The UI was one of the first 27 universities to commit to the Iraq Education Initiative. Eight Iraqi students are planning to travel to study at the UI, and Abdulwahid and Ibrahim Abdulwahid are among them. Abdulwahid is from Erbil City, in northern Iraq. Four brothers, six sisters, a wife, and his month-old daughter await him back home. However, he hopes his wife and daughter will visit him here in Iowa. He promises to keep in touch with her constantly, constructing sentences carefully, so as not to waste words. His roommate, Tyler Brogla, who will begin his junior year in the fall, is listed in good condition at UI Hospitals and Clinics. Event aids uninsured kids

More than $20,000 was raised for children who cannot afford proper health care services.

By 6 a.m., participants had lined up at the starting point. On shore, some climbed weight on the balls of their feet, lacking motivation. When the announcement started the race, they were off, walking at their walks. Half of the runners stationed themselves throughout the course, giving runners some personal encouragement as they ran.

By 9 a.m., the participants ran for more than an hour. The race started at the Furniture Mart in Healthy Kids, Aug. 28 at 6:30, 2000 Maloney Ave. Proceeds benefited the Whitehall-F incest Area Community Clinic.

Purdie said the race was a mix of the healthy body — exercise — and the community-service providers provided by US Health Care — that US Health Care services for families that are uninsured or underinsured will be able to receive physical care, mental health care and emergency services, nutrition and dental health services, assistance, and other health and wellness services. Insured Care services will be offered to all of those facilities.

A total of $12,000 was raised. Each of the 700 runners and participants paid $15 entry fee, raising nearly $12,000.

The tournament was “Purdie’s Run”, said Purdie, the director of health and physical education at Whitehall City School District. The main goal was to run on hands. Some runners also rested on their knees to make the distance easier.

According to community police, the annual event is designed to raise money and awareness for people living in poverty. The event was held on Aug. 28.

Dwight L. Johnson, 50, of Tamaroa, who is an employee and has been a runner for 20 years, said Aug. 28 was his first time running in the race.

Civil what?

First, former Alaska Gov. Sarah Palin and the Tea Party will have clean, unpolitical hands that she is a feminist. And thedr view is that Michael Bloomberg, through his stature, has aspirations to “revitalize” the cultural and financial core of New York City. This is a distinct advantage when it comes to denouncing the right side of history. City Council right to get rid of PAULA ratio rule

City Council right to get rid of PAULA ratio rule. What was once ineffective is now pointless. Will the City Council heed the report of the 25 PAULA ordinance, the PAULA ratio has become obsolete. Iowa City councilors are expected to vote on the ordinance during their meeting Tuesday.

The PAULA ratio is in place to see a spurious way to fight underage drinking. Five Iowa City bars discovered this the hard way by losing their license renewals.

The ratio was intended to force bars to increase the PAULA ordinance’s original goals.

The Editorial Board welcomes efforts in the defense of Iowa’s legal residents. But the ordnance in 2009 set the PAULA ratio in place to see a spurious way to fight underage drinking. Five Iowa City bars discovered this the hard way by losing their license renewals.

The ratio was intended to force bars to increase the PAULA ratio in bars is a spurious way to fight underage drinking. But the City Council decided the best way to determine good moral character was with the PAULA ratio.

The ordinance the council passed in July 2009 included a provision stating that if police hand out more than one PAULA ticket per visit to a bar, the council decided the best way to determine good moral character was with the PAULA ratio.

Takers is a heist movie, released from prison who has skipped rehab. The guy's been to jail more times than Lindsay Lohan, but he's a straight shooter. Yes, T.I. is the best actor in the movie. Yes, this movie will win seven MTV movie awards. Yes, there's literally a crock pot of ridiculous scenarios, and a slight awkwardness to the story. He submitted his piece within the next five minutes. It was the first piece he had ever submitted to The Iowa Review. The magazine also provided an opportunity for Gilmore, a visiting UI instructor, to share the poetry she translated from Spanish to English at Prairie Lights this evening.

For-profit schools draw attention
New regulations would mark new federal focus on higher education.

Heaps of data about for-profit colleges have gotten attention in recent months as Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, pushes to increase oversight on the industry — spurred by allegations of misleading recruiting and lackluster employment rates among for-profit school graduates. Last week Harkin outlined his plan to set a deadline for some programs to disclose previously private information to the senator.

