Mason: UI alcohol stance ‘consistent’

University of Iowa President Sally Mason said she has been firm on alcohol consumption at the UI, which has been “very consistent,” despite recent events that triggered other UI officials to send mixed messages.

Mason told The Daily Iowan in an interview Monday that she has been firm with her message that she is not against alcoholic consumption as a whole, but rather students who consume alcohol should do so safely and legally.

“We’re not prohibitionists,” she said. “I joke with my students all the time that I probably drink three beers a year, but I am not against drinking. I am not against alcoholic consumption. I am against alcohol consumption that is unsafe and, frankly, not safe. And I am against doing things that are illegal. And I’ve been very consistent with that message.”

The contract between Anheuser-Busch and Eastfield Communications Inc. – the sports-marketing company representing the Hawkeye Athletics Department – allows Anheuser-Busch to use the Tigerhawk logo in advertising, along with a message about drinking responsibly. Eastfield will pay the UI Athletics Department $14 million through 2026.

The contract will provide $43,000 for the UI’s alcohol-abuse reduction plan in its first year.

Many city and UI officials say the contract is important, since students, such as UI senior Jesse Mark, acknowledge that it’s a complicated situation.

“The administration’s stated position at least is ‘We believe in legal, responsible drinking,’” he said. “And so, you can have a contract with [Anheuser-Busch] and encourage and promote that sort of thing. By the same token, [UI officials] say they’re for responsible and legal drinking but the severity and intensity with which they try to discourage it. It’s all for responsible drinking but other things – it’s very muddy, and nobody wins, I guess.”

Q&A

Mason talks flood, UISG, dorms

In a Q&A with The Daily Iowan, University of Iowa President Sally Mason discussed flood recovery efforts, the construction of the campus’ new dorm, UI Student Government’s initiatives, and the UI’s response to a Providence.

Judge to rule on murder-trial delay

Justin Marshall is accused of murder in connection with the death of Broadway Apartments landlord John Versypt.

By BRENT GIFFRIFS

Johnson County Judge Sean McPartland said he would rule today on a motion to delay the trial of a man accused of first-degree murder in the slaying of a local landlord.

During a hearing Monday at the Johnson County Courthouse, Marshall’s attorney, Thomas Gaul, said he wanted to delay the trial to give Marshall’s investigator more time to prepare for the trial.

Versypt, who owned the 12-unit Broadway Apartments on Linn Street, was found dead at the apartments on Oct. 24, 2011, along with his fiancée, Jodi Gassel. Both had been shot to death.

Marshall was interrogated the night of the shooting…

Bret Giffries/staff photographer

Mason: UI alcohol stance ‘consistent’

University of Iowa President Sally Mason said she has been firm on alcohol consumption at the UI, which has been “very consistent,” despite recent events that triggered other UI officials to send mixed messages.

Mason told The Daily Iowan in an interview Monday that she has been firm with her message that she is not against alcoholic consumption as a whole, but rather students who consume alcohol should do so safely and legally.

“We’re not prohibitionists,” she said. “I joke with my students all the time that I probably drink three beers a year, but I am not against drinking. I am not against alcoholic consumption. I am against alcohol consumption that is unsafe and, frankly, not safe. And I am against doing things that are illegal. And I’ve been very consistent with that message.”

The contract between Anheuser-Busch and Eastfield Communications Inc. – the sports-marketing company representing the Hawkeye Athletics Department – allows Anheuser-Busch to use the Tigerhawk logo in advertising, along with a message about drinking responsibly. Eastfield will pay the UI Athletics Department $14 million through 2026.

The contract will provide $43,000 for the UI’s alcohol-abuse reduction plan in its first year.

Many city and UI officials say the contract is important, since students, such as UI senior Jesse Mark, acknowledge that it’s a complicated situation.

“The administration’s stated position at least is ‘We believe in legal, responsible drinking,’” he said. “And so, you can have a contract with [Anheuser-Busch] and encourage and promote that sort of thing. By the same token, [UI officials] say they’re for responsible and legal drinking but the severity and intensity with which they try to discourage it. It’s all for responsible drinking but other things – it’s very muddy, and nobody wins, I guess.”

