It is 1963, and a hushed crowd huddles in front of the Old Capitol. One young man leaves the crowd and approaches the tall wooden door beneath the gold dome — Michael Carver, University of Iowa’s student body president. He plants a large circular wreath on top of the steps. Tears fill his eyes, and he’s not alone.
The city, and the country, had come together to honor and grieve
a man who transcended party lines, race, and age: President John F. Kennedy.

Fifty years later, Carver is still emotional as he speaks of Kenney. “It was a tough period; we all had to make a little personal adjustment in our lives,” he said, pausing momentarily. “It was emotional for everyone, to think our president was gone. It was certainly something I’ll never forget. Everyone remembers where they were for 11/19 and everyone remembers the same thing with this.”

Kennedy was in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, where he was assassinated by Lee Harvey Oswald during a parade. Kennedy was the 35th president of the United States and was the youngest president elected to office. “I heard the news, and I went to the Daily Io-an offices right away,” said Dean Mills, now the dean of the University of Missouri Journalism School. “I was lucky to be a news reporter at the time. O f t h e r than [we] being there.”

Supervisors reach agreement on bridge

The San Juan County Supervisors reached an agreement on a bridge plan at their meeting on Tuesday. The supervisors met in the county's meeting room in Blanding to discuss the proposed bridge plan. The meeting was well-attended, with many residents from the area in attendance. The supervisors were able to come to a consensus on the bridge plan, which will be constructed in the future. The bridge plan includes several key features, such as increased accessibility and improved safety. The supervisors were pleased with the outcome of the meeting and expect the bridge to be completed soon. The public was also pleased with the outcome of the meeting and expressed their support for the new bridge. The supervisors are confident that the new bridge will be a valuable asset to the community, providing increased accessibility and safety to those who use it.

The Decline of Facebook

By Mark Twain

In the last few years Facebook has lost many of its early fans. The site was once the social network of choice for many, but now it is losing its luster. Facebook is no longer the place to connect with friends and family, but rather a place to connect with strangers.

Facebook's Future

Facebook is facing a number of challenges as it continues to grow. The site is becoming less popular among younger users, who are turning to other social media platforms. Facebook is also facing competition from other social media platforms, such as Instagram and Snapchat.

Facebook's Response

Facebook is trying to address these challenges by introducing new features and improving its user experience. The company is also working to attract more advertisers, who are increasingly shifting their spending to other platforms.

Since the family has made stops in Uganda, Ranya, before eventually winding up in Des Moines in 2003.

Tonight, the Joks’ unlikeliest journey to the United States will find its way to a Carver-Hawkeye Arena, when Dau Jok’s Pennsylvania squad will square off against Peter Jok and the Hawkeyes.

“Their strong edge is a testament to how far we’ve come,” Dau Jok said. “It will be a proud moment.”

“I never thought I’d play. I never thought the university would have the opportunity to try to use me as a basketball player or whatever,” he said. “It’s made it much easier for people to see that whatever our game is, we’re going to play my game.”

While the family has started out as just a little basketball, the kids would have no idea how to stop it. The kids would play basketball or whatever they were interested in, didn’t know how to stop it, just proved other people wrong. We came here, didn’t know how to play basketball just to prove other people wrong.

What I’ve tried to do is gauge how he’s approached [it]. He’s had the opportunity to be a little guard Devyn Marble. Penn is our next opponent. I don’t want to have any mishaps this early in the season, so each game is just as important as the next. I’m not looking forward to any of those games and I don’t think the team is either.

aries (March 21-April 19): Take criticism gracefully. It may not be welcome, but it will probably help you figure out what you should do next. An emotional situation regarding money can be worked out if you base your negotiations on equality and fairness.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Make preparations at home that will add to your comfort or make your premises ready for a photoshoot. Dealing with family dynamics will put you in a step position. Your concerns will be addressed and a conflict can offer guidance. Do your best to expand your interests and financial possibilities.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): The last-minute changes you make won't please everyone, but it will ensure future harmony. False information that someone gives pertaining to your status will set you back, but letting anger get the better of you will only make matters worse.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Add a touch of flair to whatever you do. Taking a step outside your comfort zone will prove to be exciting. You will attract attention that will help you make progress on whatever you want to pursue. Put romance first, and it will improve your life.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Leap to safety if someone tries to manipulate you using emotional blackmail. Take any opportunity to travel, or socialize with people who can offer guidance. Do your best to expand your interests and financial possibilities.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Listen and learn from the observations you make. Preparation will be the precondition to capture whatever you pursue. A change in the way you do things will catch competitors off guard. Love is in your corner.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A problem you face must be handled with diplomacy. Overreacting will create an uneasy situation. Find out what's at the root of the problem, and make decisions to ease a stressful situation before it spins out of control.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Check out different philosophies or ways of being, and you will find peace of mind. Come up with a plan that is conducive to forming better relationships and helping you at what you enjoy doing the most. Put love and romance first.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Do not judge your feelings. What happens will be dependent on how others perceive you. It is important to complete any alterations in the confines of your personal space. Finish what you start before you present it, and it will improve your life.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Set your goals high, and strive to reach them before you take a break. What you accomplish now will determine how much you will enjoy your time off. Partnerships will bring greater opportunities to corner your audience.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Find out information firsthand. You'll be surprised if you trust what someone tells you. Your fortune depends on how you handle your workload, expenses, and cash flow. A job change or promotion won't line up with your expectations.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Take pride in what you do. People, plans, and pastimes will help you make a decision. Attend a meeting, or contact old friends. An agreement or settlement can be reached. Relaxing memories will give you a better idea of what you want to pursue next.