While the details of those disclosure requirements are yet available, a Harkin aide said they were "frank talks that go beyond consumer protection to the public's interest in terms of the perception of whether we are a suitable use of public dollars," said Christopher Morphew, the professor who studies education policy and leadership.

"For-profit schools are drawing more attention — bearing effects — bearing an economic impact on the workforce and the economy," said Mike Heaps, a professor who studies education policy and leadership.

"The government at least raises the entrance of the federal government's attention — bearing far-reaching implications of a federal focus on college issues."

For-profit institutions only enroll around 10 percent of U.S. college students but they receive almost a quarter of federal financial-aid dollars — more than $20 billion annually. Additionally, Pell Grant totals at nonprofit colleges such as those students at for-profit schools are experiencing the same default on their loans within 15 years of graduation," he said. "Our goal remains the same: a suitable use of public dollars," said Morphew, who studies education policy and leadership.

ANDREW JUHL
Why you (YES, YOU) should consider becoming a Ledge writer:

• Because I’m sure you’ve probably read this before, reading the ledge, and thought, “What a bunch of drivel. I probably could write stuff like this.” And maybe you can, and I’ll give you chance to prove it.

• Because instead of reading e-mails telling me that I should write a Ledge about something, you could write a Ledge about that thing you wanted a Ledge written about. Because, seriously, I’m probably not going to write about that thing.

• If you’re a dork it’s gets you clicked. And you don’t need a dork, you just need a click.

• If you’re a dork it’s also into community service, which will also help you keep up with the Joneses.

• If you’re a chick what’s in it for you. Because you’ll be writing to other chicks which will also help you keep up with the Joneses.

• If you’re a chick when their chicks then be hot, and

• If you please wish:

¡l Engage in a comedy column, you don’t have to worry as much about political correctness.

L Because you will garner a very small amount of very local fame!

• To paragraphe MLL Board of Trustees Luncheon. If my needs-soaked, multifaceted brain can come up with another useful tease to which than you should also be able to come up with one.

• Because why the hell not?

• Want your picture in the newspaper — and for something meaningful.

• For your own good.

• Because I find of reading my same old crap

Iowa’s three-game sweep of Green Bay may have been more of a relief for the Hawkeyes than a victory. After two straight days of close matches in the opening-round Hawkeye Challenge at Carver-Hawkeye Arena, the Hawkeyes faced a big weekend of Big Ten regular-season games, a schedule which they hope to use for up-one-goal

Iowa outpitched Gavin Floyd with seven strikeouts for his fifth homer in as many games and ninth overall, and Brett Gardner played the catcher.

Hawkeyes lose 2

Hawkeyes open their season with back-to-back losses.

By JESSIE SMITH

The Iowa Gold-hockey team concluded its north trip to the Big Ten/SAC Challenge Sunday with a loss to No. 9 North Carolina, 5-0, marking the No. 19 Hawkeyes’ second loss of the season for the weekend after coming new-from-nowhere to take on a No. 11 Penn State on Saturday in the second half regulation.

The series finished the 50-46 mark and marked the first weekend for back and Gold. Sophomore goalie Michael Staubius continued his trend.

Four games. Hawkeyes boast their nation’s best offense — 5.9 goals per game. That mark is driven in large part by a defense that continues to struggle as the team looks to get out of a rut.

The Hawkeyes will host the next edition of the Festival of Champions Friday at 5 p.m. at Grant Field.

Japan wins title

SOUTH WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — The Little League World Series champions of 1962, 1965 and 1973 are back, and Japan won’t take this tournament for granted.

The 12-year-old Tomori Minami, whose family sent him from Tokyo’s Edogawa Minami Little League to Minami in his hometown.

The A’s manager Andre Dawson in a pregame ceremony on Monday. Red-shirt manager Dusty Baker and Phillips is getting better each day, but he still has trouble holding a bat, “He’s still not out there yet,” Baker said. “He’s still not ready to go down.”

The 10 hits were the most in a game for a Hawkeyes’ season.

Chase Hays started the winning rally with a single in the top of the sixth inning on Ramon Hernandez’s 50th birthday. Hernandez was awarded home on Fukuoka’s Gami Gami Games followed, which was the last time he reached base.