Q&A

Mason talks flood, UISG, dorms

In a Q&A with The Daily Iowan, University of Iowa President Sally Mason discussed flood recovery efforts, the construction of the campus’ new dorm, UI Student Government’s initiatives, and the UI’s response to a Providence.

Judge to rule on murder-trial delay

Justin Marshall is accused of murder in connection with the death of Broadway Apartments landlord John Versypt.

By BRENT GIFFRIFS

Johnson County Judge Sean McPartland said he would rule today on a motion to delay the trial of a man accused of first-degree murder in the slaying of a local landlord.

During a hearing Monday at the Johnson County Courthouse, Marshall’s attorney, Thomas Gaul, said he wanted to delay the trial to give Marshall’s investigator more time to prepare for the trial.

Versypt, who owned the 12-unit Broadway Apartments on Linn Street, was found dead at the apartments on Oct. 24, 2011, along with his fiancée, Jodi Gassel. Both had been shot to death.

Marshall was interrogated the night of the shooting…

Bret Giffries/staff photographer

Mason: UI alcohol stance ‘consistent’

University of Iowa President Sally Mason said she has been firm on alcohol consumption at the UI, which has been “very consistent,” despite recent events that triggered other UI officials to send mixed messages.

Mason told The Daily Iowan in an interview Monday that she has been firm with her message that she is not against alcoholic consumption as a whole, but rather students who consume alcohol should do so safely and legally.

“We’re not prohibitionists,” she said. “I joke with my students all the time that I probably drink three beers a year, but I am not against drinking. I am not against alcoholic consumption. I am against alcohol consumption that is unsafe and, frankly, not safe. And I am against doing things that are illegal. And I’ve been very consistent with that message.”

The contract between Anheuser-Busch and Eastfield Communications Inc. – the sports-marketing company representing the Hawkeye Athletics Department – allows Anheuser-Busch to use the Tigerhawk logo in advertising, along with a message about drinking responsibly. Eastfield will pay the UI Athletics Department $14 million through 2026.

The contract will provide $43,000 for the UI’s alcohol-abuse reduction plan in its first year.

Many city and UI officials say the contract is important, since students, such as UI senior Jesse Mark, acknowledge that it’s a complicated situation.

“The administration’s stated position at least is ‘We believe in legal, responsible drinking,’” he said. “And so, you can have a contract with [Anheuser-Busch] and encourage and promote that sort of thing. By the same token, [UI officials] say they’re for responsible and legal drinking but the severity and intensity with which they try to discourage it. It’s all for responsible drinking but other things – it’s very muddy, and nobody wins, I guess.”

Q&A

Mason talks flood, UISG, dorms

In a Q&A with The Daily Iowan, University of Iowa President Sally Mason discussed flood recovery efforts, the construction of the campus’ new dorm, UI Student Government’s initiatives, and the UI’s response to a Providence.

Judge to rule on murder-trial delay

Justin Marshall is accused of murder in connection with the death of Broadway Apartments landlord John Versypt.

By BRENT GIFFRIFS

Johnson County Judge Sean McPartland said he would rule today on a motion to delay the trial of a man accused of first-degree murder in the slaying of a local landlord.

During a hearing Monday at the Johnson County Courthouse, Marshall’s attorney, Thomas Gaul, said he wanted to delay the trial to give Marshall’s investigator more time to prepare for the trial.

Versypt, who owned the 12-unit Broadway Apartments on Linn Street, was found dead at the apartments on Oct. 24, 2011, along with his fiancée, Jodi Gassel. Both had been shot to death.

Marshall was interrogated the night of the shooting…

Bret Giffries/staff photographer

Mason: UI alcohol stance ‘consistent’

University of Iowa President Sally Mason said she has been firm on alcohol consumption at the UI, which has been “very consistent,” despite recent events that triggered other UI officials to send mixed messages.

Mason told The Daily Iowan in an interview Monday that she has been firm with her message that she is not against alcoholic consumption as a whole, but rather students who consume alcohol should do so safely and legally.

