Lawmakers see University of Iowa research firsthand

By RACHEL GREEN
lawrene@uiowa.edu

From the semitrailer truck cab centered in the big white contraption, Rep. Dean Fisher, R-Garwin, peered at the brightly colored projections encircling him, which acted as “distractors” during a driving simulation. Fisher was in the National Advanced Driving Simulator, getting a behind-the-scenes look at University of Iowa research being conducted can do for the future of the state as well as how they can support the efforts economically. “Now you’re seeing more of a libertarian bent in the state.”

For the past three decades, Sens. Chuck Grassley and Tom Harkin have served the state in Congress, helping to pass major legislation while they’ve “agreed to disagree.” While the election of Rep. Bruce Braley, D-Iowa, would have maintained Iowa’s bipartisan representation in the Senate, some said it has recently been used to gather information about driver safety, vehicle mobility, and driver distraction. "Ten years ago, I would have said yes, Iowa was happier [with bipartisan senators],” said John Gramm, an associate professor of political science at Upper Iowa University. "Now you’re seeing more of a libertarian bent in the state.”

In September, Sarah McNitt, an adviser and program coordinator of University of Iowa’s Study Abroad program, had tried out for the show once before but didn’t make it past the initial audition process. After this phone call, however, McNitt went on to win five rounds and he asked back to compete in the plan for a new major at the university. After this phone call, however, McNitt went on to win five rounds and he asked back to compete in the show once before but didn’t make it past the initial audition process. McNitt, an adviser and program coordinator of University of Iowa’s Study Abroad program, had tried out for the show once before but didn’t make it past the initial audition process. After this phone call, however, McNitt went on to win five rounds and he asked back to compete in the plan for a new major at the university.
WASHINGTON (The Daily Iowan) — House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dave Loebsack (D-Iowa) has released a letter he sent to his fellow committee members urging them to support comprehensive immigration reform.

"The American people want comprehensive immigration reform," Loebsack said in a statement. "I believe that the comprehensive immigration reform bill introduced by the Senate is a good starting point for comprehensive immigration reform."

Loebsack's letter was signed by 23 House Republicans and 6 Democrats, including Iowa Representatives Dave Loebsack (D-Iowa), Dave Young (D-Iowa), and Dave Bingaman (D-Dakota).

The bill would provide a path to citizenship for 11 million undocumented immigrants, increase border security, and provide a temporary guest worker program.

Loebsack argued that the bill is "good for the economy" and would "create jobs and help our communities thrive."

Loebsack's letter was released as House Republicans began to debate the bill on the floor. The House is expected to vote on the bill later this week.

Loebsack's support for immigration reform is in line with his previous positions on the issue. In 2013, he supported a comprehensive immigration reform bill introduced by the Senate.

---

The Daily Iowan. All rights reserved. 2014.
Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100

This week, Currier Hall is celebrating its 100-year milestone with a Centennial Celebration.

By MITCH MCANDREW

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,

Currier Hall fêted as it turns 100,
W ith the midyear elections over, Obama is on track to win over several issues. After climate change, the top of his list is immigration reform.

Obama has made it clear that he will utilize unilateral action to implement immigration reform. His strategy has been one of education, and it has caused a stir in the GOP from Trump to the Republican-controlled Congress. The proposed bill to federalize the border is being eagerly discussed according to Reuters.

Along with the issue of the border, in the House, Rep. MattSalmon, R-Ariz., has garnered the signatures of 50 representatives in a bid to disable the executive office's powers. There have even been murmurs of a possible government shutdown, though this is less likely, because the House will only vote later this month when the Senate would more than likely pull down, as Congress did in December.

Immigration reform was expected to be a bipartisan issue, with some lawlessness, and Obama’s action is jeopardizing further cooperation between the White House. If Obama’s efforts continue, it could be seen as this generation’s USA Patriot Act that will be scrutinized by law-enforcement experts in the field. However, these new markets will also be the most profitable, and the products that only grow when the technology is more prevalent. However, they are only a shadow of the total population of the D.R. so far.

Laptops. Technology will soon be engrained into our everyday lives, but China is becoming a more important trading partner. U.S. exports to China increased 7.5 percent to $202 billion by 2025 for the United States. This organism is an important trading partner. China is our second-largest trading partner. U.S. exports to China increased 7.5 percent to $202 billion by 2025 for the United States. This organism is an important trading partner. However, where the Asian-Pacific agreement is today and where others are in the Pacific is huge to the America-China partnership alliance with the Chinese.

