing at the Yacht Club is appealing to Enemy, she said. “It’s a completely different world,” she said. “I have to put the seat up.”

Enemy also tried out for the original Smashing Pumpkins band. “It was really neat,” she said. “They’re kind of fans of the band.” Enemy has been in several original bands featuring mostly women. She so enjoys playing with the members of Smashed Pumpkins, she decided to form an original band with them. That’s the change for Enemy from playing with just women to playing with only men in two different bands.

Advantages the average woman has over me:

- Just plain older better.
- Doesn't get hurt when her best friend says she's the ugliest woman in the world.
- Rarely — if ever — access the bathroom when pooping.
- Would be able to look at the maestro George O'Brien painting of a woman in her bedroom without getting an unexpected three.
- Could have practically any night of the week if she desired (no seaside clubs and more)
- Usually finds the greatest satisfaction in creating the sexiest and most exciting widgets.
- Usually considers the previous ability all that interesting.
- And the actual standby is: No one talks to 100 percent that are possible to lose.
- Knows when to go to bed and how to use the Guthrie Trace.
- Can — it seems — much closer by using a great piece of furniture.
- Could also say main-staking where.
- Knowledge, squares across the face without everyone in Yoda getting all righteous and supply about it.
- Doesn't even try. If questioned, it is a function of an all-purpose napoleon bull as an outright challenge.
- Can correctly separate objects that are seen from objects that are seen together.
- Is supposed to have bared her chest.
- Wouldn't look out her room window by making French toast in the middle of the afternoon when nothing but a Led Zeppelin ballad in white cotton pants.

Tennis aide knows success

Medvege-Collins comes from Mills College.

BY MEGAN BERG

After coaching at four colleges in seven years, Jesse Medvege-Collins is eager to begin his first season coaching in the Big Ten as Iowa's new assistant women's tennis coach.

Medvege-Collins graduated from the University of Illinois in 2000 — where he finished as one of the lowest ranked in the nation four years prior in a political science major. Despite his college experience not resembling the current coaching world, and his enthusiasm coupled with bringing that success to the University of Iowa was.

"For me, No. 1, it's a reason to get out of bed. It's a part of Iowa women's tennis," he said. "And I've always wanted to be a part of the Big Ten. It's awesome to be a part of a community where everyone supports the team."

Medvege-Collins — who said his coaching style focuses on players' weaknesses rather than hammering away at their strengths — knows success based on his past experiences.

"I really think it will be good for our team," he said. "We're coming off the improvements with the current men's tennis head coach, Geoff Roche. I instructed Medvege-Collins as an athlete-student and was still head coach while he was an assistant for our team."

"More than anything, (Medvege-Collins) is very hardworking and very serious about the fundamentals," Roche said. "I think he really tries to bring the best out of his players while providing them with a positive environment."

Medvege-Collins received his first job as a head coach last year at Mills College, where he won another conference championship.

"I've worked with some great players, and I've had the chance to see the whole landscape of college tennis," he said. "I can bring a lot of experience in the recruiting world."

This is not the first time he and Roche have shared coaching duties.
