Successful Creative passion leads to C’ville

Megan Flanagan earned a B.A. in English and theater at Florida Southern College.

By JULIANA FARLAND

Megan Flanagan has been described as the creative genius behind the theater at Florida Southern College. Since her arrival, she has transformed a cramped temporary office in the Crumrine Public Library on Tuesday afternoon into a professional set for the upcoming production of "A Chorus Line." Flanagan, who is known for her outgoing personality and her ability to create a positive atmosphere, has quickly become a beloved figure among the students and faculty at the school.

"It’s been a struggle," Flanagan said of the initial transition. "But I’ve found a way to make it work, and I’ve always been able to find a way to make the most of any situation." Flanagan’s passion for theater is evident in her work, and she has made it her mission to bring the same level of creativity and innovation to every production she is involved in. Whether it’s a play, a musical, or a dance performance, Flanagan is always looking for new ways to challenge and inspire her students.

"I love working with students," Flanagan said. "I love seeing them grow and develop as actors and artists. It’s the most rewarding part of my job." Flanagan is constantly working to improve her own skills as well, always looking for new ways to learn and grow as a theater professional. She is constantly searching for new ways to challenge herself and her students, always looking for new ways to push the boundaries of what is possible in theater.

"I believe in the power of theater," Flanagan said. "It has the ability to connect with people in a way that nothing else can. It has the ability to make us laugh, to make us cry, to make us think. And I believe that is the power of theater." Flanagan’s passion and dedication to the arts is evident in every production she is involved in, and she is always looking for new ways to bring new and exciting work to the stage. With Flanagan at the helm, the future of theater at Florida Southern College looks bright.

everything that might come from K2 is not enough to shut down the world. It’s not even enough to shut down the infrasctions,” said Sen. Tom Coburn, R-Oklahoma. “But if we have to, we have to do it.”

Some Iowa City shops close all alternatives. The Des Moines Register, 123 E. Washington St., Des Moines, 50309, said further legislation should return to the field.

K2 and similar blends are typically marketed as “herbal incense,” with labels warning the compounds are for inhalation use only.

Rep. Chad Davidsmeyer, R-Clinton, said he’s confident in the government’s ability to stop the manufacture of K2.

“We think we have our bill written so it includes not only one circulation control,” she said, “but if they refuse to do that, we’ll address it immediately.”

The state government should continue to regulate retail sales of K2, said Rep. Dave Heaton, R-Koch, and prevent it from being sold in the state.

“If they change that, I’ll be very happy,” he said. “We’re looking at purposeful production of this stuff and just not doing me crazy.”

Gingrich: Resist

The Aug. 13 event at Iowa City’s Riverbend Park is an important test of strength for Republican presidential candidates ahead of the leadoff caucuses, said Rep. Steve King, R-Iowa, who was named Iowa chair by President Obama.

The panel suggested prohibiting any vendors from offering nonpermitted food or beverages, including alcohol on the ground that it is a vendor ban because of the problems created by tailgating, including trash, event, and public urination.

Panel members and bills itself as the state’s largest education union has endorsed President Obama’s re-election campaign.

Delay of levee vote should prompt better communication

On Tuesday night, the Iowa City City Council was set to vote on the next phase of building a levee to protect the northwest quadrant of the city from flooding for the foreseeable future. But a delay in making a decision due to a need for more information should prompt the council to do better. Editorial Board decisions are not binding means that the voices of people who might be affected by the levee are not heard. So, the way I see it, if...

Randy Larson, the Prime Time head coach and owner of the Iowa City Cardinals, said he was also happy to see Brommer and Oglesby’s understanding of what was expected of them.

“There are a lot of guys who are frustrated. We need to start it. We need to turn this thing back around and get something started,” Larson said.

“Coming home, we’re playing in our own stadium,” he said. “I think the first couple games got away from us, but well these five games (versus Milwaukee) have been good.”

Milwaukee (4-5-2) has lost seven of eight since taking a 3-2 lead and dropped below .500 for the standings, falling to 3-2 in Miller Park.

Brewers also lost consecutive games at Miller Park for the first time since May 2011.

So far this season, the Cardinals are 4-5-2 at home. Larson said he’s not worried about the record.

Larsen also grabbed 7 rebounds.

Surprise: Brommer returns

Andrew Brommer is back on the court for the first time since he had right knee surgery on May 12.

By BEN SCHUFF

A familiar face was back in North Liberty on Tuesday, and it surprised just about everyone.

Even Anthony Hubbard didn’t expect to see Andrew Brommer and took a step back.

“Brian, Brian,” he said with a smile on his face. The pair talked for a few minutes before Brommer took the court and helped lead the Hawkeyes to a win.

Brommer’s senior post player saw his first action since the Jan. 4 blowout win over Michigan State.

“I feel like I’m moving really well, but the shape of my body is not where I’d like it. My jumping ability?” he said. “But that I’ll come back full-throttle.”

The Rossmoen, Minn., native said he felt at 50 percent, and he was happy to be able to fully healthy in about two weeks.

“I’ve been on a lot of rehab and a lot of upper body lifting and core to try to stay in shape,” Brommer said.