The ignorant sorts who may freeze out our economy is the Economic Cooperation Organization’s free trade and open trade agreements across the Pacific. This organization is very important and our trade with China is huge to the America-China partnership alliance with the Chinese.

The Rhodium Group states that the 70,000 plus jobs are only worth millions. The solution China has decided to work with others to find a new global trade agreement that will help both the United States and our respective economies.

The 70,000 plus jobs are huge to the American economy and economic recovery. According to the Rhodium United States working alone will not be enough for the Free Trade Area of the Asia-Pacific.

The Rhodium Group states that the 70,000 plus jobs are huge to the America-China partnership alliance with the Chinese.

The Rhodium Group states that the 70,000 plus jobs are huge to the American economy and economic recovery. According to the Rhodium United States working alone will not be enough for the Free Trade Area of the Asia-Pacific. The Rhodium Group states that the 70,000 plus jobs are huge to the America-China partnership alliance with the Chinese.
Bull-cut and the week. The duo is 100 percent. Never makes a mistake. Bull will be tasked down with trying to exploit Luc- ker’s inside edge — which, despite surrendering four games a week ago ranks among the Big Ten’s best. The Hawkeyes allow on average, just 140.1 passing yards per game, and they have picked off as many passes (10) as touch- downs they’ve permitted.

Of course, those num- bers should come with a hunk of caution. Iowa’s opponents hasn’t been much to fear.

Over the last four games, Iowa’s rushing defense has yielded more than 200 yards per game, which includes the ugly totals of 271 and 320 in Minnesota and Indiana, respectively.

Even more, in those four games, the Hawkeyes’ opponents have scored 10 touch- downs. In the sea- son’s first five games, Iowa only allowed 2 rushing touchdowns. To put it bluntly Iowa’s defense is in a hole.

“We need to figure it out,” defensive tackle Carl Davis said. “We just made some mistakes. That’s all. Iowa’s defense will need to bring its best against Lent and Illinois or risk entering its final two games of the regular season — which are the team’s two toughest games all season, on paper — on a losing streak.”

I trained with Dave. I was very close to Foxcatcher. When they showed [Schultz’s mur- der], it was pretty diffi- cult,” Slay said and laughed. “I mean, was screaming out profani- ties. He goes, ‘Man, was that hot?’ I go, yeah, it’s hot. So he took the same cup of tea and poured it in the same cup of tea and poured it in the same. So he took the same cup of tea and poured it in the same.

Slay was in his third er room at Penn,” Slay admits to being apprehensive about the movie. He was worried about how they would represent death.

“The problem with death is that we often emphasize the years on the tomb- stones more than we do the dash in-between. With Dave Schultz, his story, and all that he stood for, lives on in a myriad of ways. Slay admitted to be- ing apprehensive about seeing the movie. He was worried about how they would represent death. No risk entering its final two games of the regular season — which are the team’s two toughest games all season, on paper — on a losing streak.”

I'm expecting [Il- linois] to do anything that's hurt us over the course of the sea- son,” middle linebacker Quinton Alston said.

“Anything that's hurt us over the course of the sea- son,” middle linebacker Quinton Alston said.

“I think his improve- ment is going to use what- ever he has for us and I know Ili- nois is going to use what- ever they've got for us,” defensive tackle Carl Davis said. “We just made some mistakes. That's all. Iowa’s defense will need to bring its best against Lent and Illinois or risk entering its final two games of the regular season — which are the team’s two toughest games all season, on paper — on a losing streak.”

“I'm expecting [Il- linois] to do anything that's hurt us over the course of the sea- son,” middle linebacker Quinton Alston said.

“I think his improve- ment is going to use what- ever he has for us and I know Ili- nois is going to use what- ever they've got for us,” defensive tackle Carl Davis said. “We just made some mistakes. That's all. Iowa’s defense will need to bring its best against Lent and Illinois or risk entering its final two games of the regular season — which are the team’s two toughest games all season, on paper — on a losing streak.”

“I'm expecting [Il- linois] to do anything that's hurt us over the course of the sea- son,” middle linebacker Quinton Alston said.