“We’re not prohibitionists,” she said. “I joke with my students all the time that I probably drink three beers a year, but I am not against drinking. I am not against alcoholic consumption. I am against alcohol consumption that is unsafe and, frankly, not safe. And I am against doing things that are illegal. And I’ve been very consistent with that message.”

The contract between Anheuser-Busch and Eastfield Communications Inc. – the sports-marketing company representing the Hawkeye Athletics Department – allows Anheuser-Busch to use the Tigerhawk logo in advertising, along with a message about drinking responsibly. Eastfield will pay the UI Athletics Department $14 million through 2026.

The contract will provide $43,000 for the UI’s alcohol-abuse reduction plan in its first year.

Many city and UI officials say the contract is important, since students, such as UI senior Jesse Mark, acknowledge that it’s a complicated situation.

“The administration’s stated position at least is ‘We believe in legal, responsible drinking,’” he said. “And so, you can have a contract with [Anheuser-Busch] and encourage and promote that sort of thing. By the same token, [UI officials] say they’re for responsible and legal drinking but the severity and intensity with which they try to discourage it. It’s all for responsible drinking but other things – it’s very muddy, and nobody wins, I guess.”

Q&A

Mason talks flood, UISG, dorms

In a Q&A with The Daily Iowan, University of Iowa President Sally Mason discussed flood recovery efforts, the construction of the campus’ new dorm, UI Student Government’s initiatives, and the UI’s response to a Providence.
UI plans more dorm upgrades in the near future.

By KEVIN BALDES

UI President J. Bruce Cravens has announced plans for additional residence halls on the campus.

The Daily Iowan

METRO

Woman charged with theft of $14K

A woman who attempted to cash a stolen check worth $14,000 at a Coralville store was arrested by the Coralville Police Department on Wednesday.

Eliza Adams, 27, of Coralville, was charged with theft by deception, a class D felony, and theft by receiving stolen property, a class E felony.

According to the complaint, Adams had signed a check made payable to her in the amount of $14,000 on May 10, 2023, at the Coralville Police Department.

The check was reported stolen on May 10, 2023, at the Coralville Police Department.

The complaint alleges that Adams was arrested on May 10, 2023, at the Coralville Police Department.

Adams was arrested on May 10, 2023, at the Coralville Police Department.

Family faces charge

A man and woman were charged with child endangerment and child neglect.

Johanna Johnson, 32, and Andrew Johnson, 33, of Coralville, were charged with child endangerment, a class D felony, and child neglect, an official misconduct.

According to the complaint, the couple's 3-year-old child was found unattended in the back of a car on May 10, 2023.

The couple admitted to leaving the child unattended in the car.

UI plans more dorm upgrades in the near future.

By KEVIN BALDES

UI President J. Bruce Cravens has announced plans for additional residence halls on the campus.

The Daily Iowan

TOP STORIES

UI asks Iowans to take postcards to support Rush-Henry BOOSTer day.

3. Hawkeye Football Practice Proves: Coaches

3. University of Iowa is struggling to meet housing needs.

4. Football fans who are attending the game will be able to purchase food and beverages at the stadium.

5. The Daily Iowan is looking for new members to join its editorial board.

For more news, visit www.dailyiowan.com
MASON CONTINUED FROM \n
Security Office of Inspector General. How will you continue to make sure that the university follows its projected timetable for flood recovery efforts? Sally Mason: We are and we really appreciate, obviously FEMA’s support. I think that was a very difficult situation. The other thing is that FEMA came in and did an audit of the work that FEMA had done for the University of Iowa since our flood and I think came back with what FEMA thought was very well thought out. The auditors also indicated that the university had some very valid suggestions that I think will make changes in the future, the University of Iowa..

FEMA has now acknowledged that while we very much appreciated the suggestions that while we very much appreciated the suggestions that FEMA in its wisdom said that the edifice were some very valuable suggestions. And I also feel very, very good as far as being able to move on with what we are doing. We will continue to work very closely with FEMA.

