UI cooperated in Hunninghake probe, official says

University of Iowa spokesman Ben Monte says the UI fully cooperated with the Iowa Board of Medicine’s investigation of former UI medical professor Gary Hunninghake prior to his settlement.

Hunninghake, 63, of Coralville voluntarily surrendered his Iowa medical license after entering a $35,000 settlement agreement with the Board of Medicine on Oct. 13, according to a press release from the board.

The release said the board charged Hunninghake with viewing pictures of nude children and other inappropriate sexual material on the Internet while in the workplace, having a sexual relationship with a subordinate employee, inappropriately prescribing medication to himself, and inappropriate conduct toward a female staff member.

Occupy Iowa City protesters began camping out in College Green Park Oct. 10. Protesters they would not need a permit to continue protesting, others said they felt the enemy, “outreach committee member Stephanie Hoffelt said on Sunday. “We didn’t camp here because of an issue with the city; we camped here because we have issues with bigger fish.”

City officials previously told protesters they would not need a permit to occupy College Green Park, because local rules allow for spontaneous demonstration.

However, City Manager Tom Markus and Parks and Recreation Director Mike Bloem told protesters the occupation was no longer deemed “spontaneous” last week and asked them to sign a permit that would allow them to occupy the park.

MegaBus driver charged with OWI

The driver of a MegaBus transporting people from Chicago to Iowa City has been arrested for drunken driving, according to the Press-Citizen.

A complaint from the State Patrol said Carl Smiley, 52, of Chicago was charged Oct. 17 with second-offense OWI.

The complaint said a state trooper observed a bus traveling west on Interstate 80 and allegedly failing to maintain a lane, prompting a traffic stop.

Upon contact with the trooper, Smiley allegedly smelled strongly of alcohol and admitted he had been drinking.

Regents to ask for tuition hike

Regents will consider 3 and 4 percent tuition increases for in-state and out-of-state students during their meeting this week.

By Dora Grote

University of Iowa Student Government leaders and state officials said students should continue to reach out to their legislators to come up with solutions for further tuition increases, following a proposal for further tuition increase by the state Board of Regents on Oct. 25.

The regents propose a 3.5 percent tuition increase for in-state undergraduate students and a 4.5 percent increase for out-of-state undergraduate students. The regents will also propose a 3.5 percent tuition increase for in-state graduate students during their meeting in Cedar Falls on Wednesday and Thursday.

In the 2013-12 school year, in-state tuition increased 5 percent, and out-of-state tuition increased 6 percent.

And though student government leaders have lobbied legislators heavily throughout the past year for more state appropriations, student officials said Sunday they plan to launch an
Bridging cultural barriers

The University of Iowa employs and staff and students from 125 countries. Because of this, it is June Greene's job to help make that task not too difficult for people.

Working in Staff Language and Culture Services, it's her job to make sure employees communicate with students from all the different linguistic backgrounds. Working in the absence of a lawless language background, it's hard, Greene said. If that is the case, then you can imagine the job of a language expert.

For her every day is a chance to work with those who are eager to learn and create healthy relationships among members by helping them understand each other through language.

"You get a sense of doing something real and being quite valuable," Greene said.

Does Ron Paul's plan to eliminate the Education Department plan merit the consideration of Iowa City residents?

No

The U.S. Department of Education, while currently flawed, provides a vital tool to help ensure the United States has a high-quality system of public schools that is consistently effective. The Department's role is not necessarily to save the nation from itself, but to make sure that a large portion of those in the United States who are at risk of being left behind receive a quality education.

Although the department clearly merits its status, it is part of a system of federal and state agencies and departments, the Education Department is a part of and must be responsive to thePassword. There is simply no business as usual. Formerly a mill, the rents are right, but the rents are not.
Students gather in Hubbard Park to participate in a large water-pong tournament Sunday. The game, dubbed “Trash Ball,” divides players into two teams throwing basketballs into large trashcans. The tournament featured four divisions—a sorority, fraternity, Dance Marathon, and open division.

Proceeds from the winning sorority and fraternity were donated to a charity of the winning team’s choice. Pi Kappa Alpha members Keaton Rickels and Nevin Vijh said they created the game while playing with basketballs. Rickels said the two hope to make it an annual event.

MINNESOTA — One of the most difficult tasks for a kickoff returner is to avoid the big hit that can determine the outcome of a drive or game.

This is the role Jordan Bernstine has assumed for the Hawkeyes, and he performed the job well Saturday in a 45-24 win over Indiana at Kinnick Stadium.

Bernstine returned two kickoffs for Iowa, the Hawkeyes’ longest return of the day — an 85-yard scamper down the east sideline late in the first quarter — an 82-yarder that led to an Iowa touchdown.