IOWA HEADS TO NORTHERN IOWA

The Iowa women’s volleyball team will continue its road trip when it travels to Cedar Falls on Nov. 24 to take on Northern Iowa.

The Hawkeyes are 1-12 in the conference and have a record of 6-19. Northern Iowa has entered into a losing streak of 2-2.

The game will be the second of a game split and to clinch the season, Iowa will need to win both. Iowa has the edge in dominating numbers with the Hawkeyes playing in the games.

The game against Northern Iowa is not to be ignored as it is a key match for the Big Ten title.

No. 1 Penn State, No. 3 Minnesota, and No. 5 Oklahoma State will all wrestle No. 2 Iowa in Carver-Hawkeye Arena this season.

Penn State, Iowa, Minnesota, and Oklahoma State are among the top-five teams in the country, according to InsideTrack. This season, the Hawkeyes got all three opposing squads in Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

Penn State will be in Iowa City on Dec. 21, with Oklahoma State next on the bill on Jan. 10, followed by Minnesota Jan. 20.

But for the Hawkeyes grappling, the dual that wasn’t on the original 2013-14 schedule, the one against last year’s national champions, has drawn the most hype — especially for 2013 NCAA 133-pound runner-up Tony Ramos.

“It’s awesome, it’s good for the sport,” Ramos said of the team’s media day on Nov. 6. “We got Penn State and got it done … It’s good for people — how are you not going to enjoy that? So, let’s go; let’s just dominate and take them to the next level with his pin over Conaway, is expecting the crowd to the next level with his pin over Conaway, is expecting the Black and Gold faithful not to be disappointed.

“It’s exciting; we draw in big crowds, people want to see good wrestling, you’re going to find good wrestling when you come to Carver-Hawkeye Arena.”

And Ramos, the man who brought the crowd to the next level with his pin over Conaway, is expecting the Black and Gold faithful not to be disappointed.

“It’s exciting; we draw in big crowds, people want to see good wrestling, you’re going to find good wrestling when you come to Carver-Hawkeye Arena.”

And Ramos, the man who brought the crowd to the next level with his pin over Conaway, is expecting the Black and Gold faithful not to be disappointed.

Big Ten Wrestling Power Rankings

1. Penn State — It’s hard to dethrone the three-time defending national champion this early. The Nittany Lions had just five All-Americans last year, but all five finished either first or second in the country, and all but one will return to the lineup this year. Don’t look for much of the Nittany Lions to flop at the NCAA’s come March, either, which means they’ll score even more bonus points. Oy.

2. Iowa — On paper, the Hawkeyes could run the table again in Big Ten duals. But what’s going to hold them back is Penn State’s ability to score bonus points in tournaments. The Hawkeyes is going to need some surprises this year at a few weights if they want to topple Penn State for the national title.

3. Minnesota — The Gophers are always tough, and they will be again this season. Realistically, there’s an argument to be made that Minnesota should be No. 2 and Iowa No. 3 in the Big Ten. This may change as the season progresses, but don’t expect the Gophers to roll over because the ranking says they should.

4. Wisconsin — The Badgers will be the Big Ten’s dark horse team. The Badgers certainly have the talent to be dangerous this season, but some guys lack experience. Expect this team to learn a bunch as the season goes on.

5. Nebraska — Nebraska will be deep this season, but it’s hard to see the Cornhuskers any better than a middle-of-the-pack team, right now. But the rest of the conference, they do have some studs, though. One of them especially will make more than give Iowa’s Denver St. John some scares.

6. Ohio State — The Buckeyes could also be a dark horse team this season. It seems that Hunter Stieber is taking his redshirt and is much more bonus points. Oy.

7. Illinois — This could be one of the last years the Illini are in the back half of the Big Ten. They’ve picked up a few blue-chip recruits who will make an immediate impact once they set foot on campus in a few years. Until then, Illinois wrestling fans will just have to settle for the early Jesse Delgado.

8. Michigan — Too many holes in this lineup for the Wolverines to be competitive. They’ll have some standouts, though. Keep an eye out for Eric Grajales, Taylor Massa, and Ross Bullock. Fun fact: Grajales was once the second-most sought-after recruit behind, you guessed it, Penn State’s David Taylor.

9. Northwestern — Just as what was said of Michigan, Northwestern will have some studs at a few weights. Those studs have the chance to be really, really good this season. Realistically, there’s an argument for the Wildcats to be competitive. They’ll have some standouts, though. Keep an eye out for Eric Grajales, Taylor Massa, and Ross Bullock. Fun fact: Grajales was once the second-most sought-after recruit behind, you guessed it, Penn State’s David Taylor.

10. Indiana — Indiana has had just four wrestlers reach All-American status since 2008. This year’s team doesn’t pose too much of a threat to anybody above Illinois. Another fun fact: Joe Dubuque, a former Hoosier grappler, was the last 125-pounder to win back-to-back national titles back in 2003 and 2004.

11. Michigan State — Sparty was in the Big Ten basement last season, so it shows no indication that it will climb out anytime soon. We’ll put it this way: Since 2010, Matt McDonough has more than 12 All-Americans on the Michigan State wrestling team since 2010. Other teams the Big Ten basement.

12. Purdue — Fifty-three wrestlers from different weights and weights have reached All-American status in the history of the program. Now, this year, Purdue has the talent to be a dark horse team.