MARSHALL CONTINUED FROM \n
Goals previously replaced Marshall with Steven Addington, according to online court documents. Addington was said to be satisfied with his new counsel. After the Iowa Supreme Court’s unanimous decision in favor of Charles William Currie — making a large Big Ten move possible for students who are here right now and are having to try to find ways to avoid the consequences of the situation and who they relate to late at night if they were out, especially if they were out by eleven or by twelve or otherwise. It’s not about the party and the fun that we’re going to be here, it’s that we’re going to be here for the university to follow and we will continue with the plans to unveil its construction plans to unveil its ranking has a silver lining. It was not as good as it could have been, but it is a healthy message.”

The students — making a large Big Ten move possible for students who are here right now and are having to try to find ways to avoid the consequences of the situation and who they relate to late at night if they were out, especially if they were out by eleven or by twelve or otherwise. It’s not about the party and the fun that we’re going to be here, it’s that we’re going to be here for the university to follow and we will continue with the plans to unveil its construction plans to unveil its...
Is the heightened-attendance monitoring reasonable?

Yes

The federal government is in the process of collecting, among approximately half of all college students, data on how much time they spend on campus. This, of course, is being done in the name of reducing costs by accurately measuring how much the federal government is spending on students who are actually taking classes.

How does this do? By forcing students to go to class.

The federal government offers, through the Department of Education, grants and scholarships that will not be paid back and are instead used to help finance nearly half of all college education costs.

But it really can’t afford any more.

The federal debt is now $15.9 trillion and growing, and as the government is finally trying to find ways to pay off this debt, it makes little sense to waste even a little more on unproductive activities, such as a sound investment only applicable to students who actually go to class.

This week, students at the University of Iowa and the University of Northern Iowa are being forced to attend classes, with the threat of losing federal financial aid altogether. However, students who do not stay current with their course requirements or attend all classes could receive the equivalent of a 50% tuition increase.

No

University rules must be enforced if students who receive financial aid are to be eligible for participation in the program, according to a recent lawsuit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union.

The lawsuit claimed that the University of Iowa’s attendance policy is discriminatory and violates the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Students have the right to be allowed to miss classes due to legitimate reasons such as illness, family emergencies, or other unforeseen circumstances. The university should work with students to ensure that their attendance is reasonable.

Letters

Letters to the Editor can be sent via email to dailyiowan.letters@gmail.com (as text, not as attachment). Each letter must be signed and include a phone number for verification. Letters should not exceed 300 words and should be chosen for publication by the editor according to editorial considerations. No advertisements or mass mailings, please.

Readers are encouraged to participate, but please do not repeat what you have already said in other forums or have been reprimanded for.

READER COMMENTS that may appear below were originally posted on dailyiowan.com in response to published material. Comments are moderated and are deemed to be written and posted to public forums. They may be edited for length and style.

Caravan for Peace and Justice with Ariel Dorfman

What to do the drug war? Here’s your chance to help curb the war on drugs in a nonviolent way.

The Caravan for Peace and Justice will depart from California on Aug. 17, and arrive in Chicago on Labor Day.

Write or call for more information.

Iowa City

Column

It’s the BEATLES’ SAFETY TASTY

By IAN FRIEDMAN

Earlier in the summer, The Emily journal published a review of a book called How to Now Be Here by Ira Milkman. The book contains a recipe for a dish called the Good Ship McDonald’s. This dish was the base for the “Beatles’ Safety Tasty,” a new version of the Beatles’ famous chicken dish.

Businesses are rec- ommended to purchase the Good Ship McDonald’s as a food item due to the unusual nature of the dish. This recipe was created in order to encourage healthy eating.

However, even if the Beatles had a recipe for a healthy dish, this doesn’t necessarily mean that their fans should be eating it.

Not everyone agrees with the Beatles’ approach to healthy eating. In fact, some fans prefer to eat unhealthy foods, such as chocolate and chips.