‘‘We’re a young team. We need the defense’s need for improvement. ‘‘We’re a young team. We need the defense’s need for improvement.

Bernstine, who has at least one kickoff return of at least 20 yards in each of the Hawkeyes’ seven games this season, matched his season total from last year.

The Hawkeyes (4-2, 1-2) have scored eight touchdowns through seven games this season, matching their season total from last year.

Iowa defensive linemen B.J. Lowry and Phil Parker led their forces to victory.

The fourth-quarter magic Iowa needed to beat Indiana in 2009 and 2010 wasn’t necessary in 2011. The Hawkeyes reached the end zone on all five of their first-half possessions, distancing themselves early from the Hoosiers before eventually winning by the 45-24 final score.

All eyes were on senior receiver Marvin McNutt, whose 80-yard touchdown catch in the fourth quarter heaved the Hawkeyes over the Hoosiers for the decisive lead. McNutt finished with a career-high 184 receiving yards.

THUMBS UP

Offensive explosion. The Hawkeyes racked up 456 yards of offense and scored touchdowns on each of their first five possessions. The 45-point output marked the second-straight week in which Iowa scored at least 40 points and the sixth time this season in seven games, something Iowa hasn’t accomplished since the 2002 season.

THUMBS DOWN

Lack of defensive stops. Iowa has known for weeks it needs to shore up its defensive inefficiencies, but improvement has lagged. The Hawkeyes lost the time of possession battle for the second-consecutive game, and Minnesota ran 71 offensive plays, averaging 5.8 yards per play.

The Hawkeyes (5-2, 2-1 Big Ten) will head to TCF Bank Stadium in Minneapolis to play Minnesota (1-6, 0-3). With the Big Ten’s 12th- and 11th-best offense and defense, respectively, the Golden Gophers don’t appear to be a formidable challenge for Iowa this year. But Kirk Ferentz and Company were handily surprised last November when Minnesota shocked the Hawkeyes with a 27-24 upset.

“We needed it in the first half because we started pretty slow defensively. But it was pretty good to see the guys respond, keep playing. They were clearly focused right from the start.”

— Iowa coach Kirk Ferentz on the offense scoring five touchdowns on its first five drives.

Paul touts budget cuts

The lawmaker from Texas came to Iowa City last week to give a speech on liberty and U.S. military policy.

By SAM LANE

Iowa caucus hopeful Ron Paul said he is eliminating the Department of Housing and Urban Development with a $1.5 trillion federal budget cut that could save $“a whole lot of money” on Iowa City, one local housing official said.

And an urban-development expert said doing away with the department would take away programs that would help low-income residents to obtain affordable housing.

Paul touted his deficit-reduction plan — as well as his standard message of liberty and U.S. military policy — during a visit to the University of Iowa campus on Oct. 21. Paul spoke to a standing-room-only crowd at the IMU shortly after the school’s Homecoming Parade.

In addition to criticizing U.S. military policy and the Federal Reserve, the Texas congressman lauded his own 9-9-9 plan, saying “it’s serious” about cutting the country’s debt.

Paul said the plan itself could spell problems — at least in Iowa City — where the municipal government would lose much, much more and would have to figure out what to do about it.

Paul spoke at a public hearing later that day.

He also lashed out at the 2012 presidential candidates who have echoed his ideas.

“I would strongly urge him to take the idea and apply it to the federal government,” Lockwood said.

“Most of the current Republican presidential candidates won’t even come close to the principles they say they believe in,” she said.

“I wish they would,” she added.

Emily Sullivan, the president of the Iowa Campaign for Human Life, said most of the candidates have been uncertain or have failed to support introducing a pro-life amendment.

“Most of the current Republican presidential candidates won’t even come close to the principles they say they believe in,” she said.

“I wish they would,” she added.

Evanston, Ill. — The No. 11 Iowa field hockey team shut out Pacific, 4-0, on Monday afternoon.

The Hawkeyes have won all four of 35 minutes in conference play this season.

“Hard work is the best preparation against anything,” said Bethany Yeager, the team’s focus coordinator and assistant coach. “We need to work on communication.

In addition to a lapse in communication, Iowa struggled to collect kills and managed only 29 spikes and a .065 attack efficiency. In comparison, Northwestern tallied 42 kills and a .333 percentage.

Freshman Alex Lovell played in all three sets but recorded a negative hitting percentage. In each, she finished with an average of .767 negative. Lovell also hit negative against Wyoming.

Senior outside hitter Tyra Nikkel failed to hit negative — 440 for the match — for the first time in her career.

Connor’s negative .400 for the match, Yeager said her team needed to get mentally prepared for every game, every practice.

“Communication, Iowa needs to know that when we’re practicing its not conference play,” Yeager said.
Iowa is allowing more than 400 yards a game for the first time since 2000.
