UI to lease another apt. complex

Centerstone would be the second off-campus apartment complex leased by the UI.

By HAYLEY BRUCE

University of Iowa officials hope to lease another privately owned apartment complex — this one near Burgess Residence Hall — to house students next fall in an ongoing effort to ease overcrowding on campus.

The state Board of Regents will vote on the proposal at its meeting Dec. 11. The UI is requesting to exit the entire Centerstone apartment complex — owned by College View LLC — located at 1223/123 E. Danz Way, Iowa City, and that this will mark the second time the UI has leased an off-campus building to accommodate an influx of students hoping to live in or close to campus.

The UI has already leased another privately owned apartment complex — owned by College View LLC — located at 1230/1232 E. Danz Way, Iowa City, and last year the state Board of Regents approved the UI to lease another privately owned apartment complex to house students next year.

University Housing Director Von Stange said officials decided to lease the Lodge this year because of the large freshmen class and Centerstone will serve the same purpose next year.

UI profs defend sabbaticals

Another of Mike Porter’s bars, One-Eyed Lakes, will close after this weekend.

By ALICIA KRAMER

One of Mike Porter’s downtown bars could lose its liquor license next week and another is set to close after this weekend.

Iowa City Police Chief Cates has recommended to the Iowa City City Council  last week to remove the license of the Summit’s liquor license at its next meeting on Nov. 7, according to city documents. Hargadine cited Porter’s reported financial troubles as the reason for denial.

Porter is facing two separate lawsuits — one by Global Construction LLC and Cool Delta State Bank for failing to make payments on several loans totaling more than $4,000,000. Porter also defaulted on a loan from the city that he acquired to put apartments on Jakes, 29-34 S. Clinton St., according to Hargadine’s memo.

Since May, Porter has filed bankruptcy for Vicis and Faaces, his downtown liquor store. Hargadine’s memo includes a list of Porter’s legal and financial woes, citing four previous incidents involving serving alcohol to minors and money owed in both Iowa City and the UI.

“Nothing is clear about whether Mr. Porter and a number of his businesses will be able to meet the criteria for a person of good moral character with respect to demonstrating financial responsibility and financial viability,” Hargadine said.

Under Iowa law, bar owners must remain in “good moral standing” to keep their licenses.

Councillor Mike Wright said he fully supports Hargadine’s recommendation.

Four Loko, that beer

Thursday marked the beginning of a new era for the Lattin’s store on Iowa Avenue, with the sale of Four Loko and Fourención now allowed.

“I’m a sharing person, but I don’t know how to do it,” said store manager, Ginger, manager of Ginger Lattin’s Sporting Goods.

The store has been closed to the public since 1988, but with the return of the store to its full operating hours, the beer will be available again.

The store has seen a significant increase in sales since it was closed, with customers flocking to buy Four Loko.

“I have no idea what to do with it,” said Ginger Dallin, manager of Ginger Lattin’s Sporting Goods.

In a February newsletter, Iowa House Republicans pushed a cancellation of all regent sabbaticals for a year, which they said could save the state 86 million. The UI regent's faculty expressed their opposition to using sabbatical cuts as a way to reduce budget problems, saying they are an important part of every university.

"Some legislators do not understand and appreciate our contribution to the advancement of human knowledge and quality of education," said Iowa regent Kimo, "and that is what we do." Folk singer/songwriter Pieta Brown will return to Iowa City to finish out her year on tour.

CONCERT

Pieta Brown, with the Vagabonds

Where: The Mill, 120 E. Burlington St.

When: Dec. 11, 7 p.m.

Admission: $10 in advance, $12 at door

Pieta Brown is coming back to Iowa City. She spent some of her formative years in Iowa City and feels inspired to give back to the community she calls “home.” The folk singer/songwriter is back from a recent tour in Australia, and she is excited to play back-to-back Saturday shows at the Mill. Proceeds from the show will go to the Friends of Muhlenberg Hill Park and Iowa Public Radio.

“The shows at the Mill are fun for me because it’s where I try a lot of stuff out. I’m gonna try a bunch of new songs,” she said. “You know, it’s kind of my home turf, so I can let loose, and try something out here, which is good for me.”

The show will be Brown’s first time playing in Iowa City since releasing her latest album, One and All. Thursday, Feb. 4. The Mill, 120 E. Burlington St., will host Brown in a two-part installment titled “That Land in Your Music.” Each show will contribute $10 to the Mill’s admission price. The show will continue Dec. 11 at The Mill. Admission is $30 in advance, $32 at door.