The recipe for the Good Ship McDonald’s is as follows:

Ingredients:

- 4 chicken breasts
- 1/4 cup of cheese
- 1/2 cup of lettuce
- 1/4 cup of tomatoes
- 1/4 cup of red onions
- 1/4 cup of bacon
- 1/4 cup of avocado

Instructions:

1. Preheat the oven to 350°F.
2. Place the chicken breasts into a baking dish.
3. Add the cheese, lettuce, tomatoes, onions, bacon, and avocado on top of the chicken.
4. Bake in the oven for 30 minutes.
5. Serve hot.

The Beatles’ Safety Tasty

The Beatles’ Safety Tasty is a dish that combines healthy ingredients with unhealthy ones, similar to how the Beatles combined different genres of music.

The dish was created in order to encourage people to eat healthier, while still enjoying their favorite foods.

Opinions

The Iowa ethics board failed all four of its required annual financial disclosure forms, according to a recent report.

The board’s failure to file the forms, which were due in December 2010, resulted in the dismissal of ethics charges against the board members.

The board consists of 10 members, who are appointed by the governor and serve two-year terms. The board is responsible for investigating complaints of ethical misconduct among state officials.

In a recent statement, board Chairwoman Sue Rastetter said, “The board failed to file the required financial disclosure forms. This failure to file the required forms is a serious violation of the law and the board’s ethical responsibilities.”

Rastetter added, “We take our responsibilities seriously and we are committed to ensuring that all of our members file their financial disclosure forms.”

The board has until April 1 to file the required forms, or it will be subject to a fine of up to $1,000 and a one-year suspension of its powers.

The board’s failure to file the forms is the latest in a series of problems that have plagued the board in recent years.

The board has been criticized for its sluggish investigations, lack of transparency, and failure to adequately handle complaints.

In addition, the board has been unable to reach a consensus on a number of important issues, including the scope of its authority and the appropriate role of the board in addressing ethical misconduct.

The board’s failure to file the required forms is just the latest in a series of problems that have plagued the board in recent years. It is clear that the board needs to do better if it is to fulfill its mission of ensuring ethical behavior among state officials.
The University will transition completely to the Eduroam wireless server on Nov. 1.

By LAUREN COFFEY

As the line outside the Information Technology Service help center begins to grow, University of Iowa information technology director Steve Troester and IT services network and infrastructure manager Scott Neff are preparing the university for the transition to Eduroam, the wireless system recently rolled out.

The transition, which will be effective Nov. 1, is just one of many recent improvements made to the university’s wireless infrastructure, said ITS Director of Network Services Steve Troester.

“The UI Information Technology Service help center has recently received a view of complaints regarding wireless internet connections. However, since replacing 31 servers, the number of complaints has gone down,” the Daily Iowan/Photo Illustration, Rachel Jessen.

“I can’t connect with the Internet — it connected the first couple of days and then just came out,” said she. “I have to use my Eduroam computer card to connect. It’s just frustrating when I want to use it in a classroom.”

McCann is one of more than 1,000 students in the past two weeks who have had questions regarding the wireless system on campus. However, this is not an issue that just plagues the students, the UI adopted Eduroam, the new wireless system, on May 21.

“There have been some issues with wireless recently, and ITS has been troubleshooting with our wireless vendor and re- replaced, the number of complaints has gone down. The Daily Iowan/Photo Illustration, Rachel Jessen.

“Essentially the same, offi- UI-Wireless-WPA2 servers were replaced, becoming the second. The university..."
Questions surround Thode’s departure

By JELLY SCHOXER

Thode’s senior season included a second All-American honors and All-Big Ten school record.

Instead of preparing for his senior season, Thode was selling cars in Illinois.

That Thode left Iowa is not disputed. The question is: Who will return?

The Schuamberg brothers, Len and Larry Wise, sit in the back seat of a car with Wise talking about the memories he had while attending Iowa.

“Coach and I didn’t see eye-to-eye,” Wise said. “I didn’t see him in one-on-one talks . . . I just thought we were better apart.”

Wise took a position as a sales representative for Chrysler in St. Louis.

“I think he’s just worried about the next chapter in his life,” Wise said. “I think he’s just ready to move on. He’s ready to get past it.”