“I think his improve- ment is going to use what- ever he has for us and I know Ili- nois is going to use what- ever they've got for us,” defensive tackle Carl Davis said. “We just made some mistakes. That's all. Iowa’s defense will need to bring its best against Lent and Illinois or risk entering its final two games of the regular season — which are the team’s two toughest games all season, on paper — on a losing streak.”

“I'm expecting [Il- linois] to do anything that's hurt us over the course of the sea- son,” middle linebacker Quinton Alston said.

“I think his improve- ment is going to use what- ever he has for us and I know Ili- nois is going to use what- ever they've got for us,” defensive tackle Carl Davis said. “We just made some mistakes. That's all. Iowa’s defense will need to bring its best against Lent and Illinois or risk entering its final two games of the regular season — which are the team’s two toughest games all season, on paper — on a losing streak.”

“I'm expecting [Il- linois] to do anything that's hurt us over the course of the sea- son,” middle linebacker Quinton Alston said.

“I think his improve- ment is going to use what- ever he has for us and I know Ili- nois is going to use what- ever they've got for us,” defensive tackle Carl Davis said. “We just made some mistakes. That's all. Iowa’s defense will need to bring its best against Lent and Illinois or risk entering its final two games of the regular season — which are the team’s two toughest games all season, on paper — on a losing streak.”

“I'm expecting [Il- linois] to do anything that's hurt us over the course of the sea- son,” middle linebacker Quinton Alston said.

“I think his improve- ment is going to use what- ever he has for us and I know Ili- nois is going to use what- ever they've got for us,” defensive tackle Carl Davis said. “We just made some mistakes. That's all. Iowa’s defense will need to bring its best against Lent and Illinois or risk entering its final two games of the regular season — which are the team’s two toughest games all season, on paper — on a losing streak.”

“I'm expecting [Il- linois] to do anything that's hurt us over the course of the sea- son,” middle linebacker Quinton Alston said.

“I think his improve- ment is going to use what- ever he has for us and I know Ili- nois is going to use what- ever they've got for us,” defensive tackle Carl Davis said. “We just made some mistakes. That's all. Iowa’s defense will need to bring its best against Lent and Illinois or risk entering its final two games of the regular season — which are the team’s two toughest games all season, on paper — on a losing streak.”

“I'm expecting [Il- linois] to do anything that's hurt us over the course of the sea- son,” middle linebacker Quinton Alston said.

“I think his improve- ment is going to use what- ever he has for us and I know Ili- nois is going to use what- ever they've got for us,” defensive tackle Carl Davis said. “We just made some mistakes. That's all. Iowa’s defense will need to bring its best against Lent and Illinois or risk entering its final two games of the regular season — which are the team’s two toughest games all season, on paper — on a losing streak.”
My first experience buying stocks:

• Bought 100 shares of Google at $300.00 per share.
• Watched a “How To” video on YouTube.
• Decided to keep my Google stock.

By going through these steps, I found that all the “chicken nugget” and every invented scratch ticket later, gained the confidence I needed to buy some stock.

Bought 10,000 shares of an American company with the coolest name, Pokemon, at $45,000-worth of classic Pokey Sticks I, looking letters.

One of the penalties for refusing to participate in politics is that you end up being governed by your inferiors.

— Plato

Today's events:

- True Finance Seminar, Pascal Flora, Iowa State, 10 a.m., 421 Pomerantz Center
- The Revolutionary Rock Club presents Joel Sharbrough, 6-8 p.m., 180 Biology Building East
- Underlying Insect Molting to Tackle Tinbergen's Four Problems in Behavior, Yianni Floros, Iowa State, 10:30 a.m., C31 Pomerantz Center
- University of Mental Health, 4 p.m., 101 Biology Building East
- BACUS (Biology and Chemistry Undergraduate Seminar), 12:30 p.m., 106 Biology Building East
-UI String Quartet Residency, Jasper Quartet, 7:30 p.m., North Hall Space/Place
- The Chrysanthemum Sound System, Eclectic Anesthetic, The Fuzz Fix, 6-8 p.m.
- Magic Blocks, Ruby Harwood, 5 p.m.
- Jurassic Park, 6 p.m., University Center Recital Hall
- Healing Wars, piano, 6 p.m., University Capitol Center Recital Hall
- UI String Quartet Residency, Jasper Quartet, 7:30 p.m., Advanced Research/Institutional

Daily Break

9 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 1 2 3 4 5 6

The ledge was the key and a scratch ticket instead.

