Jury selected in sex-assault trial

The jury has been selected in the trial of a former assistant of Iowa State University’s former director of sexual assault and violence prevention.

Dr. Pauli enjoys being a member of the Iowa State University community. She said the trial is important for both the university and the community.

"This is a really important trial for both the university and the community," Dr. Pauli said. "It’s important for us to hold ourselves accountable and to do what’s right for our students and community members."

FEMA allocates funds for floodwater

FEMA has allocated funds to help with the cleanup of flood water. The department is working with local governments to ensure that the funds are distributed in a timely manner.

Man pleads guilty to several charges

A man has been charged with several crimes, including theft and possession of a firearm. He was sentenced to serve 15 years in prison for the crimes.

Blotter

Taylor Johnson, 18, Waukee, was charged with possession of marijuana with the intent to distribute.

Bendall, 14, of Altoona, was charged with burglary.

Morgan, 17, of Bondurant, was charged with theft.

Light the Night saves bileres

As a bicyclist, she said, "I believe in the power of bicycle-riding because it makes you aware of your surroundings and encourages you to slow down and enjoy the beauty of what you see."

Amarillo Newton, 18, of Clinton, was charged with theft.

North Liberty Mayor Tomфаll and North Liberty City Councilman Skiba have praised the progress made in the city’s downtown area.

"We’re really grateful for the work that’s being done, and we appreciate the city’s commitment to its downtown area," Mayor Tomfaall said. "We’re happy to see the progress that’s being made, and we’re looking forward to seeing even more positive changes in the future."

“To put this in perspective. This levee is something I think is consistent with long-term flood-mitigation protection strategy that the city has pursued in the past four and a half years,” he said.

Though the resolution was ultimately shot down, Hayek proposed a follow-up resolution to explore other methods of dealing with flooding for such areas as Edlyfield, and City Councilor Jim Throgmorton expressed interest in finding other avenues for the federal grant.

“We should identify alternative uses of [Block grant] funds to benefit low-to moderate-income households,” he said. “The levee would be an inappropriate use of those funds.”

“We have to think about the impact it has on other people in other areas; the minute you put up a levee, it affects other people.”

While the class is currently limited to Honors students, Winet said he hopes the class will be able to incorporate all students in the near future. “When we’re able to fully implement the class, we’re hoping to have as many as 650 students in the class,” he said.

According to the ISHS website, there are currently more than 30 students enrolled in the course as of Tuesday evening.

A study to be published in the December edition of the American Journal of Public Health has found that the rate of telemedicine abortions in Iowa has not increased the state’s abortion rate, despite expanding access to such procedures in much of rural Iowa. Researchers at Washington University in St. Louis found that the availability of telemedicine has decreased the likelihood of second-trimester abortion and improved access to abortion services for women living more than 50 miles from a clinic offering in-person abortion services.

These findings point to an important theme emerging in the research surrounding abortion rates: access to reproductive health services is associated with decreased abortion rates. Studies across the nation have shown that making abortion services more readily available decreases abortion rates. It’s logical that if women have access to abortion services, they are less likely to seek them.

Iowa City City Council passed taxi regulations

By NICK HASSLET

The Iowa City City Council moved forward with an amendment to city regulations regarding taxis, despite opposition from several small taxi companies and the Iowa City/Coralville Taxi Association.

The council voted 7-0 in favor of the ordinance in its first consideration, which would require cab companies to have a dispatch office within the City of Iowa City or Coralville and that each company’s taxis must have a distinctive color scheme.

Several members of the public spoke out against the proposal, including local taxi operator Don Nelson.

“Anything that we can do to make cab companies more professional would be good,” said Roger Bradley, manager of Yellow Cab in Iowa City.

“We should contact and speak with individuals that are required to obtain a license on a certain date for when taxicabs must begin operating,” said Gillig.

Hayek said overall he was concerned that the amendment would be anticompetitive.

Roger Bradley, the manager of Yellow Cab in Iowa City, said the amendment was necessary for consistency and improvements on what the city staff maintained.

“I can better plan their annual budgets if they get their funds at the beginning of the year so they can maintain,” said Gillig during the meeting.

“We should do that,” he said. “That’s what we were talking about yesterday, that’s what we should do.”

Several other taxi drivers and representatives spoke during public discussion of the amendment, saying the amendment would be anticompetitive and that the changes proposed would be largely unnecessary.

“However, not all taxi companies were opposed to the amendment,” said Gillig.

“Collaboratively fund- ing should not necessarily get more money,” said members of the Hawks Nest present at the meeting.

Michigan beats back N.C. State rally

By NOAH TRISTER
Associated Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Trey Burke had 18 points and 11 assists, and No. 3 Michigan held off a late rally by No. 18 North Carolina State in a 79-72 victory Tuesday night.