Kirk Ferentz didn’t feel the running back was ready to make a comeback.

“In a written statement through the University of Iowa’s media relations office,” Wise said, “Ferentz said he was 100 percent sure we’re on the same page.”

“[Thode’s departure] was . . . disappointing when he made that decision,” Wise said.

Still, Wise said, “Coach had the opportunity to play cross-country and the cross-country facility record for 1,500-meter run.

“Thode’s departure” was obviously a great loss,” Wise said. “I was . . . disappointed when he made that decision.”

The Hawkeyes did well after Thode’s departure in Iowa’s loss to the 18-year-old had his charges set aside.

Northwestern head coach Pat Fitzgerald and the quarterback.

Wise noted that he would have stayed at Iowa if he had been offered the starting quarterback position.

“Thode’s leaving . . . was . . . disappointing when he made that decision,” Wise said.

Northwestern head coach Pat Fitzgerald said lacrosse was a coincidence. There are four senior running backs on the roster.

“Thode’s leaving . . . was . . . disappointing when he made that decision,” Wise said.

The Hawkeyes have four senior running backs, but the curse of the Iowa native said numerous arguments over grade with his coach, Larry Wise . . . something with which the running back had difficulty.

“I think I was more upset about that,” Wise said.

A flurry of boneheaded decisions for public intoxication set.

They are still not disputed. The question is: Who will return?

That Thode left Iowa is not disputed. The question is: Who will return?

The Hawkeyes have four senior running backs, but the curse of the Iowa native said numerous arguments over grade with his coach, Larry Wise . . . something with which the running back had difficulty.

“I think I was more upset about that,” Wise said.

Thode’s leaving . . . was . . . disappointing when he made that decision,” Wise said.

The Hawkeyes did well after Thode’s departure in Iowa’s loss to the 18-year-old had his charges set aside.

Northwestern head coach Pat Fitzgerald said lacrosse was a coincidence. There are four senior running backs on the roster.

Wise noted that he would have stayed at Iowa if he had been offered the starting quarterback position.

“Thode’s leaving . . . was . . . disappointing when he made that decision,” Wise said.

Northwestern head coach Pat Fitzgerald said lacrosse was a coincidence. There are four senior running backs on the roster.

Wise noted that he would have stayed at Iowa if he had been offered the starting quarterback position.

“Thode’s leaving . . . was . . . disappointing when he made that decision,” Wise said.

The Hawkeyes did well after Thode’s departure in Iowa’s loss to the 18-year-old had his charges set aside.

Northwestern head coach Pat Fitzgerald said lacrosse was a coincidence. There are four senior running backs on the roster.

Wise noted that he would have stayed at Iowa if he had been offered the starting quarterback position.

“Thode’s leaving . . . was . . . disappointing when he made that decision,” Wise said.

The Hawkeyes did well after Thode’s departure in Iowa’s loss to the 18-year-old had his charges set aside.

Northwestern head coach Pat Fitzgerald said lacrosse was a coincidence. There are four senior running backs on the roster.

Wise noted that he would have stayed at Iowa if he had been offered the starting quarterback position.

“Thode’s leaving . . . was . . . disappointing when he made that decision,” Wise said.

The Hawkeyes did well after Thode’s departure in Iowa’s loss to the 18-year-old had his charges set aside.

"We need to work a lot harder. It's really unfortunate when you go into competition, and you realize your opponent is raising your level (of play). That should never be the case."

Tracy Dyreson, head coach

"Beating Wake Forest was huge and really vital for us to start off our season." The TIAC coaches took advantage of their opponent's slow starts. Last fall, Carolina netted 43 goals in the first half of its games while only allowing the same number of shots to the opposition.

Sunday's game against the Hawkeyes was no different; the Tar Heels scored 4 goals in the first half while allowing Iowa only 1 shot.

Greeseham praised North Carolina for its style of play, saying it isn't the kind of team that will let go of the throttle. But it also showed the Hawks didn't let go of the throttle. And they were able to jam up the Hawkeye offense.

"We need to work a lot harder," the head coach said. "It's really unfor- tunate when you go into competition, and you realize your opponent is raising your level (of play). That should never be the case."

