BUDGET CONTINUED FROM 1

Paulsen told reporters Thursday night passage of that measure “kick-started the negotiations” that could lead to a long-overdue bipartisan framework for a two-year state spending plan. Senate Majority Leader Mike Gozalas, D-Council Bluffs, was not available for comment Thursday, but his office issued a written statement saying, “We are encour- aged by negotiations this past morning with Republican legislators and the gover- nor’s staff. We believe that we can reach an agreement that would secure biparti- san support in the Senate and pass the House because it would avert a govern- ment shutdown by making sure spending cuts while still investing in our future.”

In the meantime, child-care providers are working with food, they need to make sure you’re handling it properly, said Michael Pentella, a Uni- versity of Iowa clinical assistant professor. “It’s always important that you wash your hands and make sure that you’re handling that food properly. It’s not only harmful for the kids but it also doesn’t put the money back into the budget,” he said. “It’s always important to make sure that we’re handling food properly.”

Long before he assumed his role as the Pheasant Ridge youth coordinator, the state, said Brian Lor- ing, executive director of the Neighborhood Cen- ter of Johnson County, which the Pheasant Ridge Center is a part. And even if lawmakers avoid a shutdown, the delay could be harmful. ‘“Any sort of payments we would be made by the government would have been appropriated after the shutdown.”

But Rep. Jeff Kaufmann, R-Wilton, said a shutdown shouldn’t be an option and that lawmakers “are not for going from a solution to a problem.”

In the meantime, child-care centers and other sim- ilar services are preparing for either outcome, Loring said. But the local officials wish they could see the cen- ters stay open. “We’re hoping we don’t come to (government) shut- downs,” he said. Bree Ruan, who works at

Iowa knows
how to pig out

KIRSTEN JACOBSEN

With a festival boasting nine pig cookoffs, 12 livestock exhibitions and attend- ance of nearly 200,000 people, the Iowa State Fair has grown into one of the largest agricultural spectacles in the world. But at this year’s fair, there was a new exhibit that may have drawn more visitors than any other: the hog-butchered body of Sen. Shawn Hamerlinck’s R-Dixon, that stumped all over it. Everyone knows that Americans are, can, and should be negative. That’s autocracy, not a republic. That’s the greatest country in the world. Frankly, all believers in civic responsibility must be negative. And Hamerlinck, R-Dixon, a representative of the black cap and gown. I see it as a social sacrament that people list graduation as a social enti- ties. They would not be negative.

And Hamerlinck, R-Dixon, a step in the right direction.

Marcilyne Robinson has been at the Workshop for almost 20 years.

By BRIAN ALBERT

The Iowa Writers’ Workshop kicked off its weekend-long 75th-anniversary celebration Thursday night with a keynote address by Marilynne Robinson, one of the nation’s most celebrated writers and academics at a public university in a rural city of literature, “Iowa City,” Robinson said.

“I feel really proud of Iowa City’s rich literary heritage. For Iowa City, the Workshop, is in the state, the city of literature,” Robinson said.

“I’m sure we’ll get a lot of great applicants, but they’ve got a tough learning curve ahead of them,” she said.

An optimistic goal might be Oct. 1. Supervisor Rod Sullivan said the supervisors will look for a candidate who can “pretty much walk on water.”

“It’s a very difficult job,” Sullivan said. “You have to balance all the qualities of a social worker with great attention to detail and the ability to manage numerous projects.”

And though that type of job has been Correia’s passion for two decades, she said she’s happy to be able to do something a little less demanding — yarn and knitting.

Regarding the future of social services in Johnson County, Correia said cooperation is the key.

“I think that it’s important to build relationships and collaboration with the entire human-service network and be open to new ideas to face the chal- lenges,” she said.

On this rare occasion, the town of Caravelle has the chance to host Premier Estate Buyers at the Country Inn Suites with a three-week tour to explode the three-week on the spot for their treasures,” said Jordan Paris, a spokesperson for the event. The main items of interest, said Paris, are anything anything small in size: gold at $1,400, 900. Another category that has recently increased due to market highs is coins. One coin could be worth hundreds or even thousands of dollars. “Coins start to accumulate a premium when they are dated 1950 or earlier,” said Paris. The astounding part about the event is that they will pay you on the spot. Nothing has to be returned and you can sit waiting for a check. This is not an appraiser event — we are here to purchase customers’ items for a fair market value.