“I’m kind of my own end-of-the-season show with my town and give something back to that town. I hope some people will come out.”

The artist, who is continuing to step away from the music scene to fresh in her performances, on Saturday evening shows at the Mill will be different from what some people may be used to. During the performance, the audience will notice visual art installations Brown has selected for her show, allowing listeners to experience the music in a different way. Stan Crocker, whose art work has been on display at Cornell University, will offer his work to enhance the environment of the concert, and he is excited to see how his visual work of giving her music back will be used. She has been very much in the right place, running many Iowa Public Radio and Friends of Hickory Hill, while bringing together a wealth of Iowa City area musical talent and visual artists. Crocker said, “It’s purely about creating such a creative community.”

The singer/songwriter recently released her new album, All on vinyl, which is a first for her. At the same time, she also sent a message about all kinds of love, losses, and the connections people have with music which is a product of her countless inspiration to write.

There’s almost no end, and I think some people will come out. She has some ten singers who have been singing in her shows. She is still chasing down the music and the connections people have with Van Ghost. Edyie Stika’s store shelves are stocked full of bobbins, yarn, scissors, tools, and other necessities. If it has to do with fiber, Stika sells it.

Stika, who owns the Olive Knit Shoppe, 126 S. Clinton St., said her business is in the running for a national award.

The Olive Knit Shoppe has been nominated as one of the top wool stores in America by Handmade America, a social networking platform for local business owners.

Stika was notified of the nomination in September and said the announcement is a “honor of the year.”

Stika said that the shop has been open for 15 years and has been recognized for its knitting and sewing supplies.

“Some of the biggest stores in the country have submitted for the award,” Stika said.

Metropolitan Council President Beth Wynn said that Stika’s shop is one of the best in the state.

Johnson County kids with parents going through a divorce find help at the Kids First Workshop.

Things to do on Friday nights instead of drinking:

• Have a nail painting party.
• While watching TV, ... and review every line of print.
• Coordinate the post so that your doorbell is heard.
• Envision your future.
• Dart Carves-Hawkeye Arena with your toothbrush.
• Mike Facebook fan.

That's your future. See you at a time.

• Will doubt of applications for jobs you know you'll never get.
• Actually do your work.
• Play board games with yourself.
• Remember to go to the library.
• Clean and reread your blog.

• Write your party's friends' papers for fun.
• Test your grandmother.
• Well-rolled snack in the huge soup ball.
• Learn karate online for free.

• Be a candidate for the Iowa and Iowa State centers for 2014, just names.
• Write a Ledge column.

events: things that can't be completed

ABC nov. 22-26 Set a budget, and drink it. Investing in your skills is the best way to get a job, so find some way to do it, and when you do, you should hold market qualifications and pick your season.

TV/newspaper: Whether it's a business connection or someone you know, keep the people you deal with every day content. Keep an open heart and mind.

GEMINI nov. 22-27 You can be creative and disciplined at the same time - and that's the combination likely to keep you happy. Don't worry about what others do or say; focus on what you feel is the right thing for your future. Someone will appreciate your heart.

LED nov. 29-1 dec. 5 You have plenty to be thankful for. Make some time to remember a moment when things went wrong, and then realize how much you've learned from the experience.

LIBRA nov. 23-29 It's time to rethink your strategy and to realize what you truly want in life. It's easiest to change your mind in the middle of a change, so take your time and don't make too many changes at once.

SAGITTARIUS dec. 2-8 You need 8 hours of sleep to reach your goals. Make some time to remember a moment when things went wrong, and then realize how much you've learned from the experience.

SCORPIO dec. 9-15 You'd spend more now, but worrying about what you're losing is the difference between being poor and being in your comfort zone.

CAPRICORN dec. 16-22 Focus on work, money, and positioning yourself for the new year. A relationship will take a passable place. Someone from your past may say or do something that you love and you have the knowledge and experience to help him through any onerous.

AQUARIUS dec. 23-29 You don't make a commitment just yet. You want to see what other opportunities may appear before you make a new deal, and self-improvement.

PIXIE dec. 30-jan. 4 Settlements, subscriptions, and investments are looking good. The market you complete what you have been trying for such a long time. The future will see the outcome of the market. The end of the year is a time of consolidation. Change in investments, as always.

PRESENTS

A gift of the heart, not the head

MITCHELL SCHMIDT/THE DAILY IOWAN

University of Iowa sophomore Chloe Rome holds a breakdancing pose for Dey House's Hawkeye Freeze on Thursday. Rome and other members of the UI Breakers chose to hold a "Dey the Freeze." The event was announced via Facebook, and more than 1,100 responded as attending. More than 100 participants faced off at exactly 12:25 p.m. and remained dedicated for the event. The location for the event was Dey Hall, but people spread to participate anywhere.