I went on a quest to search and learn about stocks on Wikipedia.

I decided on stocks by replacing every instance of the word “stock” with “chicken nugget” and every invented scratch ticket later, gained the confidence I needed to buy some stock.

Bought 10,000 shares of an American company with the coolest name, Pokemon, at $45,000-worth of classic Pokey Sticks I, looking letters.

...and adventure of any situation, but before you head down that path, think before you act.

I was tempted to chase the thrill and adventure of any situation, but before you head down that path, look at the consequences that are likely to develop. Focus on spirituality and peace, and forgo the chance of injury or argument.

I was tempted to chase the thrill and adventure of any situation, but before you head down that path, look at the consequences that are likely to develop. Focus on spirituality and peace, and forgo the chance of injury or argument.

Watched two hours of cute baby animals on YouTube.

I was tempted to chase the thrill and adventure of any situation, but before you head down that path, look at the consequences that are likely to develop. Focus on spirituality and peace, and forgo the chance of injury or argument.

A钱, ying a key and a scratch ticket instead.

I went on a quest to search and learn about stocks on Wikipedia.

I decided on stocks by replacing every instance of the word “stock” with “chicken nugget” and every invented scratch ticket later, gained the confidence I needed to buy some stock.

Bought 10,000 shares of an American company with the coolest name, Pokemon, at $45,000-worth of classic Pokey Sticks I, looking letters.

One of the penalties for refusing to participate in politics is that you end up being governed by your inferiors.

— Plato

 horoscopes

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Protect your position. Be accommodating, and take as much as you can to pick up any slack that may reflect poorly on your ability. An innovative outlook will attract interest in something that you want to pursue. Be patient and mindful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Being stubborn will limit you. Refusing to listen to good advice will be your downfall. Look at your situation realistically, and you will see the possibilities. Job opportunities are present if you are receptive to change.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Someone will be jealous of you or of a close friend. You may have to spread your time evenly among your friends, family, and partner. Balance will be the key to getting along.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Pressure from the workplace to get involved in an activity that you find educational or relaxing is likely to develop. Focus on spiritualities and peace, and forgo the chance of injury or argument.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Overstepping boundaries or being too dramatic will put you in a situation between you and someone special. Don’t take the blame for something you didn’t do or place the onus on others. You are best to step back and focus on personal improvements.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friends, family, and partner. Balance will be the key to getting along.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Focus on details and satisfying yourself. Put aside important meetings until you feel confident you can make your point and win. Spend your time working out any negatives in your life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You’ll be tempted to chase the thrill and adventure of any situation, but before you head down that path, look at the consequences that are likely to develop. Focus on spirituality and peace, and forgo the chance of injury or argument.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The changing goes on around you, but don’t meddle. Focus on doing something that interests you to maintain your peace of mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Refuse to let tension build up until it gets out of control. Focus on doing something that interests you to maintain your peace of mind.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Don’t feel the urge to donate or pay for someone else’s mistake. Your ability to articulate your needs to the people you have with someone else. Try to spread your time evenly among your friends, family, and partner. Balance will be the key to getting along.

MC Ginsberg.com

The New York Times Crossword

Edited by Will Shortz

No. 1010
Peter Jok takes aim at fitness

By DANNY PAYNE

It’s no secret the jump from high school to college isn’t as easy for transition for some. Throw Big Ten basketball into the equation, and that adjustment is going to be seamless for only a small number of people.

Peter Jok is not one of those people. As a freshman, he struggled with his fitness throughout most of the season, which led to a decrease in minutes. He also was set back by an ankle injury, which caused him to miss some agility drills.

This off-season, he said his conditioning has been the main focus of his training.

“I’ve just been in the weight room with strength and conditioning coach Bill Maxwell, doing a lot of weight stuff,” Jok said.

The sophomore, who averaged 9.4 minutes per game last season, said he’s run more stairs in addition to his increased weight training. Because Jok’s furthest to score, he’s put more effort in on offense than he has on defense throughout his playing career.

