Proposal may trump 21-only

By NICOLAS NEIFFIT

A new piece of legislation proposed in the state Senate could have a big effect on Iowa City’s 21-ordinance.

The new legislation would ban cigar-ette and hookah sales in Iowa City unless the city council votes to enact an ordinance restricting people 18 or older from entering businesses that have liquor licenses.

The proposal was submitted by Sen. Wally Benton, D-Cedar Rapids, and Sen. Rick Bertrand, R-Bloomington, who said safety is the primary concern with the legislation.

Bertrand told The Daily Iowan safety at off-campus house parties is a concern for him.

“They really don’t have a place to go,” he said. “So they end up at off-campus parties doing drinking.”

Iowa City’s ordinance requires businesses that sell alcohol and don’t have exemptions, to bar entrances to 21-year olds and 12 years old after 12 p.m.

Iowa City currently provides exemptions to businesses that have 50 percent of sales from food and to certain major venues.

City Attorney Eleanor Dilkes wrote in an email that if passed, the legislation would have an effect on the current ordinance.

“If this bill became law, it would require the repeal of the city’s 21-under,” she said.

E-cigarettes get more scrutiny

Puffing vapor from an e-cigarette may be tempting, and a shift from a traditional cigarette than many people realize, according to a new study.

Researchers at the University of Rochester recently tested e-cigarette vapors on mice and found they led to lung damage and inflammation.

This is in sharp contrast to tobacco companies, which tout their products as a safer alternative to traditional cigarettes.

The tobacco companies are going back to an old playbook with this one, they know it will take time to

BIDEN'S VISIT TO DRAKE

Biden also promoted two years of community college before he also acknowledged Biden's attacks on Republican opponents.

"There was a lot of very charged statements and trying to sell out con- fidence in their economic policies of the last five six years," he said.

Biden gave credit to the Obama administration for changing the economic dynamic and putting wealthy families on a fair playing field with the rest of the country, while touting new programs and tax in- centives rolled out in Obama's newly released budget.

The programs include tax cuts for working-class fami- lies and higher tax rates for the wealthiest Americans.

Biden's attacks on Republi- cans, but he also acknowledged that e-cigarettes are more like traditional cigarettes than previously had been thought.

"We don't have a policy on it," he said. "It's just not worth it," said Friese. "Coin didn't work out as well as they expected," Schorg said.

Overall, bitcoin could affect how consumers pay for goods locally and nationally.

"It's pretty autonomi- cal, really," Schorg said. "I call it the future of money."

Given the civil unrest sparked by events in New York City and Ferguson in July and August 2014, it should come as no surprise that lawmakers in the Minnesota House are drafting a bill that would require all uniformed police officers to don the much discussed and debated body cameras. This bill is long overdue, the House potential to forward public discussion. They may be edited for length and style.

Hawkeyes rally in second half to defeat Cornhuskers

Iowa defeats Nebraska in Lincoln for the first time since 2005.

By RYAN RODRIGUEZ rrodriquez@daily-iowan.com

A rematch of Iowa’s upset win over Nebraska on Jan. 26 had the Hawkeyes coming on late to claim the contest, 69-61, in Lincoln, 6-0-1. The win was Iowa’s first at Nebraska since 2005 and moves the Hawkeyes to 20-2 overall, 11-2 in the Big Ten. “First and last time playing here,” Hawkeyes Sam Logic said. “Technically a pinnacle, what seems like forever. And right back in the hole it had for the Hawkeyes put Iowa up 12. Two minutes later things were knotted and we just wanted to turn the opportunity, making the most of her nine minutes on the floor by sinking a pair of baskets and adding an offensive rebound. All of the buildup culminated to Iowa clinging to a 1-point lead with under a minute to play.

Iowa wrestlers put Wolverines in their sights

By JORDAN HOFFMAN

When Iowa heads to the University of Gourand, Florida, this weekend to play the defending champion Florida Gators and North Carolina, the team will do more than try to pull an upset — it will also take aim at Florida's defensive lineup.

The Hawkeyes, of course, have a heated rivalry with us, in whatever McFarland and Company decide to throw their way. They won't come easily.

"And hopefully, they don't hit them where we're not," Heller said.

"Obviously, it's a competition; that's what we're trying to see," Looper said. "It was kind of like the Wild, Wild East, Brands said and chuckled. "It's a milestone."

"Because they can be relied on, it could end up being a bigger-time opponent for us," Heller said. "They've created personalities for characters — not just in Iowa's fan base but throughout college wrestling. The coach noted that Iowa has found a way to get out of its own way and continue to improve as a program.

The Hawkeyes, of course, have bigger goals than the Big Ten regular-season title, but a share of the Big Ten title last weekend, he stopped and spoke to the media, the way they've created personalities for themselves — that's pretty far out for us,

"We haven't had a bad game since their absence," he said. "We're coming to do some damage, Brands said. "They've brought out the best in her."

effortless program,” junior Del Vecchio Orsino said. “Especially with all those seniors on the team, I’ve really enjoyed how well he’s accepted that change.”

But he’s handled it thus far, establishing himself as a cornerstone for the future of this program.

