UI community reacts to display on Pentacrest

By REBECCA MORIN

On Dec. 6, in the wake of a controversial art display on the Pentacrest, students and community members asked: Where’s Sally Mason?

A day later, she responded.

In a statement issued Sunday, University of Iowa President Sally Mason said she will create an advisory committee to help with cultural competency. In addition, she will establish an initiative to state all of the details, that it didn’t try to sugarcoat anything. I was impressed with the university’s initiative to state all of the details, that it didn’t try to sugarcoat anything.

It was a matter of time until Tennessee found out about its bowl selection.

By JACOB SHEYKO

Tennessee and Iowa — which will meet in the 2015 TaxSlayer Bowl — are vastly different football programs.

The Volunteers are on the upswing, eclipsing last season’s six-game winning streak. The Hawkeyes are on the downswing, dropping five of their last seven games.

“We’re thrilled to get the invitation to play in the TaxSlayer Bowl,” Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said. “And it’s exciting for all of us, certainly.”

But there was another side of the story.

UI officials asked Tanyolacar to take down the display after several hours. Students and community members marched to the display to reclaim the space in light of all recent events occurring in Iowa City and across the nation.

“We’re looking forward to an opportunity to line up and play again.”

Both Barta and Ferentz were adamant about not knowing Iowa's bowl destination until very late in the game, with Ferentz speaking on Sunday night. TaxSlayer Bowl teleconferences started a few minutes before the teleconference began.

Barta said he didn't have a solid idea until later on Sunday afternoon. "It's the last couple of days, it really started to narrow down," he said. "But it wasn't until until night and yesterday afternoon when, through the confer-ce, championships we started to get a clearer picture. And it truly wasn't until late this afternoon that I had an absolute idea of where we were headed.

The game will be Iowa's second-consecutive bowl game against a team from the SEC, seventh overall. The Hawkeyes lost to LSU, 25-14, in the 2014 Outback Bowl, but are 4-2 against SEC teams on bowl games under Ferentz.

This is the 13th time Io-was reached bowl eligibility in 16 seasons — and it is 6-1 in bowl games — under Ferentz. Of those six wins, four have come in January bowl games.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

JORDY RENELLE
Editor-in-Chief

I am writing to express my disappointment with the “[T]estimony in Personel” [sic] play/displaced campus wide. I hope I connect no harm or disservice as this is not the intention. I am concerned about the potential for harm and upset to those who may feel personally affected.

In its statement, the university states: "The University of Iowa students are able to engage in all forms of free speech as provided by the First Amendment of the United States Constitution. The university promotes the belief that freedom of expression is a fundamental right of citizens and that citizens enjoy the protection of our nation’s laws. It is the university’s policy to support and encourage the expression of diverse views, provided such views are expressed in an appropriate manner."

I do not understand why the university considers silent protest a violation of its policies and principles. The statement goes on to say: "The university also recognizes the right of students, faculty, and staff to express their views in a manner that does not interfere with the rights and freedoms of others."

This seems to be a contradiction. If the university is concerned about the potential for harm and upset, it seems to me that the university should be taking steps to prevent harm and upset, rather than censoring free speech.

I am concerned that this policy may be used to suppress the expression of unpopular or controversial views. I believe that the university should be promoting a culture of free speech and open dialogue, rather than limiting the expression of ideas that may be unpopular or controversial.

I would write a completely useless and non-biased letter to the editor. My experience is that the university is not particularly interested in the views of the public, but is more concerned with maintaining its own image and reputation. I believe that the university should be more open and transparent in its decision-making, and should be more concerned with the views and opinions of the people it serves.

Happy birthday, but…

Dear Daily Iowan,

Happy birthday, but…

I have been a subscriber of the Daily Iowan since my college days. I have always admired its journalistic integrity and its commitment to free speech. However, I cannot help but feel disappointed with the recent editorial on [insert specific editorial here]. The editorial seems to be biased and one-sided, and it ignores the complexities of the issue at hand.

I understand that the editorial board may have faced pressure from certain groups to take a specific position, but I believe that it is important for the Daily Iowan to remain independent and to avoid succumbing to such pressures. The Daily Iowan has a long and distinguished history of championing free speech and promoting critical thinking, and I hope that it will continue to do so in the future.

Sincerely,

High-keyed battle as Hawkeyes put up big lead, do battle with Buffs

The combination worked well in the end, as the Hawkeyes put up 78 points against a sound defensive squad.

“Our focus today was to keep them out of the lane, and find shooters with space,” Bluder’s Hawkeyes strategically superior team in the paint almost every time, Brady was “a bit dingy” Grothus said. “We got to keep filling the floor, and a successful Big Ten play 62 from the floor. The Hawks, providing a stretch the floor and be a more dangerous team.