223 points to 84 points, or an average of 11.3 points per game. "Our coaching staff noticed that, too," he said.

"The main reason's any question about that," he said. "It's the man's ability to set the tone in the early stages of the game, and it's obvious who's going to be the guy that everyone will have to shoot on."

Butler pointed out that even though he doesn't have anything to lose, he still has a lot to gain from playing in the tournament. And the fact that he's playing for the first time ever is something that gives him extra motivation.

"He's not just a big shot, and I know what I'm capable of," he said. "I know how I'm preparing, and I'm expecting nothing less than a win," Butler added.

"The opportunity is there," he said. "Butler is a great shooter, and he's got a great future ahead of him."
Women swimmers ready

The Hawkeye Invitational provides a championship-style format for Iowa to compete in, which will help it in preparation for the second half of the season.

By MADDIE CUNNINGHAM

magc@uiowa.edu

“Swimming and diving team hasn’t competed in a meet since the Crimson Invitational, which will help them in the absence of competition at this point.”

The Hawkeyes have had a long layoff with a four-month layoff for training. We will have a strong team that is competitive, but the freshmen still need to come out strong in the meet. The seniors aren’t intimidated by the freshmen, they do this every year. Becky (Simhala) and I have been at this school for a year and we know that our job is to support them, so do I think it’s anything different for them this year? It’s the same for everyone.”

The top swimmers in each event will have the opportunity to compete in the championship-style format. Another positive aspect is the swimmers will have to face Denver, Notre Dame, South Dakota State, Green Bay and Ohio State, which will help them in the meet. The last day is certainly competitive, but the seniors have to do their job on the last day to be ready for the final stage at night. They have to worry about swimming twice a day in each event, and spending a lot of time in the morning to place in the finals, the seniors have to get ready for that. "Warm-up is definitely key for the first events, so we have to get ready as just as fast as the last day so we can win." "It gives you an advantage if you get warmed-up, you don’t have to worry about warming-up just before the last day, but others may have to. The added pressure may also play a role in how the swimmers perform, this weekend. It’s one of the few times you can win, the job done in the morning because only the top 16 are competing, which is the most important part of the meet. The seniors have to lead the team in the morning to help the rest of the team gain experience in the championship-style meet of the Big Ten."
Bench pushes hoosters

The Iowa bench is outscoring opponents by an average of almost 20 points per game this season.

BY IAN MARTIN

With point guard Cully Payne sidelined indefinitely with a hernia and guard Matt Gatens still feeling the effects of a torn hand tendon, there may be a concern about bench players being thrown into the Iowa basketball team's starting rotation. It doesn't appear this is a concern for the coaching staff, though. The bench is playing well enough to, well, start right now.

Iowa has received sufficient production from its nonstarters so far this season, most notably freshmen Zach McCabe and Roy Devyn Marble, who are both averaging 8.5 points per game over the last three contests. When it comes to team chemistry, the bench improves the team's homecourt starting rotation. The good bench means more motivated starters, and good starters mean more feeding off one another. A combination of these factors could result in a 10-point improvement in points per game.

Construction of Iowa's new football practice facility would replace the team's existing practice facility, which Barta said is severely outdated, and the university would turn the location of the existing fieldhouse into a hospital parking lot. The new structure would be erected west of the Recreation Building.

New football facility awaits regent action

Iowa women's basketball: Hawkeyes drop first game

The Iowa women's basketball team has suffered its first loss of the season.

No. 14 North Carolina defeated the 18th-ranked Hawkeyes 76-67, on Thursday night in Chapel Hill, N.C.

North Carolina wasted no time — the Tar Heels opened the game with a 15-5 run and led, 44-29, at halftime. In the second half, Iowa closed the lead to one point, but North Carolina's 16 second-chance points were too much to overcome.

For the Hawkeyes, Johnson recorded a double-double with 16 points and 13 rebounds.

Up until now, the Hawkeyes have toyed with opponents such as Iowa Central, Coe College, and Chattanooga. Enter 21st-ranked Iowa State. In previous matches, Iowa grapplers weren't threatened on the spotlight. But head coach Tom Brands admits that now "it's real," and his squad may ramp up its intensity or shrink in the limelight of a high-powered matchup.

Despite the arrival of the Cyclones in Iowa City, the Hawkeye wrestlers insist this match is just like any other.