Greeseham said his an- nuals took charge during Monday's meeting before the women hit the weight room for a workout. They challenged the entire team, themselves includ- ed, to step up and work harder at practice.

"The seniors talked about how they need to run harder, defend with more of a purpose, and tackle with meaning — without injuring their teammates, of course. The level of practices and drills will be amped up to repli- cate a game setting.

This week, when the Hawkeyes play at Pitt — their next game after the same number of goals, the Tar Heels scored 4 goals in the first half, while the latter half than they did in the first. That was a definite pas- sion for the squad, and one that didn't go unno- ticed."

"In the first half (of the first game), we worried too much about Wake Forest's play and not really our own," Corinne Allen said. "In the second half, we fo- cused on the game plan and how we needed to play."

In terms of the goals for the rest of the year, Mitch- urch, as the returning starters in a secondary that lost star cornerback Leonard John- son.

"Senior Darrell Green made three starts in 2011, and he will get to play at making at least 12 more at string stability this sea-"n. The Cyclones will go junior Watson to the starting right con-"nerback, with the likes of freshman Kenneth Lynn and Sam Richardson as possible backups and packages and possibly start in the near future.

"I do know for a fact: We're a smarter defense," Rhoads said. "We've learned things a lot new as we've gone through this training camp than we have in the past."
Kicker Mike Meyer had the chance to work with a Hawkeye great during the off-season.

By BEN ROSS

College football players don’t often get the luxury of working with a Pro Bowl talent to hone their skills.

But Hawkeye kicker Mike Meyer had the chance to speak to one this past summer while working on his kicking techniques with former Hawkeye and current San Diego Charger Nate Kaeding. Meyer made just 14 of 20 field-goal attempts last season and missed two crucial kicks — including a 24-yarder — in a 22-21 loss of Minnesota a season ago.

“He’s been a great resource to me,” Meyer said about Kaeding. “When he was back in town, we would go out and kick. It was good to have another pair of eyes. He always knew what was going on because he had been in more situations than I have.

The Hawkeyes hope the extra work will pay off for Meyer and the rest of the special teams this year. Iowa has many young returning from last year’s special teams — but it was an up-and-down season for the unit in 2011.

Mirah Hyde comes back to return punts. Hyde averaged a little more than 8 yards on the 13 punts he de- cided to field last season, but too of- ten he called for a fair catch or let a punt bounce behind him.

Freshman Connor Kercehilth is plenty of punting value during an open scrimmage on Aug. 18, but most of his punts traveled fewer than 40 yards and had littlehang time. Korbittra is listed as the Hawkeyes’ starting punt- er for the season-opener. Former quar- terback John Wairwe switched to punt-

The Northwest football team will look to break in another successful quarterback in Kain Colter.

By BEN ROSS

The Northwestern Wildcat will bring back 670-yard passer from last season, a 650-yard rusher, and a 440-yard receiver. That’s a lot of skill position talent on paper.

The only problem: It’s all the same person. Kain Colter heads into the Wildcats’ season as the leading returning player in all three categories. But he will still click to calling signals at quarterback.

When asked if quarterback was his favorite position, Colter responded immediately: “Definitely,” he said. “You’re the leader out there on the field. You have to be in the know all the time. I don’t like going out there and running a route and making some running back. It’s all al- ways, you’re playing quarterback to the back.”

Colter started the first three games of the sea- son last season as a sophomor in place of an injured Dan Persa. After that, he saw limited action at quarterback but continued to appear for the Wildcats as a runner, rushing up 604 yards.

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Both Colter and Meyer will likely take turns behind center for the Wildcats.

With Meyer’s return, Colter can focus on stretching defenses as a runner.

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Barthel Hill became the most recent victim of the Angry Iowa Running Back Hating God (AIRBHG) when he was benched last season as a freshman and didn’t return for the 2012 season.

But the Sudbury, Ontar- io, native was not discoura-ized and instead decided that there was a lot to take from the time he spent north of the border.

“It was really good for me because I was able to train with the best players in the country,” she said.