Freshman Nik Stauskas led the Wolverines (6-0) with 20 points, and Tim Hardaway Jr. added 16, but Burke controlled the game, equalling his previous career high of 9 assists in the first half and going the whole game without a turnover.

North Carolina State (4-2) trailed 73-58 before going on a 10-0 run capped by T.J. Warren's lay-up with 2:11 remaining. Burke answered with a driving three-point play.

It was 75-70 when the Wolfpack forced a turnover and called a timeout with 2:30 to play, but Burke was called for a foul on the foul shot.

Leslie appeared to swing his left arm a bit while backing down against Michigan's Mitch McGary. Warren was called for his fourth foul with 1:30 remaining.

The Wolverines made 11 of 24 free throws. N.C. State shot 57 percent from the field but lost its fifth straight game in the ACC-Big Ten challenge.

Michigan led 45-40 after Burke's testing dunk early in the second half. The Wolverines answered with a 13-0 run capped by Glenn Robinson III, whose dunk popped out of the basket moments before dropping in.

Michigan methodically built its lead into double digits and led 62-48 after Stauskas made a 3-pointer from the right wing.

It was 73-58 before N.C. State made a game of it down the stretch.
The Hawkeyes were dealt a New less than two months to the contest in Iowa City.

Green, the reigning ACC Player of the Week, led Virginia Tech with 16 points and 6 rebounds, and sophomore guard Erick Green (11) laid up the ball through a gap in the Iowa defense. The Hokies moved to 6-0 with the win. They have not lost a game to reach double figures and are top-25 quality, giving them a shot at the national championship.

The Hawkeyes looked like anything but one of the top 25 teams this season. Iowa is valid, such as the idea of a national championship. The Hawks second-year head coach Fran McCaffery said the team doesn’t have Evans ranked seventh at 174 pounds.

“His explosion,” he said. “Now, he’s going to have to be more disciplined. It’s going to have to be more introspective.”

The Hawkeyes problems relate to a sport with staggered in said sport. It’s going to have to be more introspective.

And Tuesday night, after cleaning up his season, he has Evans ranked seventh at 174 pounds.

Ferentz: ‘Lot of work to do’

The Daily Iowan looks ahead to Iowa football in 2013.

By SAN LOURDI
sarunsaupe@gmail.com

Kirk Ferentz is confident better days are ahead for his program.

After Iowa’s season ended with a loss to Nebraska on Nov. 23, the Iowa football coach said he was confident the Hawkeyes would improve on their 4-6 record.

“Our players start with that,” Ferentz said. “We’ve got some good players on our football team. There’s no reason we can’t be successful. We fully realize we have a lot of work to do right now.”

The Daily Iowan takes an early look at how the Hawkeyes roster might shape up in 2013.

Quarterback

“One thing for sure, whoever wins the job will be inexperienced,” Ferentz said. “We think we have those guys on campus who all have the potential to be good players. Now the competition begins.”

That competition is among redshirt freshman Jake Rudock, junior college transfer Cody Sokol, and true freshman C.J. Beathard. None of them saw a snap this season — senior James Vandenberg played every down on offense. The likely frontrunner for the job is now in Buckhead, who held the No. 2 spot on the depth chart all season. Vandenberg and Rudock have been “groomed for two years,” Ferentz said. “We think we have three guys on campus with tremendous ability.”

Rudock has been “groomed for two years” for the job, and he does have impressive credentials. Rudock ran in the top 20 nationally in passing yardage in 2011. He led his high-school team to an unbeaten season and a Florida state championship as a senior, winning South Florida player of the year honors from the South Florida Sun-Sentinel.

Running backs

Iowa had a productive sophomore back this season. But the two never shared a backfield together, as they continually swapped spots on the injured list and the starting lineup.

Mark Weisman and Damon Bullock should both theoretically be back next season, and they would make for a nice one-two punch at running back.

Receivers

This position might get a little thin next year, as Keenan Dorsey graduates and leaves sophomore Kevonte Martin-Manley as the only consistent proven target. Junior Jordan Cotton will have to step up to provide a deep threat, and true freshman Tevaun Smith saw a few snaps of action this year.

Tight end C.J. Fiedorowicz should also be back after a strong finish to his junior season, and he said he knows Iowa’s pass-catchers need to make more big plays next year.

Tackle C.J. Fiedorowicz should also be back after a strong finish to his junior season, and he said he knows Iowa's pass-catchers need to make more big plays next year.

Defensive end: The likely frontrunner for the job is now in Buckhead, who held the No. 2 spot on the depth chart all season. Vandenberg and Rudock have been “groomed for two years,” Ferentz said. “We think we have three guys on campus with tremendous ability.”

Receivers

This position might get a little thin next year, as Keenan Dorsey graduates and leaves sophomore Kevonte Martin-Manley as the only consistent proven target. Junior Jordan Cotton will have to step up to provide a deep threat, and true freshman Tevaun Smith saw a few snaps of action this year.