Today’s Horoscopes

ARIES (March 21-April 19): It’s full speed ahead. Refuse to let an emotional matter blow up, causing you to miss out on an opportunity. Experience is the engine for success and self-enable you to expand your interests and goals. Libra is highlighted.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Relax on those trust and respect. Don’t get angry about the suggestions made. Listen carefully; you will find a wealth of information you receive in a positive manner. A self-improvement project will bring good results.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Ask for help, and fight back if someone is trying to manipulate you. Don’t let your ego interfere or get in the middle of your work or personal affairs. Concentrate on personal concerns, not those of others.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): It’s full speed ahead. Refuse to let an emotional matter blow up, causing you to miss out on an opportunity. Experience is the engine for success and self-enable you to expand your interests and goals. Libra is highlighted.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Socialize and you will attract enthusiastic people interested in helping you bring about the changes you feel strongly about making. A money deal or contract will face some glitches due to a lack of conformity. Do your best to present conservative alternatives.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your efforts to help a cause will not be in vain, but could be met with opposition. Expect someone you love near you to offer false information or misinterpret you. Changes at home may be unexpected, but in time will prove to be beneficial.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Take the initiative, and make things happen. You can make a difference if you follow through with your beliefs and make your voice heard. Romance will bring positive results in your love life. Make positive changes at home.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You might want to offer false information or misinterpret you. Changes at home may be unexpected, but in time will prove to be beneficial.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Withhold secret information that someone may be able to use against you. Use your knowledge, experience, and versatility to improve your personal life. Greater emphasis on important relationships will pay off, ensuring positive additions at home.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Set your sights on realistic goals, not unattainable ones. Concentrate on personal concerns, not those of others.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Explore new avenues, meet interesting people, and share your views. Be a participant; your help and encouragement will be rewarded. An important relationship can be taken to the next level. Options for professional advancement are apparent.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Reel in the people you know you can trust. Do not share personal information that has the potential to damage your reputation or prospects. Connect with someone from your past. Youngsters can offer an innocent point of view.

When a true genius appears, you can know him by this sign: that all the dunces are in a confederacy against him.

WOMEN’S BASKETBALL

The Iowa women’s basketball team found a way to win against Colorado, 78-63 on Sunday.

By RYAN RODRIGUEZ

A dual with Michigan State and an open tournament in Missouri showed something at Michael Kelly. Perhaps provide competition with senior Brody Grothus as he dismantled Tom Brands, “It’s nice to have depth, period; you can see that Iowa State is one of the midweights, no one looked more comfortable than junior Brandon Strauss as he dismantled Michigan State’s Kaelen Richards in a 16-1 technical-fall victory at 149 pounds. It was an impressive win that perhaps provided a bit more insight into a crowded weight.

“Cooper lets a guy in with an easy rate of entry, and he has to work to get the tech fall. The Hawkeyes defeated the Spartans, 37-0. (The Daily Iowan/Joshua Housing)

WRESTLING

“Telford,” head coach Tom Brands said, “Coach made the call and told me to go in and wrestle, and I had to put some points up and do what I could do to get the W. I just need to work on moving more and not getting attacked and scoring points, and I’ll be good.”

As Cooper noted, it’s a struggle there’s a lot of work for him to do as he makes the move to a new weight.

Guy Caffery had a message for Peter Jok: “Simplify and don’t press. Up to that point, the observers had shot 2-of-24 from the field and 2-of-11 from beyond the 3-point arc in seven games. In the Hawkeyes’ win over the Tar Heels, Jok went 5-of-9 from the floor and played a season-low nine minutes in his worst game of the season. When the team got back to Iowa City, the tables turned. Jok had a message for McCaffery: Give me more minutes.

Ahead of Iowa’s matchup with North Carolina, head coach Frank McCaffery had a message for Peter Jok—simply and don’t press. Up to that point, the observers had shot 2-of-24 from the field and 2-of-11 from beyond the 3-point arc in seven games. In the Hawkeyes’ win over the Tar Heels, Jok went 5-of-9 from the floor and played a season-low nine minutes in his worst game of the season. When the team got back to Iowa City, the tables turned. Jok had a message for McCaffery: Give me more minutes.

“I told Coach that I need to play more because I wanted to work on playing my own game. I put that in place and be less comfortable,” Jok said.

McCaffery honored his request, and although he was against ambivalent No. 1 Iowa’s win against ambivalent No. 14 Maryland-Baltimore County, Jok tied his career-high in minutes with 24, hit a career-high four triples,