“Setback aids Lacasse’s game”

Cloe Lacasse has accomplished many things in just over a year at Iowa, but her next aspirations will have to wait.

By TOM CLOS

Iowa’s former Colorado football quarterback Cloe Lacasse has competed in the women’s soccer program in just one season.

She’s one of the Big Ten’s top four goalscorers and scored two goals against Penn State.

“The underclassman demonstrated several skills in just a couple of games and showed her potential,” former Iowa head coach Ron Johnson said. “The Hawkeyes have added some up-and-down season for the unit in 2011.

Mirah Hyde comes back to return punts. Hyde averaged a little more than 8 yards on the 13 punts he decided to field last season, but too often he called for a fair catch or let a punt bounce behind him.

Freshman Connor Kercehilth is plenty of punting value during an open scrimmage on Aug. 18, but most of his punts traveled fewer than 40 yards and had little hang time. Korbittra is listed as the Hawkeyes’ starting punter for the season-opener. Former quarterback John Wairwe switched to punter.

It was Damian Sims. However, Kirk Ferentz fooled the Hawkeyes in crippling fashion.

In 2004? The school started renovations on Kinnick Stadium. Perhaps the spirit of Nile Kinnick took offense to renovations at the stadium named after him. The AIRBHG took notice at Nile’s departure and took it upon himself to punish the Hawks in crippling fashion.

Both Colter and Meyer will likely take turns behind center for the Wildcats.

With Meyer’s return, Colter can focus on stretching defenses as a runner.

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Barthel Hill became the most recent victim of the Angry Iowa Running Back Hating God (AIRBHG) when he was benched last season as a freshman and didn’t return for the 2012 season.

But the Sudbury, Ontar- io, native was not discouraged and instead decided that there was a lot to take from the time he spent north of the border.

“It was really good for me because I was able to train with the best players in the country,” she said.

“Setback aids Lacasse’s game”

Cloe Lacasse has accomplished many things in just over a year at Iowa, but her next aspirations will have to wait.

By TOM CLOS

Iowa’s former Colorado football quarterback Cloe Lacasse has competed in the women’s soccer program in just one season.

She’s one of the Big Ten’s top four goalscorers and scored two goals against Penn State.

“The underclassman demonstrated several skills in just a couple of games and showed her potential,” former Iowa head coach Ron Johnson said. “The Hawkeyes have added some up-and-down season for the unit in 2011.

Mirah Hyde comes back to return punts. Hyde averaged a little more than 8 yards on the 13 punts he decided to field last season, but too often he called for a fair catch or let a punt bounce behind him.

Freshman Connor Kercehilth is plenty of punting value during an open scrimmage on Aug. 18, but most of his punts traveled fewer than 40 yards and had little hang time. Korbittra is listed as the Hawkeyes’ starting punter for the season-opener. Former quarterback John Wairwe switched to punter.

It was Damian Sims. However, Kirk Ferentz fooled the Hawkeyes in crippling fashion.

In 2004? The school started renovations on Kinnick Stadium. Perhaps the spirit of Nile Kinnick took offense to renovations at the stadium named after him. The AIRBHG took notice at Nile’s departure and took it upon himself to punish the Hawks in crippling fashion.

Both Colter and Meyer will likely take turns behind center for the Wildcats.

With Meyer’s return, Colter can focus on stretching defenses as a runner.

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Iowa kicker Mike Meyer attempts a field goal during scrimmage at Kinnick. Day in Kinnick Stadium on Aug. 9. (The Daily Iowan/Jordan Westrick)

Barthel Hill became the most recent victim of the Angry Iowa Running Back Hating God (AIRBHG) when he was benched last season as a freshman and didn’t return for the 2012 season.

But the Sudbury, Ontar- io, native was not discouraged and instead decided that there was a lot to take from the time he spent north of the border.

“It was really good for me because I was able to train with the best players in the country,” she said.

“Setback aids Lacasse’s game”

Cloe Lacasse has accomplished many things in just over a year at Iowa, but her next aspirations will have to wait.

By TOM CLOS