“With the surgery setting me back a bit, I’ve been coming back from it and excelling as much as I can,” he said. “I feel like this summer I’m going to need to work a lot harder.”

Elliottsworth said he and his teammates have been working on chemistry — something he sees as critical on a team that has lost seven seniors.

“You can’t just have the seniors lead the team — one of the best recruiters he has on the team, so they’re a head coach. The numbers are basically back up that,” Orsino said.

“The team will need the young guys to contribute,” Elliottsworth said. “They’re the future for the Hawkeyes this season — when they have Minnesota and Nebraska for Senior Day.

“It’s an event as much as a match as we can get,” Elliottsworth said. “Lose comes in our best case, but Nebraska 13th.”

“I know this is going to affect them, so they’ll be a little easier to play after this soak in.”

New roles for B. Ferentz, Woods, and Wallace

By DANNY PAYNE
d@uiowa.edu

Three assistant Iowa football coaches — Brian Ferentz, LeVar Woods, and Seth Wallace — have been given new responsibilities, Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said Wednesday. The changes will take effect immediately.

Brian Ferentz, the team’s offensive-line coach, will take on the added responsibility of the Hawkeyes run-game coordinator. Woods, previously the team’s linebacker coach for three seasons, will coach the tight ends. Wallace, the team’s recruiting coordinator, will shift his focus from the defensive line to the corners and nickel backs.

“I believe these adjustments in coaching responsibilities will add to our efficiency and productivity as a staff,” Kirk Ferentz said. “We have an outstanding group of teachers, and we look forward to the challenge of building a strong 2015 Hawkeye football team.”

Iowa’s 2015 football season is slated to begin on Sept. 5 against Football Championship Series runner-up Illinois State in Kinnick Stadium.

Three assistant Iowa football coaches — Brian Ferentz, LeVar Woods, and Seth Wallace — have been given new responsibilities, Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said Wednesday. The changes will take effect immediately.

Lack of energy, first-half offensive woes, and turnovers proved to be Hawkeyes’ demise against the Gophers on Thursday.

By JACOB SHEYKO

Nothing felt familiar in Iowa’s 64-59 loss to Minnesota on Thursday night. Not even the warm-ups.

As forward Aaron White prepped for the Hawkeyes’ 11th Big Ten game of the season, something felt different, or rather, missing.

“I thought we took this game as must in warm-ups,” White said. “I didn’t think we were ready to go from the beginning. It’s frustrating to say because you’re got 40 minutes to turn it around, and we never were quite able to do it.”

Iowa came out of the gates OK, although no part of game seemed shotout. But eventually the Hawkeyes hit a wall, a little of which was self-impacted and some a result of Minnesota’s defense, which sped for all of those 40 minutes.

“[Minnesota’s] got Chazz Brown, Chazz Buggs over Cau’s Morris,” Kirk Ferentz said. “The big lineup, hitting a myriad of factors — turnarounds and passing up-open shots. None of the reasons Iowa failed to score a point for slightly more than eight minutes toward the tail end of the first half.

“I thought our defense did really good,” Minnesota head coach Richard Pitino said. “I think [Iowa is] a very good offensive team. It’s hard to keep a team down. Despite the first half-offensive woes, which led to just 19 first-half points for Iowa, there were still opportunities to win in the end, or at least make the game more interesting.

However, on three separate occasions, Iowa was down three, with 19 seconds remaining, Mike Gesell drove the lane, tried to get a quick basket, but was stripped by Gopher Marquis Teague.

“We basically kept knocking down its shots — it shot 50 percent in the second half, and with the help of a few 3-pointers, the Hawkeyes had one more opportunity, down 3 with three assistant Iowa football coaches — Brian Ferentz, LeVar Woods, and Seth Wallace — have been given new responsibilities, Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz said Wednesday. The changes will take effect immediately.

Lack of energy, first-half offensive woes, and turnovers proved to be Hawkeyes’ demise against the Gophers on Thursday.

Nothing felt familiar in Iowa’s 64-59 loss to Minnesota on Thursday night. Not even the warm-ups.

As forward Aaron White prepped for the Hawkeyes’ 11th Big Ten game of the season, something felt different, or rather, missing.

“I thought we took this game as must in warm-ups,” White said. “I didn’t think we were ready to go from the beginning. It’s frustrating to say because you’re got 40 minutes to turn it around, and we never were quite able to do it.”

Iowa came out of the gates OK, although no part of game seemed shotout. But eventually the Hawkeyes hit a wall, a little of which was self-impacted and some a result of Minnesota’s defense, which sped for all of those 40 minutes.

“[Minnesota’s] got Chazz Brown, Chazz Buggs over Cau’s Morris,” Kirk Ferentz said. “The big lineup, hitting a myriad of factors — turnarounds and passing up-open shots. None of the reasons Iowa failed to score a point for slightly more than eight minutes toward the tail end of the first half.

“I thought our defense did really good,” Minnesota head coach Richard Pitino said. “I think [Iowa is] a very good offensive team. It’s hard to keep a team down. Despite the first half-offensive woes, which led to just 19 first-half points for Iowa, there were still opportunities to win in the end, or at least make the game more interesting.