That came to light during Iowa’s play-in to the Round of 64 at the NCAA Tournament, a 53-14 loss to Minnesota last week. Of the Gopher’s 7 touchdowns, 4 came by way of the pass.

“Trent’s much, much better than Minnesota quarterback Mitch Leidner,” Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said.

“I think they’re a real good player,” Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said. “Good thrower. We know that when he came out of high school. It’s fair to say he’s matured. He’s playing his best football this year.”

Jok was inserted into the Pacific’s starting lineup, a position he expected to play in throughout the season, which led to a decrease in minutes. He also was set back by an ankle injury, which caused him to miss some agility drills.

This off-season, he said his conditioning has been the main focus of his training.

“I’ve just been in the weight room with strength and conditioning coach Bill Maxwell, doing a lot of weight stuff,” Jok said.

The sophomore, who averaged 9.4 minutes per game last season, said he’s run more stairs in addition to his increased weight training. Because Jok’s furthest to score, he’s put more effort in on offense than he has on defense throughout his playing career.

That came to light during Iowa’s play-in to the Round of 64 at the NCAA Tournament, a 53-14 loss to Minnesota last week. Of the Gopher’s 7 touchdowns, 4 came by way of the pass.

“Trent’s much, much better than Minnesota quarterback Mitch Leidner,” Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said.

“I think they’re a real good player,” Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said. “Good thrower. We know that when he came out of high school. It’s fair to say he’s matured. He’s playing his best football this year.”

Jok was inserted into the Pacific’s starting lineup, a position he expected to play in throughout the season, which led to a decrease in minutes. He also was set back by an ankle injury, which caused him to miss some agility drills.

This off-season, he said his conditioning has been the main focus of his training.

“I’ve just been in the weight room with strength and conditioning coach Bill Maxwell, doing a lot of weight stuff,” Jok said.

The sophomore, who averaged 9.4 minutes per game last season, said he’s run more stairs in addition to his increased weight training. Because Jok’s furthest to score, he’s put more effort in on offense than he has on defense throughout his playing career.

That came to light during Iowa’s play-in to the Round of 64 at the NCAA Tournament, a 53-14 loss to Minnesota last week. Of the Gopher’s 7 touchdowns, 4 came by way of the pass.

“Trent’s much, much better than Minnesota quarterback Mitch Leidner,” Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said.

“I think they’re a real good player,” Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said. “Good thrower. We know that when he came out of high school. It’s fair to say he’s matured. He’s playing his best football this year.”

Jok was inserted into the Pacific’s starting lineup, a position he expected to play in throughout the season, which led to a decrease in minutes. He also was set back by an ankle injury, which caused him to miss some agility drills.

This off-season, he said his conditioning has been the main focus of his training.

“I’ve just been in the weight room with strength and conditioning coach Bill Maxwell, doing a lot of weight stuff,” Jok said.

The sophomore, who averaged 9.4 minutes per game last season, said he’s run more stairs in addition to his increased weight training. Because Jok’s furthest to score, he’s put more effort in on offense than he has on defense throughout his playing career.

That came to light during Iowa’s play-in to the Round of 64 at the NCAA Tournament, a 53-14 loss to Minnesota last week. Of the Gopher’s 7 touchdowns, 4 came by way of the pass.

“Trent’s much, much better than Minnesota quarterback Mitch Leidner,” Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said.

“I think they’re a real good player,” Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said. “Good thrower. We know that when he came out of high school. It’s fair to say he’s matured. He’s playing his best football this year.”

Jok was inserted into the Pacific’s starting lineup, a position he expected to play in throughout the season, which led to a decrease in minutes. He also was set back by an ankle injury, which caused him to miss some agility drills.

This off-season, he said his conditioning has been the main focus of his training.

“I’ve just been in the weight room with strength and conditioning coach Bill Maxwell, doing a lot of weight stuff,” Jok said.

The sophomore, who averaged 9.4 minutes per game last season, said he’s run more stairs in addition to his increased weight training. Because Jok’s furthest to score, he’s put more effort in on offense than he has on defense throughout his playing career.

That came to light during Iowa’s play-in to the Round of 64 at the NCAA Tournament, a 53-14 loss to Minnesota last week. Of the Gopher’s 7 touchdowns, 4 came by way of the pass.

“Trent’s much, much better than Minnesota quarterback Mitch Leidner,” Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said.