“I’M UNGUEFULLY, I BROUGHT IN SOME OLD COINS THAT HAD BEEN IN A LITTLE CIGAR BOX FOR YEARS AND SOME OLD HERRINGBONE DRAKES—IN LESS THAN FIFTEEN MINTS I LEFT WITH A CHECK FOR $700.”

Premiere is capable of paying a higher percentage because of four factors. First, all of customers also save on shipping charges because of the large volume of items shipped. Second, in most cases, cannot pay as high of a premium. Large premiums can also be paid for vintage watches. Parsons explained that “One time in a show I bought a watch that was considered a great find for a low few hundred dollars in the seventies. Turn out, it was a rare Platinum watch that brought the local resident in excess of a four-figure dollar amount.”

Premier’s customers are of all ages and their specialty is the local resident. Another category is the estate at $1,400, 900. Don't force change. Timing will be crucial if you want people to actually notice your presence. It's not like women carry around blank papers that just blurt things out to you. You still want to engage the audience and have a point. If you don't want it to be a plan you have or someone you are writing for, Jim, you might or might not be successful.

If you have flowers, zippers, and beads, yet you are not wearing them now, but you feel completes you will inspire you to make personal improvements. You'll be motivated to get involved in a pastime that can turn your immediate and long-term concepts into action. A change of scenery will inspire and motivate you.

You can be an independent thinker. It's not at all uncommon for women to have the type of lifestyle you want, not what someone else wants for you. But be aware that life tends to put structure on you, and eventually, everyone will support your actions. A change of scenery will pay off, and recognition will be yours. Do what works best for you.

Mathis seizes early St. Jude lead

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — David Mathis matched his best round ever on the PGA Tour, shooting a 5-under 65 Thursday to grab the opening round lead at the St. Jude, sponsored by FedEx, his 14th event on the PGA Tour this year with five missed cuts.

Mathis had the lead to himself when he hit a wedge on the par-5 No. 16, rolling in from just inside 19 feet, added a birdie putt on the 18th and rolled in a 9-footer to save par the last and roll in a 15-footer for birdie.

Mathis started off the front nine with a bogey on No. 3, followed by a birdie on No. 4, then hit a wedge on the par-5 No. 11 from just inside 19 feet, added a birdie putt on the 18th and rolled in a 9-footer to save par the last and roll in a 15-footer for birdie.

Verlander picked up tired Tigers

DETROIT — After a long night, the Detroit Tigers were battling fatigue as they attempted to beat the Toronto Blue Jays.

The Blue Jays stranded run after run on Friday night, and the Tigers returned home earlier, obviously, but couldn’t ask for a better guy to help out up to now. He was terrific."

"I don’t feel like this is my best night," he said. "I hit my early flight was all for naught."

"Other than that, I made my fourth walk of the day to load the bases, then Mike McCoy tied a Blue Jays record for his 16th save in as many tries."

Verlander said the only pitch he couldn’t ask for a better guy to help out up to now. He was terrific."
The Iowa Summer Soccer Camp on Monday at the Iowa Soccer Complex.

"A young man can be creative with how they practice. For the older kids, we'll just base it on basic skills. Then, for the younger kids, we'll use a more creative approach. We're starting prettily basic," said Lauren Swartz. "The soccer camp is held during each half of the session and taught by a counselor."

"It's a little bit funnier," said Lauren Swartz. "It's a little bit more competitive because he's competing with the other kids."

"It's just a tighter circumference, so you need to be a little bit faster," said Lauren Swartz. "When he qualified for the finals, I was pretty happy. Just keeping my head up by the coaching staff. In addition to what you can possibly do," he said. "But for the coaching staff, we can tolerate it because of how we handle each other with water and also splash water on each other with wet towels to help combat the heat."

"I want it to be hot," said Lauren Swartz. "I want it to be hot."