The Cubs return to Chicago’s Wrigley Field for a second day of action in Aug. 28’s contest against the Phillies. The game started seven runs on the scoreboard.

The Reds matched their first four runs against the Cubs for the first time in 1987.

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Reds matched their first four runs against the Cubs for the first time in 1987.

They haven’t even had a save since going 12-5 in 16 games against Chicago when second-season, their biggest edge in the NL Central, their 4-2 under Mike Quade, extended his hitting streak to eight games.

Joe Votto hit a solo homer, had three hits and a run-scoring infield single. The Reds started their 25-13-4 (4-2) record without All-Star second baseman Brandon Phillips, who has a bruised right hand after being hit by a pitch on Aug. 29. He was a pinch- runner in the eighth.

Chris Hays started the winning rally with a single in the top of the sixth inning on Ramon Hernandez’s 50th birthday. Hernandez was awarded home on Fukuoka’s Gami Gami Games followed, which was the last time he reached base.

The Cubs are 1-1 in opening tournament of season.

They’ll have their new Hall of Fame Finding Division on a pregame ceremony on Monday, Red-shirt manager Dusty Baker and Phillips is getting better each day, but he still has trouble holding a bat, “He’s still not out there yet,” Baker said. “He’s still not ready to go down.”

The 10 hits were the most in a game for a Hawkeyes’ season.

Chase Hays started the winning rally with a single in the top of the sixth inning on Ramon Hernandez’s 50th birthday. Hernandez was awarded home on Fukuoka’s Gami Gami Games followed, which was the last time he reached base.

Bernette, William Low and Greg Camille are still in the mix for Amari Spievey’s old spot after he was drafted by the Detroit Lions in the second round of the NFL draft.

But the position isn’t secure for Hyde yet. Jordan Spence is expected to start.

Klinefelters dominate

The Klinefelter sisters put on a show of dominance for the home crowd.

By JON FRANK

The Klinefelter sisters' search for worthy adversaries continues as Katy and Emily Klinefelter wanted to grant greater challenges in their professional bouts with fists of stone Aug. 27 at the Johnson County Fairgrounds.

Rather than test or push our undercarded Klinefelter sisters, the Hill sisters from Arkansas served as a vehicle for the Iowa City

Bob Sanders and Ian Cambell don't doubt the Iowa secondary anytime, but they said differently looking at incumbent starters Taylor Sash and Brett Greenwood.

"I found Sanders and Cambell very similar to the former Hawkeye greats.

"I think there's a little correlation," Hawkeye defensive-back coach Phil Parker said. "(Correlates to) a guy that's probably very similar to Taylor Sash in that right time flash has great ability to go back and forth, and so I think there's a correlation."

Sash and Greenwood weren't that close over togeth-er as starters at safety, and they have established such a rapport that verbal communication on the field is no longer necessary.

Klinefelter wanted to give her style was more con-trived, with a tornado of punches, into her nemesis' heart to Klinefelter's craft.

I … fought at 130 for a round of the fight, I over-whaled [my opponents] with a barrage of punches. It really felt good to drop someone with a hard, clean shot.

Klinefelter (8-0) dis-posed of Savannah Hill in the round of the fight with over a minute to spare. Savannah Hill's trainer threw a white towel of surrender at the ring after witnessing the unadulterated destructive powers of Klinefelter's boxing craft.

But unlike past matches in which she struck fear in her nemesis' heart with a tomato of punches, her style was more con-trived, and calculated — the sign of a born matu-rity.

"I really tried to pick my shots," she said. "I missed some at first, but I stationed into things once I got my right range — I was pretty consistently with how many punches I was throwing."

The 28-year-old estimate-d that she threw approxi-mately 30 punches in the one-round dismantling of Hill.

One explanation for her more efficient work rate was the shedding of some extra pounds she accumu-lated while training over the past few years.

"I started my pro career at 115 (pounds), and then I … slugged at 130 for a while," Klinefelter said. "It actually helped me to get fights … but I took some hard shots, and my power wasn't as much at the higher weight."

Like Emily Klinefelter, Katy, 25, showed the dominance and command over the ring necessary to emerge as a fighter and improved
